CAUTION TO DEALERS AND CONSUMERS.

The great merit and perfect safety of the

have made it so popular that some persons are trying to palm off inferior oils on the community, by alleging that they are as good as Insurance Oil.

Consumers and Fair Dealers, who wish to use or sell the genuine Insurance Oil, are therefore cautioned not to buy any illuminating oil purporting to be Insurance Oil, unless sold by the Insurance Oil Tank Company, their Agents, or persons duly authorized by the Company.

To protect the people against imposition, every barrel and case of pure Insurance Oil is branded: TRADE MARK INSURANCE OIL PAT. JAN. 5, 1875.

This trade mark is fully protected by United States Letters Patent, dated Jan. 5, 1875, and the proprietors are determined to prosecute, to the extent of the law, any attempts to infringe upon their rights, either by using this trade mark without their consent, or by selling other oils under the name of Insurance Oil.

The Insurance Oil is the only Illuminating Oil that has the FULL ENDORSEMENT of the leading Insurance Companies of Europe and America.

Put up in best barrels and also in NEW PATENT FAUCET CANS.

Orders should be addressed

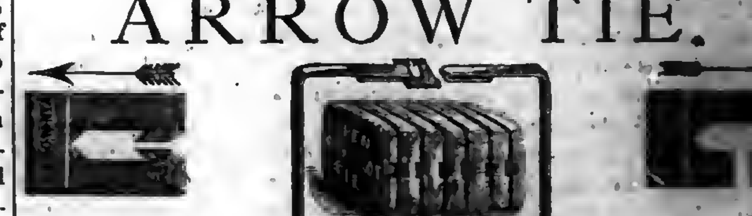
ARROW TIE.



IMPORTANT SPECIAL NOTICE!

IRON COTTON TIES.

In view of the constantly increasing popularity and demand for the celebrated ARROW TIE, the universally recognized favorite Tie of Planters, Cotton Press men, Shippers of Cotton generally, the American Cotton Tie Supply Company, sole proprietors and manufacturers of said Tie, commanding unequalled facilities, have, in addition to their large stock now on hand, contracted for increased quantities sufficient to meet the largest demand for Cotton Ties to cover the entire crop of the coming season, and now through their Agents generally, offer the popular and irrepressible ARROW TIE at lowest market price, in bundles complete, being less than the market value of plain hoop iron, it being the purpose of the Company to merit the continued patronage of the planting community, and defy all competition that may arise.

... sycamore tree. A wood worm about three inches long was forcing its way under the bark of the trunk. "Ah!" said the gentleman who was with him, "in time that worm will kill the tree."

"A hard thing to believe," said his friend.

"By and by you will see," replied the other.

Soon the worm was found to have gotten quite a distance under the bark. The next summer the leaves dropped off earlier than usual. Something serious seemed the matter. When the next summer came —just two years from the time the worm began its work—the tree was dead. The hole made by the worm could be seen in the very heart of the trunk.

"You were right," said the gentleman; "the tree was ruined by that worm only three inches long."

If a worm could do such harm, what may not what persons call "little sins" do to a man or woman, a boy or girl?

Charles felt the blood rush into his face. He was sure every one must know about the raisins, and that the story was told on purpose. He did not dare look up from his plate. After dinner they all went into the parlor; but as no one took special notice of him, Charles concluded he must be mistaken. Still he began to feel now, as never before, that God knew all about it.

The next time he was tempted to take from a basket what was not his, he remembered what the worm did to the tree. "That is just what sin is doing to my soul," he thought. He drew back in fear, and ran away as fast as possible; nor could he rest until he had told his sister the whole story. Then he went with a lowly, penitent heart to his heavenly Father, asking that all sin might be forgiven, and that, for the sake of the Lord Jesus Christ, a new spirit might be put within him.—S. S. Visitor.

Lending A Pie.

"Mother," said Johnny, "haven't you a pie that you would like to lend to the Lord?"

"Why, Johnny, what do you mean?" she asked; for she thought at first it was a joke.

"Don't you remember," said he, "that the Bible says, 'He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord'? I don't believe old Betsy has had a pie for a long time, and I thought perhaps you would like to have me take one over to her; then you would be lending to the Lord, you know."

One of mothers best pies went to old Betsy; only she was sorry that she had not thought of sending one before. But if she had she would have lost Johnny's way of "putting it."—Selected.

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates.

Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the TONIC. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the TONIC has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

Celebrated American

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

—:o:—

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine.

As a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Each box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

Lectures on Preaching

Delivered before the Theological Students of Yale College.

By Rev. Matthew Simpson, D. D, L.L.D.

Cloth, 12mo. Price..................$1.50

These admirable Lectures embrace the following topics, delivered in the order here stated:

Lecture I. The Nature and Work of the Christian Ministry.
Lecture II. The Call to the Ministry.
Lecture III. The Preacher Personally.
Lecture IV. Indirect Preparation for the Pulpit.
Lecture V. The Preparation of a Sermon.
Lecture VI. The Delivery of a Sermon.
Lecture VII. Ministerial Power.
Lecture VIII. The Influence of the Pastorate on the Pulpit.
Lecture IX. Collateral and Miscellaneous Work.
Lecture X. Is the Modern Pulpit a Failure?

It is needless to say that these topics are treated in a masterly manner—clearly, forcibly, practically; as becomes both the gravity and importance of the subjects discussed, and the reputation of their author as a "workmen who needeth not to be ashamed." No minister should be without them, as none can carefully and thoughtfully read them without profit. In them there is nothing showy, but they present the ripe fruit of the matured thought of a long period of ministerial usefulness and oversight. They are weighty, well-considered teachings.

This book will be sent by mail on receipt of price. Address,

PHILLIPS & HUNT, New Orleans.

MODEL OF PALESTINE.

INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE.

Publisher of Farmers' Review, Chicago, Ill., received a sample, and after giving it a trial, sends for $24 worth for his friends and neighbors.

J. S. Crowell, manager of Springfield, Ohio, Farm and Fireside, received a sample and says: "After giving it a fair trial at my house, the results are that my folks are very much pleased with it, and says it does all that is claimed for it.

The Publishers of Rural Home, Rochester, N. Y., says: "After a thorough trial of the Robbins Washer and Bleacher, we find it certainly all you claim for it, and this fact is something wonderful when taken in comparison with the impossible things other manufacturers advertise for their machines. It is certainly refreshing to find one firm who do not overestimate their goods."

The Publishers of N. Y. Christian Advocate, after receiving sample Washer, say: "It requires to be honestly tried a few times only to convince the housekeeper that she has found a friend and economizer of labor in the Washer. We have confidence in commending it to the attention of our lady readers."

The N. Y. Witness says: "Several of our staff have the machines in use, and are well satisfied with them,"

N. Y. Weekly Sun says: "The Robbins Washer and Bleacher is as represented."

The Toledo Blade says: "We believe it to be one of the greatest inventions of the age."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: "The company could not say less of that truly wonderful article which is destined at no distant day to work a complete revolution in the method of accomplishing the family washing. We speak from our own knowledge as well as from the testimony of thousands who have already availed themselves of its services."

E. B. Mack, N. Y. office of the Cincinnati Gazette, says: "I have one in use in my house, and it does admirable work."

C. C. Corbett, M. D., New Hope, Ky.—"After trying sample," has had $100 worth.

Robert Engle, Mosherville, Mich.—After using one for six months, sends orders for $100 worth.

E. Hildom, Cuba, N. Y.—After "thoroughly testing it," sends orders for $24, $24, $50, $50 worth in succession.

C. H. Mather, Burlington, N. Y.—After purchasing sample and "convincing the skeptical ones," orders $24, $75, $50, $50, $24, $65, $24 worth in rapid succession.

L. H. Miller, Mount Kisco, N. Y.—After "thoroughly convincing himself that the Washer is all we claim for it," orders $24, $100 worth.

A. C. Sabin, Glenwood, Iowa.—After "proving the Washer," sends for $130 worth.

E. Wing, Ansonia, Conn.—"Encloses" $24, $24, $24, $24 successively, but says "he has not had time to give it particular attention."

WE COULD FILL THE COLUMNS OF THIS PAPER WITH SUCH EVIDENCE. WILL PEOPLE BUY A HUMBUG THE SECOND TIME?

The above is no boastful, blatant offer, made only for the sake of selling our Washer, but, on the contrary, we mean exactly what we say, and will really give $1.000 for any washing machine that can be proven better than ours before a competent committee. Any reader who doubts our ability to do all we agree can easily be convinced by referring to the Mercantile National Bank of this city, to any express company in New York, or to the publisher of this paper.

HOLMAN'S AGUE AND LIVER PAD

TRADE-MARK.

is marvelous in its prompt and radical cure for every species of Liver and Stomach difficulties. It contains only harmless vegetable compounds, and is worn EXACTLY WHERE NEEDED, over the vitals, the Liver and Stomach. It removes torpidity of the liver, and arouses the stomach from its dormant state, arresting fermentation, torpor and pain, by giving it the natural quantity of bile and gastric juice. It also vitalizes the entire system with Nature's true tonic. It arrests all deteriorated and poisonous fluids in the stomach, and thus prevents their entering the system by way of circulation. It absorbs from the body every particle of BLOOD POISON, whether bilious, malarial or medicinal, and leaves the wearer in perfect health. Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair,

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

(Successors to R. V. PIERCE, M. D.)

DR. R. V. PIERCE, having acquired a world-wide reputation in the treatment of Chronic Diseases, resulting in a professional business far exceeding his individual ability to conduct, some years ago induced several medical gentlemen to associate themselves with him, as the Faculty of the World's Dispensary, the Consulting Department of which has since been merged with the INVALIDS' HOTEL. The organization has been completed and incorporated under the name and style of World's Dispensary Medical Association, with the following officers:

HON. R. V. PIERCE, Pres. F. D. PIERCE, V. Pres. JNO. E. PIERCE, Sec. LESTER B. SMITH, Treas.

NINE PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS of eminence and skill have been chosen as the Faculty.

CHRONIC DISEASES of all forms come within the province of our several specialties.

LUNG DISEASES.—This division of practice is very ably managed by a gentleman of mature judgment and skill. Bronchial, Throat and Lung Diseases treated with the most successful results.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—Especially are our facilities of a superior order for the cure of all those chronic diseases peculiar to females.

NERVOUS DISEASES.—Paralysis, Nervous Debility, Epilepsy (Fits), Chorea (St. Vitus's Dance), Neuralgia, and other nervous affections, receive the attention of an expert in this specialty.

NOT NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.—By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases as successfully without as with a personal consultation. For particulars see "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" (1,000 pages, sent post-paid for $1.50) or "Invalids' and Tourists' Guide Book" (100 pages, 10 cents post-paid).

SURGICAL CASES.—Among the operations which we are called upon most frequently to perform, are those for Nasal Polypus, Harelip, Tumors, Fistula in Ano, Piles, Hernia (Rupture), Hydrocele (Dropsy of the Scrotum), Varicocele, Ovarian and Uterine Tumors, Calculi (Stone in the Bladder), Stricture, etc., etc. We also treat successfully, by a new method without surgical operation, Cancers, Club-feet, Spinal Curvature, and other deformities. (See pamphlet entitled, "Motion as a Curative Agent," sent on receipt of 10 cents.)

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhea, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in THE PEOPLE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of over 900 pages, sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

Favorite Prescription sold by Druggists.

STARTLING FACTS.

Report of the National Bureau of Education.

The report of the Bureau of Education is at hand, and, as usual, is full of interesting information regarding the educational condition and growth of the country. The most striking thing in the whole volume are the reports from the Southern States, which show the rapid decay of education in that section, and the almost absolute abolishment of the public school systems which were established there by the much abused "carpet-baggers." Take the State of Arkansas, for instance. In 1872 it had one of the finest systems of public and normal schools in the United States, supported by a direct tax upon the people. Nearly $1,000,000 had been expended in the erection and equipment of buildings, and educated teachers were imported from the colleges of the North. The report of the Commissioner of Education shows that last year only $119,000 were spent for schools in Arkansas. The number of scholars enrolled was smaller in proportion to the population than in any State of the Union, or even Territory. (New Mexico sent more children to school than Arkansas.) The teachers were paid less in Arkansas last year than in any State or Territory of the Union, and fewer teachers were employed. Of the 31,720 children reported for enrollment, only 14,437, or less than one-half, even attended. The number of school-houses in use was 1,015 less than in 1872. The Mormons in Utah spent more money for schools, have a better system, employ more teachers, and had a larger attendance of pupils last year than Arkansas or Florida.

THE SCHOOLS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The following table contains interesting statistics about the school population of each State, the number enrolled in school last year, and the amount of money expended last year for school purposes.

[illegible] of the above [illegible] particularly [illegible] from the South, to [illegible] schools in the South [illegible] rapidly running [illegible] few years, [illegible] reached a point [illegible] better than no school [illegible] be said that these [illegible] they [illegible] superintendents [illegible] several States, [illegible] place the best [illegible] population, the numerical advantage being in favor of the former. Kansas—a new State, with no large cities—has $4,337,654 invested in school houses, while Louisiana, with a large city, has only $736,575. The States of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas report no valuation of school property. Make a similar comparison to the above between the States of North Carolina and Michigan. Their school population is not far apart in numbers, but North Carolina, one of the most prosperous States in the South, has only $225,000 invested in school property, while Michigan has nearly ten million dollars. The Cherokee Indians have nearly as much money invested in school property as the State of North Carolina.

THE SOUTHERNERS AND THE INDIANS.

Another interesting way of observing the subject is the expenditure per capita of population for schools. Strange to say, the Cherokee Indians spend more per capita than any State in the Union; and the Choctaws more than any single State, except Massachusetts and California. The Cherokee Indians expend $24.78 per child, and North Carolina 68 cents per child; the Choctaw Indians, $12.62 per child, and Alabama $1.02 per child. Yet the privilege of suffrage is not extended to the Indians of these nations, because they are "half-civilized."—Inter Ocean.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Letter from Macon.

MACON, Miss., Sept. 15, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I have intended writing to your valuable paper for some time, to inform you of the working of both our church and Sabbath-school; but I have procrastinated until this late hour.

Our church, which is in charge of Rev. G. W. Barney, is doing well. Bro. Barney is the right man in the right place. He is loved by all. Since he has been in charge at Macon Methodism has spread her wings and is still spreading them, and I must say that he has done more to build up the old "Mother" Methodist Church in Macon than has been done for a number of years. Although he has been with us very nearly three years, yet we shall be sorry when his time shall come to leave us. His life is gentle, and the elements so mixed in him, that Nature might stand up and say to all the world: "He is a man!"

During our last quarter our worthy elder, J. W. Dunn, was not with us, on account of sickness in his family, and the yellow fever being in different parts of the State; so of course Bro. Barney filled his place, and everything passed off quietly. On the following Sunday the Lord's Supper was administered to about ninety-five. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the love-feast was postponed for about a week, and we witnessed another good time. We are working for the Lord, and doing all we can to advance His cause. During the month of August we raised about $90 or $100, saying nothing of the festival given by several of our sisters, from which we realized about $50, after paying all expenses. The following sisters gave the festival: Sisters Gusta Foote, Delia Tyler, Louisa Barker, Ophelia Davis, Elizabeth Kimbrough, Zara Morris, Millie Hines, Annie Johnson, Susie Tolbert and Lucinda Dunlap. On the arrival of Bro. Barney from the annual conference, he began to labor for the silver set, and he did not rest until he had succeeded in getting it, and now we have the whole set. We have paid our pastor $270 this year, and we don't intend him to leave until we have paid him all we promised to pay him. Financially our church is doing well. We are making preparations to take care of the conference, which will convene here in January next. So much for the church — now the Sabbath-school. Our Sabbath-school is growing, and also doing well. Our enrollments reach about 150, average attendance about 100. I have a set of good officers and teachers, who work in harmony. Since I took charge of the Sabbath-school as superintendent, I have done all that I could, under the circumstances, to build up the school. [illegible] teacher of the [illegible] late student of [illegible] and is also an [illegible] in the public [illegible] and is a good [illegible] Mr. John [illegible] of the [illegible]

Alcorn University, is a promising young man, and is destined to be a blessing to his race. He is a believer in Christ. Gov. A. K. Davis is the teacher of the Union Bible class. Gov. Davis is a real Sabbath-school worker, and since he has professed a belief in Christ, I wish no better worker in the Sabbath-school than he. Mrs. Laura Barney, wife of our worthy pastor, is also a good worker in the Sabbath-school, and is in charge of the spelling class, and is liked by all of her pupils.

I cannot close this letter without saying something about the teacher of the catechism class, Miss Henrietta Miller. She is a dear lover of the Sabbath-school, and she has purchased herself an organ, and is now taking music lessons, and by proper application will make an efficient music teacher. Our school is organized into a missionary society. Hoping you will allow this letter space in your columns, I am fraternally yours,

A Specimen Outrage on Account of Color.

Some time ago the Postmaster at Blackville, S. C., was shot, but not killed. The matter has been investigated by a special Postoffice Agent, who reports, October 10, as follows:

"I find that Frederick Nix, the present Postmaster at Blackville, S.C., is a native of Barnwell county, of that State. He is and has been a Republican of great influence, and in political matters has wielded great influence. In evidence of this, I mention the election pertaining to the removing of the county seat from Blackwell to Barnwell, on which occasion his zeal won for him from the people of Barnwell an elegant gold-mounted cane, now in his possession, bearing the following inscription:

"Frederick Nix, from the ladies of Barnwell county. Honor to whom honor is due."

"I am informed that this was presented in behalf of a number of the first white ladies of Barnwell county. On another occasion he was presented with an elegant Bible, also from the ladies of Barnwell, bearing the following inscription:

"This Bible is a thank-offering for services rendered to dear old Barnwell. May it lead you to seek an inheritance in the better land."

The agent then shows that the change of sentiment toward Nix was on account of his active Republicanism when the Democrats got possession of South Carolina. At the time the shooting of Nix occurred, which was on Sept. 16, 1879, at about noon, and immediately after the departure of the Assistant Postmaster to dinner, while Nix was alone, and about the only hour in the day when he is alone, showing that Williams awaited his opportunity. One David Glover called at the delivery window and inquired for a letter. The Postmaster turned and was engaged in examining the letters before answering the inquiry, and while so engaged he heard the click of a pistol-trigger. He instantly turned, and was about half-way around, when he received through his arm and across his breast a bullet from a pistol held in the hands of Luther Williams, which was fired through the general delivery window over the shoulders of Glover, and which would have have been a fatal shot, as it was at such close quarters, but for a quick movement of Nix on hearing the click of the pistol. Nix had not up to the moment of the shooting seen or ever heard of Williams, and not a word had passed between them. Nix, who has frequently heard threats that if he took possession of the Postoffice his life would pay the forfeit, and who was, in consequence, naturally anticipating danger, had a pistol in his office which he seized, and seeing through an outer window-glass which was frosted the rapidly retreating form of Williams, fired at him through the window. From all the facts and attendant circumstances of the case it would appear that the shooting was the result of a well-understood arrangement to murder an officer of the United States Government, simply because of his color as well as his politics, which was objectionable to most of the leading spirits of that community since his appointment. Nix has proven himself fully competent, and has shown a commendable fidelity to his duties, and has displayed more than ordinary judgment in the selection of an assistant, who it is generally conceded is an efficient and courteous official. A bitterness of partisan feeling has been formed by intolerant spirits, not only against Nix, but against all other leading colored Republicans in the county, and it was this feeling of deep-rooted prejudice that led Williams, either with or without the connivance and assistance of others, to murder Nix, simply to get rid of him. As to the character of the would-be-assassin, I am told that early in life he displayed his brutish propensities by firing a double-barreled shotgun into a passing passenger coach. It appears also that he has figured conspicuously in most of the political riots in Barnwell county. If this act was not done on his own responsibility, then clearly Williams was the tool of otherwise, perhaps, equally unscrupulous persons, who had been overheard to say a few days prior to the shooting that they could have Nix killed at any time by only giving the wink to Luther Williams or a compatriot of his whose name, if necessary, I am prepared to give. On the day of the shooting Williams was generously plied with liquor, and was seen frequently engaged in private and mysterious conversation with little knots of two or three men, but more frequently with a lawyer of the town named James Thompson, who it is claimed holds a high position socially and at the bar, and who only about a week previous was discovered by the Postmaster writing on the slide of his delivery window the following friendly piece of advice:

"You had better get out of this office.
LONDON BROWN,
Captain of K. K. K."

When asked by the Postmaster what he meant by it, he said he wrote it in fun. Subsequent to the shooting Williams rode up and down Main street in front of the postoffice, pistol in hand, in a highly demonstrative and threatening manner, and on one occasion, seeing Nix standing in the doorway of the postoffice, rode up to him, and flourishing his pistol, said: "D—n you; we have sworn you never should be Postmaster here." And this was witnessed by the Marshal of the town. It is a remarkable fact that, with two or more newspapers in the county, neither of them has taken any notice of or made any comment whatever on the affair, and no action was taken by the Grand Jury, which was in session at the time of the shooting, and no effort of any character appears to have been made to apprehend Williams, who lives within a short distance of the town. The information obtained in this case was only procured after our official character was thoroughly and satisfactorily made known, and then only on condition that the names of our informants should not be divulged; otherwise their lives would certainly be placed in jeopardy. Nothing but the most solemn assurances on our part that all information would be considered strictly confidential could elicit a word from them.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Marriage and the Ministry.

JASPER, Tenn., Sept. 24, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I often see letters and sermons in the SOUTHWESTERN and other Christian papers containing objections to the reception of single men as preachers in charge of circuits.

Now I think that it would be well to hear the other side of the question a little, and see how it will balance. There are many places in which unmarried preachers are necessary—for instance, at Topeka, Kansas, where the good brother, W. O. Lynch, lives. He says the people are in lean circumstances, as they are here in Jasper, and in many other places not able to take care of eight or ten persons to get the use of one. Yet my brother, mentioned above, wants a married man. His reasons are that they are less criticised, etc. I think if we were to consult the reports of the many quarterly and annual conferences that have been held for the last fifteen years, we will see that marriage don't prevent criticism, and that the actions of many married preachers has proved just as detrimental to the spiritual interest of the church, if not more, than any unmarried preacher that we can mention. Since marrying does not remove these difficulties, why so preach or write as to cause young preachers to marry before they are able to give a woman the treatment that justice demands? God does not require it as a qualification—why should man? We turn to the seventh chapter of 1 Cor., 32d and 35th verses, and read, "He that is unmarried careth for the things of the Lord—how he may please the Lord. But he that is is married careth for the things of the world—how he may please his wife." How literally this has been proved by many of our married preachers that have been placed on poor circuits. The children begin to cry for bread, and wife for shoes and clothes. They gather their mails and wedges and put for the woods or to stores as clerks or other employments, and it is goodby Bible, church, and many times Savior. Speak to them about it, and they will read the 8th verse of the 5th chapter of 1 Timothy to you. There are hundreds of local preachers lying around home with their wives much better prepared for the Gospel field in pocket and head than many who are out in it. Oh, may God hasten on the time when preachers will lay aside all for the sake of the kingdom of heaven, and know nothing among men save Jesus Christ and him crucified.

Again, there are many preachers who are sent by the conference from their homes and wives, and are compelled to remain from them for months and years. This tends to produce misery in the heart of husband and wife. Now, would it not be better if they, or many of of them, did not have any?

J. Braden, D. D., president of the Central Tennessee College, said in his lecture to the theological class this year: "Take away from me that preacher that has to marry to do right." I indeed appreciate his good opinion.

I close with a hope that if there are any young preachers who are giving occasion for criticisms or superstition, they will read the thirteenth verse of the tenth chapter of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians — more—and that the married preachers will remember that God says that His grace is sufficient—not woman—and go, yes go preach the Gospel. Yours faithfully at work for Christ,

J. C. HOUSTON.

Some unknown friend sends us a copy of the Arkansas Democrat of October 10th—a rabid journal, printed at Little Rock. From it we take the following excerpt to show, first, the malevolent spirit of that sheet, and second, the absurdity of its lies. What the Democrat, down in Arkansas, does not know about "the Methodist Episcopal Church North" isn't worth knowing:

Two essays upon the exodus have been produced by two distinguished Radical tallow-dips, one is named Guernsey, the other Rev. Dr. Hartzell. Both agree that the exodus is a kind of spontaneous upheaval, nothing political, etc. That's a hard sell. We stand ready to believe the tale of any book agent, the hardships of a tramp, that the moon is made out of green cheese, or that you must make a cross mark and spit in the center upon turning back from your contemplated route, but we'll never swallow that whole. Whenever the Methodist Episcopal Church North ceases to be a political hatchery—and they hatched up the exodus—we may begin to look out for the millennium. Nothing short of a flood will extinguish the fires in their furnace.

All we have to say on this point is, that the exodus was a complete surprise to the Methodist Episcopal Church. The South will at last see that the cause of the exodus is of home production. See extracts from Dr. Hartzell's Quarterly article in this and the following issue.—Western Christian Advocate.

We picture death as coming to destroy; let us rather picture Christ as coming to save. We think of death as ending; let us rather think of life as beginning, and that more abundantly. We think of losing; let us think of gaining. We think of parting; let us think of meeting. We think of going away; let us think of arriving. And as the voice of death whispers, "you must go from earth," let us hear the voice of Christ saying "you are but coming to me!" — Norman McLeod.

How marvelously grand the promises are when taken as they are given! Few Christians half credit them. They take off a great discount. They only ask for a balance of blessing.

The Outrages Continue.

The Milledgeville Union and Recorder of yesterday publishes a brief account of a deplorable state of affairs in the county of Baldwin—in that section lying east of the Oconee river. It appears that this particular section has for sometime been the abode of a gang of men for whom all law-abiding citizens entertain the greatest fears, and justly, for the klan do not hesitate to kill when it suits their purpose to kill, and burn when it comes in their way to burn. Many dark and bloody deeds have been committed by this band, whose retreats are said to be secure in the fastnesses of dense swamps which fringe the Oconee and its tributaries.

The latest outrages by these desperadoes, while they do not surpass others of the same character, are thrilling in the extreme. From our cotemporary we gather that Cicero Gordon, a negro, is their latest victim; and it appears that he was put out of the way to suit a purpose, and that purpose was to get rid of his evidence against them, he having been summoned before a court of justice as a witness. Suffice it that Gordon was returning to his home from Milledgeville, when he was waylaid in a dark ravine, his body riddled with bullets, and his corpse left on the road where it fell. Proceeding then to the plantation of a well-to-do citizen—Dr. J. A. P. Robson — whereon Gordon was a tenant, the outlaws deliberately fired his premises, destroying his ginhouse with all its contents, his cotton houses with his unginned cotton, his thresh, screw, and other property, keeping the doctor and his laborers at bay with arms, and and firing at them repeatedly, while the flames were licking up the results of his industry and hard labor for years.

We do not exaggerate when we state that all the good citizens in that section of the county are terrorized with silence, and while it is supposed they know the names of the brigands, they are fearful of violence to their own homes, families and persons should they give aid or information to officers who have for some time been attempting their arrest.

We learn additionally that this section of the country is rapidly depopulating. Colored laborers are fleeing across the river to the city side, leaving the crop to rot in the fields, while the whites are held in a state of continuous alarm, fearing to leave their property and unable to sell at any price albeit their smiling valleys and picturesque hills are as productive as any in the State.—Atlanta Constitution, Oct. 10, 1879.

An Appeal.

Friends in many States urge us to appeal to the Churches for contributions. It is suggested by several that such offerings be made on Thanksgiving day. It is a firstrate idea; who will act upon it? What more appropriate time than the day of a nation's gratitude could be chosen to lay the foundation of national sobriety? From lack of funds our missionary work is sadly crippled. Calls come to us in troops from every part of the country, though chiefly from the South and the West. From colleges and Churches, from ministers, school-teachers, and Bible-readers, from hospitals, asylums, and prisons, for ships, mission stations, the army, the freedmen, appeals for grant of papers, tracts, books, like falling leaves in number, come to our room.

Without the funds what can we do? We have refused too many such appeals already. Shall we be forced to deny others? Who will respond to this special plea for help? Who will stir up a Church, or several Churches if a union service is held, to give us a contribution? One earnest friend, two years ago, interested thousands in a similar work on the Pacific slope; a lady in Pennsylvania, within a brief time by her own personal efforts has secured offerings from a number of Churches. Who will go and do likewise? We have as just a claim upon Christian beneficence as Bible societies. If it is found impracticable to make us an offering on Thanksgiving day, then let it be done the Lord's Day before. On or before Thanksgiving day is the text of our present plea. Contributions may be sent to J. N. Stearns or Dr. J. P. Newman, 58 Reade St., New York.

Mrs. Diana Williams.

"Blessed are the Dead Which Die in the Lord."

Mrs. Diana Williams, wife of Rev. Emperor Williams, of the Louisiana Conference, died in the Lord Oct. 20, 1879, at 12:30 o'clock, aged fifty-one years. She was a native of Maryland, was brought a slave to Louisiana in 1847, and became free only when the Union army arrived in New Orleans. She was converted in 1845, and joined First Street Methodist Episcopal Church, (then known as Winan's Chapel,) where she remained a member until her name was enrolled on high among the redeemed of the Lord. She was married to him who mourns her loss in 1849, and was the mother of six children, only one of whom still lives.

Mrs. Williams' slave life was as free from hardship as it was reasonable to expect under that system. Her owners were kind, and she being intelligent and obedient, and capable of doing the best and most valuable service, she was a favorite. Her value as a slave may be understood by the fact that her husband offered $3000 in gold for her in 1859, and the offer was refused. He himself had by his long years of service, and by his manliness and strength of character secured his own freedom as a gift at the hands of his life long master. Out of what a depth of sin has this nation been redeemed! Only twenty years ago neither prayers nor gold could unite the separated husbands and wives of multitudes only as the will of the master or mistress would permit a respite from unrequited toil!

When freedom came a home was purchased in Carrollton by Bro. Williams, in which his wife entered upon a new and most happy life. No sacrifice was too great to aid her husband in paying for their home. Her kindly Christian spirit gathered hosts of friends. Her table was always spread for the hungry, and not a few chief men of the church have sat at her table and shared the generous hospitality of herself and husband.

As a Christian Mrs. Williams was a model. She was not given to great demonstration, but was always at her post, and was never at a loss for words in which to give advice to others, or in which to tell the story of her own conversion and happy Christian life. She read much in the Bible and the standard works of the church, and was a great help to her husband in his studies. Her health had been broken for several years, and at the last she was confined to her room four months. But no murmur ever escaped her lips, and each succeeding year of bodily affliction only seemed to sweeten her spirit and make her a more perfect saint on earth, and prepare her for the hour of her complete triumph.

We visited her twice during her last illness, and found her full of hope and joy at the thought of death. We suggested that perhaps God would spare her to live here [illegible] years. She said, "No, you are kind, but I am going to Jesus." At her request we sang "The Home of the Soul." During all her illness her soul had been cheered by the hymn she sang when converted, and she joined with us in singing:

> "Oh how happy are they
> Who their Savior obey,
> And have laid up their treasures above.
> Tongue can not express
> The sweet comfort and peace
> Of a soul in its earliest love."

[illegible] her favorite hymn, and [illegible] her soul was cheered by its [illegible] inspiration.

[illegible] triumph over the fear of [illegible] was complete. She said: [illegible] is only a shadow, and a [illegible] has no substance. Why [illegible] we fear it?" Her husband [illegible] the twenty-third Psalm, [illegible] these precious words, [illegible] I walk through the [illegible] shadow of death, I [illegible] no evil; for thou art with [illegible] rod and thy staff they [illegible]." Of these words she [illegible] have heard them preached [illegible] and for years they [illegible] when I thought [illegible] oh, I now know their [illegible]. I am indeed com[illegible] band to give Mrs. Williams a ten dollar gold piece every Christmas as a present. Some of these she gave to her immediate relatives, and her watch to her daughter, accompanying each gift with words of love and counsel. To her husband she said, "Papa, you have loved me for thirty-one years, and you have done everything in your power to make me happy. I want you to know I appreciate it all." During her illness, when her husband would have appointments out of the city on his district, and would hesitate to go, she would always say, "Go, the Master's work must be done, and he will care for me."

Just before she passed away she called for "papa and daughter," and held up her two fingers and indicated that she wanted them alone. She then pledged them to meet her in heaven, and folded her arms across her breast and fell asleep in death, without a sigh or struggle. So peacefully did she go that if the husband and daughter had not been watching, they would not have known but that she slept.

The funeral services were held in Clinton Street Church, and a vast concourse of people were present. Nearly a score of ministers of our own and other churches were present, and as many as could, both at the church and grave, took part in the services, under the direction of her pastor, Rev. Henry Green.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." No more fit words could be inscribed on the tomb of this translated saint. May her life and character be emulated by all who knew her, and may the blessed Master comfort the bereaved ones, and keep them graciously, until, like the dear wife and mother, they may depart in peace and joy.

The Supremacy of Love.

The fundamental principle of the Kingdom of God among men is love—love for God, and that love for man which grows out of the love of God. Christ declared that on these two,—the love of God with all the heart, mind, soul and strength, and the love of our neighbor as ourselves, hang all the law and the prophets. To the same effect, the Apostle Paul declares that "love is the fulfilling of the Law," and it is so; not because it is accepted in lieu of obedience to the requirements of the Law, but because it infallibly secures such obedience. It is the inward motive and inspiration in the soul which spontaneously prompts the performance of every duty man owes to God and his neighbor.

There is need to emphasize this point, because there is danger of mistake here. Many people seem to regard religion as a mere sentiment, or set of pious and delightful emotions and feelings. If they can manage to work themselves up to a state of religious favor, and feel happy, they imagine that they have the love of God, and are pretty good Christians, without stopping to inquire whether others are good and happy or not, or whether their supposed love for God has led them to do His will by laboring to bless the bodies and souls of men. It is astonishing to find how many make this mistake of supposing that the love of God and man is merely a happy state of feelings, instead of an active principle in the soul which always seeks to glorify God by doing good to men. Love is the fulfilling of the law, because no man can have it who does not do all that the law of God requires. The persuasion of ourselves, and the profession that we love God are no evidence of the reality unless accompanied with acts which prove it. Deeds are the only sufficient evidence of love—deeds of sacrifice, of kindness, of sympathy, which frequently involve sacrifice and even suffering on the part of the doer.

Such was Christ's love for men. It was not "in word only, but in deed and in truth." It was not found in his precepts alone. Many a man, without a particle of genuine love for his kind, has been able to deliver beautiful precepts, excellent doctrines; but we must go to the life and especially to the cross of Christ, if we would know how great was the love wherewith He loved us. His life was the constant exemplification of His love, "He went about doing good," healing the sick, relieving the distressed, associating with the poorest and lowliest of His time, and giving new life and hope to the down-trodden and discouraged. This was evidence of His love for [illegible], but still more convincing was [illegible] death on the cross. His cross [illegible] the throne of his love. On the countenance of the crucified Savior there was one expression stronger [illegible] that of dying agony—the ex[illegible] of [illegible], undying, bound[illegible]. The cross alone can [illegible] and grandeur of [illegible] to [illegible] of the [illegible] God [illegible] mendeth his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." In his life and death Christ is our example of the self-sacrificing obedience and service of love.

Thus do we see the supremacy of love in the Divine Kingdom which Christ came to establish. It began in the love of God to man, and is to have its fullest and fairest consummation in winning the love of all men to God. There is no higher attainment possible for any man than the fullness of Christian love. It is this, and this alone, that gives completeness to human character. It is this that reigns supreme over the whole domain of Christian obedience, and meets all the requirements of the Divine Law. All that the Scriptures mean by holiness is implied and included in the fulness of love. If any Christian is better than another, it is because he has more love; and if any man is wholly free from sin, he has the fulness of that love which "purifies the heart," is active in every good word and work, and is, therefore, "the fulfilling of the law." Christian perfection is perfect love—"the loving God with all our heart, mind, soul and strength, and our neighbor as ourselves." This implies that no wrong temper, none contrary to love, remains in the soul, and that all the thoughts, words and actions are governed by pure love."

Love, then, is the dominant, controlling principle in the Christian soul. It is that which subjugates all rebellious passions, brings every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ, and holds complete sway over all the powers of the soul. Well may we all sing:

> "O love divine, how sweet thou art!
> When shall I find my willing heart
> All taken up by thee?
> I thirst, I faint, I die to prove
> The greatness of redeeming love,—
> The love of Christ for me."

May God help us all to feel how much we need this love, how utterly empty we are without it; how like "a sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal" are all our utterances and professions, and how groundless and futile our hopes of happiness here or hereafter, unless the Law of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost given unto us.

Notes from Gonzales, Texas.

Last Sunday I had the privilege of dedicating a new M. E. Church at Gonzales. It is a plain box house 24x40 feet, neatly seated. This society has received $100 Church Extension money; the balance was raised among themselves. The pastor, Rev. C. Mays, has labored with his hands, heart and head with untiring energy to complete this undertaking, and to him and his noble family and the few members, the dedication was a time of holy triumph. Rev. M. Henson, agent of the conference school, preached at the 11 o'clock service from the text, "In my father's house are many mansions"—contrasting the humble temples we dedicate to God's worship here with those brighter mansions "where dwells eternal love." The dedication service was at 3 o'clock. At night Bro. Henson gave his lecture on education. The congregations were large through the day, and appeared to appreciate the services. No one can appreciate the present success without a little glimpse of what it has cost. When Bro. L. Carper went to Gonzales some years ago to organize the M. E. Church he received notice that he would be shot if he did not leave the city. He replied "Give me just one hour to talk and then you may have my body." After he had preached, he said "Now I am ready to die;" but no one seemed ready to kill him. On the contrary, scores of persons were on the floor crying for mercy. While Rev. M. Henson, who followed Bro. Carper, was pastor, the school house in which he held services was burned. Bro. Henson immediately bought an acre lot with the money he had earned teaching school, and donated it to the church, and began to build.

Rev. J. W. Robinson who followed him was assaulted while in the pulpit preaching. Several shots were fired through the end of the house where he stood, but providentially none hit him. He considered himself unsafe in the city and left the next day. He had been gone but a few hours when the new church was burned to ashes.

For about four years our society in Gonzales has been without a shelter, except as we could occasionally obtain the use of a Baptist church. We hope this is a brighter dawn for this feeble struggling society. G. W. RICHARDSON.

Foreign Missions.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BULGARIAN MISSION.—It opened at Sistof Sept. 11. The business meeting continued for two days, with two sessions daily. Each morning a general prayer meeting was held. The first morning's session was occupied in hearing reports from the various preachers and colporteurs. The spiritual status of the Sistof church is better than at the opening of the year. The members not only attend preaching on Sundays, but take part in the prayer and class meetings. They are advancing in the Divine life. Scarcely any beside members attend the services. At Tirnova the number of hearers is small, and this may be accounted for, in part at least, by the all-absorbing political influence attending the assembly which was held there, and in the crowning of Prince Alexander the 2d of Bulgaria. Gebrova has been occupied since last May. A strenuous effort was made on the part of some of its inhabitants to prevent the preacher renting a house, and forcing him to leave the city. After some six weeks a rent was secured. Besides his visits to shops and other places for religious conversation, he has found two or three persons who come regularly on Sundays for religious instruction and prayer. There is only one remaining of the little society which we had at Loftcha before the war. Here the preacher reports two probationers and a small number of hearers. The villages about Loftcha have been visited and there are indications that the work in these places will soon bear fruit. This is especially true as regards Troyan, where, on a recent visit, the preacher preached to eight young men. Two women came to Loftcha, a distance of eighteen miles, to attend the meetings and hear the word preached. The indications are very promising that a company of hearers will be gathered here by the Loftcha preacher, who is to divide his time between Loftcha and Troyan. The preacher at Sevlievo, who has been at his post for about six weeks, reports that while some who were friends previous to his taking up his abode among them, have ceased to know him, he has found others. He has held preaching service and Sunday-school every Sunday since his arrival. He has met with opposition, but is determined to work on and succeed. Of the book-sellers, two of them have been in our employ for about six months and one for about six weeks. These have all been very successful and their work reveals one of the most encouraging signs of ultimate success in connection with this field. There is a desire shown for the word of God, and for moral and religious literature. The following questions were discussed: 1. What places must be held by the Mission? 2. How many American missionaries are needed, and where should they be stationed? 3. Is there a demand for missionaries from the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society? 4. What books should be printed the coming year? 5. What are the needs of the Mission as regards education? The members agreed on the following conclusions: All places now occupied should be held and other important centers taken up, and in order to do this at least two new American missionaries are needed. There is a work for the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in Bulgaria, and two agents from that society should be on the ground preparing for the work in a girls' school and among the women of this principality. The catechism, discipline, Binney's Theological Compound, are imperatively needed and should be printed at once, as no distinctively Methodist book has been printed—not even the general rules. Undoubtedly both a boys' and girls' school would be fully patronized if they were only properly organized and sustained; but for the present a girls' school should be opened to care for and educate our orphans left at Loftcha, and also give the girls of our own church an opportunity to secure an education. Some fifteen or twenty need this privilege at the present time. The Mission placed itself on record in regard to the subject of temperance by adopting a resolution in which it counselled the members of the church against the habitual use of intoxicating drinks, and pledging the preachers to use their influence both in the pulpit and out of it for the eradication of this bane of society. It also recommended the abandonment of the habitual use of tobacco. The members resolved to collect material for and print a tract on the subject of temperance during the coming year.

The religious services connected with the meeting were earnest and profitable, especially so in connection with the love feast, preaching and Lord's supper on Sunday, when the power which melts the heart was poured out abundantly. A like scene was never before witnessed by the whites in Bulgaria. Almost daily the call for a school is heard here. May the plea which Supt. Challis has recently sent to America be heard and granted.

OUR SOUTHERN METHODISM.

MISSISSIPPI.

C. W. Ivy, Shuqualak: "I have closed a protracted effort at Ballard church, resulting in 25 converts; 23 were baptized on the 19th by G. W. Barney. Rev. A. N. Davis worked in the meeting like a hero."

P. Jamison, Shubuta: "My protracted meeting has just closed with several accessions to the church and ten conversions. One of my Sabbath-school pupils, Eliza Jones, a few days after her conversion, departed this life. She sang a hymn while dying, and leaves many relatives to mourn her loss.'

R. Hays, Philadelphia circuit: "A protracted meeting commenced on the 11th and closed on the 18th; 20 accessions in all; 20 adults and 10 infants baptized. Rev. W. H. H. Gallion was with me two days. The people here are poor, but a majority of them are willing to support the Gospel. Pray for us."

A. Davis, Jackson: "We have had a prosperous time to date. The Lord has blessed our labors in that he has added many precious souls to his fold. I have received 20 on probation, 7 accessions. My church is greatly revived. Sabbath-school is prospering. In the absence of the elder, Rev. R. Anderson, of Evergreen circuit, presided at last conference."

P. Blue, Corinth: "We have had a successful year spiritually. About 103 have been added to the church to date. Our Sunday-school is doing well under the supervision of I. L. Pratt, a local preacher, and with about 80 in attendance. We have three churches on this work, a meeting of one week at each church resulted in 37 conversions and 56 accessions. A good deal of building has been done, which may cause us to fall short in our collections."

TEXAS.

Lewis Lane, San Felipe: "On the 12th I held a Christian march, with 111 present. The collection was $17.40. We are prospering."

J. W. Anderson, Mission Valley: "We have a Mathew Simpson Sunday-school here, organized by Rev. A. Brack. April 15 we gave a festival, and raised enough to buy a library and have a few dollars left. At the last festival about 300 people were present."

Summerhill Mission.

HILLSBORO, Coffee Co, Tenn., Oct. 14.

MR. EDITOR—Allow me to say a few words in regard to Summerhill Mission, in Coffee county. Rev. J. R. F. P. Summerhill has labored with us here two years. His time is now about to close. We are sorry to give him up, for we never had a man to come here and do as he has done. He has been tried by the fire of persecution, but he stood his ground. He was threatened in every way to make him leave, but his enemies did not succeed in getting him away. He has proved himself a man, and gained the love of all here, black and white. It is a pleasure to attend his meetings. He is a young man, and pure in character. I hope the conference may be filled with such men as he is. Our people are improving. Two new churches were built this year. Yours truly

J. SOUTHERLIN.

Letter from Dallas.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 21, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—We are in the midst of a glorious revival in our church in Dallas. The wonderful power of God is displayed in the awakening and salvation of souls. Forty have united with the church to date, and as many have been converted. Rev. F. A. Henring, formerly of the Indiana conference, is rendering efficient service in the good work. We are closing up the year in this charge grandly. The interests of the charge in all its departments is very high. I think we are the equal of any church in Texas, of any denomination, in general work and spiritual progress that has no larger membership than the Dallas M. E. Church. Praise the Lord. W. P. A.

Senator Benjamin H. Hill, of Georgia, replies to the letter on the attitude of the South recently addressed to him through the Tribune by Representative Chittenden. He deplores Northern hatred of the South; holds the North responsible for both slavery and secession, declares that the North compels all Southerners to be Democrats by the Republican doctrine that secession was a crime; and proclaims that Southerners will never admit that their rebellion was criminal or treacherous.

The Republican State Convention.

For the first time since the memorable election of 1876 the Republicans of Louisiana have resolved to place a State ticket in the field, and to rally the full strength of that party at the polls. The convention met in New Orleans, on the 20th inst. Hon. Henry Demas, of St. John parish, was temporary, and Hon. A. J. Dumont permanent chairman; Wm. Vigers, secretary.

President Dumont, on assuming the chair, delivered a short address. He said:

"We meet at a time fraught with mingled appearances of gloom and hope, of obstructions and incentives to success in the campaign before us. With the government of the State in possession of the Democratic party all the legitimate aids and advantages which we formerly had are turned against us, and we are called on to contest for a full State ticket for the first time since the Democracy came in power. * * * I fervently hope no mere popularity however acquired, will induce you to nominate one who is not best fitted to be a standard bearer of the party. Renew, by proper nominations, the inflexible will of the Republican party, never to lay down its arms till justice and equality before the law are as practically observed and cherished in Louisiana as in any of the older and more progressive States of the nation. "The solid South must be made to feel, so far as we can aid to that end, that truth and Republicanism are more solid and lasting, and will in due time, crush to atoms the well laid plans of the Democracy to control the government of this nation. Let us stand by our colors, and whether or not we succeed in the direct contest before us, let us do our whole duty, under the inspiration of the dying charge of the gallant Lawrence ringing in our ears, 'Don't give up the ship.' When love of country and reverence for the constitution as it is; when sincere regard for the rights of all classes, and a desire for order and peace shall have characterized our State, and the protecting folds of the Federal flag shall no longer be needed to guard the life and insure the well-being of the humblest citizen of this common-wealth, then, and not till then, shall we stack our arms to partake of the blessings which flow from a genuine state of peace and prosperity."

Messrs. Hahn, Pinchback, Anderson, Landry, Fontelieu, Mentz, Davidson, Gla, Field, Lewis, Cahen, F. C. Antoine, Thompson, Wickham and Dupage, were appointed a committee on platform and resolutions.

A committee to consider the exodus was also appointed: J. Henri Burch, chairman; Messrs. Lanier, C. C. Antoine, Roy, Detiege, Blunt and Gla.

Hon. T. Allain introduced a resolution welcoming the return of Gen. Grant to America, declaring faith in his ability and integrity; and that he was the unalterable choice of Republicans of Louisiana for President in 1880. It was greeted with enthusiastic applause, and referred to a committee.

The convention proceed to nominate a State ticket. Hon. P. B. S. Pinchback nominated Judge Taylor Beattie of Lafourche, for Governor, and G. W. Bryant seconded it. Both gentlemen made effective speeches. The nomination was then made by a rising vote, and with great enthusiasm.

Messrs. Burch, Cage, Wharton and Kennedy were appointed a committee to wait upon Judge Beattie, and to request his presence.

Judge Beattie was greeted with applause on his appearance, and after excellent counsel to the convention on the choice of a ticket, said:

He had never looked upon politics as a trade, but he believed it to be the bounden duty of every American citizen to be a politician. He was a Republican, not only because he believed that the principles of the Republican party, as enunciated in the National party platform, were the true ones, but because he believed them most conducive to the interest of the people of the States. He was a Louisianian, born and bred upon the soil of the State. All of those who were near and dear to him had also been born here, and those of his dear ones who had passed away lay entombed in her soil. When his time came, whether willing or not, he also expected to be laid there. He had been led to adopt his political principles from the results of what he believed to have been a sincere study of the best interests of the State. Growing public feeling was working a change among the people. It had often been said to him by men who really believed in Republican principles that the men presented by its party as its candidates were not of the right sort, but this he answered by asking them why they did not form their own Republican clubs and organizations, and come into the party and demand their rights. The Republican party, which had suffered most disastrous defeat, was again about to assert itself in the councils of the nation, and, he trusted, to grasp with a firm hand the reins of government. He asked that the convention present an unexceptionable ticket and platform, such a one as would induce every one to join them, and endeavor to bring into the State the prosperity which existed under Republican administrations in the North and West. This request granted, he pledged himself to further, to the best of his ability, the great principles of the party in the hustings and on the rostrum. As a Southern man he was acquainted with the passions and prejudices of Southern men. He knew them, and believed they could be induced to give up all delusions and join the party. Before making a complete and formal acceptance of the nomination he asked to know the ticket and to be permitted to see the platform.

A committee of fifteen was appointed to select the remainder of the ticket and to consult with the gubernatorial nominee, as follows: Messrs. Hebert, Hill, Bourgeois, Matthews, Hawkins, Tucker, Wharton, Cage, Gautt, Morey, Maurice, Cahn, Bryant, Young and Demas.

The committee on resolutions was as follows: Messrs. Allain, Burwell, Davidson, Hebert, Forman, Harper, Thompson, Morgan, Hall, Joffrion, Malone, Dickerson, Blunt, Wickham and Green.

On Tuesday a resolution was adopted providing that the State central committee be composed of six members from each congressional district, and twenty-five to be appointed by the president of the convention from the State at large. The president of the convention to be a member and ex-officio president.

Mr. Guichard presented a resolution protesting in the name of the State of Louisiana against the removal of W. P. Kellogg from the Senate of the United States, which was unanimously adopted.

The arrival of ex-Governor Warmoth was hailed with cheers. Having been loudly called upon for a speech, Mr. Warmoth delivered a short address, urging the election of the best men of the party as nominees. The report of the committee on nominations recommended the remainder of the State ticket as follows: For Lieutenant-Governor, James M. Gillespie, of Tensas; Attorney-General, Don A. Pardee, of Orleans; Auditor, Claudius Mayo, of St. Landry; Superintendent of Public Education, M. F. Bonzano of St. Bernard; Secretary of State, James D. Kennedy, of Orleans. It was received and adopted, the nominations were considered seriatim.

The committee on platform submitted its report, and on its adoption a committee of five waited on Judge Beattie, who appeared and formally accepted the nomination.

Judge Beattie expressed his determination to go into every parish of the State and conduct the canvass. "I am told," said he, "that men holding similar views and belonging to the same party as myself, are not allowed a hearing in some of the parishes. I am not willing to believe that the people of Louisiana will not accord every man a respectful hearing, and I shall not believe until I learn its truth by stern experience. Let us go into this fight in an earnest, manly way, and let our war cry be, 'Home, life, truth and justice.'" [Applause.]

The committee appointed to prepare a paper on the exodus question presented a report. They concluded that the general causes which have tended to induce emigration were so generally known that repetition was unnecessary. The refusal or failure to grant the colored race political liberty is regarded as the predominant cause. The Democratic party is not considered the proper or just custodian of the liberty, politically, religious or civil, of the colored man. The committee suggest general emigration to the Northern or Western States in case the rights of the colored people are not more fully protected.

In stating that the outlook is adverse to the election of more bishops, we do not by any means express the opinion that none ought to be chosen. We adhere to our judgement that one (or better two) of African descent should be elected. If the General Conference should first consider the wants of the work in the way of superintendence—considering that matter on its merits without regard to candidates or troublesome questions relative to the Episcopacy and race—we have little doubt that several bishops would be elected. But General Conferences are not apt to approach this subject in the way we suggest, and a proportion to "strengthen the Episcopal Board," without specific plans for the use of the new strength, does not seem likely to carry the requisite weight. It is fair to say, however, that there is still plenty of time for the consideration of the subject; and we rather think that the question is still undecided in the minds of many brethren who profess to think that there will be no new bishops.—N. NOV. 2, 1879.—THE PERFECT PATTERN.

Scriptures.—1 Pet. 2: 18-25. Memorize 19-25.

Golden Text.—"Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth."—22.

Topic.—Christ our Example.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

The Connection.—Our lesson is part of an address to servants, or rather to slaves. That follows an exhortation to the people to be subject to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake. It is succeeded by some directions, first, to wives, and, second, to husbands. It is the aim of the gospel to make perfect those that are in any station in life.

Suffering Wrongfully (19-21).—The motive cited by Peter for unresistingly and patiently enduring wrong is, for conscience toward God. It should rather be translated "for consciousness of God." If we felt that they were in the very presence of the holy God, many would remain unsaid, and evil deeds undone. The Christian should walk "as seeing him who is invisible." Peter says, "for consciousness of God" ... griefs, or those ... which produce griefs, suffering wrongfully, this is thankworthy ... literally, this is grace. ... who has not received ... from on high ... to endure. ... were smitten in suddenness ... their faults. To take ... patiently ... It is no mere ... To receive ... deserves a reward ... and then receive ... commendation, but ... not better ... of such a ... arouse ... than ... averted ... [illegible]

This is the only place where Christ is called a "bishop." All coming to him is but a "return" to the Shepherd and Bishop from whose fold the sinner has strayed. Such a return is a return—home.

NEW BOOKS.

Messrs. Lee & Shepherd have ready for immediate publication an entertaining juvenile by Mrs. T. W. Higginson, entitled "Room for One More," illustrated by Mrs. Lucy Gibbons Morse. The story vividly portrays the struggles and final magnificent victories of a high-spirited and unruly orphan boy.

The Rev. Daniel Wise, D. D., author of a number of popular juveniles, formerly secretary of the Methodist Sunday-school Union, has written another story for youth entitled "Roderick Ashcourt," showing how a brother and sister thrown by misfortune from wealth and a happy home, met the emergency with great bravery, and fought it through until they had lifted themselves to enviable positions.

Messrs. Lee & Shepherd have ready for publication another of Mr. Geo. M. Towles' juvenile books of adventure, founded entirely on fact, in the "Heroes of History" series. This volume is the interesting life of the famous voyager, Magellan, who was born late in the fifteenth century, and after various adventures started from Spain with five ships, that made the first voyage around the world.

"Castle Foam," by H. W. French, will be brought out at once by Lee & Shepherd. It is a strong and dramatic novel, founded in Russia during the brilliant reign of the Emperor Alexander. The author's familiarity with the people and customs has enabled him to weave into an interesting story the pride, passion, treachery, magnificence and the underlying truth of life among the nobility.

Mr. Nathaniel H. Bishop, author of "The Voyage of a Paper Canoe," has ready for immediate issue from the press of Lee & Shepherd a companion volume, entitled "Four Months in a Sneak-Box," the name of the fishing and duck-shooting boats used on our New Jersey coasts, and in which he made a most interesting trip of 2600 miles down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and along the coast of the Gulf of Mexico. The work contains many new and important observations upon this comparatively unfamiliar part of the land.

central figures is a western Methodist minister who against his will drifted in his belief toward Schopenhauer's ideas. A brother clergyman, a noble illustration of Methodist warm-heartedness and a lady from Pittsfield, Mass., with her husband. Mr. W. M. F. Round describes an experiment he made in smoking opium in a Chinese opium den in Boston. The Men of Lake Tahoe graphically pictures the hardy lumbermen of that wonderful and California lake. Around St. Paul's describes some of the endless and interesting peculiarities of London. The stories are A Fragrant Vase, A Kid of the Goats, and the Cornet Solo, the verses include charming flower poems. Rev. Dr. James M. Whiton has Bible Bygones; there is a resume of the various Sunday laws of the different New England States, given apropos of the recent Sunday discussion in Norwich, Conn. The editorial departments, including reviews of new books, conclude the number.

The North American Review for November opens with a series of replies, by Julia Ward Howe, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Thos. Wentworth Higginson, Lucy Stone and Wendell Phillips, to Mr. Parkman's article on "The Woman Question," which appeared in the October number. They are united under the title, "The Other Side of the Woman Question, and give a complete presentation of the arguments in favor of extending the right of suffrage to women. The second paper is an attack on Malthusianism, Darwinism and Pessimism, by Professor Francis Bowen, of Harvard College. The writer declares that Malthusianism has no advocates, that Darwinism stands completely refuted by the facts of nature, and that in the despair of Pessimism we witness the worst consequences of the Malthusian theory. "A Page of Political Correspondence" is a collection of letters written by Mr. Stanton to ex-President Buchanan at the beginning of Mr. Lincoln's administration, now for the first time given to the public. Part 4 of "The Diary of a Public Man" treats chiefly of the relinquishment of Fort Sumter, Mr. Seward's negotiations with Virginia, the progress of events at Richmond and Montgomery, and the plan of a peace convention. Another interview with Mr. Lincoln is described, in which the President made several of those characteristic remarks which caused him to be so much misunderstood by those about him when he first came into power, but are now quoted as proofs of his shrewdness and ability. Professor Arthur L. Perry contributes a clearly written essay on "Tariff Reactions," in which he insists that every form of protection must operate calamitously in time. The concluding article is a review of "Some Recent Works of Fiction," by Edward Eggleston.

American Safes and Locks.

American safes and locks are unrivalled. This is due to northern ingenuity, stimulated by the demand for safeguards that are not so requisite in the well built and policed cities of Europe.

The first really fire-proof safes were made in New York. These were on the principle of the evaporization of water as affected by heat; the vapor or steam protecting the contents from destruction. Silas C. Herring made these safes in 1841 and introduced an industry that has since become an important one. The enormous issue of stocks and bonds by railway companies and other corporations, as well as the bonds issued by the government and the growing wealth of the community, called for safes to protect against the most skillful burglars. The massive bank safes and combination locks of today are the result.

Improvements are continually being made in the construction of safes, usually emanating from the old, but enterprising, house of Herring & Co.

The Peerless Organ, advertised in another column, is manufactured by a worthy member of the M. E. Church, Wm. A. Gaylord, who is the proprietor of the Peerless Organ Co. These organs are just as they are represented to be, are good value for the price offered—in fact are bargains. The readers of the SOUTHWESTERN will find Mr. Gaylord a man who sells good instruments only. Write to the company for circular and terms.

Printers' ink can be used with great advantage and at very small cost, by doing your own printing on one of the celebrated Model Printing Presses. It is cheap, easily managed, and in every way reliable. The attention of business men is particularly called, in this connection, to the advertisement of this well-known press in another column.

PREVENT YELLOW FEVER.

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable to system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventive. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventive and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents. 33 13t

Ecclesiastical Law,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.
Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations. —Author's Preface.

No. 204—7⅓ Octaves, Full Agraffe, Beautiful Rosewood Case, Price $200. Magnificent new Scale, Powerful and Sweet Tone. In exquisite finish, excellence of material, thorough workmanship, Evenness of Tone and Perfection of Action, we believe

It has NO EQUAL in the WORLD.

It contains everything that goes to make a thoroughly first class Piano. It is 6 ft. 6 in. long, 3 ft. 3 in. wide, with Overstrung Bass, Full Iron Frame, French Grand Action Fret Desk, Carved Pedal, Solid Rosewood Mouldings, Ivory Key Fronts, Capped Hammers, Agraffe Treble, and it has every modern improvement. We send them to all parts of the country for trial, inviting the most thorough examination and allowing fifteen days for teste. If not found in every way satisfactory, we will take it back and pay all freights. We ask only for security thet it will be returned or promptly paid for. We make no reduction from our price. We do not give Stool and Cover except to those who send the money with their order.

HOW TO ORDER.

Deposit your money in your own Bank, to be held till you have received and tested the Piano for fifteen days. The money then to be paid to us if you keep the Piano, or to be returned to you if you return the Piano to us. Send certificate of such deposit with your order. Or, if you have no Bank convenient, deposit the money with some responsible business man and send his acknowledgment with your order, or send your money to us with your order, and your Piano will be immediately shipped.

TWENTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE has shown us that where every Piano is sold on its own merits entire and permanent satisfaction is secured.

A moment's consideration will convince the most skeptical of the entire safety of our plan and the absolute certainty of securing good instruments from us.

We send a Piano, inviting the closest scrutiny, and we give fifteen days to test it on its own merits, with no one to mislead you in its favor. Dealers buy from the manufacturers or jobbers, and must take such Pianos as are sent, and they must sell them without regard to quality.

Our instrument must speak for itself. The dealer can hide the defects of his. We must send one so good that its superiority is apparent. The dealer can trust to his own shrewdness and the ignorance of the purchaser to conceal defects.

We cannot know who will test ours, but have to take the chances of its being judged by prejudiced and interested performers. Ours must, therefore, be of a quality so superior that its merits cannot be hidden.

Consider these comparisons and judge which system gives greatest assurance of satisfaction to purchasers.

Circulars with thousands of testimonials from those who have used our instruments for years sent free.

Golden Business Rules.

1. Never, under any circumstances, assume a responsibility that you can avoid consistently with your duty to yourself and others.

2. Base all your actions upon a principle of right; preserve your integrity of character, and in doing this never reckon on the cost.

3. Remember that self-interest is more likely to warp your judgment than all other circumstances combined; therefore look well to your duty, when your interest is concerned.

4. Never make money at the expense of your reputation.

5. Be neither lavish nor niggardly. Of the two, avoid the latter. A mean man is universally despised, but public favor is a stepping stone to preferment; therefore, generous feelings should be cultivated.

6. Say but little, think much and do more.

7. Let your expenses be such as to have a balance in your pocket. Ready money is a friend in need.

9. Avoid borrowing and lending.

10. Wine drinking and cigar smoking are bad habits; they impair the health and pocket, and lead to a waste of time.

11. Never relate your misfortune, and never grieve over what you cannot prevent.

12. Cultivate promptness in deciding upon matters that come before you; there are few objects more disagreeable and vexatious than an undecided, vacillating man. Consider thoughtfully, but decide promptly.

13. Never break a business engagement of any kind, if it is possible to meet it. Let nothing cause you to become careless of business etiquette, integrity and promptitude.

14. Let truth and an unwavering faith in God underlie all your motives and actions.

Rich or poor, it is every man's and woman's duty to earn his or her own living. Everybody is a consumer; therefore, everybody should be a producer. The world's wealth is so much less by everything that is consumed or worn out. The idleness of individuals in all stations and places, makes salaries lower and bread higher; so it is the idle in any community who should be despised, and not they who labor.

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates, Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the TONIC. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the TONIC has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

THE GENUINE

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

Lectures on Preaching

Delivered before the Theological Students of Yale College.

By Rev. Matthew Simpson, D.D., LL.D.

(One of the Bishops of the M. E. Church.)

Cloth, 12mo. Price.................$1.50

These admirable Lectures embrace the following topics, delivered in the order here stated:

Lecture I. The Nature and Work of the Christian Ministry.

Lecture II. The Call to the Ministry.

Lecture III. The Preacher Personally.

Lecture IV. Indirect Preparation for the Pulpit.

Lecture V. The Preparation of a Sermon.

Lecture VI. The Delivery of a Sermon.

Lecture VII. Ministerial Power.

Lecture VIII. The Influence of the Pastorate on the Pulpit.

Lecture IX. Collateral and Miscellaneous Work.

Lecture X. Is the Modern Pulpit a Failure?

It is needless to say that these topics are treated in a masterly manner—clearly, forcibly, practically; as becomes both the gravity and importance of the subjects discussed, and the reputation of their author as a "workman who needeth not to be ashamed." No minister should be without them, as none can carefully and thoughtfully read them without profit. In them there is nothing showy, but they present the ripe fruit of the matured thought of a long period of ministerial usefulness and oversight. They are weighty, well-considered teachings.

This book will be sent by mail on receipt of price. Address,

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

PREPARED BY R. P. HALL & CO., NASHUA, N. H. Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of cheap, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH

SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick, mucous, purulent, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid remedy may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. Pierce's Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried HIGH UP and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists.

CAUTION TO DEALERS AND CONSUMERS.

The great merit and perfect safety of the

have made it so popular that some persons are trying to palm off inferior oils on the community, by alleging that they are as good as Insurance Oil.

Consumers and Fair Dealers, who wish to use or sell the genuine Insurance Oil, are therefore cautioned not to buy any illuminating oil purporting to be Insurance Oil, unless sold by the Insurance Oil Tank Company, their Agents, or persons duly authorized by the Company.

To protect the people against imposition, every barrel and case of pure Insurance Oil is branded:

TRADE MARK

INSURANCE OIL

PAT. JAN. 5, 1875.

This trade mark is fully protected by United States Letters Patent, dated Jan. 5, 1875, and the proprietors are determined to prosecute, to the extent of the law, any attempts to infringe upon their rights, either by using this trade mark without their consent, or by selling other oils under the name of Insurance Oil.

The Insurance Oil is the only Illuminating Oil that has the FULL ENDORSEMENT of the leading Insurance Companies of Europe and America.

MY PRAYER.

BY GRACE ATHERTON.

Lord, lift the eyelids of the soul
That bar thy light divine;
O, cleanse the heart of every stain,
And make it wholly thine.

Lord, help me now to consecrate
My life, my all to thee;
And lift me from the bond of sin,
To be forever free.

Lord, fill my heart with thy own love,
[illegible]
[illegible] may find thy presence near,
[illegible] at Jesus' feet.

[illegible] to yield myself
[illegible]
[illegible] the whole world's loss,
[illegible] still.

A [illegible] Bishop.

think the Bishop wanted to exaggerate. I think he meant what he said. I don't think he meant that those ministers of the Washington conference were fine Greek scholars; neither do I believe that all the men elected to the office of Bishop in the M. E. Church were such scholars; or that the church requires a bishop to be educated in all the languages. I understand that he should be a man of good sense, with character above reproach, a good practical education, versed in the doctrines of the church. With schools for colored membership in the North for over seventy years, and schools in the South for over twelve years such a man should be found. Bro. R's letter reminds me again of a remark made to me not long since by a distinguished minister of the M. E. Church South: "Adams, your people will never see a colored man elected to the office of bishop." He said he knew the Church better than I did. I admitted it, yet I told him I thought that they would. Said he, "they never will; they will worry along with you for a while and then set you apart in a separate conference, as we did those that were in our church." I told him that the M. E. Church had spoken so much against it, that I did not believe they would do such a thing; that they would be ashamed. I said to do it after preaching and writing against it so bitterly, they would be ashamed for the world to know it.

Bro. R says again that the negro is always talking and writing about the prejudice between the two races, and at the same time acts it out fully. I think that we can clearly show much less prejudice among the colored people in the last fifteen years than can be shown among the whites. We have several districts in the several annual conferences in the South that have white presiding elders, the ministers all being colored, yet the ministers and members have not shown any disposition to rebel against the authority of the Church. We have not allowed our prejudice to govern in this matter, and we have the credit up to this date of obeying the order of the Church. Bro. Ramsey I know was once a member of the Holston conference. He was a layman and also a delegate to the last general conference. Holston conference is a mixed one. I believe two-thirds are white, and two small districts colored. I would like to know from Bro. R. whether any of the colored presiding elders were appointed to a district of white ministers. Bro. Tate has been a presiding elder in the Holston conference for several years. I would like to learn from Bro. R. whether Bro. Tate was ever appointed over a white district. I will admit that there is some prejudice among my people, but I think the whites have a great deal more. It was not done [illegible] the prejudice was so very [illegible] among the whites that it [illegible] not have been wise for the [illegible] to have made such an appointment, and it would have [illegible] to the prosperity of the [illegible]. But when they come to Mississippi, or South Carolina [illegible] the bishops have not [illegible] discovered such great fear of [illegible] and appoint white presiding elders. There are about a [illegible] white ministers in these conferences [illegible] not over twenty. [illegible] has got three in full [illegible] and in the last general [illegible] a white man was sent [illegible] to represent us. We [illegible] elected two colored delegates but we worked outside of [illegible] South Carolina and [illegible] have done likewise. Bro. [illegible] the negro is very full of his [illegible] Rev. Dr. A. C. McDonald, Dr. J. C. Hartzell and [illegible] Webster have been [illegible] McDonald and Webster [illegible] men could [illegible] following pre[illegible] conference [illegible] one colored dele[illegible] not. I don't [illegible] the negro has [illegible] I would [illegible] approve it. [illegible] is our friend, but she has shown it greatly in building churches and colleges for the education of her ministry. I have every cause to believe that when the old church finds a suitable man, it will elect one. Yours in love, Exodus Notes.

HEMPSTEAD, Oct., 22, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—I read an article in your paper a few days ago, written by Bro. Cushman, of the Houston district. In said article he used my name quite freely without being provoked to it by anything that I have said or done that I remember. I have always very highly respected and loved Bro. Cushman, and coming from where he did, and bringing with him the high standard of morals that they have in that country, I have expected great things—perhaps too much. I was surprised at some expressions contained in his first article on Kansas, and referred to one in my article, but I mentioned no name. Now, I am not disposed to quarrel with Bro. Cushman about Kansas. I say, let the people go or stay as they please. He refers to an article I wrote in the spring. In that article I said I believed from present indications that the colored people would become the future landlords of this country. He says I am forgetful. No, I did not forget the first when I wrote the last article, but I have seen more of the treatment of these people since I penned the first piece. I am more convinced that there must be a change of treatment before they can ever be a people here. I am like my good Bro. C. If they can be protected here, this is the best place for them; but will he or any one else become responsible for that? Bro. Cushman can know but little about the wants or sufferings of the colored people in this country, having been here not quite a year, and being near Houston or Galveston all the time, how can he know? I have the word of leading men in Houston and other parts of that district, who say they are going to Kansas as soon as they can get off, and yet Bro. C. says there is no Kansas spirit there. Now the fact is, they know my good brother is opposed to it, and they do not talk to him about it, so he cannot tell who is and who is not. I do not think Bro. Cushman was moved but by the purest of motives, with an eye single to the glory of God and the good of the people, but if he will follow the courts of this State, as I am doing, and witness the scenes that I witness weekly, he would agree with me. Two men steal a horse, white and colored. The white man is condemned for 5 years and the colored man for 10 years. This is one case out of hundreds. Women used as wives, and then sent to the penitentiary to get shut of them.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

From Nashville.

There is considerable interest now in the temperance movement in Tennessee. The good effect of stopping the "wild cat" stills, as they are called, is said to be very apparent in some of the mountain districts. There is less of lawlessness, drunkenness and crime; more security of property and person; less fighting, brawling, revelry and murder. Every Christian must rejoice in this legislation and its execution, and pray that the government may stop this unlawful distilling entirely, and realizing its good effects upon the immediate neighborhoods of these many factories of misery, poverty, crime and death, may apply similar legislation to every distillery and brewery in the land, and save our nation from becoming a nation of drunkards. Some of the churches and individual pastors are speaking out on the evils of intemperance in unmistakable language. The position of the M. E. Church is known in every community, and something of the healthier tone of public sentiment on this question in many places in this State, is largely due to the position of our church on the subject of intemperance. Dr. Baird, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church in this city, has recently preached some stirring sermons against intemperance and the liquor traffic. [illegible] in such work to be done [illegible] will [illegible] the drinking shops on election days. It would be a good thing for thousands of homes and tens of thousands of wives, children and parents if the grog shops could be closed every day in the year.

A spirit of revival has manifested itself in various parts of our work, following the earnest labors of the pastors. At Lebanon, the place of holding the next session of the Tennessee Conference, there has been some revival, and the church building has been thoroughly repaired. The colored people bought the building from the Church South, and are now making it better than it has ever been. At other points new churches have been erected, and a general spirit of improvement in church houses prevails. The subject of a colored bishop does not agitate us here very much, possibly because we have no probable candidates for the office. Some are asking why so much stress is laid on the color of the candidate. If it is to have a colored bishop for colored conferences only, the Tennessee Conference does not want such an officer. If it is to promote the general welfare of the church, and a suitable man for the Episcopacy can be found, he will be elected just as soon as these things are apparent to the church. Bishops are necessarily expensive officers, and the church will do well to look to their multiplication beyond the necessities of the work. The next General Conference will hardly elect more than one or two if the present Board of Bishops remain effective as at the present writing, and perhaps no one will be elected. Why should there be others elected if the present number can do the work?

The Central Tennessee College has opened with a large increase over last year at the same time. The prospect is good for a large increase in the future. The Meharry Medical College opened on the 6th inst. with a good attendance.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Letter from Oakland.

OAKLAND, Colorado county, Texas, Oct., '79.

DEAR EDITOR—I wrote you in the spring something of my work in this part of the Lord's vineyard. Please allow me now to address you once more near the close of the year, hoping to give you a few additional facts of interest to your numerous readers. My labors have been constant, and I hope productive of good to the cause of Christ and this dear people. In the whole field we have had twenty-five conversions and 42 probationers. One new house of worship has been erected. Some of our people have gone home to their rest and reward. Sister Mollie Adams, a faithful member of the M. E. Church, departed this life Sept. 9 in the full triumph of faith and the hope of a glorious resurrection.

Our meetings generally have been well attended. In July we held a camp-meeting of one week. It was well attended and we had much success. As minister in charge, I have done all I could to advance the Sunday-school work. We have some devoted teachers, both old and young. Our presiding elder, L. Carper, has met us three times this year. His last quarter was held on the 13th. We had a time—the people were delighted with him and his sermons. His address to the Sabbath-school was a noble effort. The people, without any notice, did well for him, making $9.20.

On the 26th of September the ladies of the congregation held a church festival for the preacher's salary. It was a success, notwithstanding a very heavy rain the same day. The amount raised and presented to the preacher was $31.65. And let me here say to my ministerial brethren that our sisters here are very much like Mary and Martha—they are willing to help their minister and not let him suffer.

The missionary cause is alive. I am here to bring up to the annual conference, Deo volente, a good constitution. Look sharply, brethren. And now, dear editor, not to exhaust your patience, let me say that the cause of Christ in connection with our beloved M. E. Church is flourishing. We are, I feel, gaining ground—advancing upon the enemy, and hope to possess his strongholds. Such is the influence of our church here that even our fellow citizens have remarked the good order that prevails in our large assemblies. Even the magistrate has spoken of the absence of riot and disorders, once too common at our meetings. If we have enemies they can only stand off and bark at us. Our determination is as strong as ever to persevere and fight the good fight of faith.

The SOUTHWESTERN is a constant visitor. It is carefully read and is a powerful agent for good. I only regret that we are not able to read its pages more attentively. I am very desirous that it find its way into every family of Texas. One white brother and friend of ours is always glad to read it, and recommends it wherever he goes. I am doing what I can to obtain subscribers. All the old ones will renew, and I am in hopes of getting some new subscribers. Our people must read more—read their church papers—and in this great way help to spread the gospel. Hoping that God will aid you in all your arduous labors, I remain yours truly,

P. JOHNSON.

Plain Talk About Fraternity.

Bishop Haven, in a letter to the Methodist Advocate, says:

Some of our brethren in the North fancy it is the fire-eating quality of their brothers in the South that causes these good brethren of that church to talk about us so violently. Was Dr. Cobleigh a fire-eater? Yet no one was more abused than he. Is Rev. Mr. Daugherty, of San Antonio, a fire-eater? Yet he can tell as painful a tale of insult and obloquy as any of us. How happens it that these blows fall so steadily and impartially on every one whose work brings him into competition with that church? Dr. Brush and Dr. Hartzell and Dr. Lakin and Dr Webster, located each almost 500 miles from the other, across the whole South belt, from Austin to Charleston, they have one story to tell. So had their predecessors. So had those eminent men of God, held in highest reverence by all the church, two of whom have so lately left her and one of whom remains behind in still higher reverence for the departure of his maligned associates—Bishops Janes and Ames and Simpson. They all have felt these malignant darts. One of them was run out of the South by a mob led by one of the chief men of the State, a mob and a leader lately approved by the Governor of that State in the columns of the Advocate published in that State, while the other has been pursued even to his grave by scurrilous epithets in their journals, not the least in that which especially boasts of its wit and culture. If the third is ever mentioned, it is only with similar scorn and scurrility.

Nay, my brother, I am still for returning to the wisdom of our fathers, that wisest body of delegates ever assembled in General Conference—the Pittsburg Conference of 1848. That body came up from the people. It knew what the churches and conferences wanted. The New York Conference of '44 had half-way consented to a division of the church. It had more than half-way consented to stay out of the South, if the preachers from the South chose to set up for themselves. It went so far as to give coloring to the decree of the Supreme Court declaring it a division and not a secession. But the sober sense of the ministers and churches rallied from the vehement debates and problematic concessions of New York. They declared there was not and could not be a division; that the church was one and indestructible; that we had not lost the right to go South or anywhere, by any quasi action of the General Conference of '44. The delegates sent up to Pittsburg knew what they were about. They obeyed the will of the church, revised the action of '44 so far as it needed revision, refused a fraternal delegate, whom as a man and brother they highly honored, and took the stand which carried the Union through the bloody struggle then unseen but impending, in which the chief enemy were those formerly of her own church, the war for national existence and human liberty. Honor to those strong, wise, sober men. To their standard we clung faithfully till 1872. Then a gush of sentiment took possession of all the North, compelled the nation to abandon its only friends, supporters and defenders to the cruel mercies of their enemies, slaughtered thousands upon thousands of Union men, white and black, a cloud of witnesses against the fatal weaknesses of the Union majority, and consummated its bloody folly in the base surrender to her vilest enemies of Louisiana and South Carolina, the States that had alone stood between the Union and its foes, for its chief magistracy, the commander-in-chief of her armies and navies.

In this weak concession the Church joined. She held out the right hand of fellowship. She acknowledged them to be hear brethren. She offered through one of her most stalwart leaders the olive branch. She spoke honest, living, manly words. She buried the past. Her leaders were kindly, warmly received. Never was a heartier welcome ever given than that which met them at Round Lake. How has this been responded to? Read every paper published by that Church, from the Nashville, under its present no less than under its former editor, to the worst of them all, that which issues from Richmond. Read the venomous attacks inspired by these leaders in the secular press. Nay, verily, look at the action of their own General Conference to one of our own commissioners, who dwelt where the Conference sat and was never for once requested to take a seat on the platform, not even when our own formal delegates were most formally received. Nay, more, for fear of whom the very rule was enacted which forbade the introduction of any but official representatives to the Conference, and who was ignominiously refused admission to the delegate door of the Conference by the usher, who knew him as well as the sexton of his own church did. Not until the delegates of that Church apologize for the insults steadily thrown through the whole of that session at one of our own Cape May Commissioners, over whose decisions they shouted so warmly, should they be allowed to appear before our own General Conference.

Not in bitterness or in the least hardness of heart do we write this. No one (and they know it perfectly well) would rejoice more heartily than myself at real fraternity; but a sham fraternity, a fighting fraternity, a murdering fraternity that smites under the fifth rib, while it smilingly strokes your beard, from all such, good Lord, deliver us. We are in the South, gone there not of our own motion in a single case, but by appointment and order of the Church. We have gathered there much people, a Church there already half the size of this rival and hostile body, more in numbers than their own if we include the other Methodist Churches in the South that affiliate with us, and who would have to leave that country if we left it.

Let us stand by our own preachers and people, by our own martyrs who have fallen for no other offense than belonging to our Church. "I am a Methodist," said a brother seized by the Ku-lux in Texas, in a vain effort to escape their deadly clutch. "I am also a Methodist," replied the leader of the gang of murderers from behind his mask. Perhaps the Texas Advocate can give us his name. "Shall we be fraternal to our own Church in the South?" asked the New-York Advocate once in an editorial leader. The anwser will be given at Cincinnati in the way we treat those who represent our persistent and malignant foes.

Remarkable Human Works.

Nineveh was fourteen miles long, eight miles wide and forty-six miles round, with a wall one hundred feet high and thick enough for three chariots to go abreast. Babylon was fifty miles within the walls, which were seventy-five thick and one hundred feet high, with one hundred brazen gates. The Temple of Diana, at Ephesus, was four hundred and twenty feet to the support of the roof. It was one hundred years in building. The largest of the pyramids was four hundred and eighty-one feet in height, and eight hundred and fifty-three feet on the sides. The base covers eleven acres. The stones are about sixty feet in length and the layers are two hundred and eight. It employed 320,000 men in building the labyrinth in Egypt, and it contains three hundred chambers and twelve halls. Thebes, in Egypt, presents ruins twenty-seven miles round. Athens was twenty-five miles round, and contained 350,000 citizens and 40,000 slaves. The temple of Delphus was so rich in donations that it was plundered of $50,000,000, and the Emperor Nero carried away from it two hundred statues. The walls of Rome were thirteen miles around.

The Louisiana Republican Platform.

The Republican party of Louisiana presents these fundamental principles of policy, to which it pledges its hearty support, and a due consideration whereof it asks from the people of Louisiana:

1. We hold that our Government is national in its character, composed of States free in their sphere, but subordinate to the National Government and united by indissoluble bonds of union.

2. We hold that it is the privilege, right and duty of the National Government to extend its protecting arm so as to guarantee a free Republican form of government to each State.

3. We hold that no government of the people, by the people and for the people can exist when the ballot is not free; nor when the will of the people expressed by the ballot is changed by a fraudulent and corrupt return.

4. We hold it to be the right and duty of the National Government to protect the labor and industry of its citizens from competition with the products of the pauper and slave labor of foreign nations

5. We hold that it is the right and duty of the National Government to improve the rivers and harbors of our nation, and especially of that great inland sea, the Mississippi, and its tributaries.

6. We hold that it is the right and duty of our National Government to provide for a Southern transit to our Pacific coast and generally to assist in the construction of such main lines of transit through the nation as will enable the producer to procure a market for his surplus products, and render more free and more frequent the water communication of the citizens of the Republic.

7. We hold that the National Government should at once take the necessary steps to strike from all of our treaties the clauses therein which place one and all upon the basis of the most favored.

8. We hold that it is the right and duty of the National Government to encourage foreign commerce in our own bottoms by a judicious system of appropriations and subsides.

9. We hold that it is the bounden right and imperative duty of the National Government to secure by all means the construction of a canal or other system of transport across the Isthmus of Darien and to insist with all of its power that no non-American nation or nations shall have a predominating influence in the management thereof.

10. We hold that the honor of our State and the honor of its citizens as well as their national interests are pledged to an attempt in good faith to pay the State debt represented by the consolidated bonds issued under the constitutional amendments approved and ratified by the people in 1874; and we further hold that in our opinion that ordinance constitutes a valid contract binding upon the State.

11. We hold that if misfortune and financial ruin should at any time prevent a full and rigid compliance with the letter and spirit of our bonds, that then a settlement should be sought after consultation with our creditors as our equals, which shall at the same time be just to them and commensurate with our resources.

We hold that the judiciary department of our Government should be kept free and unpolluted by the turmoil and contest of politics, and recognize that there may be and is at all times an honest difference among the most learned upon proper construction of constitutional and statutory enactments, which honest difference of opinion necessarily leads to different political affiliations. We hold that each of the great political parties should be respected upon the bench.

Resolved, That the recognized position of the Republican party as the party of good faith, honest dealing and devoted adherence to the principle that the rights of public creditors must at all hazards be fully and fairly protected, demands that the vote of our party should as a unite be cast against the debt ordinance of the proposed constitution.

Resolved, That as to the adoption of the constitution, we recognize an honest and legitimate sphere for difference of opinion, and recommend that the question of adoption or rejection of the proposed instrument be left to the voters.

The platform was unanimously adopted.

The Great Master.

"I am my own master!" cried a young man, proudly, when a friend tried to persuade him from an enterprise which he had on hand; "I am my own master!"

"Did you ever consider what a responsible post that is?" asked a friend.

"Responsible—is it?"

"A master must lay out the work which he wants done, and see that it is done right. He should try to secure the best means. He must keep on the lookout against obstacles and accidents, and watch that everything goes straight, else he must fail."

"Well."

"To be master of yourself you have your conscience to keep clear, your heart to cultivate, your temper to govern, your will to direct, and your judgment to instruct. You are master over a hard lot, and if you don't master them, they will master you."

"That is so," said the young man.

"Now, I could undertake no such thing," said his friend. "I should fail, sure, if I did. Saul wanted to be his own master, and failed. Herod did. Judas did. No man is fit for it. "O Lord, Revive Thy Work."

As the season of the year approaches which, in Methodist churches, is usually devoted to special revival efforts, it becomes us to inquire what we are doing and what we can do for the advancement of this gracious work. How many, if they were to answer the first question correctly, would be compelled to say: "I am doing nothing to promote a revival, and nothing, indeed, in the way of direct personal effort, to save the perishing. I do not speak to men about the salvation of their souls; and my religious life is such that I hardly dare to speak to them." And how many more would have to say: "I have not done all I could. I have prayed for a revival, and have, on very rare occasions, uttered a word of admonition to the unconverted, but I have neglected many opportunities to speak to them—even to those nearest to me and over whom I have the most influence."

Such confessions of coldness and inactivity in the work of God are conclusive evidence of the need of revival, and show plainly where it should begin. It is a humiliating and startling fact,—a fact so common that it almost ceases to be startling, that the church itself often becomes so cold and dead, spiritually, that it can do nothing to rescue the perishing until it is first "quickened into newness of life." The class-meetings are neglected, the seats in the prayer-meeting are nearly empty, the closet is deserted and family worship has become a thing of the past. In the preaching services of the Sabbath, things are not much better. Formalism is eating the very life out of public worship, and driving hungry souls from the sanctuary; insomuch that the strain most fitting to be sung, is:

> "In vain we tune our formal songs.
> In vain we strive to rise;
> Hosannas languish on our tongues,
> And our devotion dies."

It is plain that a church in this condition is not supposed to be very efficient in the awakening and conversion of sinners. But suppose, dear reader, that happens to be the condition of your church and mine, which is not improbable, or more to the point, suppose it properly describes your spiritual state and mine; then, the question is, What shall we do about it? or, as stated before, what can we do to promote a revival of the Lord's work in our midst? The first thing we can do is to pray as did the prophet Habakkuk: "O Lord, revive thy work." But it may be that we have been accustomed to offer that prayer so habitually, that even it has become a part of our formalism. We have been offering it for the Church as a corporate body, and not for ourselves as individuals. It is not much use to pray for a general revival until we are sure it has begun in our own hearts. It is necessary first, to pray for ourselves personally: O Lord, revive thy work in my heart. It must begin there, before we can do anything for others.

But it is not enough to simply pray for a revival. We must begin to work for it immediately. The first earnest wish of a revival, to be of any use, must be accompanied with direct, personal efforts to lead men to Christ. In is not necessary (unless you are wholly backslidden) for you and your church to wait for a special baptism of power before you go to work to save sinners. We know the common theory is that a cold church must first get together and confess and pray until they receive the "power," before they go out after sinners. The confessing and praying may be essential, but they should take place in connection with personal entreaty to sinners, who are often the very first to whom confession is due for past indifference to their salvation. The power from on high is certainly essential, but the best way to get it is to go straight about the Lord's work, which has been neglected so long.

It is said in support of the theory of revivals mentioned above, that even the disciples were commanded to tarry at Jerusalem till they received power from on high. But the dispensation of the Holy Ghost had not yet begun when that command was given. The Spirit had not been poured out upon the people. But we are in the very midst of that dispensation. The Spirit is always at hand, and [illegible] in us if we are not entirely backslidden. Moreover, it by no [illegible] appears that the disciples did [illegible] else while they were waiting and praying for the descent of the Holy Ghost.

[illegible] therefore believe that the [illegible] a church must spend a [illegible] in preparation before [illegible] the proper work of re[illegible] a mistake. If a man has [illegible] has not wholly [illegible] he has enough [illegible] and to see [illegible] duty [illegible] get [illegible] during of his own spiritual life will surely come as he works for Christ. The quickest way to get our own souls revived is to seek to bless others. "The best of all means of grace is lending a hand to help others out of sin and out of danger." In nine cases out of ten it is the lack of this personal work for others that produces the spiritual leanness and need of revival in the church.

You may feel very unworthy and incompetent for this work, but it is no use to stop to take an inventory of your spiritual graces before going to work for Christ, and for souls. If you are converted yourself, and want to see others converted, go right about the work of pleading with them to be reconciled to God, and in that very act your soul will be wondrously warmed, and your prayer for a revival in your own heart will be most speedily answered. In the providence of God some souls, those nearest you in business and neighborhood relations, and in the family, are under your personal influence. It may be that a word of earnest, prayerful entreaty, spoken by you, would lead to their salvation. It may also be true that if you fail to speak that word they will be lost, and in the day of judgment their blood will be found in your skirts." How important, then, that you should speak that word immediately. The time is short, and men all around us are perishing for lack of personal sympathy and effort to save them. May God help us then, not only to pray for a revival, but to work for it, and work NOW.

Great Destruction of Church Property.

Rev. J. Matlock, Presiding Elder of the La Teche District, Louisiana Conference, was in the city last week to meet the Conference Board of Church Extension, and to lay before it the sad effects of the late terrible storm, which destroyed five churches and two parsonages on his district.

On New Iberia and Thompson circuit two churches valued at $2000 were both wholly destroyed, and the people are without places to worship.

At Cypremort a fine two-story brick church 36x50, and an excellent parsonage, which together at at a low valuation were worth $3500, were both almost entirely destroyed. The church was all blown down except the walls of the lower story. The parsonage, though badly wrecked and roof partly off, and removed from its foundation, is not entirely destroyed.

On Jeannerette circuit two churches were wholly destroyed, and were valued at $2500.

The parsonage at Franklin, valued at $300, was blown down.

Besides the above, the church at St. Martinsville was blown from its foundation, and the belfry and bell blown off; and the church at La Teche was blown from its foundation and partly turned around.

Rev. J. Gould, Presiding Elder of the Baton Rouge District, also reports one church blown down and another unroofed, on his district.

Both of these brethren presented the sad facts to a meeting of the Louisiana Conference Board of Church Extension, which was held in the office of the SOUTHWESTERN last Thursday, and recommendations were made for assistance to various societies where churches have been destroyed amounting to $1125. These recommendations will be forwarded at once to Rev. Dr. Kynett, in Philadelphia, with the hope that the Board of Church Extension can grant the end.

The Dead Senator.

Hon. Zachariah Chandler, United States Senator from Michigan, retired to his room in the Grand Pacific Hotel Chicago, on the night of the 31st. He had just delivered one of his usual forcible and eloquent speeches to a delighted audience of that city. Next morning, according to instructions, a messenger knocked at his door to awake him for an early morning train, but received no answer. Forcing open the door he discovered that the Senator was dead. Assistance was summoned and the body was found to be warm. The soul had taken its flight some three hours previous. The face was calm, indicating that death was painless and without a struggle.

He was born at Bedford, New Hampshire, Dec. 10, 1813. Removing to Michigan after attaining manhood he was elected mayor of Detroit in 1851, and U. S. Senator to succeed Lewis Cass in 1856. He served successive terms until 1875, when J. P. Christiancy was elected. Having served as Secretary of the Interior, during President Grant's administration, he was elected to fill the vacancy caused by Senator Christiancy's resignation and took his seat Feb. 22, 1879. His services in the Senate during the war; his management of the campaign of 1876, and his stirring speeches of a few weeks past, made him a conspicuous figure in American politics. An able, vigorous leader, blameless in private and official life, all Union loving men, as well as some of his chivalrous opponents will mourn his loss.

A coroner's jury concluded that death was probably the result of cerebral hemorage. President Hayes issued his proclamation ordering the closing of departments and public offices throughout the country, and the display of flags at half mast on the day of the funeral.

The last sad rites were performed at the Grand Pacific Hotel on the morning of the 2d. Rev. David Swing officiated. The remains were escorted to the depot by three companies of the First Regiment, 200 veterans, a detail of cadets and a large number of friends. A special train with a committee headed by ex-Gov. Bagley, conveyed the remains to Detroit.

Week of Prayer for Young Men.

The International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, held at Baltimore last May, representing one thousand associations with a membership of one hundred thousand, recommended the observance of the second Lord's day of November and the week following as a season of thanksgiving and of special prayer for God's blessing upon young men and upon the work in their behalf. The World's Convention at Geneva, Switzerland, in which eleven nations were represented by 250 delegates, made a similar recommendation, so that in all parts of the world this season of prayer will be observed.

The International Committee suggest the following topics for meetings each day in the week.

Nov. 9, Sunday—Agreement in Prayer Encouraged. Dan. ii: 17-23; Matt. xviii: 19, 20.

Nov. 10, Monday—A Moral Young Man Weighed and Found Wanting. Mark x; 17-22.

Nov. 11, Tuesday—The Son of a Godly Father Who Went Astray. II Chron. xxxii: 33; xxxiii: 1-13.

Nov. 12, Wednesday—A Man Prospered Beyond Precedent, but Unsatisfied. Eccl. ii: 1-11; John iv: 8, 4.

Nov. 13, Thursday—The Secret of a Young Man's Success in Business. Gen. xxxix: 1-6, 22, 23.

Nov. 14, Friday—A Highly-Favored Man and his Terrible End. Matt. x: 1-4; Luke xxii: 3-6, 47, 48; Matt. xxvii: 3-5; Acts 1: 18-20.

Nov. 15, Saturday—Opposite Choices of Young Men. Heb. xi: 24,26; Gen. xiii: 10-13.

The committee have issued a circular to pastors, asking their cooperation and requesting if practicable a sermon to young men on Sunday, Nov. 9th, and such other observance of the following week as they deem desirable. Last year the season was generally observed; a large number of sermons to young men were preached; many special services were held, and most encouraging reports of good results were received from ministers and associations.

Accompanying the circular is a brief statement of the importance of the work intrusted to the committee. Among the 800,000 railroad men, the 60,000 young men in colleges, the 100,000 commercial travelers, the 500,000 German-speaking young men, the 500,000 colored young men, and the large number of young men in the West and South. In all but one of these fields they have a secretary whose special business is to organize and stimulate wise effort on the part of Christian young men in behalf of their unconverted companions. The workers in these associations are mainly the young men in whom the churches have most confidence, and their aim is to do such work as will commend itself to the churches, to parents, to business men, and to the young men themselves.

During the past year a number of general secretaries have been secured for leading cities principally in New England and the South. At the railroad conference in Altoona, Sept. 18-21, one hundred and sixteen delegates were in attendance, and during the year the number of railroad secretaries increased from six to twenty-one. In our various colleges the number of associations during the same time have increased from thirty-seven to sixty.

A wide field of usefulness is open to these organizations, and each year their effort is more distinctively in the direction of definite work by young men for young men.

Gov. Nicholls has withdrawn all quarantine proclamations; and the Board of Health of Galveston will permit passengers from New Orleans to come by vessels provided they have certificates that they have not been exposed to infection.

Rev. E. G. Taylor, D. D., of Providence, R. I., has declined the call of the Tremont Temple church, in Boston. Much disappointment is felt in consequence. Dr. Taylor was formerly in charge of Coliseum Place Baptist Church in this city.

Our South'n Methodism

MISSISSIPPI.

John Gaston, Handsboro: "Have closed meeting at Ocean Springs; baptized 4 and received 5 into the church. Sunday-schools are doing finely. The Lord is with us."

J. C. Skinner, New Midway and Good Hope circuit: "When I came here in Feb. 1879 I found the people much confused in mind. Since there has been better times. The presiding elder visited me twice, but failed on third round on account of sickness. In regard to conversions some of my churches have not done well, but others manifest the presence of the Lord. I have now closed a protracted meeting with 37 converts and 5 accessions."

I. N. Stewart, Cumberland: "We concentrated our forces at Pine Chapel, three miles west of here, and an attack on the enemy was made Sept. 27, by J. P. Louis and H. C. Louis, with much effect. After a little rest it was recommenced by L. C. Deazor. The enemy seemed to be fortified, but the walls gave away on the 28th. The sacramental board was spread, a goodly number came forward and partook. On the 29th I lead the battle and some came forward for prayers; and on the 30th under L. O. Crowder, more followed. Oct. 1st a shout of victory was heard on the Lord's side, and on the 2d eight were captured, five conversions. Our missionary Sunday-school is in good condition."

TENNESSEE.

J. Summerhill, Hillsboro: "I have closed my protracted meeting at Southerland Chapel. It was the greatest ever held at this place, and lasted a week; 17 converts, and 20 joined the church."

James Pickett: "My last quarterly conference was held the 4th and 5th of October. We had a glorious time; 130 took the sacrament on Sunday night. Joined the church this year, 95; 58 received in full fellowship. There will be 25 or 30 more taken in the first opportunity. The Lord has blessed our labors this year. I am trying to bring up my collections. I will complete repairing our church next week. I want to say to the brethren of the Tennessee Conference, please leave your wives and horses at home."

Rev. Eli Provine, Alexandria circuit: "I want to say through your columns that I have had protracted meetings all around my circuit with good results. At Mt. Zion, one week's protracted meeting, 11 professed faith in Christ, 8 joined the church, 6 received in full fellowship. At Cherry Valley, one week's meeting, 13 professed hope in Christ, 8 joined the church, 5 in full fellowship. At Liberty, one week's meeting, 8 professed religion, 6 joined the church. At Alexandria, 11 professed hope in Christ, 10 joined the church. Total conversions this fall 43; the conference year 61. We are in great need of a church building at Alexandria. I am trying to bring up all my collections."

TEXAS.

L. Callaway, Lovelady: "Our presiding elder was with us and about 300 were present, and 29 baptized. We were delighted with Elder Shackleford. Our Baptist friends say the Methodists must be right."

C. B. Berry, Lockhart: "We are well pleased with our preacher in charge, Rev. J. R. Carnes. We will do all we can to have him on the work next year, and expect Elder Carper to assist us. Our troubles have been as follows: 1. The church was blown down. 2. We had to re-erect it. 3. Purchase a bell. Rev. Mack Henson was with us Sunday, Sept. 28, and preached a glorious sermon in Salon Chapel. We gave him $7 or $8, and would have done more but he came unexpectedly."

ARKANSAS.

C. A. Tabor, Rob Roy circuit: "We are at work here, having doubled our membership, and will soon complete two churches. We will more than double the number of our periodicals. The brethren here the first half of the year were colored; and all are now except five who joined since I came here. Money has been subscribed for a horse and saddle. We are having a hard struggle; for all we gain we have to contend with the A. M. E. Church and the Baptist, but the Lord has given us such victories that they are now trying to keep their members out of our reach. Our dear Bro. I. G. Pollard, P. E. is now sick at Duvall's Bluff. Will the church pray for his speedy recovery. I have a hard time getting acclimated."

The cholera has prevailed to a fearful extent in the Province of Kurndon, India. 10.000 people have fallen by it.

Letter from Holly Springs.

MR. EDITOR—Holly Springs is no longer quarantined, and business has greatly revived and increased in almost every department of industry.

Shaw University opened most favorably. Over one hundred students have already been enrolled. The president W. W. Hooper, and his lady having spent the summer North, returned, and with earnest zeal are laboring for the interest of our people. Prof. Hooper is the right man in the right place. Long may his life be spared to work for God and humanity.

On the night of the 17th inst. at Asbury Chapel, Mr. Geo. W. Seals and Miss Sarah E. Williamson, were joined together in matrimony, Miss Fry presided at the organ, and Rev. J. M. Shumpert performed the ceremony, after which a grand reception was given them at the residence of Mr. Alex. Seals. It was one of the grandest reception we ever witnessed. On the 19th inst. Mr. Pat Hereford to Miss Harriet McClatbey, was united in matrimony, the pastor officiating.

On the 19th inst. we baptized 6 persons, two of whom Jos. Watson and Capar Pamer were over 75 years old. J. M. S.

Letter from Shreveport.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 21, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—It affords me much pleasure to write you a few words concerning our third quarterly conference, which was held last Saturday and Sunday, to give you all the facts. It was a good conference, and to speak for the church, I feel that the Lord is on our side. The love-feast Monday night was a delightful occasion. The speaking of many of the members, young and old, showed that all are growing in the knowledge and love of the blessed Lord. The collection was as follows: Missionary and benevolent, $23; presiding elder, $10; church and porter, $15; total, $40. Mrs. Minerva Williams and F. Thomas, two of the sisters, made the church a present of a fine sofa for the pulpit, worth $12, which was appreciated. I am closing out this conference year with love and harmony with my members, and I ask your prayers. Yours in Christ,

H. T. O. ABBOTT,
Pastor St. James Church.

Letter from Corpus Christi.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 4, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—There has been but little to write about on my work before this. Coming here I found six members out in the country about ten miles from town in a very poor settlement. They will decrease, because they cannot stay there. The white people steal everything they make, and are not punished for it.

In Corpus Christi we have eleven members and a good Sunday-school of sixteen children, and three good teachers. The superintendent, Mr. Holt, is a very intelligent man. Our work will grow if the right man comes here next year.

My trip to Brownsville was a success. I organized a membership of eight, with 38 children in Sabbath-school — 18 colored, and 20 Mexicans. I left all under control of Argyle Wilson, who was licensed by me as a local preacher at that place. JAS. HENDERSON.

The G. G. A. O.

MR. EDITOR—A visit was made by the various tabernacles of the G. G. A. O., to Wesley Chapel, Sunday, Oct. 23. It was conducted by the Past Worthy Superior, Wm. H. Culter, of Venus Star Tabernacle No. 3, and the W. S. of the Mosecle Tabernacle No. 2, Moses Glunison. Rev. M. E. Brower introduced Rev. Marcus Dale to the tabernacles. Rev. J. R. V. Thomas opened by singing and praying. Preaching by Rev. M. Dale, from Exodus 40: 34. The collection received from one to six o'clock was $30.85. REV. G. BELL.

West Tennessee District Conference.

DEAR EDITOR—I hope you will allow space in your valuable paper for an abstract of the West Tennessee Conference.

The West Tennessee District Conference convened in Scott Chapel M. E. Church at Galloway's Station, Fayette Co., Tenn., for its 17th session, the 22-23d days of October, 1879, at 9 o'clock a. m. The presiding elder, W. S. Butler, in the chair. Eight pastors answered to their names on call of the roll, and there was a good attendance of local preachers, exhorters, Sunday-school superintendents, class leaders and district stewards. Rev. Jesse P. Price and J. D. Hay were chosen secretaries; J. B. Bradford and C. E. Alexander statistical secretaries. The conference agreed to adjourn to finish up its business on the eastern part of the district. The presiding elder's report was very encouraging—showing that the entire district was in a very good condition, both financially and spiritually. The pastors all made good reports of their charges; giving the financial and spiritual status of their works. The local preachers, exhorters, class leaders, superintendents and stewards all made excellent reports of their labors this year. At eleven o'clock a. m. Thursday, Rev. J. D. Hay and C. E. Alexander preached the missionary sermon. The text was the eighth verse of the second chapter of Haggai, "The silver is mine and the gold is mine," saith the Lord of hosts, after which $8 was raised on missions. C. L. Fields and Jack Robinson were licensed as local preachers. Rev. L. M. Moors addressed the conference on the subject of electing a colored bishop. At the conclusion of his remarks the writer offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this District Conference that the Methodist Episcopal Church shall place in the Episcopal chair a man of African descent.

The meeting was a grand success, both social and literary, and the Lord was with us. His spirit was felt in all our hearts, quickening and awakening new zeal and love for Him. The success of the meeting is largely due to the devotion and energy of Bro. Butler, the presiding elder, in looking after the interests of his district.

J. P. PRICE, Secretary.

Report of Committee of Sunday-Schools and Missions—Whereas, The Sunday-school is the nursery of the church and should be used as a great spiritual power in the church. Therefore, that our preachers are required to organize schools wherever the disciplinary number of children can be found. Resolved, That all our Sunday-schools should be supplied with our own literature. —Jesse D. Hay, Jesse P. Price, J. B. Bradford.

Periodicals. — Your committee would urge upon our ministers and local preachers to make it part of their work to circulate our church literature, both in the form of standard works and periodicals, endeavoring at least to put one of the latter in each family.—Jesse P. Price, J. D. Hay, J. B. Bradlord.

Temperance. — Whereas, As our last General Conference took decided grounds against the use of fermented liquors and the use of tobacco in any form, especially among our ministers, and Whereas, We, as a body of Christian ministers see the great necessity of temperance among our people, therefore Resolved, That we will preach against intemperance, making ourselves the example of our congregations—Jesse D. Hay, Jesse P. Price, J. B. Bradford.

Fraternity in Texas.

A correspondent in the New York Advocate speaking of the late session of the Rock River conference, held in Chicago, says:

The next notable topic is Dr. Brush, of "the empire of Texas," over the northern half of which the indefatigable Doctor is the presiding elder. His mission at the North just now is to raise money for the Church at Austin, the capital of this "empire;" in which work he is, of course, successful. He gave the Conference a glimpse of the South-side view of Fraternity by referring to the case of a local preacher of the M. E. Church, South, who intruded himself into a meeting in one of the Texas towns called for the purpose of organizing a Methodist Church of the original name and style, and in a vehement speech declared that "we Southern Methodists ought to put our feet on the necks of these Northern Methodists who come down here to set up their Churches side by side with ours."

There is, however, a brighter side to this shield. In private conversation Dr. Brush stated that at one of his grand camp-meetings in Northern Texas during the past summer, which continued eighteen days and at which about six hundred souls were converted, one of the presiding elders of the Southern Church, who at first opposed the meeting, afterward became friendly when he found four of his own children among the crowd at the altar. Another seeker was a backslidden local preacher of the Southern Church who, being cut to the heart, came forward for prayers. He knelt down by the side of Dr. Brush, put his arms about him and began to pray thus: "O Lord, help me to love this Yankee! They say this is a Yankee movement, but we believe thou art here in power. O Lord save me to-day."

At the close of his supplications Dr. Brush inquired:

"Brother, is all on the altar?"

Deliberately the penitent backslider took out his pipe and laid it down; then three plugs of tobacco from three different pockets, which he laid down beside his pipe, and then he said, "I'm ashamed to have you see how much I've got, but it all must go." And having laid this last darkling sin at the feet of Jesus, he was, says the Doctor, "wonderfully blessed."

Foreign Missions.

OCTOBER MEETING OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS. — Bishop Harris in the chair. Members present, Drs. Wise, Tuttle, Crawford, Curry, A. S. Hunt, Dunn, Sanford, Hurst, Merwin, Kettell, McAllister, Van Horne, Thomas, Brice, Fowler, Buckley, Goodsell, Beach, Tiffany, Saxe, Weed and S. Hunt. Messrs. Falconer, Taft, Howe, Forrester, McLean, French, North, Oakley, Seney, Reynolds, Stout, Phillips, Cornell, Price, Slayback and Hamilton.

The following members were elected to meet with the General Missionary Committee Nov. 5, at 9 a. m. at Mission rooms: Ministers—Drs. Foss, Brice, Crawford, Kettel, A. K. Sanford and A. S. Hunt. Laymen—Hoyt, Hamilton, Ferry, French, Cornell, Stout. Alternates — ministers — Drs. Miley, Weed, Goodsell. Laymen—Parker, Fuller, Howe. The corresponding secretaries reported as the result of their observations that we will probably not fall much if any behind our receipts for last year They also reported the arrival of Rev. J. R. Hykes, of Kin Kiang, China, and that our missionaries abroad are generally in good health, except Rev. J. A. Messanore, of India, who will be obliged to return to this country.

Rev. C. L. Bare, under appointment for India, is expected to leave for his field about Nov. 15. Rev. Umpeby and wife, with Miss Warner, are expected to leave for Mexico on the steamer of November 1. A minute in the case of Mrs. Maclay, lately deceased, was presented, and ordered on the record. E. A. Stone, Esq., was nominated as Indian Agent for Fort Hall.

Rev. Pastor in charge, of Denmark, was telling us that two women of ours in that country, in order to reach the quarterly meeting love feast walked 15 miles in their heavy wooden shoes, and had to walk the same distance in returning home again. He gave us another item novel in its character, and one probably that has no parallel. Seven years ago there were but three Sunday-schools in Denmark—they were under our care—now there are 33, and among us and the Southerners the 34th was gotten up recently by skeptics and infidels. What they are to teach had not transpired when he left for America.

The postoffice address of Rev. G. H. Adams, the superintendent of our missions in Arizona, is Prescott, Yavapia Co.

Rev. Karl Schou, the superintendent of our missions in Denmark, having permission to take a sea-voyage for his health, arrived in New York, Wednesday morning Oct. 22.

Rev. Wm. Butler, late superintendent of our missions in Mexico, is expected to arrive in the city Nov. 2d or 3d.

One of our missionaries in Arizona writes that he must pay 75 cents per pound for butter, $7 to $9 per hundred pounds for flour, sugar 20 cents, milk 20 cents per quart, cabbage 10 cents per pound. Kerosene $1.50 a gallon.

Religious Items.

Bishop Wiley and Dr. Rust attended the Holston Conference at Knoxville, Tenn., recently.

A party of twelve Carmelite nuns, whom the people of Guatemala had grown tired of and driven away, have recently established themselves in a vacant cottage in Riversdale Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y.

Rev. J. Kekela, for 24 years a missionary on the Marquesas Islands, was in San Francisco, and left for Honolulu on Wednesday. He possesses a gold watch, presented to him by President Lincoln for saving the mate of the American whale-ship Congress, in 1864, from the cannibals, who had already bound him, and intended to cook and eat him.—Pacific Methodist.

Letter from Granada.

GRANADA, Miss., Oct. 30, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—Last Sunday I held my first quarterly meeting, fourth round, on the Deasonville circuit, which is composed of one little church of about 75 members. The day was not fair, and owing to political excitement in Yazoo county, causing much confusion among the people, our congregation was very small. About forty or fifty had assembled about 2 p. m., and after services $17 subscription for missions was paid me, and the Sunday-school Missionary Society paid me $9.50, the amount collected in the Missionary Concerts, making $26.50 for missions—good for Deasonville, Rev. Jas. Holmes pastor.

Yours truly,

L. BRADFORD.

The City.

The Republican parish convention met on Monday, October 27, and elected W. H. Green permanent president; appointed a committee of three on nominations from each ward, and adjourned subject to call.

The public schools will continue during the months of November and December. The board of school directors are unable to guarantee the payment of teachers' salaries for those months, and do not know when they will be paid, if ever. So well is this known that brokers refuse to to take claims for for salary for those months at any price. Many of the teachers will be compelled to borrow car fare or walk to their posts of duty, and impoverish themselves without any reasonable hope of remuneration. It is by such shameless imposition upon the weak that our officials will be able to record that the law was complied with, and that the city has a system of public schools.

The Political Situation in Louisiana.

The progress of the political campaign in Louisiana bring to light many points of general concern. NOV. 9, 1879.—THE PERFECT SAVIOUR.

SCRIPTURE.—1 John 1: 1-10. Memorize 5-9.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin."—1 John 1: 7.

TOPIC.—Christ our Atonement.

[Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.]

Perfectory—The rest of the lessons for this year are from the writings of John "the beloved." The first four verses of the chapter state the reason and purpose of the epistle. It is not what he has heard from another, but what he has seen and heard himself, of which he speaks. The subject concerning which the apostle testifies he designates by different terms. 1. That which was from the beginning. No apostle seems to have had a conception of the divinity of Christ as did John. He dwelt in loving awe upon those qualities that proved him to be equal with the father. 2. The Word of life. At his word the sick were healed, and at his word the dead shall come forth. And by his word many now who are dead in trespasses and sins are raised to life eternal. Eternal life, which was with the Father. And in this expression it is made evident, even before he calls Christ by the name, that he refers to the Son. Hence it was that Christ could pray: "Our Father, glorify thou me, with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was." Next, let us look at the certainty of John's testimony. He set forth in detail the fullness and accuracy of his experience. Which we have seen with our eyes. Which we have looked upon. 4. And our hands have handled. In this is a plain reference to the challenge of Christ after his resurrection to his terrified disciples, "Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself; handle me, and see; for a spirit hath no flesh and bones, and ye see me have." Luke 23: 39. What is the purpose of the testimony of John? The apostle states two reasons for giving his witness. 1. That ye also may have fellowship with us. Fellowship is that companionship between persons which results from intimate and cordial relations. The best basis of human brotherhood is fellowship with the Father and with the Son Jesus Christ. That is undying, tender, and strong. 2. That your joy may be full. There is no other way by which one may obtain joy that is full and lasting than by communion with Christ. The soul that is at peace with God can not do otherwise than experience joy. Joy is the very essence of Christianity.

Walking in the Light (5-7).—What the apostle now has to say comes in the form of message. What was the "message?" 1. That God is light. He who comes to God comes into the light. And in him is no darkness at all. To walk in darkness is to walk in sin. The text asserts that there must be a correspondence between the profession and the life—that fellowship with God is inconsistent with living in evil. Acts speak louder than words, and they give the lie to all such professions. There are two results of walking in the light. 1. We have fellowship one with another. That implies, of course, that we have fellowship with God; for that is the bond of Christian brotherhood. 2. And the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin. We must not only recognize the fact that we are sinful, but make confession—we must not only confess that we are sinful in the abstract, but must avow the particular sins that have been bringing us, and the cause that we represent, in dishonor. The confession here intended is a confession to God, to whomsoever else a confession [is] due, and also includes the putting away of the sins so acknowledged. [He is] faithful and just to forgive us [our] sins. There is every encouragement to keep nothing back from [him]. If we say that we have not sinned, that does not alter the fact. [illegible] get rid of the [illegible] and yet all the [illegible] making progress toward [illegible]. We make him a liar [illegible] in his Word, [illegible]

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The American Missionary for November notes the distribution of the Peabody fund in the South.

We are indebted to D. Lathrop & Co., Boston, for the October number of the Boston Book Bulletin.

The National Temperance Advocate for November (58 Reade street, New York, $1 per year) is filled with good things.

The Nineteenth Century for October (Geo. Munro, New York, $2.25 per year) has "Modern Atheism and Mr. Mallock," by Miss L. S. Bevington, "Flogging in the Army," by Archibald Forbes, "The New Departure in Indian Finance," by Henry Fawcett, M. P.; "Baptism," by the Dean of Winchester; "Recent Science," by Prof. Huxley; and "The Olympian System versus the Solar Theory," by Gladstone.

The Fortnightly Review for October (George Munro, New York, $2.25) contains J. A. Froude's "South Africa Once More;" "The Channel Islands," by G. S. Lefore, M. P.; G. J. Romane's "Reply to Fallacies of Evolution;" "Parliamentary Government in America," by Horace White; "The Conflict of Laws," by Frederic Harrison, and other articles of interest.

The American Antiquarian, (Jameson & Morse, Chicago, $3 per year,) for the third quarter, opens with a paper on the "Antiquity of the Tobacco Pipe in Europe," by E. A. Barber; following is "The Religion of the Clallam and Twana Indians," by Rev. M. Eels; "The National Museum of Mexico, and the Sacrificial Stories," by A. F. Bandelier; "Sources of Information as to the Prehistoric Condition of America," by Rev. Stephen D. Peet, the editor, and others.

The International Review for November (A. S. Barnes & Co., New York, $5 per year) has articles on "The Paris Salon," by Ch. Gindniz: "The Darien Canal," T. W. Osborn; "The Use and Abuse of the Pardoning Power," by Russell Gray; "The Art of Casting in Plaster among the Ancient Greeks and Romans," W. W. Story; "The Dawn of Better Times," Robert P. Porter; "Victorien Sardou," J. Brander Matthews; Contemporary Literature and Recent English Books. The Review is abreast with modern thought, and a most welcome visitor.

From Ludden & Bates' Southern Music House, Savannah, Ga., we receive a copy of Pulaski March, written by Prof. Henry Shoeller, of Dalton, Ga., for the Savannah Centennial, October 9th, 1869, and played by the Thirteenth U. S. Infantry Band at the laying of the Jasper Monument corner stone. Its title page with lithograph of the magnificent Pulaski Monument, of which Gen. Lafayete laid the corner stone in 1833, is worthy of framing and will make a tasteful souvenir of this Southern Centennial. The March is not difficult. Send 40 cents for a copy.

The Popular Science Monthly (D. Appleton & Co., New York) for November opens with a portrait of Dr. Asa Fitch, the distinguished New York entomologist, lately deceased. Prof Langley, in the first paper, shows that nearly all we know respecting the constitution of the sun has grown up within the last nineteen years. He is confident that solar engines will come into practical use, and the sun's heat now wasted in the region of the Adirondacks alone is more than equal to all the steam-power at present in the world. Professor Vilain writes on "The Diseases of Wild Animals," and corrects the common impression that the state of nature is a state of health. Researches of Prof. Cooke's; a biographical analysis of John Stuart Mill; Ocean Meteorology, and a reply to "The Fallacies of Evolution" are among the other interesting papers. $5 per year; single numbers, 50c.

The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending October 25th and November 1st, contain: Dieppe Church Quarterly; The Supreme God in the Indo-European Mythology; A New Picture of the Czar; and The Problem of the Great Pyramid, Contemporary; Among the Druses in Syria, Blackwood; A Tragic Idyll of Modern Life; Madam Bonaparte; Egliston and Brignal; New Zealand Affairs; Is Wealth a Help to Popularity? Spectator; Tails, Nature; Miss Keary's "Doubting Heart," conclusion of "Letters of a German Gentlewoman of the XVth Century," "Godfrey's White Queen," Poetry; and the opening chapters of Mrs. Oliphant's new story, "He who will not when he may." Now is the time to Subscribe for the new year. To all new subscribers for 1880, the numbers of 1879, which contain Mrs. Oliphant's new story, will be sent without extra charge, subscription $8. Littell & Co., Boston.

Appleton's Journal (D. Appleton & Co., New York—$3 per year) for November contains extracts from the "Memoirs of Madame de Remusat," the appearance of which is the literary event of the day in France. Madame de Remusat was maid of honor to Josephine, with whom she remained from 1802 to 1808, and so followed her in her imperial fortunes. There are numerous other interesting papers, notably one on "The Malakani," a sect of so-called Spiritual Christians of Russia, which describes the striking features of their mode of life and their belief. An essay by Anthony Trollope, entitled "A Walk in a Wood;" a critical essay on recent biographies of Charles Lever and Theophile Gautier; a paper on the dramatist and poet Otway; an article by Matthew Browne, based on the recent publication of the Napier correspondence, with Macaulay, Brougham, and other Edinburgh Reviewers; a description of [illegible] Antwerp; and the conclusion of "Vivian the Beauty," and of "The Seamy Side."

Marriages.

At the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. H. J. Wright, by the Rev. Julius F. Marshall, of the M. E. Church, Alexandria, La., Wednesday evening, Oct. 22, 1879, Mrs. Virginia Rankin to Mr. Alto Mitchell. A large number of invited guests were present and enjoyed themselves.

REGULAR READER.

POSITIVE RESULTS. There are numerous remedies that cure sometimes and become trusted as useful, but none have ever proved so effectual—cured so many and such remarkable cases, as Dr. Ayer's medicines.

The Cherry Pectoral has restored great numbers of patients who were believed to be hopeless affected with consumption.

Ague Cure breaks up chills and fever quickly and surely.

Ayer's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla eradicates scrofula and impurities of the blood, cleanses the system and restores it to vigorous health. By its timely use many troublesome disorders that cause a decline of health are expelled or cured.

Ayer's Pills and their effects are too well known everywhere to require any commendation from us here.—Scranton (Pa.) Times.

Library of Universal Knowledge.

Volume two of this excellent, economical and extraordinary work, was issued October 25th. Its 736 neatly printed and well bound pages contain a wealth of knowledge, covered by the alphabet between the words Arundel and Biron, such as, it is safe to say, was never before procurable for the trifling sum of 50 cents! The 20 vols. complete, containing over 40,000 distinct articles, and nearly as many more incidentally mentioned subjects, with complete index, are sufficient of themselves to afford a liberal education to any one of limited resources. They are finding their way into the hands of hundreds of thousands whose love of knowledge has exceeded their power to buy it at the great prices charged for Cyclopedias heretofore published in this country, none of which equal this in the amount of matter given. Volume three will be ready in November, and the remaining volumes will appear about two each month thereafter. The publishers will send a specimen volume, which may be returned if not wanted, to any part of the United States, for the price, in cloth, 50 cents, half morocco, 75 cents, or on extra fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $1.00. Their catalogue of standard publications will be sent free on request. American Book Exchange, Publishers, 53 Beekman street, New York.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desires it, this receipt, in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Bogus Certificates.

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, etc., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well known valuable remedies, that furnish its own certificate by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See "Truths" and "Proverbs," in another column.

PREVENT YELLOW FEVER.

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable to system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventive. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventive and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents. 33 13t

A girl of 14, "with a cough From Infancy," radically cured.

RICHMOND, Va., April 2, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—My niece, fourteen years of age, had been subject more or less to a troublesome cough from her infancy. After some persuasion I induced her parents to try your "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY," and now, after using three or four bottles, I consider her entirely cured; appetite, color and vigor restored, and she goes about cheerful and happy, looking the very picture of health. I regard it as the best remedy I have ever known used for bronchial affections of the throat.

DANIEL E. GARDNER.

A Gentleman, who was not expected to live but a few weeks, cured of desperate Bronchitis and Diseased Lungs.

DE VILLIER'S INSTITUTE, 212 N. 12th street, Richmond, Va., March 8, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—I arrived in this city with my family in December, 1877. I was in a complete state of exhaustion and debility, in consequence of long suffering from an affection of Bronchiæ, or of the lungs, or rather say both. I was not expected to live but very few weeks or months at the most. In March, 1878, to please my wife, I consented to try the "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY." I had no faith whatever in it, or any other medicine. I had absorbed dozens of Cod Liver Oil without effect. I soon became convinced of the merits of the Remedy; it gave me, after a few doses, a sound rest at night, it regulated the bowels, it subdued the severe fits of coughing occasionally followed by spitting of blood, and gave me great relief. It is a soothing cordial, an excellent purifier, and an unsurpassing regulator. I am now living and doing well. I make daily 6 or 7 hours class (hard teaching). I have taken in all 5 or 6 bottles. Perhaps I ought to have taken a few bottles more. I wish it was in my power to induce every poor sufferer to try one bottle. It will speak for itself at once. You can use my name freely, and refer any one to me personally, if you think I can have any influence in the matter.

Very truly yours, CHARLES DE VILLERS.

Lectures on Preaching

Delivered before the Theological Students of Yale College.

By Rev. Matthew Simpson, D.D., LL.D.

(One of the Bishops of the M. E. Church.)

Cloth, 12mo. Price.........................$1.50

These admirable Lectures embrace the following topics, delivered in the order here stated:

Lecture I. The Nature and Work of the Christian Ministry.
Lecture II. The Call to the Ministry.
Lecture III. The Preacher Personally.
Lecture IV. Indirect Preparation for the Pulpit.
Lecture V. The Preparation of a Sermon.
Lecture VI. The Delivery of a Sermon.
Lecture VII. Ministerial Power.
Lecture VIII. The Influence of the Pastorate on the Pulpit.
Lecture IX. Collateral and Miscellaneous Work.
Lecture X. Is the Modern Pulpit a Failure?

It is needless to say that these topics are treated in a masterly manner—clearly, forcibly, practically; as becomes both the gravity and importance of the subjects discussed, and the reputation of their author as a "workman who needeth not to be ashamed." No minister should be without them, as none can carefully and thoughtfully read them without profit. In them there is nothing showy, but they present the ripe fruit of the matured thought of a long period of ministerial usefulness and oversight. They are weighty, well-considered teachings.

This book will be sent by mail on receipt of price. Address,

Ecclesiastical Law,

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

— BY —

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.

Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations. —Author's Preface.

ROSEBUD.

O little maid in your rosebud-bower,
Dreaming of growing old,
Wishing youth always would linger, a flower
Never in haste to unfold;
Lift up the shadow your sunshiny head,
Growing old is nothing to dread.

O little maid in the rose-tree shade,
See how its dry boughs shoot!
The green leaves fall and the blossoms fade;
But youth is a living root.
There are always buds in the old tree's heart,
Ready at beckon of Spring to start.

O little maid, there is joy to seek—
Glory of earth and sky—
When the rosebud-streak fades out of your cheek,
And the dewy gleam from your eye:
Deeper and wider must life take root;
Riper and higher must glow its fruit.

O little maid, be never afraid
That youth from your heart will go—
Reach forth unto heaven, through shower and shade!
We are always young, while we grow.
Breathe out in a blessing your happy breath!
For love keeps the spirit from age and death.

—Lucy Larcom, in St. Nicholas.

A Singular Cat Story.

A queer cat story comes from Preston, Conn. A farmer had been troubled with rats for some time, and finally purchased a cat that was recommended as a good mouser. The cat sustained its reputation, and rats were soon unknown in the house, and the farmer congratulated himself greatly. His dreams of freedom were dispelled [illegible], however, by the cries of the servant girl, who said that on going down cellar where the cat [illegible] in its noonday re[illegible] saw a large rat eating out of the same dish with the cat, and solemnly averred that when she went toward them the rat [illegible] and made her run up[illegible]. The cat, she said, seemed to enjoy his company, and appeared as if charmed by the rat, just as [illegible] charm a bird. The farmer would not credit the story [illegible] he saw the same thing a day [illegible] afterward. He allowed the [illegible] to exist for sev[illegible], the rat coming regularly [illegible] of meals with the cat. [illegible] the farmer decided to put [illegible] to the singular friendship, [illegible] a gun went to the cellar. [illegible] however, had he fired [illegible] it than the cat jump[illegible] and killed it. Now [illegible] wants to know why the [illegible] kill the rat before.

[illegible] Your Boys.

[illegible] boys that a true lady [illegible] in calico quite as fre[illegible] as in velvet. [illegible] them that a common [illegible] education with common [illegible] is better than a college [illegible] without it. [illegible] one good, hon[illegible], well mastered, is worth a [illegible] "professions." [illegible] that honesty is the [illegible] better to be [illegible] on the profits [illegible], and point [illegible] by the example of [illegible] now suffering the [illegible] to respect their elders [illegible] as they expect [illegible] they cannot [illegible] to protect the weak [illegible] that to wear patch[illegible] no disgrace; but to [illegible] that God is no re[illegible] and that when He [illegible] commandment, [illegible] them as well for [illegible] that by indulging [illegible] in the [illegible], they are [illegible] to become [illegible] girls. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the Southwestern. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the Southwestern.

Mr. Editor—I want to learn something about my mother. Her name was Esther Spouds. She was living in Guinett Co., Ga., near Lawrenceville. My name is Parmelia Scales. If found address me at Hillsboro, Coffee Co., Tenn., care of Rev. J. Summerhill.

Dear Editor—I wish to make some inquiry about my uncle, John Pinkard. I left him in Bradley Co., Arkansas, in 1865, on the Saline river. Mother's name was Betsey Pinkard. She belonged to Tom Pinkard, was brought to Texas in 1863 and died in 1864. Address me at Groesbeck, Limestone Co., Texas.

B. F. Pinkard.

I wish to inquire for my three sisters. They were taken away from McMinnville, Tenn., about thirteen years before the war. My father, Willis, belonged to John Lusk. Mother's name was Ann Lusk. Sisters' names were Martha Alesa and Hulda. Address me at Hillsboro, Coffee Co., Tenn., in care of J. F. Summerhill.

Mary Richard.

Dear Editor—I wish some information about my two brothers and one sister—Dolpbus, Francis and Carlo Troidle. My brothers and one of my sister's sons, James Troidle, was taken from Rutherford Co., N. C. They formerly belonged to Squire Bob Troidie. They left in 1865. Address me at Hillsboro, Coffee Co., Tenn., in care of J. F. R. W. Summerhill.

Alfred Troidie.

Dear Editor—I want to hear from my son, Lewis Hickerson. When last heard from he was at Como, Panola Co., Miss. His father's name is Harrison Thompson. He left Manchester, Coffee county, Tenn., in 1863. A daughter, Victory, was sold from same place in 1865, to Dr. Singleton. When last heard from she was at Fairfield, Bedford Co., Tenn. Address your mother at Hillsboro, Coffee Co., Tenn, care Rev. J. Summerhill.

Jennie Rutlege.

I wish to inquire about my father, Alford Cravers. He used to belong to Press Craves, near Leesburg, Maryland Co., Va. Mother's name was Sidie Ann. She belonged to Jack Tippett. She was the mother of three children, Leatha Ann, Henderson and Sampson. I was brought to Makerry Co., Ala., by a Mr. Kepthard, a trader. Address me at Hillsboro, Coffee Co., Tenn., in care of J. R. Summerhill.

Anaster Richardson.

I want to know something about my father, Sias Anderson. He used to belong to Charley Henderson, near Murfreesboro, Tenn. He was sold South and shortly afterwards I saw him going North. The last time I heard from him he was at Indax, Canada. Mother's name is Sarah McGill. She used to belong to David McGill, near Murfreesboro, Tenn. She had three children, Sarah Maude, Pleasant Riley and Francis. Address me at Hillsboro, Coffee Co., Tenn., in care J. R. Summerhill.

Pleasant Riley McGill.

I wish to inquire about my father, mother and sisters. Father's name was Robert Brown; mother's Anna Richards; sisters Maria and Mary, and a brother, Silas. I was sold from Cumberland Co., Va., three miles from Jamestown. I lived at Rose's Tavern. I belonged to the widow Ferguson. Sister Mary belonged to Warner Price, and was taken by James Bartley to White Co., Tenn. I was formerly called Nancy Ferguson. Address me at Hillsboro, Coffee Co., Tenn., in care of J. F. Summerhill.

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates.

Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your Iron Tonic, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

THE GENUINE

WORM SPECIFIC

OR

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

The countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine Dr. McLane's Vermifuge bears the signatures of C. McLane and Fleming Bros. on the wrapper.

—:o:—

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine.

As a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Each box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression Dr. McLane's Liver Pills.

Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLane and Fleming Bros.

Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

Lovelaceville, Ballard Co., Ky.

Messrs. Craddock & Co.:

Gentlemen:—Please send me twelve bottles of Cannabis Indica, one each of Pills and Ointment, for a friend of mine who is not expected to live; and as your medicines cured me of Consumption some three years ago, I want him to try them. I gained fifteen pounds while taking the first three bottles.

Respectfully, J. V. HULL.

N. B.—This remedy speaks for itself. A single bottle will satisfy the most skeptical. We know that it positively cures Consumption, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Pills and Ointment, $1.25 each. Address, CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia.

Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic, and other poisonous minerals form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinism, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. Ayer's Ague Cure thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, Ayer's Ague Cure, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

(Successors to R. V. PIERCE, M. D.)

Dr. R. V. Pierce, having acquired a world-wide reputation in the treatment of Chronic Diseases, resulting in a professional business far exceeding his individual ability to conduct, some years ago induced several medical gentlemen to associate themselves with him, as the Faculty of the World's Dispensary, the Consulting Department of which has since been merged with the INVALIDS' HOTEL. The organization has been completed and incorporated under the name and style of World's Dispensary Medical Association, with the following officers:

Hon. R. V. Pierce, Pres. F. D. Pierce, V. Pres. Jno. E. Pierce, Sec. Lester B. Smith, Treas.

NINE PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS of eminence and skill have been chosen as the Faculty.

CHRONIC DISEASES of all forms come within the province of our several specialties.

LUNG DISEASES.—This division of practice is very ably managed by a gentleman of mature judgment and skill. Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Diseases treated with the most successful results.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—Especially are our facilities of a superior order for the cure of all those chronic diseases peculiar to females.

NERVOUS DISEASES.—Paralysis, Nervous Debility, Epilepsy (Fits), Chorea (St. Vitus's Dance), Neuralgia, and other nervous affections, receive the attention of an expert in this specialty.

NOT NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.—By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases as successfully without as with a personal consultation. For particulars see "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" (1,000 pages, sent post-paid for $1.50) or "Invalids' and Tourists' Guide Book" (100 pages, 10 cents post-paid).

SURGICAL CASES.—Among the operations which we are called upon most frequently to perform, are those for Nasal Polypus, Harelip, Tumors, Fistula in Ano, Piles, Hernia (Rupture), Hydrocele (Dropsy of the Scrotum), Varicocele, Ovarian and Uterine Tumors, Calculi (Stone in the Bladder), Strictures, etc., etc. We also treat successfully, by a new method without surgical operation, Cancers, Club-feet, Spinal Curvature, and other deformities. (See pamphlet entitled, "Motion as a Curative Agent," sent on receipt of 10 cents.)

Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. (For conditions, see pamphlet wrapping bottle.)

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures, as if by magic, and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhœa, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing-down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, and Female Weakness. I do not extol this medicine as a "cure-all," but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm, in any state or condition.

Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of over 900 pages, sent post-paid, on receipt of $1.50. It treats minutely of those diseases peculiar to Females and gives much valuable advice in regard to the management of those affections.

COMPANIONSHIP WITH JESUS.

BY MRS. MARY D. JAMES.

Oh, blessed fellowship divine!
Oh, joy supremely sweet!
Companionship with Jesus here
Makes life with bliss replete;
In union with the Purest One,
I find my heaven on earth begun,
Oh, wondrous bliss, oh, joy sublime,
I've Jesus with me all the time!

I'm walking close to Jesus' side,
So close that I can hear
The softest whispers of His love,
In fellowship so dear.
And feel His great almighty hand
Protects me in this hostile land.
Oh, wondrous bliss, oh, joy sublime,
I've Jesus with me all the time!

I'm leaning on His loving breast,
Along life's weary way.
My path illumined by His smile,
Grows brighter day by day;
No woes, no fears, my heart can fear,
With my Almighty Friend so near.
Oh, wondrous bliss, oh, joy sublime,
I've Jesus with me all the time!

I know His sheltering wings of love
Are always o'er me spread;
And though the storms may fiercely rage—
All calm and free from dread—
My peaceful spirit ever sings:
"I'll trust the covert of His wings."
Oh, wondrous bliss, oh, joy sublime,
I've Jesus with me all the time!

Church and Baptist Church. The former endeavors to undermine us in some cases. In that they go to our people where they are, just building up and telling them they are the M. E. Church, or that our church is run by white bishops and and presiding elders, and theirs are run by colored bishops and elders. And they tell our people in some portions of this State that the schools that we have in the South are theirs. The latter are always trying to proselyte our members into their church; or when we are holding protracted meetings the Baptists are ready to run down in the rivers and creeks with our converts. And again about every tenth male member these Baptists have goes for a preacher, and I think all of them are drunkards, or they all drink whisky. I think it would puzzle any one to find one out of every ten of them but what have two or three wives. Now then, we have all this to counteract—therefore it gives us hard work. Notwithstanding this, we are in the lead. I have some very rough country to travel over. I have traveled 1640 miles since I came on this work in keeping up the work. I preach three times almost every Sunday, and ride from fifteen to twenty-five miles. Notwithstanding the local disadvantages we have on my work, we intend to close up this conference year with a decided progress of the work. We have had an increase up to date of 35 members. We are hard at work trying to raise our assessments for benevolence. The SOUTHWESTERN is a regular visitor in my family circle, and also among my members. I am making preparations for its fall canvass. Yours respectfully,

G. W. SAMS.

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., Sept. 29, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I beg leave to publish through the columns of the SOUTHWESTERN the success of my labors on this (Attala) circuit. We have had meetings in progress for the past four weeks on this circuit, and just closed last night, with 47 accessions so far on the circuit. There were left at each church on the circuit quite a number of mourners who seem to be very anxious about their souls. There were 46 infants baptized during the year. Rev. W. R. Walker assisted me, and has accomplished great good. Our best wishes attend him, and may the blessing of a kind Providence crown his labor, and accession upon accession be added to the cause of Christ through his preaching of the Gospel. We had a Sabbath-school celebration at this place, Mount Zion, on the first of August. Five of the Sunday-schools met and read by heart from 4 to 500 verses of Scripture. Rev. J. G. Johnson, presiding elder of Holly Springs district, was present. It was an interesting occasion—about 800 present, and all giving such good attention to the cause. Both white and colored expressed themselves as highly pleased with the management and speech of Prof. R. H. Alston, who was so kind as to give his assistance.

Our Sunday-schools are well attended, have good officers and are doing excellent service. We have had Mount Zion Church re-covered and some improvement made on all the churches of this work.

Oh, my colored brethren of the South, turn your eyes toward them and behold the providence of God, who wills that you should be free, indeed. Turn your ears, and from amid the church and college walls, as out of the womb of the future, hear the voice of coming generations bidding us to effort in their behalf. Of the past they indicate what God and humanity have wrought in our behalf—in the future they will furnish the index of our own accomplishment. One generation builds another. Environed as we are with such adverse circumstances, we can only hope to do the work of pioneers and circumscribe the bounds, fix the [illegible], remove the rubbish, and prepare the soil for seed. Let us gather the stones, and lay the foundation, and leave to them the work of erecting the superstructure of their greatness and glory. This is all we can hope to accomplish, and [illegible] faithful to perform it [illegible] will rise up and [illegible] blessed. Your [illegible]

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 21, 1879.

DEAR BRETHREN—As you are bringing your protracted meetings to a close for the time being, in which God has so abundantly blessed your labors, in footing up the list of converts, so far we are certain of a very large increase—not less than seven hundred precious souls have been converted to Christ in this district alone, and not less than a thousand added to the church. Our Sabbath-school work has also prospered greatly this year. The regular attendance has been wonderfully increased, and, perhaps, no time in the past has there been a greater thirst for knowledge among our young people. The Shaw University opened its last session with a much larger number of students in attendance than it has for many years in the past. Our church paper and periodicals have had a much wider circulation and have been more universally read and appreciated by all classes of our fellow citizens. We have also succeeded in building several neat and comfortable chapels, and settled many debts of long standing against some of our most prosperous churches. But, dear brethren, let me remind you that the finishing touch of your year's work remains to be done, namely; the yearly collection enjoined upon us by the discipline of our church as well as our most sacred baptismal vows. The great numerical strength added to to the church in your district this year, warrants financial improvement. Not less than five hundred dollars should be collected from your work this year. We have had no yellow fever to disturb the harmony of our work this year; we have suffered no material damage from Kansas fever; we have been blessed with an average cotton crop, which is now rolling into your markets, and now is the time to strike for Christ and His church. God is entitled to the first fruits, and it is our imperative duty to gather them into His storehouse. We are assured that He will aid us in procuring the balance that may be due on our own salaries. Let the third Sabbath in November and the second Sabbath in December be set apart, when a suitable sermon shall be preached in each church of your several charges, and let the subject be plainly and urgently set before the people. Tell them that it is their imperative duty to respond in such amounts as God has enabled them to give. Commence at once to give notice through your local preachers, exhorters, stewards and committee on estimation to your several congregations, and let subscriptions be taken of all who are inclined to subscribe, and do not forget our SOUTHWESTERN. Let all be done prayerfully, and you cannot fail. The notice of our Second District Conference will be held at Granada Dec. 19. We sincerely hope that each member will be present.

Letter from Calvert.

CALVERT, Texas, Oct. 22, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I noticed an article published in the ADVOCATE of October 9th,—the Houston letter. This letter appeared to me to attempt to assail the Rev. W. L. Molloy, presiding elder of the Navasota district. To commence with, it says that the men who undertake to write to the SOUTHWESTERN ought to be men of good memories.

Now, sir, Mr. Molloy only did what you and I would have done had we been presiding elders recommending our districts. Mr. Molloy never as much as mentioned the Houston district, in fact any other district in Texas, but simply said that the Kansas fever had broken out all over the work, and that they could not see through; and, sir, I bear him out in the assertion.

Bro. Molloy has been a faithful presiding elder for the last eight years to my knowledge, and by this time he surely knows the demands of the colored people of Texas. But as for Bro. Cushman I know not. But one thing I do know, and that is, he is not known outside of his district in Texas, and he has not expressed the popular feeling of the people of Texas. How could Bro. Cushman express the feelings of this people, when up to his writing he had not been in the State twelve months? I say, Mr. Editor, as I have said heretofore, neither Texas nor any other State south of Mason and Dixon's line is the place for the black man. The gentleman has done Elder Molloy great injustice; but, Mr. Editor, I am not writing for argument's sake, but only from a Christian standpoint. In conclusion I will say that every week some colored families pass through Calvert, either in wagons or on the train, en route to the promised land—Kansas. And if the Kansas fever runs as high on the Navasota district as it does in this county, they are red-hot to leave.

Cotton crops in this county doing far better than we at first expected. Corn 55 cents a bushel.

I am truly yours,

J. W. ROBINSON.

Letter from Ripley.

RIPLEY, Miss., Sept. 12, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—By this letter I desire to let you know how we are getting along in the northern part of Mississippi. Times are very hard indeed here, but notwithstanding, we are doing the best we can can for our blessed Master. We commenced our protracted meeting at Mount Olives, 9 miles north of Ripley, Aug. 10. We continued 10 days, which resulted in 13 converts. Among them was an old man about 60 years of age. I tell you there was great joy in that place. The Christians all feel men again. We left because the Lord gave us success.

On the 24th of August we were found at Mount Zion, 9 miles west of Ripley, in a protracted meeting where our second quarter was to be held on the 30-31st of August. So the time came and the brethren were there. In the absence of the elder we held the conference. Wm. Parks and J. F. Griffin acted as secretaries. The pastor reported 6 Sunday-schools, which are doing very well, and he had preached three times to the children and catechised them regularly; received into the church 3, added 6, converts 10, excluded from the church 1, children baptized 8, a room had been added to the parsonage during this quarter valued at $25, a stove valued at $10 put into it by two girls, Cinda Thurman, 14 years of age, and Eter Miller, 13 years of age. Both of them are members of the Sunday-school, and we hope and pray that ere long they will be members of the church. There has also been a well 20 feet deep dug at the parsonage.

The brethren of St. Paul, Mount Olives and Mount Zion reported their work in a living condition and there had been some improvement on the Mount Zion church. We are doing very well spiritually. After the quarter our meeting held over till the first Sunday in this month, resulting in 5 conversions. The good work still goes on. Your paper is welcomed every week. Pray for us. J. M. NEVILS.

Letter from Vicksburg.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Oct. 18, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—When I arrived here I found the church in a dilapidated condition. The members were scattered, and but few attended. The discipline was scarcely enforced. I found only 80 or 90 members of whom any account could be given. The church was in debt near $200, the members poor and destitute on account of the epidemic, and in fact everything seemed to be on the retrograde. We put the church record in proper shape, called the members together and arranged them in classes. They thought themselves unable to treat a pastor as he ought to be, but agreed to do the best they could. A small supper was given clearing near $30, which was paid on the debt. We then held a protracted meeting, resulting in 10 conversions and 40 probationers. Then the parsonage was repaired, and supplied with furniture, and during this time our probation list reached 60, beside some received in full connection. At the end of a few months on account of the exodus they were considerably in the rear with the pastor's salary, so in order to keep the work moving they turned to the relief of the pastor, and up to date only owe $28, on last month (Sept.) A few days ago we paid forty-seven dollars on the church debt, and up to date only owe fifty dollas, and will be able to pay it in 30 days if nothing happens. We have with us one local preacher, Bro. Tobias Clark who has been very faithful in aiding the pastor in his duties. We found no exhorters here, but have licensed two since entering the work. Our church is doing very well in this place considering there are six other colored churches in the city. We are preparing to commence with the dollar plan Monday, for raising missionary money. Besides the amount we expect to raise for Shaw University. Now I hope by the time I write again, I will be able to make a better report. Yours

D. D. GOODWIN, P. C.

TEXAS.

BY L. H. CARHART.

Had Bishop Peck bent his keen eye and massive step southward, instead of northward, recently, surely the wheels of his logic and exhortation had gone entirely ablaze! Our hearts respond amen, and yet again amen, to every utterance and urgency onward thither, for some of us know from actual sight how grand the field, how great the need—the half was never told! But, oh, for another magnetic bishop, to sweep in like manner our vast Southwest, duplicating all that can be said of the Red river of the North, plus a climate and range of possibilities vastly grander and better! Here, too, our toilers find a ready response to well-directed labor, and our gospel a field and foemen worthy of her steel. Our battle line has not been shaken at a single point, and is still advancing.

Daugherty was sent to the old classic, historic, border city, San Antonio, ten months since, with orders to take the position as did Ethan Allen the border fortress, and he has done it. His strength already outnumbers the old occupant. His church, finely located, is under cover, and the funds in sight with which to finish. Our Porter is also bishop from the Colorado to the gulf, and other fields are white and waiting.

Dr. Brush, the Nestor of the Southwest, is bringing the brick and mortar into comeliness, and lifting the ponderous and unfortunate Austin enterprise out of the dust. A beautiful and central site in a large and growing city, wealthy, healthy, and the capital of an empire! We must conquer and establish, cost what it may in men and treasure.

Botkin, at Weatherford, seventy-five miles west of Dallas, the Bismarck of the Southern Pacific, finds a people and an open door and sends for a model of one of our best churches, with a view to its early duplication there. Webb, whom the fearful winters of Minnesota had nearly protrasted, has completed a good church, out of debt, gathered nearly a hundred souls into membership, and stands ready to hand over the keys to the next.

Dallas continues to be the principal city of North Texas, and our fine tabernacle, completed three years since in the midst of tribulation long to be remembered, stands at the front of living agencies, and is now in the midst of revival work. Bro. Armstrong is pastor.

Grant is closing his third term profitably at Lawrence, and though we have suffered much by removals and failure of crops, the record is good.

Haney, one of the Northwestern favorites, and the Timothy of the conference, has gathered at Sherman a fine congregation, led a goodly band of souls into the kingdom, and made "St. Paul's," the least and latest born, the first and best.

Denison, the gate city northward, has a population of six thousand, and one of the best and neatest churches in the state. Our conference (Austin) will meet there Nov. 20. The society embraces the Methodism of the city and stands at the front. Bro. McBride, of Wisconsin, has "supplied" profitably and pleasantly the past year. An indefinite area called the "circuit" is ridden by Bro. Walker, one of Wisconsin's veterans, and the ground well broken for a fearful harvest.

Foland, one of the boys from Drew, with a slender purse, a helpful wife, and Methodist faith and courage, ventured one hundred and ten miles into the interior, and now reports eleven appointments, and work for four, embracing two or more counties, and begs an assistant, already sent.

Allen has occupied the picket-line, or, rather, a signal station, thee hundred miles west, at Clarendon, the seat of the new Christian and temperance colony in the Pan Handle. Lengthening our cords we pre-empt and claim the entire scope from Kansas to the Colorado, and from the territory to New Mexico, for the Master and for Methodism. Several preaching-places, from twenty to seventy-five miles, will be occupied next year. A banner has been planted, about which a dozen good families now and an annual conference will in future rally.

The "Austin" is the last of four conferences in this state, embracing some two hundred preachers and thirty thousand in membership. The Germans are all alive, and the colored work is doing well. Not a man has failed or fled, though some have been reduced to a crust of bread. The drought and short crops have hurt us badly. Our people are poor, and too widely scattered to be much in contact or sympathy. Self-denial is the law of life. Men of faith, balance, resources and experience, who can live in heaven and work on earth, are the only stamp available South. Yet our voice is unanimous for more solid men, solid backing and solid work in a "solid South" next year. We are north of the line where bulldozing and ostracism pays a large profit, but we are in close contact and sympathy. Two hundred miles south the exodus fever rages, and our pastors are not inclined to discourage the movement where means is in hand to prevent distress or charity. In violence and fraud the old slave districts abound. Oh, for a substantial peace! We need a more inflexible administration. Multitudes from Texas echo the voice and spirit of San Francisco. Let us have Grant for the next president. We have been fooling with foolery long enough. Every true American, blue or gray, North or South, has long since accepted the situation; but there is a class of men in the South void of science, honor or decency. They must rule or ruin. Standing low in the scale of civilization, they place a light estimate upon human life, and a high value upon false honor, a bogus aristocracy, and gun-powder. They have been pardoned without repentance, and many of them placed in power unworthily. They are the soulless center of all the bloody bulldozing and ku-lux outrages from Bewley to Chisholm, Calder and Dixon; and being yet organized and armed for darker deeds of blood and violence, most richly deserve the political and eternal damnation so swiftly approaching. All true men stand aghast with these oft-repeated scenes of horror. Murderers and assassins, members of cliques and rings, escape justice. Prosecution by law is nearly hopeless in many places. The negroes are, many of them, escaping in despair, as well they may. Others, whose name is legion, will not fly except for better reasons than accidents of birth or diverse religious and political opinion. Are we a nation? Have we law? And shall we not have a national and state executive who can and will give even-handed protection and justice, and bring to sure and certain punishment these hoders of knighted mid-day and mid-night assissins, even though it cost the service of army and navy? For long existing insult and abuse there has been the exercise of patience and apology unparalleled. Outraged humanity demands an end of this. Let it cease by the might of right, or give us the next scene in a drama.—Northwestern.

The Methodist Quarterly and the Modern "Exodus."

BY ROBT. ALLYN, D. D.

This vigorous old Quarterly, so profound and learned as to the old foundations of truth, and nevertheless so sharp and wide awake to the new issues and tendencies of to-day, has an article in the October number which deserves the attention of statesmen, philanthropists, economists and leaders in educations, religions and morals. It is by Dr. J. C. Hartzell, of Louisiana, and is written with an evident painstaking and conscientious candor, which could only spring from an honest purpose in the breast of one who has had and improved remarkable opportunities for observation, coupled with an enlightened conviction of the right in the case in hand.

Dr. Hartzell has been long in the commercial and social metropolis of the Southwest. He is a preacher having had a wide range of travel, as well as a scholar of thoughtful culture. He is also an editor, shrewd and far-seeing, well informed, in charge of an influential weekly newspaper, which has correspondents in all the parishes of that section. He has been acclimated to the region both by yellow fever and by mental and moral sympathy for the two mutual and interested races; and when he speaks it is only natural that he should speak with a weighty authority. What does he say concerning the restlessness among the Freedmen which is resulting in a wonderful movement of the Negro or African element in the South, a migration called in all months, "The Exodus," in allusion to a wonderful movement three thousand years ago, which has changed the whole history of the world; a movement already known to everybody and which ought especially to be feared by the Southern States far more than cholera or yellow fever? Will this exodus change the future as that did the past? What does he say?

In substance, there is widespread determination on the part of the intelligent, the thriving and the hopeful Negroes to remove from the South; this is already quite well organized, and is constantly becoming more perfectly manageable; it has its origin in two causes chiefly, both due, and blamably so, to the leaders of the South—the one a persistent plan, shrewdly worked by the dishonest and unscrupulous, to deprive the Negroes of the legitimate fruits of their industrious toil, which could be made so profitable to themselves and to the whole country; the other, a still more persistent and defiant determination, executed with reckless boldness, to wrest from the Negroes their right to aid in, and, of course, to control sometimes, the election of their own officers by the people; and he says further even, that good Christian men and philanthropists, all through the South, do not protest against these things, and fearlessly combine to defeat these fraudulent designs. Two other causes appear less prominent now, but probably they may become more potent; these are a disposition to prevent the Negro children from acquiring a good education; and an attempt to keep the whole Negro population in a state of moral degradation. This population was, under the slave rule, an incentive to lust among the whites —witness the mulattoes. And the same baseness now plans instinctively to keep for itself similar temptations and opportunities. This cause gives intensity to all the others, and cannot, by the limitations of literature, be more than hinted. Here, too, Christian men of all denominations, are sadly derelict in duty. They have indeed done much to Christianize the Negro, but they have done too little in the past, and seem to be doing less now, to moralize, to socialize and to politicalize him—to use new words the meaning of which will be readily understood.

Dr. Hartzell more than proves all his positions; he demonstrates and enforces this truth, and all his arguments do but make prominent the fact that self-produced impotence, so utter as to excite pity, while it is confessed to be only a just retribution, must certainly await the South, if she allows the bulldozers to persist in their infamous work; and that along with this must come commercial and financial ruin and moral degradation, too humiliating to be contemplated without mingled sadness and indignation.

All this, unless the leaders change their methods and control public opinion and political practice in the interests of the poor quite as much as of the rich. And every wise statesman knows that a nation which does not take care of the welfare and education, the moralization and elevation in industry and frugality of its lower ranks —that base of the social pyramid where populations multiply fastest —is surely destined to ruin as apples are to fall. I lack time to say more.

I commend Dr. Hartzell's article for its candor, for its carefulness, for its full treatment of the one topic, and for its evident truthfulness as to facts and its timely warnings. It ought to be circulated in the South especially, and should make a deep and influential impression.

I observe with pleasure that he writes Negro with a capital letter fearlessly. I am glad the veteran editor and early-time abolitionist allows it so to be printed; but I regret that in Dr. Whedon's own book-notices the little letter comes into the gentile noun negro. The philological doctor should not condemn himself in that which he allows.—Central Advocate.

During the last brief extra session, new bills were introduced to aid the South, aggregating $110,000,000.

Sermons.

Sermons should be composed with the congregation always in view. They should not be simply discussions of subjects, strong arguments, elaborate in language and illustration; but the question should ever be profitable to the congregation? Will it reach the consciences of the stupefied and hardened? Will it arouse the careless and impenitent? Will it attract them to the cross of Christ? Will it solve their perplexities? Will it dispel their doubts? Will it impart comfort to the sorrowing ones? Will it lead the church to holy living and Christian activity? With questions like these, and with a single eye to benefit his people, the minister will compose a sermon not only excellent in itself, but especially suited to the needs of his people.—Bishop Simpson.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

This work, published anonymously, is an elaborate exposition of the most abstruse doctrines of Christianity. The Inspiration of the Bible, the Trinity, the nature and character of Christ, the atonement, Satan, conversion, or the new birth, the resurrection of the body, and the life everlasting — these great subjects and others related to them, are discussed therein with the skill of the advocate and the ardor of an apostle. The spirit of the book, moreover, is not narrow or dogmatic, but broad and candid; filled with consideration for honest doubt, which it aims to overcome; not by the weight of overbearing authority, but by the force of accumulated evidence.

The first division,—"A Supernatural Book," treats of the prophets, the supernatural nature of their utterances and their claims to direct verbal inspiration; quoting some of the most remarkable of the prophecies respecting ancient cities and countries, the most striking of those relating to existing nationalities, and the most explicit foretelling Christ and Christianity. The admitted facts of history wherein so many of these predictions are literally fulfilled, are there briefly set forth in language so clear, plain and forcible that the most skeptical cannot shut their eyes to the coincidences, however they may attempt to explain them.

This portion of the book, though doubtless containing nothing new to the theological student, puts the subject of the prophecies and their fulfillment into a condensed and popular form, calculated to fix attention, cause thought, and incite to study among persons less informed. Its object, to prove the authority and inspiration of the Scriptures, is ably promoted by that sub-division called the "Earth and the Bible," a most eloquent and ingenious argument intended to reconcile the Mosaic account of the creation with that written on the everlasting rocks. The great difficulty in this matter has always been the apparent inconsistency between the vast periods of time indicated in the geological record, and the express language of the Bible which limits the period of creation to six days—not six ages, but six literal days of twenty-four hours each. This whole difficulty, which has so long been the triumph of unbelievers and the stumbling-block of Christians, is swept away in this daring defense by an explanation as simple as it is skillful.

The phrase "In the beginning," argues this anonymous reasoner, does not mean six, nor sixty, nor six hundred thousand years ago, but in the beginning of time, when the earth was not. The correction of an error in the translation of the second verse shows the immense importance of linguistic accuracy; for, by the simple substitution of "had become" for "was" (the word used in the approved translation,) a vagueness in point of duration is indicated which is invaluable to the Christian geologist. Invaluable, indeed, because it admits of the hypothesis that during the indefinite period which had elapsed between the beginning, when the earth was created, and the point when it "had become a waste and a void, and darkness was upon the face of the roaring deep, and the Spirit of God was brooding upon the face of the waters," there had been ample time for all the changes in the earth's surface which geology shows to have taken place. At this period, after the earth had undergone these changes and vicissitudes, "had laid up in store-houses the geological deposits of granite and clay, of coal and oil, of salt and lime, of silver and gold—then it becomes a waste; then "about six thousand years ago God bade the darkness become light, rolled the waters back into the sea, and in six literal days clothed the barren waste with the verdure which now decks it, and gave to a scene of death the life that now breathes its air and walks its surface." The descriptive portion of this subdivision, showing the agreement between the geological record and the Mosaic account, is too ingenious and beautiful to be misrepresented by isolated extracts. It should be carefully read by every one interested in this great subject; and what thoughtful mind is not?

The second division is called "Supernatural Beings," and treats of the Resurrection of the Lord Jesus, the Three-One, Satan, and Prohibited and Permitted Spiritualism.

The Resurrection of Christ is thoroughly discussed. Beginning [illegible] examination into the character and competency of the [illegible] witnesses testifying to this [illegible] event, and giving the [illegible] of their testimony, the [illegible] on to the indirect [illegible] by the subse- [illegible] the disciples, [illegible] and people of [illegible]

[illegible] Boston; Lee & [illegible]

Jerusalem, and the institution of the Christian Sabbath; the whole forming a chain of historical evidence absolutely irrefragable except by counter-evidence of the impossibility of such an event. Fortunately for the hopes of mankind, this cannot be furnished, and Christ's resurrection remains as it has always been to the believer, "the crowning passage to his doctrine, the seal of truth upon all he promised, and the potent argument to the race that he was not a natural but a Supernatural Being"

That part of this division which treats of the Trinity is at the same time the subtlest and the soundest argument we have ever read on the subject. No summary can do it anything like justice — therefore none will be attempted in this article. Simply it may be said that whilst the mystery of the doctrine necessarily remains, its apparent absurdity, so revolting to many devout minds, is removed. It should be carefully studied by all Unitarians who are unable to give a reason for the faith that is in them.

In treating of Satan the author is less happy, giving as he does to the Prince of Darkness a power almost rivaling that of the Almighty. The final subjugation of this potent and malignant tyrant, and the divine aid always obtainable by the sincere believer against his machinations, are ably set forth as mitigations of the awful facts of his activity, his skill, and the perfect organization of his diabolic forces; yet it does seem that an exaggerated picture is given of Satanic influence.

The article upon Permitted and Prohibited Spiritualism is an impartial examination of the teachings of revelation regarding the existence of a spirit-world near us, and permitted communications with it through superhuman agencies, as contrasted with the puerilities, absurdities and immoralities of modern spiritualism. Of this the author says in concluding, "So far as there is anything supernatural in spiritualism, we can trace the system home to its fountain-head—the abode infernal. In the 'darkened circle' man stands in another world, face to face with supernatural and malevolent beings — demons."

The articles on Conversion, The Atonement and the Future Existence of Man, as affected by conscience, memory and the thraldom of character, including the doctrine of the unpardonable sin, are all written in the same spirit of impartiality, enthusiasm and implicit faith in the teachings of revelation which characterizes that portion of the work more fully noticed in this article.

On the whole, the book is one to be commended to the attention of the earnest, inquiring, devout skeptic—the man who, already worshipping God with his heart, by the cherishing of kind feelings toward his fellow men; and in his conduct, by the practice of justice, is struggling toward that worship of the intellect which consists in the study and acceptance of truth, and that higher worship of the spiritual nature which recognizes His fathership, and lives consciously in His presence.

Our Bishops in the South.

The yearly visitation of our Bishops to the Southern Conferences is looked forward to with interest. They represent the best wisdom and highest authority of the church, and their coming brings together the various Annual Conferences.

Bishop Wiley has just held the Holston Conference in Tennessee.

The following table gives the plan of Episcopal visitation to the South until next March:

Rev. Dr. Webster, presiding elder of Orangeburgh district, S. C., writes to the Mission Rooms: "One thing greatly needed, to aid us in the success of our work, is the abiding influence of Christian homes of comfort, neatness and culture. In this respect we are making marked improvement. Our preachers are making special efforts to get a copy of the Bible in every family. Our Sunday-schools are gradually improving, and our social meetings are well sustained."

Rev. Dr. H. Liebhart, editor of Haus und Herd, was married Oct. 30, to Miss Anna Dohrmann of Covington, Ky. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Guth, assisted by Dr. J. M. Walden.

Our South'n Methodism

MISSISSIPPI.

James Drayton, Brandon: "We have improved our church, built a new fence around it. Now have 22 members."

L. R. Brown, Kosciusko: "We have added 54 to the church, baptised 35. Meeting will commence at another point."

H. Wyatt, Hickory: "We had 12 conversions and 25 on probation. Bros. Faulk and Russell labored with me. The white people attended our meetings."

R. Hayes, Philadelphia circuit: "A protracted meeting resulted in 16 converts. Rev. W. Gallion gave earnest labor. Revs. Sanders, Seals and Houghton assisted."

Lee Clayton, Paulding: "My third quarterly conference was held with Elder Dunn present, W. A. Hearne, secretary. A large number received the sacrament."

R. McAlpin, Forest: "Have built a new church on my circuit, and held a meeting in it. Mr. S. M. Horn, a white man made us a present, which was appreciated."

L. W. Watson, Shuqualak: "Since Rev. C. W. Ivy has been here I believe he has done all he could for the church. I have visited all the schools under my charge, and found all but one prospering."

Miles Proctor, Smithville: "I have taken 95 members into the church this year. My circuit is 40 miles long, with 6 churches. At this place a meeting of three nights brought in 16 converts. At Quincy we had a fine time."

C. L. Crump, Batesville: "A protracted meeting at New Haven church, resulted in 33 converts, 22 probationers, and 13 baptized. Rev. B. White, of Southern church, preached once for me. Rev. J. Clements was with me part of the time."

G. W. Barrett, Meridian: "Rev. M. Adams gave us an astonishing temperance lecture. He told us to hold on to our purse when we were about to take a drink, so I say if you have a good name hold on to it for it is more valuable than gold, place or attire."

J. H. Cook, Pontotoc: "In ten weeks received 57 converts, 42 additions; baptized 27 adults, 29 children. Part of the circuit is prosperous. We now have a good house at Nebo, 24x32, completely furnished, and out of debt, Sabbath-schools are in good condition."

W. Hicks, Rankin: "The third quarterly conference was held at Evergreen, by Rev. R. Anderson, in charge of circuit. He has been faithful to his appointments. Sacrament was given to 67. Our protracted meeting ended with seven converts. A sabbath school was organized with 54 pupils."

G. W. Williams, New Prospect: "When I came into this county there was not a single Sunday-school. I talked to the people about it, and there are now ten. Nearly every one who joined the church this year belong to them. One never prayed until he joined a school, and now he is the leader of its choir."

W. H. Gallion, De Kalb: "At a four day's meeting I received 16 in full membership. It is admitted by white and black that I have drawn some of the worst young men in the country into the church. They propose to give me a first class suit of clothes for my labor. A good number have approved the dollar system for the next annual conference.

Miss Eliza Bennett, Enterprise: "New Hope Sabbath-school is in a prosperous condition, with 44 in attendance. Bro. A. C. Campbell is superintendent; Bro. James Price, Robt. Bennett and myself are teachers, J. May secretary. I have taught ten years. I am about to close a public school, and am trying to enlighten my people."

E. Graves, Meadville: "An out pouring of the Lord's spirit here resulted in one convert and one by letter from the A. M. E. Church, and seven accessions. We are following the instructions of our beloved elder, J. Campbell. Our people are very poor. The determination of our people to go to Kansas will diminish our finances some."

J. L. Wilson, Love's Station: "Our pastor has been absent about two months, and left the church in my care, since that time eight persons have been added to the church. I have just closed my protracted meeting. Hillery Atkins, fifty years old was converted. The Sabbath-school is in a prosperous condition; and we feel that we are going on to perfection!"

N. Cannon, Moss Point: "At Davis' Chapel on the fifth Sunday in August I organized a church with five members and a Sunday-school with an attendance of twenty pupils. Sept. 7th at St. Paul's M. E. Church I held a basket meeting. I received two members in the church, baptized one child, and raised $30.40 to repair the church. I now have five Sunday-schools on my circuit in prosperous condition."

L. R. Brown, Kosciusko: "I have had a memorable protracted meeting going on at each of my appointments, assisted by ministers of both the white churches, Methodists and Baptists, which resulted in 106 accessions and 93 confessions, with many penitent mourners. Pray for us, that we may be able still to infuse the word of God into the newly converted, that we may be the shepherds to harvest the entire number for Christ."

J. N. Thomas, State Line: I have three charges and three Sabbath-schools on the circuit, and though small in numbers they are prosperous. At Escatawpa a public school, taught by B. F. Bowe, educated at Meridian Academy closed. An examination before the township superintendent was held, after which parents and friends gave a fine dinner, which did our hearts good to enjoy with our children. The fine Sunday-school here is a great help to the church. Pray for us."

TEXAS.

D. Harper, San Marco: "Though the times are hard, we are endeavoring to build up our church. My meeting lasted a week, and we had a good time."

Wade Hamilton, Courtney: "Bro. Molloy was with us on the fourteenth. The elder preached a good sermon. Six converts were added. Our church is growing."

P. Thompson, Quitman: "Since we have finished our new church I started a meeting, and seven joined the church. I received $7.22 for church extension."

John Prince, Kosse: "I have now over 100 members and 2 Sunday-schools, with 72 in attendance. Elder Madison held our fourth conference. This year I have received $12.50, and expended $50. Times are hard."

Isaac Smith, Mt. Salem: "The Lord has blessed my work this year with success. I have had 24 conversions on my work, and 15 received into full membership. My quarterly meeting was held at Mt. Salem Sept. 6, 1879, by Rev. Mack Henson, who acted in place of our worthy presiding elder, who, on account of other duties, was compelled to be absent. We had quite a turn-out on Sunday, and 29 participated in the Lord's Supper with us. We have two Sabbath-schools organized on my work, but have not taken up our benevolent collections yet, but expect to do so soon. I am going to the conference school and attending to my work. I do earnestly ask your prayers for our aid in the future."

E. Cooper, Biegel: "On account of not having a house of our own, children's day was observed the last Sunday in August. Bro. E. Jones, Sunday-school superintendent of Smyrna circuit, opened the exercises. Beautiful singing was given us by Miss Annie Moore and Rev. P. M. Carmichael of Fayetteville. Miss Moore was formerly a student of Straight University, New Orleans; Henry Moore is of Austin college. The Bible class was taught by them. Our superintendent at this place, Bro. Killough, is an active, thorough man. We raised $4. We will organize a missionary society. We are trying to discourage the children from the use of tobacco, as a filthy habit, injurious to general health and good economy. We would be thankful for any little book or paper on the subject. Older brethren give us much trouble by persisting in the practice. We expect to contribute to all the benevolent purposes of our great church."

LOUISIANA.

Rev. J. W. Hudson, of Whitehall Circuit, reports that during the year thirty-five have been united to his church, and that of these twenty-five are young men. He has raised all his benevolent collections. His plan was a good one. He selected five young ladies not members of the church, and gave each a book, and sent them out as collectors properly endorsed. They succeeded grandly, and what is better, three of them are converted and in the church, and the other two are on probation.

At Paris, Texas, Wm. Pitts went to a festival of colored people. Walking into the middle of the hall, and in the midst of the crowd, he pulled his pistol and fired it off, the bullet going through the roof. Another quiet-looking young white man walked up and said: "You ought not to act that way." Pitts replied, "Take it back or I will kill you." "I don't take it back," replied the stranger. The yahoo then fired, hitting him in the right shoulder. The stranger then drew a sharp bowie-knife and made for Pitts. The women shrieked, and negroes seized the stranger, but he broke loose, and getting at Pitts, slashed him across the throat and slashed both cheeks in two, besides cutting him in the abdomen. Pitts is reported dying.

Why a Freedwoman of Texas Favors the Exodus.

The following letter to the editor, in the simple language of a freedwoman of Texas, explains some of the exodus feeling prevailing in that State. Mixing the races never became a crime in the South until the Negro was enfranchised. It is no crime in the sight of God, or by any reasonable exposition of justice. The law is defied, citizen rights are denied, families torn asunder, to gratify a revengeful spirit of manufactured race hatred:

BRYAN, Texas, Sept. 15, 1879.

DEAR FRIEND—I to-night take the privilege to write you a few lines to let you know of the distress I saw to-day at the courthouse in this city. Two white men that had married colored ladies and had three or four children apiece, and one white woman that had married a colored man were locked up in jail because they had mixed. They were crying, and their children were standing around them, and their mothers were sitting around the courthouse full of sorrow. All the cry of the white men is this—the negro and the white shan't mix. They say they will send them to the State Prison if they can, but they say they ought to be hung. The jail is full of colored prisoners. The way they justify us in this State, all that steal hogs is convicted, and them that kill a negro is let loose. If a colored man kill a white man he is hung; if a white man kill a colored man he is let loose. We have no show in this State, therefore we want to go North. If we old ones all die save us our children. We don't want our children to suffer like we have. We and thousands more have fatherless children here, for the white men in this State have killed our husbands and left us alone, so we want to go North. We want to go now, but we have not the money. MATTIE WILSON.

Our Shining Lights.

"Let your light so shine that men may see your good work and glorify your Father who is in heaven."

These words were spoken by Him who died and paid the debt we owe. Are we letting our light shine by giving excursions, and by selling and trading thereon on the Sabbath, and by selling the bar to the highest bidder, and then preaching that we must not drink intoxicating liquors, but sell it to ourselves? Are our lights shining when we give entertainments and fairs from Saturday night to Sunday morning, and in the mean time to gamble for cakes by walking for them? These are all inducements leading youths' hearts astray. Characters of the vilest kinds meet in these places for the purpose of gaining their ends. Preachers are the leaders of these sinful acts, they will get in the sacred desk, and preach "there is death in the pot." "Tell that fox I am here." "The living creature Ezekiel saw in the wheel, and the valley of dry bones." But they never attempt to preach, "he that looketh upon a woman to lust after her has committed adultery already in his heart." Why? Because they are guilty of these acts themselves. Mothers keep your daughters from these dens which are erected by such Christians only to gain that mighty dollar. Let them enjoy themselves at home under your watchful care. God has saved his church from creation, and has ever fought for her. I am afraid that these excursionists, entertainers and cake-walkers shall have their part in the lake that burns with fire. I pray God that the seed of morality be sown in the hearts of the rising generations, and ignorance take the wings of the morning and fly from this dark land of ours. I am speaking to those whose consciences speak to them and say, "You are guilty."

Paul says: "Let every man eat at his own house." "Let our lights so shine that men may see our good work and glorify our Father who art in heaven."

THE CANVASS

FOR

1880!

LET IT BEGIN NOW.

We call the attention of our agents to the following:

1. Now is the time to push the canvass for new subscribers for 1880. At this season of the year the people have money. Begin at once.

2. Do not loose one old subscriber. See every one on your list for this year, and urge them to renew for 1880.

3. Collect money now due and forward it at once. Forward all you can now, and be prepared to settle up everything at conference.

4. The SOUTHWESTERN costs only $2 a year, that is about four cents a week. We pay the postage.

5. Send for specimen copies whenever you need them, and they will be sent free.

6. We give no picture premium next year. But we do better. We place within the reach of all our subscribers a most valuable book worth $2, for 50 cents. Read the following carefully:

Letter from Abbeville.

MR. EDITOR—At Providence, a church four miles from town, Rev. A. M. Trotter held a protracted meeting not long since, which resulted in seven converts. At another place called Buford he held a revival which resulted in 8 converts. Not far from him is the Rev. H. York, a worker for God. He held a protracted meeting at Stockard's, which resulted in 20 conversions. Then he went to Elijah and held one there which I think resulted in 15 converts. It is one of the worst places in the conference. God has wonderfully blessed Bro. York during his two years stay on his work. Two miles from Abbeville Rev. B. J. Griffin, a brother of the Rev. Ira B. Griffin, holds an appointment under A. M. Trotter. He held a protracted meeting one week in the woods, and had 5 converts. In the eastern part of the county Rev. C. Macllimore holds the fort. He is also doing a wonderful work there; many souls are converts under him. I would say to encourage the young hero of your conference 2½ miles from Abbeville, the Rev. Ira B. Griffin has been teaching school for three years. Last year seven of his pupils professed a hope in Christ. On the first of September a revival commenced at his school house which lasted 8 days. During the meeting the Rev. L. Brackonridge's wife professed a hope in Christ. There is also another noted character who professed a hope —Dave Young, a wealthy man. This meeting was conducted by Bro. Griffin, and resulted in 22 converts. It was one of the best meetings I ever attended. I would do wrong not to say a word for Rev. S. A. Cowan, of Oxford. He is an able minister, and well beloved. He had one revival and is having another. I think about forty souls have been converted this year under him. God bless him, and Bro. Griffin, and also Bro. York — three heroes. People all say this is a year of jubilee. This county is awake. I think this about it, the people are going to Kansas, and like the Children of Israel, whom God blessed in Egypt before they departed. Many are preparing to march on their way to Kansas next spring. The Methodists are working for God day and night. Pray for us, brethren, that we may hold out faithfully. I could say many more things, but will not now.

The City.

Mr. Charles Vance, of this city, is teaching the public school at Lake Providence, La., and is doing well.

A concert complimentary to Chaplain Witherspoon will be given at the Seamen's Bethel, Fulton near Jackson street, on Tuesday evening the 18th inst. Hon. Louis Bush will deliver an address. Admission will be 50 cents. Some of the best musical talent of the city will be present.

Letter from Batesville.

DEAR EDITOR—Allow me to give you a few facts of my work at this place. When I came the church had gone down, and I had a hard time to preserve it, and put it on foot again. I was opposed by the Africans but the Lord was with me and I have 27 conversions and 36 accessions to report from May 12th to the last of August. Sabbath-school is in good condition. We have one church in Batesville. I started to build two more houses, but the people are so poor, and so far behind by renting land of the white people that they are not able to build churches and live, they think: I think they could if they would leave off some of the tobacco and whiskey and snuff, and put that money in churches and educate their children. These things show that we want educated preachers and teachers in the South, of our own kind and grit, that will not see men in regard to color nor race, but have equal respect for all. The Lord has said he was no respecter of persons. If this can not be, we had best to go to some other country. A few have little homes, but are almost afraid to own it in this country; the rest live from hand to month, and have no more now than when they were set free. It is hard that the people of the North do not know how we fare down here. My salary here was fixed at $250 this year; I have received $57.50, and I have four in family to keep up with that. But the gospel must go. I pray that the world may be filled with ministers to preach to suit the Lord and not man alone.

WM. H. HIGGINS.

Batesville, Ark., Sept. 26, '79.

The Russian Orthodox Church in San Francisco is reported to have some five or six hundred members. Russians, Greeks and Slavonians are included in this.

Foreign Missions.

Rev. G. S. Murphy and wife, and Miss S. M. Warner left the port of New York in the steamer City of Mexico Saturday, Nov. 1st for Mexico.

Rev. David W. Chandler, of Foo Chow, China, writes: "I am healthier here than in America." He further says "our annual conference session approaches and we are expecting it to be full of blessings to all who attend it."

Dr. Maclay says of Bros. Bishop and Vail that they enter upon their new work with most cheering prospects.

Testimony of cheer to those who love class-meetings comes from the presiding elder of Swedish Missions in the Stockholm district. He says: "I notice that those missionaries in my work, that those brethren who have laid greatest stress on class and prayer meetings, have had the best success."

DENMARK.—Here are figures that may elicit information from other quarters: Among the foreign missions it stands as to membership number 8, as to appropriations 9, as to ministerial force 10, as to the apportionment assigned it to collect for the missionary cause 5, as to the returns which it makes it is 2. In 1870 there were but two churches, now they have 5. In January, 1873, the membership, including probationers, was 260; now, in 1879, there are of members and probationers 712. The missionary collection for this year is $396.37.

Mary E. Sharp writes from Monrovia October 3: "It lacks but a few days of five months since I have been here, and am just as well as I ever was. Last Sunday I gave the history of the creation and fall of man to the Kroo people, and took occasion to tell them that God made one man and gave him one wife; that was God's law. The natives are all polygamists. The Baptists are having a revival and have gathered in seventy members or converts."

SWEDEN.—In the Stockholm district the presiding elder judges we preach to 13,000 persons every Sabbath. We have 136 appointments, 26 societies, 20 pastors, 16 chapels which accomodate 5,875 persons. We have 30 local preachers, 60 exhorters, 2,447 members in full connection, 1,072 probationers. Notwithstanding the great number of removals in consequence of hard hard times, we report 589 increase this year. There has been 437 persons legally withdrawn from the State church and united with us. In ministering among the churches of my district during the year I traveled 6,800 English miles."

publican majority ever known for a State officer.

MARYLAND.—The Democratic State ticket is elected by 17,000 to 20,000 majority. The Legislature is Democratic.

VIRGINIA.—The Legislature was carried by the candidate favoring the re-adjustment of the State debt. The debt payers were defeated. This is a Democratic victory.

MICHIGAN.—In the Detroit city election the Republicans elected the mayor by 1800 majority, a gain of 3000 votes.

ILLINOIS.—In Chicago Republicans gained 15,000 votes, electing their city ticket by 5000 majority, and Cook county officers by 7000 to 8000 majority. In all town elections where national issues were drawn, the Republicans were victorious.

WISCONSIN.—The Republican State ticket is elected by 25,000 majority, the largest ever given in the State.

MINNESOTA.—The Republican State ticket was elected by from 12,000 to 14,000 majority.

NEBRASKA.—Cobb, Republican candidate for Supreme Judge, is elected over Wakely, Democrat, by 12,000 majority. Gannett and Carson, Republican Regents of the University, are elected. The total vote of the State will reach 60,000. Republican county tickets are generally successful. The Greenbackers make a very small showing.

KANSAS.—In municipal and county elections the Republicans increased their majorities.

MISSISSIPPI.—Shotgun intimidation, and the Yazoo affair, caused a very light vote to be polled. Possibly a dozen Greenback and Independent candidates were elected to small offices in the State; otherwise Mississippi was made to register a unanimous Democratic vote.

Sunday School.

Nov. 16, 1879.—THE LOVE OF THE FATHER.
SCRIPTURE.—1 John 4: 7-16. Memorize 7-16.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"We love him because he first loved us."—1 John 4: 19.
TOPIC.—Christ the Proof of God's Love.
(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Preliminary.—The third and fourth chapters of the First Epistle of John are a treatise upon love. The first proposition of our lesson is, that "God is love." It is one of the beautiful legends of his old age that, when he became too infirm to preach, still he used to enter into the synagogue, and lift up his hands saying, with winning gentleness and fervor, "Little children, love one another." It has a divine origin. It is godlike in its nature. Every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. One of the first things that the new convert feels, and that comes to him as a surprise, is an affection for God's people. Not to know God is to abide in death, and not to love is not to know God. In what way has God proved his love? 1. In sending his Son in the world. His was a love that did not merely include believers—Christ came to seek and save the lost. By this manifestation of love he meant to recreate men into holy living. The new life that he purposed to give them was a life of love. Through the death that love was willing to suffer, the new life was born. The Saviour told the Pharisees, who demanded of him the time when the kingdom of God should come, "the kingdom of God is within you." There is something better than seeing God with the eyes. There is an experience with regard to him that is more intimate than that. It is to have him dwelling in the heart—to have with him an inward fellowship. Love towards men makes perfect one's love towards God! And that accords with the inward experience of every Christian. No one can do aught for his fellow-men, without feeling that his love toward God has been warmed thereby. And the reverse of this also is true—the more one has of love to God, the more will he have of love to man. One must dwell in love to dwell in God—and one must dwell in God to dwell in love. Our love to God can very readily be measured by our love to man. "He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen?" That is the test by which the church should be willing to be tried, and which the world will be sure to apply.

NEW BOOKS.

CONRAD: A Tale of Wiclif and Bohemia. By Emma Leslie. New York: Phillips & Hunt; Cincinnati: Hitchcock & Walden.

This is the second book of a series of Church History Stories. It is designed to illustrate the progress of reformation in Bohemia, and the mixture of political and religious feeling in the grand struggle for freedom against kings and the church of Rome. The facts of history have been woven into an absorbing tale, which will inspire excellent thoughts.

FOUR MONTHS IN A SNEAK-BOX. By Nathaniel H. Bishop. Boston; Lee & Shepard. New Orleans: J. C. Eyrich, Canal street.

In this cloth bound volume of 322 pages is given the description of a novel voyage by an experienced traveler. Mr. Bishop records the notes and sketches of a voyage of 2600 miles in a Barnegat sneak box, a small hunters' boat 12 feet long and covered, offering room for shelter. He rowed down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, along the Gulf of Mexico, and to the mouth of the Suwanee river. Mr. Bishop is the author of two other books of travel, and is not a novice in describing this singular and interesting journey. The book will be read with pleasure.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The American Agriculturist for November, (Orange Judd Company, N. Y.) is at hand.

—The Guide to Holiness for November (W. C. Palmer, 43 Bible House, N. Y.) has a choice selection of Christian reading matter.

—After Jan. 1st 1880 Church and School, (David C. Cook, Chicago,) will be merged into a weekly paper to be called "Our New Weekly."

—The Advocate of Christian Holiness for November (J. S. Inskip, Philadelphia) has an admirable selection of articles, and a piece of music, "Storm the Fort."

—We have received from A. M. Purdy, of Palmyra, N. Y., a very instructive page pamphlet, telling how to grow small fruits successfully, describing sorts, etc., etc. He sends it free to all applicants, as also a specimen copy of his monthly paper of fruits and flowers.

We have received some packages of beautiful cards, "Words of the Master," "Bible Flowers," "Gospel Words," "Words in Season," "Texts in Gold"—publications of the American Tract Society, 150 Nassau street, New York, sent us care of D. L. Mitchell, Esq.

—The Louisiana Journal of Education for November (Seymour & Stevens, New Orleans,) has articles on "The English Language and Literature," "Private School Organizations," "The Sanitarians and Public Schools," "Normal Schools," etc. An appeal is made to readers to assist in the increase of its circulation. The annual subscription is $1 for nine numbers. It should be supported generously.

The National Temperance Almanac and Teetotaler's year-book for 1880, will be found to be one of the most convenient and important publications, for the price, ever issued on the subject. We trust that every temperance organization of the cause will aid in supplying it to every family in their vicinity. The Almanac and Year-Book contains 72 pages, printed on fine tinted paper, and is supplied at much less than the cost of publication. Price, 10 cents; $1 per dozen; $7 per hundred; $60 per thousand. Address J. N. Stearns, Publishing Agent, 58 Reade Street, New York.

Butter-Making in July and August.

Butter-making can be carried on in hot weather as successfully as in June by using the Gilt-Edge Butter Maker. It reduces time of churning one-half. Increases production 6 to 10 per cent. Storekeepers pay 3 to 5 cents a pound extra for butter made with it. Sold by druggists, grocers and general storekeepers. Send stamp for "Hints to Butter-Makers." Address, Butter Improvement Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

OUAQUAGA DAIRY, SUSQUEHANNA VALLEY, N. Y., May 23, 1879.
Butter Improvement Co., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Gentlemen—Please accept a sample of butter made from "hay-fed" cows and with the use of your Gilt-Edge Butter Maker. Without its use the butter made was almost as white as lard, while with its use (as you will observe from the sample sent you) the butter is of a beautiful, even golden color leaving nothing to be desired in that direction. Several of my neighbor dairy farmers have tried your powder, and are loud in its praise. It passes in market as "creamery butter," and is worth from 3 to 5 cents a pound more than dairy butter.

BAKER'S BREAKFAST COCOA is a general favorite. Medical men recommend it as preferable to tea or coffee for nervous or delicate constitutions. Sold by leading grocers everywhere.

Bogus Certificates.

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, etc., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well known valuable remedies, that furnish its own certificate by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See "Truths" and "Proverbs," in another column.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Females suffering from pain and weakness will derive great comfort and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where children are affected with whooping cough, ordinary coughs or colds or weak lungs, it is the one and only treatment they should receive. This article contains new medicinal elements such as is found in no other remedy in the same form. It is far superior to common porous plasters, liniments, electrical appliances and other external remedies. It relieves pain at once, strengthens and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. For Lame and Weak Back, Rheumatism, Kidney disease and all local aches and pains it is also the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents.

The New Hymnal

The Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences at their late sessions, made it the duty of every preacher having charge of a station or circuit to see that their pulpits were supplied with a New Hymnal, and all were to use their influence in having the people supply themselves with Hymnals and to use them in the public congregation and in social meetings.

We are now prepared to supply the following styles of the Hymnal at the prices named. Our terms are cash before sending, or we will send by express C. O. D. Specimen copies sent by mail on receipt of price

Young Folks' Corner.

"THE TALE OF THE ALOE PLANT."

"Have you heard the Tale of the Aloe Plant,"
Away in the sunny clime,
How, by humble growth of a hundred years,
It reaches its blooming time;
And then a wondrous bud at its crown
Breaks into a thousand flowers?
This floral queen, in its beauty seen,
Is the pride of the tropical bowers;
But the plant to the flower is a sacrifice,
For it blooms but once; and, in blooming dies.

"Have you further heard of this Aloe Plant,
That grows in the sunny clime,
How every one of its thousand flowers,
As they fall in the blooming time,
Gives an infant tree that fastens its roots
In the place where they fall to the ground;
And, fast as they drop from the dying stems,
Grow lively and lovely around?
By dying it liveth a thousand fold,
In the young that spring up from the death of the old."

Tab's Doll.

On the curbstone up on Brush street, the other day, sat a girl of nine or ten, full in the hot sun, but so busy with a woe-begone rag-baby that she seemed not to mind the heat and the glare. One arm had been torn from poor "baby," its head fell over to one side, and the sawdust ran from the dilapidated feet every time it was lifted about. As the child sat there, trying to make "baby" whole again, with an old darning-needle and a [illegible], a boy of fourteen halted on the walk and sneeringly said:

"That doll' bin sunstruck, an' all the doctors in town can't save her life."

The girl made no reply, and after a moment the lad advanced, snatched the doll from her hands, and flung it high above his head laughing loudly at her efforts to prevent him.

"Is your mother dead?" asked the girl as her eyes filled with tears and her chin quivered.

"Not as I knows on."

"But mine is, and she made that baby for me when her hands trembled so and her eyes had so many tears that I had to cut the cloth for her. That's why baby looks so [illegible]."

"Whew!" whistled the boy below his breath, and walking into the [illegible] he picked up the plaything, [illegible] dusted it, and, as he placed it in her hands, said:—

"I remember now 'bout seein' the [illegible] on the door, and I'm sorry I [illegible]. This 'ere linin' in my [illegible] make that baby a bull [illegible] if you won't say nothin' [illegible] of how I acted I'll give it [illegible]."

[illegible] it out at one pull, tossed [illegible] buttons after it, and went [illegible] singing:—

"[illegible] a gal's mother is dead [illegible] me, and any time that [illegible] is taken sick you can [illegible] me to run for the doctor, [illegible] nights! Good-by, Tab!"
—[illegible] Free Press.

[illegible] shoe-black called at the [illegible] a clergyman and solicit[illegible] of bread and some water; [illegible] was directed to give [illegible] bread from the [illegible] basket, and as the little fel[illegible] walking slowly away, and [illegible] the gift between his fin[illegible] large enough to [illegible] minister called him back [illegible] if he had ever learn[illegible]. On receiving a nega[illegible] the minister directed [illegible] "Our Father," but he [illegible] the familiarity. [illegible] Father—your Father [illegible] [illegible] at him awhile, [illegible] saying, at the same [illegible] crust of bread, [illegible] between his sobs: [illegible] your Father is my [illegible] ashamed to give [illegible] such stuff to eat, [illegible] so many good [illegible].

[illegible] Story.

haven't had anything to eat for a whole day." The gentleman was all out of humor, and he said, crossly, "Don't bother me; go away. I haven't had anything to eat for three days." The child opened her eyes in shy wonder, and stared at him for a moment, and then walked slowly toward the door. She turned the knob, and then, after hesitating a few seconds, she turned quickly and walked straight up to him who had spoken so ill-naturedly, and gently laying the five cents she had received on his knee, said, with a tone of true girlish pity in her voice, "If you haven't had anything to eat for three days, you take this and go buy some bread. Perhaps I can get some more somewhere." The young fellow blushed to the roots of his hair, and lifting the miniature sister of charity in his arms, he kissed her two or three times in delight. Then he took her to the persons in the room, and to those in the corridors, and the office, and told the story, and asked contributions, giving himself all the money he had with him. He succeeded in raising over forty dollars, and sent the little kindly hearted one on her way rejoicing.

Presence of Mind.

An instance of the effect of presence of mind in the face of imminent peril occurred a few days ago in the city of New York, when a manufactory employing several hundred hands was found, by a boy of twelve, to be in flames. Instead of yelling fire, as most boys would have done, he went to the foreman and whispered to him his discovery. In five minutes the men were quietly dismissed, and it was not until they had reached the street that they knew the danger they had escaped. A panic would have inevitably resulted in great loss of life.

Now boys can not be taught everything, but they can be taught self-control, and the rare ability of keeping their wits about them in sudden danger, which is a more useful quality.—Exchange.

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to know the whereabouts of my father, Orange Hudson, who left Simmons' Plantation, near Benton, Miss., in 1873. The last letter from him informed me that he was at Market Garden, near Stone River, Tenn. Any information relative to him will be gladly received. Address me at Benton, Miss.
CAROLINE WILBURN.

MR. EDITOR—I want to make some inquiry about my father and mother. My father's name was James Thomas, and my mother's Aley. We belonged to a man by the name of March Banks. I have one sister, Rose Mayfield, and another named Lizzie. She married A. Davis. She lived two miles below Waxahatchie, Ellis Co., Texas. My name was Jane March Banks, but is now Jane McCuin. My father was taken from us at Waxahatchie. He was a Baptist preacher. The last time I heard from him he was in South Kansas. I had one uncle named Riley and one Abram. Abram is here in Texas. Riley was last heard from in Missouri. If found address me at Waco, Texas.
J. R. MCCUIN.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to make inquiry for my people through the SOUTHWESTERN. I left them in Jefferson Co., Virginia. Father's name was Jarreth Booman. He belonged to a widow woman, who lived on the public road from Charleston to Shepherd's Town. Mother's name was Leanah Booman. She belonged to Bill Clevan, and was sold and left five children, Isaac, Alfred, Eastram, Karreth and Kissey. Sister Kissie lived at Ekleberger. Brother Karreth lived with Wm. Lock. I had an aunt who lived with Robert T. Brown. She had two children, William and Frances Wheeler. I was brought to Texas by a trader. Any information of the above will be thankfully received. My name used to be Martha Booman. Address me at Brenham, Washington Co., Texas.

Ladies, Delicate and Feeble.

Those languid tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy [illegible]. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain are permanently removed. [illegible] you need [illegible]

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates. Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the TONIC. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the TONIC has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

Ecclesiastical Law,
—AND—
Rules of Evidence:
With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
— BY —
HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,
—AND—
WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.
8vo., 511 Pages.
Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases. . . . . . .

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations.—Author's Preface.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT
Never Well.—Thousands of people who are not absolutely sick complain that they are "never well." Without being in pain they are perpetually in a state of discomfort worse than bodily suffering. The cause of this indescribable wretchedness is a morbid condition of the digestive, assimulating and discharging organs. Tone, invigorate and regulate these viscera with Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient and the languor, depression and nervous debility, which are inevitable results of indigestion, biliousness and an irregular habit of body will cease.

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers; as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

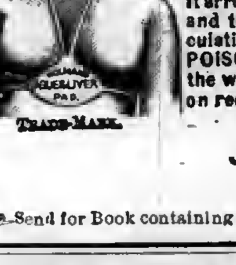
HOLMAN'S AGUE AND LIVER PAD


is marvelous in its prompt and radical cure for every species of Liver and Stomach difficulties. It contains only harmless vegetable compounds, and is worn EXACTLY WHERE NEEDED, over the vitals, the Liver and Stomach. It removes torpidity of the liver, and arouses the stomach from its dormant state, arresting fermentation, torpor and pain, by giving it the natural quantity of bile and gastric juice. It also vitalizes the entire system with Nature's true tonic. It arrests all deteriorated and poisonous fluids in the stomach, and thus prevents their entering the system by way of circulation. It absorbs from the body every particle of BLOOD POISON, whether bilious, malarial or medicinal, and leaves the wearer in perfect health. OIL PAINTINGS.
IMPORTANT NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.
GRAND PREMIUM GIFT
OF A GENUINE OIL PAINTING GIVEN TO EACH AND EVERY SUBSCRIBER OF THIS PAPER! A GRAND OPPORTUNITY, READ!
Arrangements have been made with the National School of Design, of Chicago, Ills., which secure to the patrons of this paper the most valuable ART PREMIUMS ever offered in this country. These Premiums consist of genuine Oil Paintings, painted on canvas by a corps of the best artists in the country. Each Painting is a masterpiece of artistic work, and worth more than all the Chromo or Engraving Premiums that were ever offered. Their beauty and value may be determined by the following card.
OFFICE OF NATIONAL SCHOOL OF DESIGN, CHICAGO, ILLS.—Dear Sir: Assure all subscribers that each and every Premium furnished under this arrangement will be a first-class, genuine Oil Painting, painted by a first-class artist, on good canvas, and that we are selling even inferior works every week for from $10 to $25 each. NATIONAL SCHOOL OF DESIGN.
One of these valuable Premium Oil Paintings will be given to each reader of this paper who cuts out the Premium Certificate found below, and sends it to the National School of Design, 124 Wells St., Chicago, Ills., together with eight three-cent stamps, or 25 cts. currency, to pay cost of mailing and postage. Each Painting will be sent by mail, securely packed and warranted to reach its destination uninjured.

Cut out this Certificate and send it to the National School of Design. It is worth $10.
PREMIUM CERTIFICATE.—On receipt of this Certificate, together with 25 cts. to pay postage and mailing, we will send by mail to the subscriber a finely-executed ORIGINAL HIGH-CLASS OIL PAINTING.
This Certificate is good until January 1, 1880, after which 10 cts. additional will be charged. No Painting will be sent without this Certificate, except on receipt of $10, the retail price for three Premium Oil Paintings. All Certificates must be sent directly to
The National School of Design, 124 Wells St., Chicago, Ills.

NOTE THESE INSTRUCTIONS.—All Certificates should be sent in before January 1, 1880. All sent in thereafter require 10 cts. additional. The Certificate must in all cases be sent, otherwise persons not entitled to the benefits of this arrangement might reap the advantage. Each Painting will be strongly protected by heavy wrappings, and postage will be prepaid thereon out of the 25 cts. sent in. But one Painting can be obtained for each copy of the paper this week, and the Certificate will not be again printed; hence, the importance of cutting it out at once and sending it in for redemption. Address all Certificates direct to and you will receive by mail the finest and most valuable Art Premium ever offered in this country.

LORD, HERE AM I!

Still, as of old, Thy precious word
Is by the nations dimly heard;
The hearts its holiness hath stirred
Are weak and few.
Wise men the secret dare not tell;
Still in Thy temple slumbers well
Good Eli: Oh! like Samuel,
Lord, here am I.

Few years, no wisdom, no renown,
Only my life can I lay down;
Only my heart, Lord, to Thy throne
I bring; and pray
A child of Thine I may go forth,
And spread glad tidings through the earth,
And teach sad hearts to know Thy worth!
Lord, here am I!

And make me strong, that, staff and stay,
And guide and guardian of the way,
To Thee-ward I may bear, each day,
Some fainting soul.
Speak, for I hear; make pure in heart,
Thy face to see; Thy truth impart,
In hut and hall, in Church and mart!
Lord, here am I!

I ask no heaven, till earth be Thine,
Nor glory crown, while work of mine
Remaineth here; when earth shall shine
Among the stars;
Her sins wiped out, her captives free,
Her voice a music unto Thee,
For crown, new work give Thou to me!
Lord, here am I!

The Translation of Elijah Compared with the Death-Bed of Elisha.

BY REV. GEO. B. LYNCH.

II Kings, xiii: 14.

[illegible] Elijah in the [illegible] office, having been with [illegible] moment of his being [illegible] heaven, and having [illegible] which fell from [illegible] ascended unto God. [illegible] were both con[illegible] power of working [illegible] and by their efforts at [illegible] idolatry and restoring [illegible] Israel the pure worship [illegible]

[illegible] appear, from the history [illegible] he wrought twice [illegible] as Elijah, as [illegible] request had [illegible] complied with, and a [illegible] the spirit of the [illegible] had fallen on his [illegible] is there any[illegible] Elisha in which he [illegible] blamewor[illegible] than can be [illegible] it would certain[illegible] after the mant[illegible] prophets of [illegible] post upon a [illegible] fleeing [illegible] avoid the [illegible] Jezebel, [illegible] follow up [illegible] been made [illegible] great [illegible] of [illegible] The [illegible] when [illegible] from the worship of Baal. In a fit of despondency Elijah had complained that he stood quite alone, that there was none but himself to take the side of the Lord. He was utterly wrong in his opinion, for God said: "Yet have I left me seven thousand in Israel, all the knees which have bowed unto Baal, and every month which hath kissed him." But seven thousand was a very small remnant. Idolatry must still have had a vast preponderence on its side, if seven thousand were all the worshippers of Jehovah. But you find that when Jehu, who had raised up twelve years afterward, proceeded by a sort of plot to destroying the idolatries among his people. He was able to entice him into one house or temple, so that their number must have differed greatly among his people from what it had been a few years before. Elisha continued his labors at least forty-five years after the beginning of the reign of Jehu, and though his name is never once mentioned throughout this long period, we may justly suppose that he was as zealous as before, and perhaps not less successful in turning away his countrymen from idolatry. He did not indeed prevail to the reclaiming their hearts as a nation unto the Lord, from whom they had revolted. But he would seem to have been far more instrumental than Elijah to the conversion of individuals. God so honored his protracted labors, that multitudes far outnumbering in all probability the seven thousand in the days of Elijah were either secretly or open in the ranks of those who preferred Jehovah to Baal. And thus eminent as were both these servants of the Lord, it was almost difficult not to regard Elisha as the more eminent of the two, and the more likely to be singled out for special marks of the favor of Heaven. In the history of Elisha, rather than that of Elijah, is especial evidence that the prophet had found acceptance in the eyes of the Lord.

Two different scenes—1st, the brink of Jordan, where there is about to occur one of the most marvellous events that ever befel a being of our race. There are two prophets conversing together on the bank of the river. Suddenly, whilst they are yet talking, lo! a chariot of fire drawn by horses of fire, descends from heaven, with equipage such as, perhaps, mortal eyes had never gazed upon before—a scene too strangely spiritual for mortal mind to contemplate. Yet it is for a man, for one of those two sees that this celestial equipage is sent that comes down in its awful effulgence to convey to the upper world without allowing him to pass through the scene of death. The elder of the prophets on whom we have gazed, wondrously favored man, he is not indeed the first to whom has been awarded exemption from the sentence provoked by disobedience. In an earlier dispensation Enoch was translated so as not to see death, although we know not if it were under the same circumstances that this seventh from Adam exchanged earth for heaven. But if the prophet did not receive this extraordinary distinction it is difficult to imagine how one of our race could have been signally honored.

An emaciated old man is before us, stretched on his bed, patiently awaiting death, which, to judge from the too evident signs of age and infirmity, cannot be far distant. There are no indications here of the equipage of flame. Something earthly, fire lights up the old man's eye as he is led to predict his country's victory over the Assyrians. It is the prophet on whom the mantle fell of the ascending man who lies before us in the feebleness of approaching dissolution. Years after years have passed since that wondrous event at the brink of the Jordan, and now he who was appointed in the stead of him [illegible] went up into the chariot of fire, is about to follow him to the invisible world that he too may rest from his toils. But what difference is there in the manner and circumstances of the departure! Is it possible even to imagine a greater [illegible]? In the one case there is [illegible] suspension of all the ordinary [illegible] There is no death, no wast[illegible] down of the facul[illegible] and with the [illegible] miracle the ear[illegible] body and [illegible] places, as [illegible] child of [illegible] not [illegible] the [illegible] laws not suspended, they seem to be carried into force with every distressing accompaniment. There is continued and pining sickness, there is the gradual decay of strength, there is that hard and dreary lot, when the earthly house of this tabernacle is taken down bit by bit, and the most patient are sorely exercised by the slowness of the process. Ah, what a contrast between the chariot of fire and the pains of decrepitude of old age, between the horses of fire and the pains of corroding disease. And the prophet who ascended so marvellously to heaven and the prophet who was to go hence with so lingering a step.

There is not a more remarkable contrast, nor one more fitted to enlarge a thoughtful mind than that between the translation of Elijah and the sickness of Elisha. Though there is not much told us of the sickness of Elisha, you can hardly fail to infer that it was a lingering sickness. Elisha was fallen sick of his sickness whereof he died. Evidently he did not die suddenly. He was visited on his sick-bed by Josh, the King of Israel, and we have no reason to suppose that Josh was a man likely to be forward in showing respect to the servant of God. And it strikes us as a pathetic circumstance, so far as Elisha was concerned, that Josh, in visiting the dying prophet, addressed him with the words, "Oh, my father, my father; the chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof." For these were the words which Elisha had uttered when Elijah was parted from him and went up in a whirlwind into heaven. Elisha saw it, and cried, "My father, my father; the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof." It would indeed be difficult to believe that the mind of the dying prophet did not recall the wondrous scene on the brink of the Jordan, that there did not pass before him the chariot of fire and the horses of fire, and that he did not for a moment, though not in a complaining, yet in an inquiring spirit, revolve the difference between Elijah's departure and his own.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

From West Texas.

I was with Bro. G. S. Clark, the live energetic preacher of the Round Rock circuit, last Saturday and Sunday, at Hornsby's Bend, on the Colorado river, ten miles below Austin. To this neighborhood Bro. Clark went soon after he was appointed to the Round Rock circuit. He found the people without preaching. Here he labored hard for the Master. The Lord was with him, blessing his efforts of love among the good people, in the awakening of scores and the happy conversion of some twenty-five persons. The people learned to love this servant of the Lord, and some expressed a desire to unite with the M. E. Church and be with him. He would not deny them this privilege, but invited all who desired to be Methodists to come forward and unite with the M. E. Church. Some joined and then the war commenced. A southern Methodist preacher heard of Bro. B's meeting and made haste to get there. He put in an appearance one night during the revival, and at the close of the services arose and said that he had been appointed to that work by his presiding elder, and that he wished to gather together all his people; but, said he, "I will not interfere with Bro. Clark's meeting." This preacher, so called, professed to be friendly to Bro. C's work, yet all the time he was trying to block up the way of our cause. When he learned that the M. E. Church was going to be organized his zeal burned for the Church South, and against the Yankee Church, as he called our Church. He went to those who had joined the M. E. Church and said to them, "There is no M. E. Church—that preacher knows that there is no such church. He belongs to the Northern Methodist Church and was ashamed to tell you so. You now belong to the Northern Methodist Abolition Church." But these lies did not move the faithful few who preferred throwing their destiny with the M. E. Church than to become a member of the sectional Church South. This same preacher went to another of Bro. Clark's appointments, where he found some more who belonged to the despised M. E. Church whom he requested to join his Church. They said, "No, we belong to what you call Northern Methodists." He replied that it did not make any difference now, and that "the two Churches have united and are now one." I won't say that this was a wilfull falsehood, but we all know that he swelled the truth prodigiously.

I give these facts to illustrate the opposition we meet with from those who call themselves ministers of the Gospel. We can but pray from such ministers to be delivered, and press on in the grand cause of our Master, trying to raise the standard of the cross in this land of sin. Bro. Clark is winning golden opinions on his circuit this year. Such men can come here and build up Methodism. If Indiana has more such men to spare she should send them to Texas.

Semi-Financial Tour.

MR. EDITOR—As I am here for a few days I thought I would send you a few facts of my labors to date. At Lockhart I found everybody any way interested in our Conference School enterprise well informed. The brother who promised, if informed, to use his influence to make my next visit a financial success, I am sorry to say, propably more than any other man, used his influence in the opposite direction. Such bombastic fellows must learn how to leave good men alone, to mean what they say, and always, for their own soul's health, stand out of the way of the car wheel of progress or suffer the most excruciating smashing. We received $7.75. Bro. J. R. Carnes is doing a good work.

At Luling I found the pastor and people ready to receive and entertain me. The drouth had cut short the crops; however, they responded nobly and sent us away $15.55 better off.

From here I went, in company with Elder G. W. Richardson, to Gonzales. Very unfortunately his team could not make the usual speed, which put us back considerably. The team had not taken food for nearly 37 hours; this, together with drenching rain from all directions, soaking us on all sides. We reached Gonzales late Saturday eve, the 11th. His quarterly conference could not be held so late, so it had to be crowded in on the 12th. I met the Union Sunday-school, conducted at the Baptist church. It is a few years behind in its management. From it we received $1.40. Our new chapel, just erected, was made ready for dedication. The house has a neat appearance, and is well supplied with benches. Elder R. had us to preach at 11 a. m. to a full audience. At 3 p. m. he preached the dedication sermon. It was instructive and well received by the people. A few touching remarks of their past struggles and misfortune in having their former house destroyed by fire, among other things, melted the entire audience to tears. I received $11.45, and 20 cents certificate cards. At night I tried to lecture, but under very embarrasing circumstances, as many of the people "did not come to hear talking, but to hear preaching." I did not get a nickle for my toil. This, of course, is not the best method of cheering a weary traveler. Bro. C. Mays has a pretty sound footing—the people love him and he loves the people. G. F. Mays was elected lay delegate to Lay-electoral College. I expect times will be somewhat lively at conference, for there are a few lights above the horizon plainly seen.

At McGarety School-house, Gonzales county, near Belmont, we held a quarter, Oct. 15, for elder G. W. R., on Bro. L. Morris' work. The members were out in full force. Rev. L. Morris is one of our good old men, a power among the people. Rev. Geo. Brothers was chosen lay delegate. We received $5.05 which goes to the conference enterprise.

October 16 we lectured at Sand Hill M. E. Church to a handsome audience, diminished by a light shower of rain, and received $2.65, and 50 cents afterwards. Here I met esteemed brethren, Lewis Wells and Joseph Curtis. Both made very handsome donations—L. Wells $3 and J. Curtis $4. These brethren inform me that they intend to continue to make as liberal donations as they can until the college grounds are paid for, and buildings erected. May one hundred more such liberal-hearted men show themselves. Both of these brethren had splendid farm houses of their own, and are successful farmers. This year they are cut short by the drouth.

At San Antonio, on the 18, 19 and 20th, I found Rev. A. R. Norris up to the times, and his congregation ready to respond. Here I met many of my old friends and acquaintances, and happy reviews were had. No visit has afforded me more real comfort since I began to travel. I also met that grand young man, G. W. Townsend, who has been obliged to obtain employment with the U. S. Quartermaster at $30 and rations per month. I received from the Sunday-school $5.85, and from the church $27.40. Hurrah for San Antonio!

October 22d I lectured to a tolerably full house, but with empty or stingy pockets. I believe Bro. Campbell did his duty, but the people fell far short of theirs. I received $2.85, $1 from Prof. Wm. B. Bell, and the promise of more from him.

MACK HENSON.

Here is a specimen of Southern justice where the Negro is concerned which was not tempered with mercy. Three colored boys—George Dibrell, aged thirteen years, Thomas Moorman, aged ten, and Essex Demoss, aged eight, were arraigned and pleaded guilty before a municipal court of Nashville, Tenn., of breaking in and stealing five dollars' worth of candy, cake and money from a storehouse. Their counsel attempted, on the plea of their extreme youth and ignorance, to have them discharged or slightly punished. The jury brought in a verdict of three years in the penitentiary for each of them. Think of it! An eight-year-old child sent to the penitentiary for three years for stealing candy, and the murderer of the Chisolms acquitted! Where lingers the curse of God?—N. Y. Independent.

Apportionment of Senators and Representatives.

The proposed new constitution of Louisiana says that Representation in the House of Representatives shall be equal and uniform, and shall be regulated and ascertained by the total population. Each parish shall have at least one Representative.

After the next enumeration—

A representative number shall be fixed, and each parish and election district shall have as many Representatives as the aggregate number of its total population will entitle it to, and an additional Representative for any fraction exceeding one half the Representative number.

Senators are also to be apportioned according to the total population. This is the method in vogue throughout the Union, and the only legitimate one possible. Let us see how the conventionists applied their own rule in apportioning the General Assembly.

The State census of 1875 being generally objected to by the Democratic party as an unfair one, the United States census of 1870 affords the latest undisputed enumeration—362,065 whites, 364,210 blacks—a total population of 726,915.

Apportioning thirty-six Senators, would give one for each 20,190 and for each fraction over 10,095 of population. Where new divisions of territory have been made since the census of 1870, in those few instances approximate by census of 1875.

The first Senatorial district with a population of 36,353 is assigned two Senators; the second, the same number, for 61,121, which entitles it to three. As wards of Orleans parish are joined in these districts, the inequality is inexcusable. Both districts are Democratic.

The third district, with 25,146 has one Senator; the fourth, 28,861, one; the fifth, 32,525, one, though entitled to two. The absurdity is perceived in the sixth, with 32,012, or 412 less than the fifth which is given two. All these districts are Democratic.

The seventh district, with 22,900, has one; the eighth, 21,729, one; ninth, 40,404, two; tenth, 30,158, two. The tenth district is wondrously made. The strong Republican parish of St. Mary is united to the distant parishes of Vermillion, Calcasieu and Cameron. The district is about 250 miles long; the people have little intercourse; and the candidate of one end will be a stranger to the other. Besides the sharp stroke of smothering St. Mary, the district was given one more Senator than rightfully belonged to it.

The eleventh district, with 32,341, is allowed one; while the twelfth, 25,553, or 6,778 less, has two—one more than is proper. Was this distinction caused by the Republican tendency of the eleventh district, or the power of Senator Robertson, of St. Landry, in the Democratic canons?

The fourteenth, with 17,461; fifteenth, 23,998; sixteenth, 17,816, and seventeenth with 26,292, have each one Senator; yet the seventeenth has 700 more than the twefth, which has two.

The nineteenth, with 46,698, is given two; twentieth, 21,714; the twenty-first, 53,073, entitled to three, is only allowed two Senators, or the same as the twenty-second, with 54,771, and the twenty-third, 34,230. The twenty-fourth, 17,946; twenty-fifth, 19,600, the twenty-sixth, 22,396 have each one Senator.

Under conditions of perfect freedom Republicans might elect 21 out of the 26 Senators, despite the gerrymander; but as seven districts to elect nine Senators are conceded to the bulldozers, 12 is the probable Republican maximum in the next Senate—or one-third.

Apportioning 98 Representatives, would give one for each 7417, and fraction over 3708 of population.

The parish of Orleans, entitled to 26 is given 23. The first, fourth and sixth election districts, given one, should have two each. The population of the first is 13,368, of the twelfth, 4,804, yet each will elect one.

Other irregularities are as follows:

Parish.	No. Rep. Entitled.	No. Rep. Allowed.
Ascension	2	1
Bossier	2	1
Caddo	3	2
Claiborne	3	2
Iberia	2	1
Jefferson	2	1
Madison	1	2
Pointe Coupee	2	1
St. Landry	3	4
Union	2	1

Seven Representatives are lost to parishes with Republican majorities and one to Democracy—which St. Landry carried off as a trophy.

Under extremely fair conditions Republicans might elect fifty of the ninety-eight Representatives; but it is scarcely probable they will be able to secure half that number at the next election.

As if conscious of the unfairness of their work, the conventionists enacted—

This apportionment of Senators and Representatives shall neither be changed nor altered in any manner until after the enumeration shall have been made by the State in eighteen hundred and ninety. * * * Enumerations shall be made every tenth year thereafter.

The State is to compete with the national census, of which it might avail itself, free of charge, instead of alternating enumerations every five years as heretofore. Besides the extravagance of the plan, it is utterly useless, except as a political contrivance for partisan purposes.

Voters should study the constitution well before giving it approval, and demand equal representation for all parts of the State in the General Assembly.—E. Bentley, in Donaldsonville Chief.

California's Faulty Constitution.

The effect of the new Constitution is showing itself in financial affairs in many ways. During the first half of the year there was a decrease of $3,700,000 in the deposits of the savings banks. On the 1st inst. the Bank of California reduced its capital stock from $5,000,000 to $3,000,000. On the 13th inst. the Grangers' Bank reduced its capital stock from $5,000,000 (though only $4,000,000 had been paid up) to $1,000,000. Another large reduction in the same business is expected soon. The real estate business has not been so dull in any previous year since 1863, when San Francisco had less than 100,000 inhabitants, as now with 300,000. On every hand we are threatened with litigation to grow out of the changes made inconsiderately by the ignorant majority in the Constitutional Convention. The titles and terms of many of the county offices are left in doubt, and must be settled by the courts, most of which will be paralyzed until the Legislature can grant relief, and the action, necessarily taken in haste, will be subject to the errors that are almost unavoidable without long deliberation.—San Francisco Alta, Oct. 20.

Fleeing Before Locusts.

A curious misadventure was met with by a detachment of Russian troops near Elizavetopol. As they were marching against the Turcomans, an army of locusts, twenty miles long, and broad in proportion, met them.

The officer in charge did not like to turn back, repelled by mere insects, and pushing on, soon became surrounded by the locusts. These appear to have mistaken the soldiers for trees, and swarmed by thousands around them, "crawling over their bodies, lodging themselves inside their helmets, penetrating their clothes and their knapsacks, filling the barrels of their rifles, and striving to force themselves into the unfortunate men's ears and noses."

The commander gave the order for the troops to push on double quick for Elizavetopol, but the road was so blocked with locusts that the soldiers grew frightened, and after wavering a few minutes, a regular stampede took place. Led by a non-commissioned officer of keener vision, who had observed a few huts a short distance from the road, the troops dashed across the fields, slipping about over the crushed and greasy bodies of the locusts as though they had been on ice. The huts were soon reached, and the officers rushed inside, but the refuge proved to be of little value, as the premises were already in the possession of the enemy.

The peasants told the correspondent of the Kavkaz that for days they had been besieged by the vermin, the insects filling the wells and tainting the water, crowding into the ovens and spoiling the bread, and preventing any food from being cooked or stored. At intervals, the villagers issued from their houses and made onslaughts on the locusts, killing them by thousands, and carting them away afterwards to the fields for manure.

The soldiers were detained prisoners by the insects for forty-eight hours; and on their march to Elizavetopol in the rear of the locust army, they found every blade of grass and green leaf destroyed, and the peasants reduced to beggary.—Youth's Companion.

Crittenden once very beautifully said: "When God, in his eternal council, conceived the thought of man's creation, he called to him the three Ministers who wait constantly upon his throne—Justice, Truth, and Mercy; and thus addressed them: "Shall we make man?" Then said Justice: 'O God, make him not, for he will pollute thy sanctuaries.' But Mercy, dropping upon her knees, and looking up through her tears, exclaimed: 'O God! make him; I will watch over him with my care through all the dark paths which he may have to tread.' Then God made man, and said to him: 'O man, thou art the child of Mercy; go and deal with thy brother.'"

Coarseness and dinginess and ugliness are evils that must sometimes be endured, but ought never to be defended as virtues in themselves. If a bad man lacks refinement, his manners are of a piece with his morals. But for a good man to be common in tastes, ungrammatical in speech, repulsive in personal appearance, and rude in conduct, is a proof that he is willing to put his goodness to a very severe test in the eyes of the world; and that he does not find, from his reading of the Old Testament and the New, that God desires that all things be done decently and in order.—S. S. Times.

The chief glory of Christianity is not in miracle, or prophecy, or ordinance, or civilizing and social influences, but in its power to spiritualize the race, and transplant humanity to heaven. Let us not glory in its superficial wonders, but rather in its essential excellencies and the sublime renewal and purification of souls, which it proposes to accomplish, and to prepare for the new heaven and the new earth.—Western Christian Advocate.

Ex-Congressman Rainey, of South Carolina, said to a representative of the Cleveland (Ohio) Herald: "In Sumter county, at our last election, which occurred in 1878, the Republicans announced that they would hold a meeting in the court-house upon a certain day. The morning of the day about 200 red-shirted gentry came into town from all the surrounding country, and planted a half-dozen cannon in such a position that they bore upon the proposed place of meeting. Two of those implements were loaded with nails, and then the proclamation was issued by the Democrats that if the Republicans attempted to hold a meeting, off would go the cannon. We did not hold any meeting that day. I could tell you dozens of other examples of their whipping their political adversaries, but this one is a fair sample, and is sufficient to demonstrate their feeling."

Southwestern Day.

Remember it, brethren! Use the blanks sent you. Do not lose an old subscriber. Get all the new subscribers you can. Collect all the cash you can on the spot and send it with the names.

To Our Texas Preachers.

We have mailed to all our Texas preachers blank lists to use in getting subscribers for 1880. Make the best canvass you can at once, and bring the lists to Conference. Dr. Hartzell will be present to receive them and settle all accounts.

One Week Later.

The Louisiana and Mississippi Conferences will meet one week later than the time published last week. A private note from Bishop Harris states that the change has been made to accommodate his departure for Mexico after the session of Louisiana Conference. Bishop Harris goes to Mexico to visit our missions in that country.

The Mississippi Conference will meet January 14th, and the Louisiana Conference January 21st.

In the work of appropriating money to the Home and Foreign Missions for next year every mission was carefully discussed, and in some cases an increased appropriation over last year was made. This was the case with several conferences in the South.

On motion of Bishop Haven a new mission was established in Alaska, and $1000 appropriated to it.

As to the debt of our Missionary Society, Dr. Dashiel said: "Our people have done grandly. In three years we have paid $200,000 of the debt, and still we have not shortened our lives. In the same time we have paid on the building $85,000, and added about $48,000 to the permanent fund."

Two thousand dollars were appropriated to be used among the refugees in Kansas. Bishops Simpson, Andrews and Wiley were appointed a committee to direct in its use.

The following are the appropriations and the apportionments in full:

One of the leading men in the church, whose books have found a sale in all lands, writing from his home in New Jersey, gives us the following words of cheer, under date of Nov. 11, 1879:

DEAR BRO. HARTZELL—I have read a few numbers of your ADVOCATE with great satisfaction. It has the ring of freedom and righteousness in its utterances. It is dignified in tone and manner, and must compel the respect, if not the approval, of Southern men who are maddened by the virus of Bourbonism. [illegible] the Friend of oppressed [illegible] even the Lord our Righteousness [illegible] you!

Protection to Our Ministers.

At the Missionary Committee Meeting last week in New York, Bishop Simpson offered the following resolution, which was almost unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the managers of our Missionary society be requested to examine into complaints about serious injury to our missionaries, and afford them such protection as may be wise and just.

An addition of $5000 was made to the contingent fund to carry this resolution into effect. This means that wherever any of our ministers in any part of the world are maltreated, our grand old church intends to see that justice is done them. One of our missionaries in New Mexico remained in prison three years because there was no one to help him.

Speaking of this resolution, the New York Christian Advocate says: "It was a grand sight to see this great Bishop, whose name is a household word in every loyal family under the old flag, "the greatest preacher on earth," a man with the brain of Paul, the lips of Barnabas, and the spirit of John, standing on the front line urging forward the hosts of Israel, and arranging for care, protection and security for the men in the field and at the front.

"The blood of our martyrs crying from the dust is finding lips and a voice. Todd has not died in vain. The great church, whose name he bore, and whose work he sought to do, never forgets or deserts her children. If the face of murder is covered with a mask, it will be unmasked, and the law will be enforced against the guilty without regard to rank, race, or religion.

"The resolution breathes the spirit of gentleness and of courage. It indicates that though the early Christians were put to death by heathen governments, yet that does not make it necessary for our preachers to die at the hands of the heathen while Christian governments are able to protect them. It believes that Paul was right when he sought shelter under his Roman citizenship. It also indicates that we have furnished too many "soldiers," and too many "nurses," to allow our missionaries to be dogged into the grave because no one can call the attention of the government to their wrongs.

"Of course we shall receive a salute from every rebel battery, baptized or unbaptized, over the whole South. Papers that have never found a word to say against the murder of our missionaries may be expected to shriek about a political church. We simply intend to secure justice from the government. We have settled in the South, and we are contracting for a quiet neighborhood. If any underbrush has to be grubbed up to prevent bushwhacking, we want Uncle Sam to do the grubbing. That is his business. We simply ask for the protection of the law. This resolution of this conservative committee is a notice to all parties concerned; first, to the missionary, whose life is threatened, that he has friends and backing; second, to the outlaws, that they must move out of the Republic to secure immunity; third, to the government, that we shall ask for protection."

The New Constitution of Louisiana.

The proposed new constitution for Louisiana should be rejected at the polls for the following reasons:

1. It is submitted in an unusual manner, tending to defeat a popular judgment on its merits, by requiring an election for officials to serve under it, at the same time with its ratification or rejection. A contest between men and parties, and not a discussion of the organic law, is thereby made the paramount issue.

2. The apportionment of Senators and Representatives of the General Assembly is not based upon an accurate census, or ratio of population, in accord with a republican form of government, and it is specially provided that this basis shall not be changed or altered in any manner until the year 1890.

3. It practically deprives the voter of the privilege of voting for or against the repudiation of the legal State debt. The debt ordinance submitted separately repudiates the legally contracted rate of interest on the State debt; if rejected, the rate of taxation fixed by the constitution will be insufficient to pay either interest or principal.

4. The insufficient rate of taxation to conduct the State government, pay the State debt, etc., seriously endangers, if it does not wholly deprive the public school system of support by the State.

5. The taxing power is to be used to supply citizens of the State who lost a limb or limbs in the military service of the Confederate States with substantial artificial limbs during life, without mentioning or providing for meritorious services of citizens in the National service.

6. The delinquent tax-payers, who, many of them, have inexcusably avoided their just share of support of the government, are to be allowed to settle their accounts with the State in depreciated paper, some of which has no market value to-day.

7. The General Assembly is prohibited from contracting any debt or liability, even though it be to assist needed measures of public improvement, such as railroads, canals, drainage, etc.

8. It renders it impossible to submit to the people any amendment to the constitution before 1884.

9. It creates a judiciary system liable to be conflicting in jurisdiction, and checking appeals to the Supreme Court in many causes of right and justice.

10. It declares gambling to be a vice which the General Assembly may enact laws to suppress, and yet perpetuates the State Lottery Company, and authorizes the formation of other companies.

11. It provides that the vote upon ratification or rejection of the constitution and for State officers, shall be counted by four State officials, two of whom are candidates for re-election under it, and a third interested in the success of a subordinate.

12. It cuts short the term of office of the present State officials one year, against whom no serious complaint has ever been brought by their party, to make way for ambitious aspirants to the succession, repudiation of the State debt, and purely partisan ends.

13. The partisan ends to be secured by the adoption of the new constitution, in favor of Democracy, are, beside a gerrymander of legislative districts to maintain a party supremacy, the change of the date of the general election, for the purpose of avoiding the presence of federal supervisors, or safeguards against bulldozing and ballot-box stuffing.

14. It is not wise, neither is there any need existing at the present time, to change the organic law of the State without full, calm and impartial deliberation.

Letter from Prof. Bean.

The friends of Prof. J. S. Bean, formerly of this city, will be sorry to learn that he is still a great sufferer, with but little hope of his recovery. He writes from his home in Concord, New Hampshire. We quote from his letter as follows:

I am no better, as I can discover. Indeed it is evident to me that I am growing weaker. I do not know but that my affliction is providential. I am studying my Bible with a new, and to me wonderful interest. I never comprehended the sacred truth as now. Perhaps you will ask how it is. Well, I have got hold of Mackintosh's Notes on Geneses, Exodus, etc., which have thrown such marvellous light upon the Scriptures! I read and reflect, and give my mind to it. There is nothing else but this or some similar toil that I can perform. I can use my arms but little, and cannot write much. But I can think considerably and clearly when free from pain. My faith in God and His Christ was never so firm. Come what will; come life or death, come strength or weakness, so the Lord be in it, I rejoice at the hope of His coming, in the prospect of putting off this feebleness and being clothed in His righteousness, and that not because I have wrought any good thing, but because Christ died, because the blood was shed which washed sin away, and brings the sinner into immediate communion with the Father. I avail myself of this privilege of communion, and am saved!

Ah! Brother Hartzell, I am so glad that I came home this last August. John Wesley on shipboard met a number of Moravian Christians—and their communion with God — was so much richer than his or anything he had ever before heard of, that he sought after the sources of their privilege; and once finding these, he too entered into a more exalted manner of Christian life and experience. With these books I have also found a few Christian men who are living apart from the world and studying the word of God. They are a great help to me.

Give my love to each member of your family. Remember me kindly to all inquiring friends. May the Lord bless you and your work.

At a meeting of the Temperance Alliance of Louisiana, composed of nearly 100 delegates, held in the Bible House, New Orleans, Nov. 14, a platform of principles was adopted and a State ticket nominated. For Governor, Daniel Dennett; Lieutenant Governor, Thos. Overton; Attorney General, Robert J. Bowman; Auditor, H. S. Bell; Secretary of State, J. L. Mays; Superintendent of Public Education, R. M. Lusher. We will publish the platform next week. We are glad to see an active and aggressive temperance movement enlisting the attention of so many, prominent citizens.

All the Bishops were present at the late General Committee meeting in New York.

A Mistaken Impression Corrected.

Some prominent gentlemen in this city are under the impression that a decision had been rendered by the Supreme Court of Illinois, excluding colored children from attendance in the public schools of that State, in common with white children. We remember seeing several hundred colored children in a Chicago public school, in which were also several hundred white children—thirteen hundred in all. One of the teachers was a colored lady. In reply to a note to Governor Cullom, of Illinois, making inquiry on this point, the following was received:

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 10, 1879.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Hartzell, New Orleans, La.:

DEAR SIR—In answer to your favor of the 8th inst. the Governor instructs me to say that there has been no decision by the Supreme Court of this State denying admission into the public schools to colored children. Very respectfully,

E. F. LEONARD,
Private Secretary.

New Orleans University.

This institution of learning has been established and is supported by the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Its doors are open to both sexes and all colors. Thorough instruction is given in the Classical, Scientific, Normal and Theological courses of study.

To all young men and women who have an interest in the welfare of their race, we make an earnest appeal for prompt and decisive action on the subject of education. The great importance of an education cannot be overestimated. We must educate or we perish.

Ignorance, vice and crime go together hand in hand; while intelligence, honor and virtue are intimately connected. A man's power for usefulness is measured by the extent of his mental culture. Never before in the history of the world has an education been more necessary to success than it is at the present day. Young man, do you hope to command positions of trust, to fill places of honor and usefulness? If so, you must prepare yourself for the conflict. You must be educated. This is the first thing to be done. Nothing else will do. Nothing else can make good this deficiency. Remember that without intellectual culture, your life work, to a great extent, must prove a failure. If you desire to be an honor to your race, a credit to yourself, and a useful member of society, do not neglect this important matter. Set about it at once, and make preparations for attending some school of high standing. Remember that the New Orleans University has been established especially for your benefit, that every possible effort will there be made for your rapid advancement, and that there you will receive such drill and culture as are necessary to make your life a triumphant success.

An Incidental Fee of one dollar per month is charged for all students, except those belonging to the Theological department. Board and furnished rooms in the buildings, including washing for rooms, $10 per month. Good board can be had for about the same in private families near the University.

Young man, if you have ever had any thought of educating yourself, write to me at once, giving a full account of all your circumstances, your age, your occupation, your advancement in education, the difficulties in your way, if any, and I shall be glad to correspond with you, and may be able to assist you in some way, or make such suggestions as may lead you out of your embarrassments.

Ministers, do not neglect to urge the importance of education among your people. Remember that education is a part of our church work, and by no means should be neglected by you. Request all young men and women of worth and ability in your vicinity to write for catalogues and information, or send in their names and addresses, and I will correspond with them, whence much good may be accomplished. See to it that you use all the means in your power to have such persons educated.

From every part of this land there comes the wailful cry for persons better qualified to preach and to teach. Hence we should have scores of young men and women flocking to our University in which they will be prepared to go out in discharge of the duties demanded of them by the times.

For catalogues, or any information whatever, address,

ISAAC N. FAILOR, Pres't.
No. 188 Race St., New Orleans, La.

Thanks.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 5, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—I want to tender our thanks to Rev. H. W. Key, for $13.10 for the sufferers from yellow fever. May the Lord bless him and all that gave anything. Yours in Christ, H. PRIMM.

THE CANVASS
FOR 1880!

LET IT BEGIN NOW.

We call the attention of our agents to the following:

1. Now is the time to push the canvass for new subscribers for 1880. At this season of the year the people have money. Begin at once.

2. Do not loose one old subscriber. See every one on your list for this year, and urge them to renew for 1880.

3. Collect money now due and forward it at once. Forward all you can now, and be prepared to settle up everything at conference.

4. The SOUTHWESTERN costs only $2 a year, that is about four cents a week. We pay the postage.

5. Send for specimen copies whenever you need them, and they will be sent free.

6. We give no picture premium next year. But we do better. We place within the reach of all our subscribers a most valuable book worth $2, for 50 cents. Read the following carefully:

A Valuable Book

Offered to Yearly Subscribers of the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880,

AT A REDUCED RATE.

Home and Health and Home Economics,

A Cyclopædia of Facts and Hints for all Departments of Home Life, Health, and Domestic Economy.

—BY—

C. H. FOWLER, D. D., LL. D.,
—AND—
W. H. DE PUY, A. M., D. D.

The above-named book, a 12mo., 352 pages, bound in cloth, we offer to each yearly subscriber of the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880, who may send us $2 50 cash—$2 for the paper, and 50 CENTS for the book. It treats of everything necessary to make a happy, elegant, healthful Christian home. The purpose is to take the average Methodist home, where the parents earnestly desire the improvement, refinement, health, and spirituality of their children, and put within the reach of such a family the means necessary to secure these ends by a fair application of the principles laid down, and of the suggestions offered. The subjoined title and table of contents will show its scope. It has been prepared by a careful consultation of the biggest authorities on the many themes treated.

Our South'n Methodism

MISSISSIPPI.

D. D. Goodwin, Vicksburg: "The stewards of my church, Bros. Freeman, Stith and Jackson, and sister Cormu have their whole hearts in the work of the Master. Elder H. R. Revels was with us recently and gave us a great help. Eight have been received in full connection since my last. Improvements in the parsonage have been made. We are preparing to raise our missionary money."

I. B. Griffin, Holly Springs circuit: "Our beloved presiding elder, J. G. Johnson has been with us two days. He preached a fine sermon on Thursday night, and lectured Friday on Kansas and the exodus in general, which was very interesting. At night Bro. J. W. Johnson preached the sacramental sermon, and elder Johnson administered the Lord's supper to the members of the church, besides to an immense number from other denominations. The collection was $8.25, of which we paid the elder $7. On the following Sunday we baptized 34 adults and 6 children. The congregation also raised $7 for the pastor. Our Sunday school is in a prosperous condition, under the charge of Bro. Reeves. I am proud to say that the Lord has been with us and blessed us during the year. My people have raised $100 during the two years which I have been here. There have been 75 accessions."

TEXAS.

J. R. Carnes, Lockhart: "We have just finished paying our church debt, the sum of $112. We gave a festival and made $95.10. Rev. M. Henson was with up on the 27-28th, and lectured our people upon the importance of education. I feel that Bro. Henson's lecture has left a lasting impression on the minds of the people. They want to hear him again. Rev. L. Carper, P. E., was with us Saturday, Sunday and to-day. He preached for us. We had a good time. The Holy Ghost seemed to fill the hearts of the whole church. Many of the Baptists partook with us. Our collection was small, $6 05; making a total for the year of $30.60."

LOUISIANA.

The quarterly love feasts of our large city churches are occasions of great interest. Last week over eight hundred people were present at the love feast at Wesley Chapel, and nearly five hundred at First Street Church. The testimonies of hundreds were given, and great religious enthusiasm was manifested. Pastor Dale, at Wesley, and Pastor Green, at First Street, are closing up successful years of work.

At the Sixth Street Church, New Orleans, Rev. Wm. Smith pastor, the steward sisters gave an entertainment to purchase the pastor a suit, and cleared $13.80. To complete the desired object, leaders of class No. 4, Bros. Peter Hitson and Benjamin Jeffrey, and other members gave another entertainment on the night of Nov. 1, clearing $30.10. Thus far the congregation is free from debt, and is growing in grace and zeal for the Lord's work.

Pineville Associations.

MR. EDITOR—At the annual meeting in this month of the Pineville M. E. Church Cemetery Association the following officers were elected to serve the fifth year: H. J. Wright (re-elected) president; Mrs. L. Ambler, vice president; L. J. Kennedy, secretary; Horace Reason, treasurer; Rev. J. F. Marshall, chaplain; Asa Garrett, marshal; George Davis, sexton.

Members buried, by secretary's report, three; amount paid for burial, $64. A balance on hand.

At the second annual meeting of the Pineville Lutheran Benevolent Society the following officers were elected: H. J. Wright, president; Chas. H. Why, vice president; H. Robinson, secretary; J. W. Burley, assistant secretary; Peter Good, chaplain; Martha Taylor, treasurer; Wm. Pritchard, sergeant at arms; James Green, stewart.

The amount expended for the sick, $22; balance on hand, $44.

Blanks.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to say to the preachers of the Mississippi Conference that I have sent to the presiding elders the blanks used by preachers in making their reports to the annual Conference. Please get them, and while at home with access to the records, make out your reports to the conference correctly, and if you don't go to Conference, send your report, so that every charge in the Mississippi Conference may be correctly reported in the minutes.

IF SUCCESS be the true test of merit, it is certainly a settled fact that "Brown's Bronchial Troches" have no equal for the prompt relief of Coughs, Colds and Throat troubles.

Pleasant Plains Chapel.

MR. EDITOR—It has been some time since I have said anything about my work. We are advancing by degrees. We have been able to ceil the basement of our church, and paid every cent on the lumber and labor, and have made a new altar or pulpit. We have also painted the front of our church and the fence in front of it. We have paid a little on the interest to the Church Extension Board, which is the only debt, and a small note in the hands of one of our trustees and yourself. We are doing the best we can. The trustees have done well so far. Times have been so that my members could get no work, or we would have paid more of our debt; yet God has blessed us. Some of my members have gone to Kansas in search of work. This is my third year with this people, and I have lost none, but have gathered a few, and kept them together with the help of the good Lord on my side; also the SOUTHWESTERN has been introduced into the church.

Our third quarterly conference was held on the 10th of October. George Sascot was elected secretary. At the close, the chairman, Rev. R. Williams, gave us some very encouraging words in relation to the success of the work of the church, and was to preach for us on the 19th, but his wife was so ill that he could not come. We regret his loss and distress.

Our Sunday-school gave an exhibition on the third of November. The little children made speeches and sung so that it made all of our hearts glad that saw and heard them. It was the first that they have had, and the parents were [illegible] pleased. Miss Mary Ann [illegible] and Joseph Dutch gave us a [illegible] of music at the close. The superintendent and teachers deserve credit for this part of the church work. It was a success. We have a fine Sabbath-school. The [illegible] teaches a class in it.

Sister Emmaretta Ebbs died Nov. 8, 1879. She was a native of Louisiana, and resided in New Orleans. She was born in St. Mary's Parish in 1842, and came to this city near the close of the war, and has remained here ever since. She was converted in 1878, and departed this life as above mentioned, in the full triumph of faith. In the hour of her departure she said: "Lord, I have done all that I can do, and cannot do any more. Wilt Thou please take me out of my sufferings?" Some one asked her if she was ready to go, and she said: "I have been ready long ago. The King has been here, and I am awaiting his return. He said that He would come again, and take me to Himself." She was of a good moral and religious character, and respected by all who knew her. She leaves two children and many friends to mourn her loss.

We speak knowingly when we assert that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is the best article of the kind sold on the American Continent. Personal trial has demonstrated this, and the article is an elegant and cleanly one, without which we think no toilet complete. Messrs. Johnston, Holloway & Co., 602 Arch street, Philadelphia, are agents for the article, and when our Philadelphia friends return from Cape May they should certainly procure some of it. We know of no such article extant for the hair, and thus speak in such decided and emphatic terms.—Ocean Foam, Cape May, N. J.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—Harper's Young People is a new illustrated publication of Harper & Bros., just commenced. Terms $1.50 per year. Like all that comes from that house, it is excellent in taste, illustration and typography.

—Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for December closes the sixth semi-annual volume. Its 129 pages teem with articles of rare merit. The magazine is an instructive and pleasant companion. It inculcates lessons of purity, nobleness of purpose and action, charity, humanity, and philanthropy, and should be found in every family in the country. It induces grandmother to lay aside her knitting and put on her spectacles, and has an attraction for the smallest child in its wealth of pictures. In the present number there are articles replete with valuable information; stories and sketches of great interest by popular writers; poems of merit, and an abundant miscellany, embracing an almost endless variety of subjects. Terms—single copies, 25 cts., annual subscription, $3. You can subscribe six months on payment of $1.50, and for four months for $1, sent postpaid. Address Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

—The Preacher and Homiletic Monthly for November has "The Widow's Two Mites," by A. P. Peabody, D. D; "Whence the Words of Eternal Life—the Scientist's and Peter's Answers Contrasted," by Samuel A. Ort, D. D.; "Consecrated Womanhood," to Young Women, by S. V. Leech, D. D.; "The Noblest Ministry," by John Hall, D. D.; "Christ and the Perfect Character," by J. M. Manning, D. D.; "God's Providence," by E. A. Washburne, D. D.; "The Average Man," by Rev. F. E. Clark; "The Enriching Power of God," by Noah Schenck, D. D.; "The Thirst of Christ," by Rev. James Stuart. Children's Service—"King Bramble and His Subjects," by Rev. Albert F. Vedder; a second able paper by Dr. Deems; on "Preachers and Reporters;" a second, "Brotherly Talk with Young Ministers," by Dr. Cuyler; a fifth paper on "Expository Preaching," by Dr. William M. Taylor. This monthly is full of suggestions to clergymen. Price, $2.50 per year; 25 cents single number. I. K. Funk & Co., 21 Barclay St., New York.

—Harper's Magazine for December opens with an article entitled "The Fortunes of the Bonapartes," with sixteen fine portraits of the most prominent members of the Bonaparte family. "Sea-Drift from a New England Port," by Lizzie W. Champney, contains curious information respecting New London society a hundred years ago. Miss J. L. Cloud continues her picturesque description of Irish scenery. Earnest Ingersoll contributes a paper on Atlanta, Ga. "The Palestine of To-Day," by Dr. J. F. Hurst, is illustrated with engravings from Dr. Thompson's "The Land and the Book." Miss T. E. Fryatt describes the "New York Cooking School;" "Blossoms" is an exquisite little poem by Philip O. Sullivan; Longfellow contributes a poem, the subject of which is an iron pen, made from a fetter of Bonnivard, the prisoner of Chillon—the handle of [illegible] the frigate Constitution, [illegible] with a circlet of gold, [illegible] three precious stones [illegible] Ceylon and Maine; [illegible] contributes "A [illegible] Story." NEW BOOKS.

WHITE ROBES. By A. J. Abbey and M. J. Munger. Published by Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, Mass.

A choice collection of songs, quartets and choruses for Sunday-schools and devotional meetings. There are 125 songs and hymns which have been sharply criticised and "reviewed" previous to publication. A neat, well-bound book with a pretty cover, and a suggestive name.

ROOM FOR ONE MORE. By Mary Thacher Higginson. Boston; Lee & Shepard: New Orleans; J. C. Eyrich, Canal street.

A cloth-bound 12 mo. young folks story book of 255 printed pages. Mrs. Higginston is a capital story writer, and nothing better for a holiday present in the way of a book for those in their teens could be selected than one of her volumes.

Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed is a compound fluid extract of smart-weed, or water-pepper, Jamaica ginger, and other ingredients known to be efficacious in curing colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, blood-flux and kindred affections. It also breaks up colds, fevers and inflammatory attacks. Sold by druggists.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desires it, this receipt, in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

"You Don't Know their Value."

"They cured me of Ague, Biliousness and Kidney Complaint as recommended. I had a half bottle left which I used for my two little girls, who the doctors and neighbors said could not be cured. I am confident I should have lost both of them one night if I had not had the Hop Bitters in my house to use. I found they done them so much good I continued with them, and they are now well. That is why I say you do not know half the value of Hop Bitters, and do not recommend them high enough."—B., Rochester, N. Y.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Females suffering from pain and weakness will derive great comfort and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where children are affected with whooping cough, ordinary coughs or colds or weak lungs, it is the one and only treatment they should receive. This article contains new medicinal elements such as is found in no other remedy in the same form. It is far superior to common porous plasters, liniments, electrical appliances and other external remedies. It relieves pain at once, strengthens and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. For Lame and Weak Back, Rheumatism, Kidney disease and all local aches and pains it is also the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents.

A girl of 14, "with a cough From Infancy," radically cured.

RICHMOND, Va., April 2, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—My niece, fourteen years of age, had been subject more or less to a troublesome cough from her infancy. After some persuasion I induced her parents to try your "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY," and now, after using three or four bottles, I consider her entirely cured; appetite, color and vigor restored, and she goes about cheerful and happy, looking the very picture of health. I regard it as the best remedy I have ever known used for bronchial affections of the throat.

DANIEL E. GARDNER.

A Gentleman, who was not expected to live but a few weeks, cured of desperate Bronchitis and Diseased Lungs.

DE VILLIER'S INSTITUTE, 212 N. 12th street, Richmond, Va., March 8, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—I arrived in this city with my family in December, 1877. I was in a complete state of exhaustion and debility, in consequence of long suffering from an affection of Bronchia, or of the lungs, or rather any both. I was not expected to live but very few weeks or months at the most. In March, 1878, to please my wife, I consented to try the "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY." I had no faith whatever in it or any other medicine. I had absorbed dozens of Cod Liver Oil without effect. I soon became convinced of the merits of the Remedy; it gave me, after a few doses, a sound rest at night, it regulated the bowels, it subdued the severe fits of coughing occasionally followed by spitting of blood, and gave me great relief. It is a soothing cordial, an excellent purifier, and an unsurpassing regulator. I am now living and doing well. I make daily 6 or 7 hours class (hard teaching). I have taken in all 5 or 6 bottles. Perhaps I ought to have taken a few bottles more. I wish it was in my power to induce every poor sufferer to try one bottle. It will speak for itself at once. You can use my name freely, and refer any one to me personally, if you think I can have any influence in the matter.

Very truly yours, CHARLES DE VILLERS.

The New Hymnal

The Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences at their late sessions, made it the duty of every preacher having charge of a station or circuit to see that their pulpits were supplied with a New Hymnal, and all were to use their influence in having the people supply themselves with Hymnals and to use them in the public congregation and in social meetings.

We are now prepared to supply the following styles of the Hymnal at the prices named. Our terms are cash before sending, or we will send by express C. O. D. Specimen copies sent by mail on receipt of price

Lectures on Preaching

Delivered before the Theological Students of Yale, College.

By Rev. Matthew Simpson, D.D., LL.D.

(One of the Bishops of the M. E. Church.)

Cloth, 12mo. Price.........$1.50

These admirable Lectures embrace the following topics, delivered in the order here stated:

Lecture I. The Nature and Work of the Christian Ministry.
Lecture II. The Call to the Ministry.
Lecture III. The Preacher Personally.
Lecture IV. Indirect Preparation for the Pulpit.
Lecture V. The Preparation of a Sermon.
Lecture VI. The Delivery of a Sermon.
Lecture VII. Ministerial Power.
Lecture VIII. The Influence of the Pastorate on the Pulpit.
Lecture IX. Collateral and Miscellaneous Work.
Lecture X. Is the Modern Pulpit a Failure?

It is needless to say that these topics are treated in a masterly manner—clearly, forcibly, practically; as becomes both the gravity and importance of the subjects discussed, and the reputation of their author as a "workmen who needeth not to be ashamed." No minister should be without them, as none can carefully and thoughtfully read them without profit. In them there is nothing showy, but they present the ripe fruit of the matured thought of a long period of ministerial usefulness and oversight. They are weighty, well-considered teachings.

This book will be sent by mail on receipt of price. Address,

NEW CHURCH RECORD.

We can now sell the "Record" at a price much less than we have ever been able to do. It is a large quarto, containg about 180 pages, divided into seven sections, namely:

Record of Pastors.
Record of Classes.
Record of Official Members.
Alphabetical Record of Full Members.
Record of Probationers.
Record of Baptisms.
Record of Marriages.

We are confident that this record will meet the demand long felt, namely, a cheap book, suitable for a majority of our churches. Price, $2.50.

Young Folks' Corner.

A QUESTION TO THE CHILDREN.

Are you shining for Jesus, children,
So that the holy light
May enter the hearts of others,
And make them glad and bright?
Have you spoken a word for Jesus,
And told to some around
What he declares about Him,
What a Savior you have found?
Have you lifted the lamp for others
That guided your own glad feet?
Have you echoed the loving message
That seemed to you so sweet?
Little crosses, little cares,
Little things that give us pain,
As we bear them ill or well,
Turn to endless loss or gain.
Little trials now may bring
Golden lessons to the heart,
Which, perhaps, in after years,
Sharper sorrow must impart.

Little Sins.

Charlie was spending the winter with his married sister. Every one thought him a good boy; indeed, he himself was quite sure that he could do nothing wrong. One day, as he was passing the pantry, he saw a box of raisins. They were the largest raisins that he had ever seen. He stopped leisurely and took bunch after bunch, and then slipped away, feeling like a thief, and yet thinking, "It's only a little thing." This he did day after day, until there was quite a hole in the box of raisins. Still no one seemed to notice it.

One day a visitor told the following story at the dinner table:

"Walking through a fine park two years before, he had seen a large sycamore tree. A wood worm about three inches long was forcing its way under the bark of the trunk. 'Ah!' said the gentleman who was with him, 'in time that worm will kill the tree.'

"'A hard thing to believe,' said the child.

"'By and by you will see,' said the elder.

"Soon the worm was found to have gotten quite a distance under the bark. The next summer the leaves dropped off earlier than usual. Something serious seemed ailing the tree. When the next spring came, just two years from the time he began its work—the tree died. The hole made by the worm could be seen in the very heart of the trunk.

"'You were right,' said the gentleman; 'the tree was ruined by a worm only three inches long.' How a worm could do such harm, I know not what people call 'little' to do to a man or woman, a child.

"I felt the blood rush into my face. He was sure every one was talking about the raisins, and the story was told on purpose. I was not dare to look up from his plate. After dinner they all went into the parlor; but as no one took notice of him, Charlie thought he must be mistaken. I began to feel now, as never before, that God knew all about it. I think he was tempted to forget what was not remembered what the worm was doing.

"'That is just what I am in my soul,' he thought. He was in fear, and ran away as quickly as possible; nor could he be quiet until he had told his sister the story. Then he went with her to his heavenly Father, and asked that all sin might be taken from him, for the sake of Jesus Christ, a new heart be put within him.—

Tom Bell was a good boy, and his neighbor, the village carpenter, was good, I really believe, more generally than any one who ever lived in this very well in all things, and he doesn't think it's worth two thousand dollars on subscription, or any other object. He never moves into a town to dress with and be a neighborly and helpful little service to his fellows, he is usually on the stage or a steamboat. He is a good deal of a stick, and is often in the way, being very awkward. He is not very graceful, and is often in the way. He never lived in

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brothers Bill and Elijah. They left us in 1864 in Sunflower Co., Miss., and we have not heard from them since. There are six brothers and two sisters. We all belonged to Pitt Gillespie in Sunflower Co., and were named James, Henry, Elijah, Bill, Stephen, Peter, Hannah and Esther. We now go by the name of Johnson. Address me at Greenwood, Leflore Co., Miss.

STEPHEN JOHNSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to learn of my kin folks. I was sold away from them in Waynesboro, Miss., in 1862. I had three sisters, Ann, Mary Elizabeth and Lillie Levancy. The youngest child was James Franklin. Father, Abram, belonged to Judge Shaw, at Winchester, Miss. I belonged to Gilbert Taylor, and had two uncles, Isaac and Andrew Taylor. I was sold to Dave Campbell, and was carried to Texas. Address me at Hearne Station, Robertson Co., Texas. I now go by the name of HENRY ABRAM.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to inquire about some lost friends of mine. The last I saw of them they were in Georgia. Two brothers were last heard from in Texas, Gus Mike and Ransom Mike; the other Frank Mike, was in Alabama. There were two sisters in Georgia, Sinta and Harriet Mike. I married Wm. McKane and moved to Mississippi. I have not heard from any of them since. Edie McKane is my sister-in-law. If any be found address me in care of Levi Watson, Shuqualak, Miss.

MRS. WM. MCKANE.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brother, whom I last saw in Georgetown, D. C., Oct. 12, 1860, and have heard of him through letters, but not since 1875. I know not whether he is dead or alive. Mother's name is Emmaline Grey. Her first husband's name was Richard Skinner. She is yet alive, as is also her last husband, Jordan Grey. Sister Harriet is alive; sister Mary Ann is dead. I will not mention all the kindred. I belonged to Mrs. Ann Jeloco Chnw, the widow of Phrisby Chnw. Brother's name is Edward Avington. Address me at Valden, Miss.

REV. J. C. SKINNER.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to obtain some knowledge of the whereabouts of my relations. Mother's name is Jenule Bowyer. I left her in Fairfield District, S.C. She used to belong to Mike Bowyer. Brother's name was Fred Barker. He was willed to Wm. Barker, who carried him to Georgia. Sister Maria Barker went with him. Sister Lucy was willed to Isaac Tharp. I left her in South Carolina. Sister Malilda was willed to Marlon Burns, in South Carolina. Adeline Cammon wishes information of her sister, Maria Terrel, whom she left in Quincy, Miss. She used to belong to Mormon Terrel. Any information concerning the above named parties will be prayerfully received by Morgan Cammon, or his wife, Adeline Cammon, at Luling, Caldwell Co., Texas.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to make inquiry for my people through the SOUTHWESTERN. I left them in Jefferson Co., Virginia. Father's name was Jarreth Booman. He belonged to a widow woman, who lived on the public road from Charleston to Shepherd's Town. Mother's name was Leanah Booman She belonged to Bill Clevan, and was sold and left five children, Isaac, Alfred, Eastram, Karreth and Kissey. Sister Kissie lived at Ekleberger. Brother Karreth lived with Wm. Lock. I had an aunt who lived with Robert T. Brown. She had two children, William and Frances Wheeler. I was brought to Texas by a trader. Any information of the above will be thankfully received. My name used to be Martha Booman. Address me at Burnham, Washington Co., Texas.

MY THREE TREASURES.

BY MRS. E. C. JUDSON.

I have a steed—a bounding steed,
With a form as lithe as a bending reed,
And limbs like the petrel's wing;
With his airy form and step of grace,
His eye of love and his beaming face,
Oh, he is a beautiful thing.

I have a lamb—a household pet;
Like the blue of June, when the sun has set,
Is his soft and dreamy eye;
He frolics and gambols the live-long day,
Then turns, and, lisping, asks the way
To the Shepherd's fold on high.

I have a bird—life's dawning light
All quivering, beautiful and bright,
Upon her radiant wing;
Sweet as the chime of silver bells,
Or voices of Spring in their woodland dells,
Do her broken carols ring.

Rare, rare the gems in my love-crown set,
But sin has a poison to canker and fret,
And its stain even now they wear,
With a trembling heart and bended knee,
I bear them, Son of God, to thee,
Oh, heed a mother's prayer!

For the Southwestern.

A Very Suggestive Fact.

BY REV. D. WISE, D. D.

The Methodism of the Southern [illegible] was a very potent factor in [illegible] social life of the South before [illegible]. That it still wields a [illegible] force is evident from [illegible] statement of its rela[illegible] numbers as totally given in [illegible] Nashville Christian Advocate, [illegible]

[illegible] about eight hundred [illegible] communicants in the [illegible] Methodist Church. In [illegible] there must be al[illegible] connected with [illegible] families and [illegible] Methodist influence, [illegible] church registers. [illegible] in every fourteen [illegible] South is a Southern [illegible] one in every seven [illegible] Southern Methodist [illegible]

[illegible] well "think of it," [illegible] on the condi[illegible], what must [illegible] the influence [illegible] Methodist [illegible] Church touches [illegible]. It must [illegible] responsi[illegible] opinion [illegible] because large [illegible] have [illegible] by its teach[illegible] of the Northern people generally is too highly developed among us to look passively, not to say complacently, on such vices as are not only practiced but gloried in by our Southern friends.

"Yet one in every seven" of that population which glories in its own wickedness is, as the Nashville Advocate assures us, "under direct Southern Methodist influence." As we "think of it," we wonder if that influence be against repudiation, political persecution and savage oppression of rogues, why we do not hear vigorous protests from the lips of that one seventh of the people on whom it directly touches. Ah! if that one seventh were properly taught it would be righteously indignant. And then those vices which are now rampant in the South would, if not extinguished, be at least made as disreputable as they are in the North.

But we greatly fear that Southern Methodism, if not in positive sympathy with the dominant evils around it, is dumb in their presence. It counts them as among political matters, and it is the boast of that Methodism that it does not meddle with politics. In this it appears to ignore the example of the Master, who bade his hearer "render unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's and unto God the things that are God's." The enforcement of this principle would show the people that public honesty, political oppression, bull-dozing and kindred misdeeds are among the things which God will take cognizance in the hour of judgment, and which he expects his church to rebuke through its public ministrations and discipline. But the Southern Church "does not meddle with politics," and therefore the vices of political life flourish under its very altars. We greatly fear that while it refrains from meddling with politics, it is encouraging politics to meddle with its own life, and to soil its own morality.

Inconsistencies of Southern Christians.

BY REV. A. E. P. ALBERT.

During these days of heated debates, while the political South is being unmasked upon the stumps and rostrum, I am sorry to have to exhibit to public scorn and derision the "solid Christian South;" but duty demands it, and I assume the task. While I would not appear as harshly judging one of the least of God's little ones, I feel perfectly warranted in questioning the integrity of a vast majority of the Protestant whites of the various Southern churches. As I look upon their glaring inconsistencies, prejudices and hypocrisy, were it not that my faith is well founded, they would have terribly shaken my confidence in the Christian religion. Professing to be the disciples of Him who preached the Gospel to the poor, what are they doing for the salvation of the poorest of the poor—the Negroes of the South? How many churches have they built? How many schools or universities have they established for the accommodation of the despised race since the war? Where is the list of munificent donors to the colored Wilberforce University from the Southern whites? How many missionaries have they supported, or even encouraged, in evangelizing these poor degraded people? Which beloved disciple of theirs dare raise an untrammeled voice in our behalf? Who of our rich Southern Christian neighbors are supporting poor but worthy young men in the study of the ministry, preparatory to their being missionaries among the "chicken and hog-stealing freedmen?" Where are the supporters of Northern enterprise established to raise the colored people of the South? Having no special organized movement to discipline these people, one would suppose that they are allowed to enter the white institutions, the churches, etc., that are already established; but what white pastor [illegible] admit even one on equal terms [illegible] the whites? Where is the Southern Peter that perceived and [illegible] emphatically declare that "God [illegible] respecter of person?" Can [illegible] Southern churches produce [illegible] to proclaim the inspired [illegible] hath made of [illegible] nations of men," and [illegible] in Christ there is [illegible] Jew, circum[illegible] Barbar[illegible] free; for [illegible] May the [illegible] laborers and the true spirit of Christianity.

Judge whether the following illustrative incidents display the spirit of Christ, who says if any man has not this spirit he is none of His:

Sometime ago one of our trustees was sent to buy a tree with which to make boards, to cover our parsonage, from a prominent Episcopalian planter, who was a member of the council of last spring, which convened to fill the vacancy created by Bishop Wilmer's death, when the following dialogue occurred:

Trustee—"I want to buy a tree; what will you charge me for one?"

Episcopal Bro.—"Well, Zack, being it is for you, you may have one for $2.50."

T.—"It is not exactly for me, but for my church."

E. B.—"Ah, well, if it is for a church it is worth $5."

And we had to pay that amount for it, or do without. As our church is as well appreciated as any other colored church in the neighborhood, I can ascribe this uncharitableness of our Southern Episcopal brother to nothing but Negrophobia. Although there are noble exceptions, this is a fair example of the extent they go in providing churches or school-houses for the despised Negro. Again, I am reliably informed that a certain well-known and respectable colored planter, a man of fine bearing and high culture, one of the richest planters of this State, applied for admission to the white Episcopal Church here. Although there is no colored branch of that denomination here, because he was known to be of Negro extraction he was denied admission. He is greeted jovially on the streets, made welcome in the Planters' Association, and in the caucuses of their party, (for he is a Democrat,) but cannot have his name written upon their church book.

Think of such spurious Christianity that forbids men joining Christ's visible church because they have Negro blood in their veins! What is your opinion of the consistency of that church which sends missionaries to Africa, Asia, and the distant isles of the sea, to invite heathens to enter the church, and refuses admission to applicants at her door?

The following incident illustrates, if possible, a still more shameful truth: During the month of June a large number of my friends and members desired that I should invite a certain white minister of this town to preach for me, in order that they might hear him, and probable be benefited by his words. He declined in these words: "I would be happy to comply with your request if I could be satisfied good would thereby be accomplished. * * * I will be pleased to confer with you in a personal interview, and to express myself more fully with regard to the subject of your proposal than I care to do in a note of this kind." What a comment could be written upon these facts. I have produced the facts—let the reader supply his own comment.

The last point: An aged white bachelor was to be buried this morning, having never made a profession of religion to the knowledge of any one. The Roman Catholic priest refused to bury him. All other white ministers being absent, rather than call upon me, a regular ordained minister of the Gospel, whose life before this people has been blameless, the friends of this old gentleman called upon a lawyer, who makes no particular profession of religion, to read the Methodist Ritual over the dead body. What do you think of such Christianity? These incidents do not represent the exceptions, but the rule of Southern Christian action, and they illustrate four very unfortunate truths, viz.:

1. That they will not help us build churches for ourselves.

2. That they will not admit us in theirs.

3. That they will not preach for us.

4. That they would rather have a nominal Christian lawyer, if he be white, to officiate in the deep things of God for them than a minister "clothed in righteousness," if he be tainted with Negro blood.

Thank God for worthy and noble exceptions, but they are comparatively too few, God grant, to purify the Southern Protestant Churches, before their prejudices [illegible] inconsistencies drive the colored people to Romanism or perdition.

A Colored Bishop.

Mr. Editor—The question of a Colored Bishop is now agitating the minds of some of our ministers so much that I am compelled to write a word as to what I think on the subject. I differ with every one that has stated his reasons as the basis upon which he wanted a colored bishop. In the meantime I have waited to see some man put in nomination—one that they think has the qualities that a bishop ought to have. I, for one, do not want a man ordained to the office of bishop because he is either white or colored, rich or poor; but because he is first needed, and second, he is qualified for that position to do the good we so much stand in need of nowadays. References have been made to other Methodist denominations for examples. I don't think any of them have set any examples for us to go by more than have been set in the M. E. Church, for the benefit of our children. In the South the M. E. Church has more than twenty schools for the education of the poor and needy, and aids in the support of the ministry, in building churches and supplying poor schools with books, etc., while the other Methodist denominations of color have in many places neglected the moral and mental elevation of the people too much, for the sake of gaining large memberships and fine church buildings. In view of the material condition of our people in the South, they have been forced to go too far with their money. If one-half of the money expended in church property in the South had been put into school buildings, and the money wasted on railroad and steamboat excursions, with many of the ministers at their head, paid to educate ministers and support teachers, our people would have been better off. Upon the general plans of the M. E. Church I think no one need apprehend any danger of losing many members by having no colored bishop. Many of the older [illegible] may stay away, and many more may leave, but it must be remembered that the church was here when they came into the world, and will be here when they leave it. If they will leave and stay away we cannot help it; neither should we worry about it, since we meet in heaven. The church is here to benefit succeeding generations for all time to come. Therefore, I hope that our ministers, with all their intelligence, will be careful as to how they agitate this question of color, and all other subjects touching the color line. I have had bishops and elders and ministers in the colored churches to speak to me about not being in church with them or some other colored denomination. To them I offered no apology, but avoided answering by saying we preferred being as we were until circumstances ordered a change. I know that there are many of our white brethren who are ashamed to associate with us in the presence of our enemies. Also there are many of our colored brethren who are ambitious, and want to be bishops and elders in the church. I hope the general conference will do nothing to suit the prejudices of either white or colored. I think the more intelligent way to discuss the subject of a colored bishop would be to state what qualifications a man should have to merit him to the office of a bishop, and the next would be to bring the man out and let us all see who he is, as it concerns so many of us. I think several good men might be mentioned. At the same time I am in favor of the selection of a bishop of African descent, if he can be found, and would compare favorably with the rest of the bishops in our church. If one should be selected to take charge of the colored members of the M. E. Church would it not be just what the Church South has done? I hope that the M. E. Church will stand by her principles, and not let her colors flag in 1880. That was done too much in 1876.

Now I will conclude by saying that if a man of African descent can be found with the qualifications required, let us have him to preside over all the conferences when his term comes with the other bishops, and if there is no one qualified, let us have no one; and if nothing will do but a bishop of African descent to represent the colored race and nothing more. The general conference will have to be very careful as to the color of the man, for there is about as much prejudice existing between the mulattoes and blacks as there is between whites and colored. So, then, if the people make color the basis of their agitation, and will have a man of African descent, let us have one of full-blooded African descent. Yours truly,

W. O. LYNCH.

Ecumenical Conference.

JOINT MEETING OF COMMITTEES.

The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in session in Baltimore, in May, 1876, adopted a series of resolutions, proposing an Ecumenical Conference of Methodism, and providing for the appointment of a committee to further the design of the General Conference by correspondence and otherwise. The undersigned, with the addition of Bishop Edward R. Ames, LL. D., and Rev. L. D. Barrows, who have deceased, were appointed such committee. We deem it proper at this time to state what we have done in the discharge of the duties assigned us, and to make a suggestion for the future. We have laid the matter of the proposed Ecumenical Conference before the representative bodies of the Methodist Protestant Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the American Wesleyan Church, and the Evangelical Association of the United States; also before the representative bodies of the Methodist Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada, and the Wesleyan Methodists of Great Britain. Every one of these representative assemblies has taken action in favor of an Ecumenical Conference of Methodism, and has appointed a committee, or provided for its appointment, to act in this business and for the furtherance of the objects stated.

It seems now to be necessary that there should be a joint meeting of these committees, or of their chairmen, or of some one or more persons authorized to act in their stead, to prepare a call for such Ecumenical Conference, determining the time and place of meeting, suggesting a basis of representation, and providing for essential preliminary details.

We would, therefore, respectfully propose that such joint meeting be held in Cincinnati on Thursday, May 6, 1880; and we express our earnest desire that it may be attended, not only by the representatives of the several Methodist bodies which have taken action in favor of an Ecumenical Conference, but also, as far as practicable, by authorized representatives of all other Methodist organizations in every part of the world.

We would furthermore call on all Christians, and especially on all Methodists, to offer continually fervent prayers to Almighty God that he may be pleased to further this godly design with his blessing, so that it may redound to his glory, and may result in a large increase of the spirituality, unity, and prosperity of his church, and the more speedy conversion of the world to our Lord Jesus Christ.

Tribute to Senator Chandler.

At a mass-meeting held last Sunday evening in the Hanover-street church, this city, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., the following handsome tribute to the late Senator Chandler was paid by the Rev. Dr. C. W. Wallace:

"He commenced his remarks by saying that he found one truth running through the entire Bible, present in every declaration. It was the truth that men whose hearts were not given to God were never satisfied with this life. We find men ready to confess their sins, but they are not satisfied. They live stretching after something they cannot find and never will find until they come to Him. This restlessness of spirit and want of something is the observation of us all. It is in many instances our own experience. The longer I live and the more I study the blessed word, the grander and grander appear the thoughts of Jesus Christ. It was only yesterday (Saturday) that the wires brought us the sad news of the death of a man born just across the river; of a man who had not only been in the Senate-chamber, but in the rooms of the Capitol. He had stood high among the ablest men of the country. Although he had many enemies, he had, like every strong man, strong friends as well. He is now gone. But I believe that during all his years of political life he was never charged with corruption in office. You will ask why do I refer to him? I will tell you. In youth and the long ago he professed to have an interest in the Savior. He was called upon to part with a brother who had studied for the ministry, and who went down with the hand of consumption before he reached the pulpit. A little while after a second brother entered the same profession, but the same disease came to him, and he was obliged to leave for Cuba in hopes of recovery, but instead of recovery death came, and on its near approach he sent for his brother who has just died to close his eyes. He went and was with him at his death. In that country there was no opportunity of holding a Protestant burial service, and the mourners were obliged to take the body and steal out of the room at night and dig a grave and drop it in. They did so. The night was dark and rainy, and when the hour came they took the coffin and carried it to the open grave. (This man in the description of the scene afterward said: "I could not bear to see the body of my beloved brother buried without a prayer above his grave.") There was no minister there, no brother or Christ, and this brother whose death has just been recorded knelt there in the rain and mud, seeking the divine blessing. This man has stood in the eye of the civilized world as the associate of presidents, of senators, and of leading political men for the last quarter of a century, but never did he stand in a relation so honorable as when he stood by the open grave of his brother and sought the blessing of Almighty God. Were I a painter, that would be the scene; were I a sculptor, that would be the tale that I would tell to all coming generations. It is, my young friends, noble, dignifying, honorable, the highest manhood, the noblest position for this life to be a Christian. From the Manchester, N. H., Mirror and Farmer, Nov. 8, 1879.

Platform of Principles of Louisiana Temperance Party.

Acting upon the inalienable and inherent right of independent citizenship, and in the free and untrammelled exercise of the franchise, we deem it but proper and just that we should set forth before the public a clear and succinct statement of the causes and motives that have given birth to our present course of action.

It has become a subject of common discourse and severe criticism among intelligent citizens, that the legislation and government of our State have been carried on, in times past, more in reference to the domination and success of party supremacy and the emoluments of office, and subjecting almost all measures of legislation to mere partisan influences, oftentimes defeating wise and beneficial laws, because it might enhance the popularity of their opponents, while the real welfare and prosperity of the State are held in abeyance, or used as mere stepping stones to official stations and the partisan distribution of official patronage without regard either to qualifications or character.

Believing as we do that the interests of the people and the prosperity of the commonwealth ought to be the primary object, and the fundamental basis of all wise State legislation, we call on all voters not blinded by party bigotry or manacled by the arbitrary dictation of selfish politicians, to unite with us in the supreme effort to redeem our State from the debased political thraldom in which she has been so long struggling.

Repudiating with just and righteous indignation the degraded and debauched so-called politics of the times, that taints almost everything it touches, because it is allied with chicanery, fraud and whisky, and not having the slightest hope of divorcing it from these debasing elements, which make up its very web and woof, therefore we propose to make a new departure and unite temperance and reform with the higher and purer ethics of political economy—that economy which relates to legislation and good government—looking solely to the welfare of all the people, and the general prosperity of the commonwealth in all her departments.

Upon this solid basis of action, against which no objection will hold good save that of political cowardice, we make our appeal with the more confidence to the great body of right-minded and right-thinking voters to unite with us in the reforms and better legislation herein proposed.

And especially do we make a conscientious appeal to the moral and religious voters of the State, whose confessed principles before God and men must necessarily ally you with such modes of action and secure your undoubted endorsement of the reforms absolutely needed.

You have long waited and wished for a platform of unquestioned principles upon which you could stand with honor to yourselves and honor to the State, and deliver a vote which has for its paramount object the welfare of all the people and not the triumph of corrupt party domination and self-seeking politicians.

Heretofore, as you well know, the partisan dictation of unscrupulous office-holders and their obedient satellites, have virtually disfranchised you of a free choice of public officers by selecting men in advance, in their exclusive star-chamber conclaves, parceling out, with unparalleled impudence, the municipal and State offices to men whom you would have repudiated, and, which ring dominition forced you, like political slaves, to go through the humiliating farce of recording their dictum at the ballot box, and all for the sublime reason of preserving the unbroken unity of the party.

We propose to throw off this servile and corrupt domination, and assert our true political manhood, and stand for principles that aim at something higher and better for our State and people than has heretofore been given us by men whose chief aim has been the spoil of office, and whose skilled ingenuity has been marvellously developed in filching taxes from our over-burdened people under the forms of law.

We propose, therefore, in the future to hold the interests of the people and the interests of the State superior to that debased political action that seeks the domination of party, and that party again subservient to federal domination.

The State and her most vital interests have been sacrificed, time and again, on this altar, by giving a willing ear to the seductive flatteries of political demagogues, who would make the State the mere scaffolding to build up their towering ambition.

We believe that, without these entangling alliances and corrupt influences from high officials, pure, intelligent and earnest men can always be found, who will guard with vigilant care the interests of the State in all her federal relations.

In full accord with the spirit of these principles:

We shall favor the establishment of a State bureau of agriculture and immigration, with ample appropriations, so that a State geologist shall be empowered to survey and develop our mineral wealth, analyze our soils, and give to the world a knowledge of the immense opulence of our resources; also, that intelligent agents shall be sent abroad, clothed with legislative authority, and furnished with convincing statistics to invite intelligent emigrants and skilled laborers to our State, to bring our her rice resources and increase her wealth.

We shall favor suitable and well guarded legislation exempting from taxation, for five years, all new manufactories and all actual cultivators of the soil, whether single or married, who may avail themselves of such legislation.

We shall favor the passage of a statute Sunday law, suppressing all sales of intoxicating liquors without infringing upon the rights of any citizen to deport himself in any manner he may see proper, provided he does not infringe upon the rights of others, because the passage of such a law is absolutely necessary in order to reduce crime, and thereby reduce taxation, and because it will protect manual labor from demoralization and greatly enhance our agricultural productions.

We shall, without fear or favor, protect all citizens, white or black, in all their civil and legal rights, and frown upon any unjust oppression, come from what quarter it may.

We shall favor the abolition of all State and city port charges, and proclaim to the world that the great metropolis of the South offers a free port to the commerce of the whole world, and lifting off the burdensome taxation from the Mississippi river steamers that ply up and down our great inland sea, believing that the increased prosperity from our growing and expanding commerce will enable us to meet all the needed repairs of the wharves and landings.

We shall favor all sound and healthful legislation that will give increased efficiency to our State educational interests, and that will compass the welfare of the State and people, holding these as a paramount consideration.

Exceeding Hungry.

A year ago the New York Tribune hunted up the Southern claims which have been presented by members of Congress from Southern States. The compilation was made from the official documents in Washington, and came down to March 1878. The sums claimed for internal improvement and for private relief amounted to $650,000,000. From March, 1878, to July 1st, 1879, and omitting various blind claims for enormous unspecified sums, bills were introduced into Congress calling for $681,861,000 for internal improvements in the South, and for private claims amount to $53,415,942 more. Bills reported from December 3d, 1877, to July 1st, 1879, demand for internal improvements, $373,861,000; for private relief, $63,663,785; for cotton tax, $35,000,000—making total Southern claims of $1,287,524,735. Repentance.

There is a very common error respecting repentance which needs to be corrected, and that is, that repentance is mainly sorrow, a great emotional excitement of grief manifested in loud bewailing, in "strong cries and tears." It is certain that there is no true repentance without deep and pungent sorrow for sin, which may often be sincerely shown in the manner referred to, though it is by no means an indispensable evidence of deep feeling, whether of sorrow of joy, that it be noisy and demonstrative. The deepest grief is often silent,—too deep for utterance, and giving no expression in noise or tears.

But while genuine sorrow for sin is essential to true repentance, it is not repentance itself. It is one thing to grieve over sin, but quite another thing to repent of it. There can be no true repentance without sorrow, but there may be sorrow without repentance. Repentance in the Scriptural sense is an act or series of acts, producing a change of life and alteration of habits. It is reformation, a turning from sin and turning to God. But sorrow is an emotion, a state of feeling, which may, or may not lead to repentance, according to the will of the sinner.

This, then, is the distinction between sorrow and repentance—the one is the state of the soul produced from without, either by the Spirit of God convincing of the guilt of sin, or by the disgrace and loss of character resulting from the discovery and exposure of the sin. In this latter case the sorrow is not so much for the sin, for its own sake, as for the fact that it has been found out. If the sin could have been kept secret, and the reputation before the world uninjured, the grief would not have come; but because the secret sin has been exposed and the reputation has suffered loss, there is a kind of sorrow—"the sorrow of the world which worketh death," because the person who has it, if he repents at all of the sin that has been discovered, does so hypocritically, and simply to recover his lost standing with the world, but continues as before, in secret sins, which he hopes still to conceal from men. But repentance is a result which has its efficient cause not from without, but from within, in the will which resolves to reform, and puts the resolution into practice by ceasing to do evil and beginning to do well. This repentance is usually the result of a godly sorrow for sin, produced in the soul by the Spirit of God, and "worketh a repentance not to be repented of;" because it is a sincere renunciation of sin growing out of a perception of its heinous character. It is, therefore, repentance of all sins,—of those which are secret and hidden from the eyes of men, as well as those which are known and public.

The question arises, Does a godly sorrow always lead to this genuine repentance? If by "godly sorrow" is meant repentance itself (as it is too often, we think, erroneously, supposed to mean) then, of course, the answer would be, yes. But if godly sorrow means simply (as we think it should always be understood to mean) a feeling of grief for sin produced by the awakening Spirit, then the answer is that even this godly sorrow for sin may or may not be followed by repentance according to the will of the sinner,—according as he yields to, or resists the strivings of the Spirit. And this is only saying what all men know to be true, and what, indeed, is taking place all the time,—that men may resist and grieve the Holy Spirit whereby they are awakened and made to see their guilt as sinners.

There are multitudes now living in "hardness of heart and reprobacy of mind," who were once, nay, perhaps, oftener, powerfully impressed by the Spirit that they were guilty sinners and must repent or be lost. Some have lived under this conviction for days and months, and yet resisted it, and finally threw it off entirely. They had sorrow, they had tears, they had restless nights and gloomy days, the Spirit of God strove mightily with them, but they had not the will, the resolution to repent, and grieved away the blessed Spirit and were left without God or hope in the world.

All of which goes to show that, however constant an accompaniment of repentance sorrow is, it is not the vital part of it—not repentance itself; that the way to repent is to repent, not to wait for a greater or less degree of feeling, but to do what men who have little or no [illegible] know they ought to do and [illegible] off their sins by [illegible] and their iniquities [illegible] God." "The gen[illegible] of our repentance depends [illegible] excitement, [illegible] of the voli[illegible] renounced [illegible] of our [illegible] all men who know that they are sinners can, and should repent now, for "God now commandeth all men everywhere to repent." Men cannot feel sorry at will, but they can repent at will; and if they know their duty in this respect (and who does not?) they are responsible for doing it now, whether they have any feeling or not. The feeling will be sure to come to every man who resolves with all his soul to reform, and immediately sets about carrying his resolution into practice.

Mrs. Laura A. Matlock.

The delay in the presentation to our readers of a suitable sketch of the lately deceased wife of Rev. J. Matlock, presiding elder of the Teche district, has been unavoidable. Mrs. Laura A. Matlock was born June 22, 1834, in New Berlin, Shenango Co., N. Y. In her early childhood her father, Mr. O. Cowles, now of Monroe, Iowa, removed to Richfield, Summit Co., Ohio, where she grew up to womanhood, and where in her nineteenth year she was converted and united with the M. E. Church. There, on the 10th of August, 1853, she married Rev. J. Matlock, then in the ministry, and consequently her whole married life has been identified with active Christian life. Her very useful, and in the main happy life, closed June 9, 1879, at La Teche, Louisiana.

She was a woman of fine culture, of good education, and a faithful and efficient church worker. In the Sunday-school she took special delight. She was blessed with musical talent of a high order, which she constantly cultivated and employed in the interest of the church whenever an opportunity was met. She was a passionate lover of the beautiful in nature, especially of flowers and shrubbery, and many a parsonage yard in Ohio gave evidence of her presence and taste, during her sojourn there.

Her social qualities were of a high order. The young people gathered around her lovingly wherever her lot was cast. Her self-denying labor among the colored people at La Teche for the last three years, is deserving of special mention. During this time she performed missionary work in introducing Christian influence in the homes of the freedmen, conferring with the mothers and daughters, in accord with her mis[illegible] New Orleans. She will be gratefully remembered for the work she performed in the common school and Sunday-school for the elevation of the freedmen.

For some months preceding her death she seemed specially hopeful and happy, and when attacked by the disease which subsequently proved fatal, she frequently remarked that it would be her last illness. She expressed a desire to live longer on account of her family, but said that if it was the will of the Lord she was resigned to it. Her last testimony was: "I am not afraid to die. No! No!"

Possessing the complete affection of those nearest and dearest, satisfied with her Christian life-work, Sister Laura A. Matlock passed away in triumph to be received in the fold of the Savior above.

Whisky and Tobacco.

An educated and sensible man, who has just closed his fourth year of ministerial service in southern and central Texas, says: "Robertson county expended this year, according to a very close calculation, $3,000 for the support of churches and the gospel; $100,000 for tobacco, and $300,000 for whisky. There are in said county about 2000 church members: 1,000 of whom have membership in the M. E. Church South. His various congregations aggregated over 400 members. Of the women, only two did not in some form dip or use snuff or tobacco, and of the men, only six who did not chew or smoke! In one society of 45 members they actually sustained three prayer-meetings a week, and only one of the entire number paid a solitary cent for the support of the ministry."

It's easy to obtain the spiritual and financial dynamics of a type of Christianity of this sort, which has never yet reached a state of healthy conviction touching the filthy enormities, the waste of money and the prostitution of manhood involved. Ministers of Christ, in the same degradation, changed year by year on a regular system of starvation, and out at the elbows, windowless barns, called churches, and paintless, tasteless, tumble-down unthrift everywhere! Whence this vast revenue from tobacco and whisky, and why this starving pittance for Christ, purity and righteousness? Why this universal aversion to a collection basket and easy and spontaneous shout about a "free gospel?"

At a recent convocation of ministers, a committee was appointed to prepare a report on temperance, in which a clause unfriendly to tobacco was not even admitted to a private discussion, much less to a public presentation! And yet these are the men, and this the type of Christianity that is to take the world for Christ, and "spread scriptural holiness over these lands." O! my soul, pour out thy scorn and withering contempt (no place for tears) upon a "form of godliness" so void of consistency and power, so beneath the standard of the Scriptures, the example and teaching of the Fathers, and so utterly farceful and contemptable in evangelical agency and results. We must have a ministry that will put off this softness and sin, and put on Christ and power, and lead the people out on higher and holier ground. "Holiness becometh thy house, O Lord, forever."

Thanksgiving Day.

The annual observance of a day for special praise to God for the blessings with which He crowns the years, has become a national institution. It is a significant fact of value especially to those who, feeling that their lives have not been well cushioned, and that fortune has been adverse to them, are ready to ask querulously, "What have I to be thankful for?"—a significant fact that the custom of observing a day for thanksgiving had its origin in the sterile soil of New England, and was first observed by our Pilgrim fathers with profound gratitude to God for his goodness in granting them a fair harvest of twenty acres of Indian corn!

They had landed at Plymouth Rock in December, 1620, and had spent one winter in a new and strange land in sore want and suffering. About a month before they discovered Plymouth, while they were on shore at Cape Cod, a party went out exploring, and found, as one of them afterward wrote, "a heap of sand, which we digged up, and in it we found * * * a fine great new basket full of very fair corn of this year, with some six-and-thirty goodly ears of corn; some yellow, and some red, and others mixed with blue, which was a very goodly sight. The basket was round and narrow at the top, and was very handsomely and cunningly made." Two weeks later they found more corn, in all about ten bushels, "which" they said, "will serve us sufficiently for seed," taking care to pay the Indian owners who had buried the corn. So they did not begin with stealing from the Indians—a custom which it is to be feared their posterity have not so faithfully observed as the thanksgiving they instituted.

When spring came they planted twenty acres of corn, and six of barley and peas, the seed of which they had brought from Holland, whither they had first been driven from England. The six acres planting came to nothing, but the corn yielded a good crop, and for this they were devoutly thankful; the whole colony came together for a feast of rejoicing. As guests they entertained the friendly Indian chief, Massassoit, and ninety of his men.

Governor Winslow describes how this annual feast of ingathering had its first beginning, and how the turkey came to play so important a part in it: "The woods then abounded with venison, the harbor was alive with wild ducks, and beside the water-fowl there was a great store of wild turkeys in the forest. Four men were sent out in the late autumn, fowling, so that we might rejoice together after we had gathered the fruit of our labors. The four sportsmen killed, in one day, as much fowl as lasted the company almost a week. The Indians also went into the woods with bows and arrows, and brought in five dear for the feast." Thus was inaugurated Thanksgiving Day, which is now observed with gladness in nearly all the hamlets and homes of the United States, "from the pine-clad hills of Maine to the Golden Gate of the Pacific."

If our Puritan ancestors could find time and occasion in their stern battle with a niggardly soil, a merciless climate, and still more merciless savages, to inaugurate and observe the custom of an annual thanksgiving, surely we, the fortunate possessors of the "goodly heritage" they have opened for us, have abundant reason this year to obey the call of the President to assemble in our "respective places of worship, there to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for His mercies, and to devoutly beseech their continuance."

A review of the year past will afford special reasons for observing the day. The proclamation of the President truly says: "At no recurrence of the season which the devout habit of religious people has made the occasion of giving thanks to Almighty God and humbly invoking his continued favor has the material prosperity enjoyed by our whole country been more conspicuous, more manifold, or more universal."

It is especially fitting that we in the South, and particularly in this city where a year ago the yellow fever scourge had filled multitudes of homes with mourning, and wholly destroyed so many others, should give devout thanks to God for our immunity from "the pestilence which walketh in darkness, and the destruction which wasteth at noonday."

The Board of Church Extension.

The fourteenth anniversary of the Board of Church Extension of the M. E. Church, was held at Grace-street M. E. Church, Philadelphia, Pa., Thursday evening, Nov. 13th. Bishop Simpson presided. Exercises opened by singing by the choir. Rev. H. W. Warren gave the reading from the scriptures. Hymn No. 863 was sung by choir and congregation. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. Y. Bates. The corresponding secretary and treasurer submitted the following report:

PHILAD'A, Pa., November, 1879.

BRETHREN, "Laborers together with God:"—The time has come for a great enlargement of our Church Extension work. The long night of financial gloom is gone. "The morning cometh." Its golden beams illume the whole business horizon, and warm into new life the varied industries of the country. Already "the children of the light," are bringing the first fruits of the day as thank-offerings to God, and through our strengthened benevolences the hearts of thousands are made glad.

As the servants of all, in our Church Extension work, we come to you again, and with gratitude report that the enlargement of our work has already begun.

Though most of the contributions to our cause for the present year were made before the revival of business had materially affected the interests of the people, the report of our treasurer for the ten months ending Nov. 1, is very encouraging.

The total receipts from all sources, during this period are:

On General Account, Collections, etc.	$68,350 25
On Loan Fund Account	37,280 70
Total	$105,630 95

Our receipts for the entire year 1878 were

On General Account	$70,799 35
On Loan Fund Account	34,518 10
Total	$105,817 45

showing an increase of receipts for the ten months over the preceding twelve of $313.50. The collections from conferences alone are already in excess of those of the whole of last year, by $2,908.11. Is not this the sure prophecy of greatly enlarged liberality in the support of our cause in the future? And may we not plan for a corresponding enlargement of our work?

During the long period of financial depression through which we have passed, we have been constrained to intervene to save many churches that, without our aid, would have been lost. There are still a few of this class seeking aid; but we stand firmly by our rule and aid only those that without our help would be involved in disaster. In such cases it is doubtless as wise to save a church already built as to build a new one; but we keep always in view the fact that our work is "Church Extension," not Church relief, except it be to avoid Church contraction.

The necessity for the work of our Church in the Southern States is more and more apparent. We have not a laborer in that vast field, nor a Superintendent who visits it, nor an intelligent member who studies it, who has any doubts on that question. Our Church would be false to its founder, and to its Lord and Master, and deaf to the voice of Providence, if it should fail to prosecute its work in that land. It dare not withdraw its shepherdly care from our four hundred thousand members composed of nearly equal numbers of the two great races that dwell there. It it be the mission of the Church of Christ to proclaim and promote peace on earth, to arrest the tides of intemperance and iniquity, to educate and elevate the masses of mankind, to establish a kingdom of righteousness among men, and conserve the harmony and stability of Society under just government, then is our Church greatly needed in the South. If, true to our motto, we go not only to those who need us, but to those who need us most, we must continue going to the neglected poor of all colors, without respect of persons, in all parts of that land. Nowhere else can small sums of money be made to shelter such large numbers in the house of God, and nowhere else is our influence as a Church so greatly needed. With an expenditure of less than half a million dollars our Board has already secured over twelve hundred churches in which we gather every Sabbath more than one hundred thousand Sunday-school scholars, and three hundred thousand worshipers, and this indicates less than half of what our Church has accomplished in the South since the war.

But, after all, the West is the great field where golden harvests are to be gathered from timely sowing. In connection with the transition from hard to prosperous times, there has been an unparalleled emigration from the East to the West. Within two years more than a million of our American people have sought homes beyond the Mississippi. To these is being added a heavy influx from Europe, while "the exodus" of our colored people from the South contributes to swell the tides of immigration which are pouring all over those vast plains and up into the valleys and mining regions of the Rocky Mountains. Everywhere, from the Rio Grande on the south, to the Red River of the North, the people are making new homes. Railroads are penetrating the country, and towns and villages are springing up along these new thoroughfares, while mining camps are transformed to cities in a single year.

We have done what we could with the means at our command. We have refused relief to many embarrassed churches in the older communities, that we might do the more toward meeting this new and pressing demand in the West, but thus far we have been utterly unable to keep pace with this great movement. We must, absolutely must, more than double our work in this field the coming year.

Our Assistant Corresponding Secretary is now urging the church to add $100,000 to the amount asked by the General Committee, as a special fund for the procurement of 400 new churches on the frontier, and numerous generous responses are being made to this appeal.

We beg every member and friend of our church, and especially every pastor, to remember that the church sends all who need aid from abroad, to secure suitable houses of worship, to our Board of Church Extension. We are only your trustees for this work, acting for you; and we are all only trustees in trust of the gospel for all mankind. We report our work and its wants to you. What report shall we all render to our common Lord and Master? Shall the house of God be placed in the midst of every community? Shall our whole country be blessed with its influence?

Brother, what will you do, this year, to accomplish this result? Three hundred destitute congregations await your reply.

In behalf of the Board of Church Extension,

A. J. KYNETT, Cor. Sec.
JAMES LONG, Treas.

Next came addresses by Bishop Wiley and Rev. C. A. Loeber and D. F. Barnes. Singing—Hymn 933. Addresses by Revs. Bernard, Kelly, Bishop Haven, C. C. McCabe. Doxology by choir and congregation. Benediction by Bishop Peck.

THE CANVASS FOR 1880!

LET IT BEGIN NOW.

We call the attention of our agents to the following:

1. Now is the time to push the canvass for new subscribers for 1880. At this season of the year the people have money. Begin at once.

2. Do not loose one old subscriber. See every one on your list for this year, and urge them to renew for 1880.

3. Collect money now due and forward it at once. Forward all you can now, and be prepared to settle up everything at conference.

4. The SOUTHWESTERN costs only $2 a year, that is about four cents a week. We pay the postage.

5. Send for specimen copies whenever you need them, and they will be sent free.

6. We give no picture premium next year. But we do better. We place within the reach of all our subscribers a most valuable book worth $2, for 50 cents. Read the following carefully:

A Valuable Book

Offered to Yearly Subscribers of the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880,

AT A REDUCED RATE.

Home and Health and Home Economics,

A Cyclopædia of Facts and Hints for all Departments of Home Life, Health, and Domestic Economy.

—BY—

C. H. FOWLER, D. D., LL. D.,

—AND—

W. H. DE PUY, A. M., D. D.

The above-named book, a 12mo., 852 pages, bound in cloth, we offer to each yearly subscriber of the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880, who may send us $2 50 cash—$2 for the paper, and 50 CENTS for the book. It treats of everything necessary to make a happy, elegant, healthful Christian home. The purpose is to take the average Methodist home, where the parents earnestly desire the improvement, refinement, health, and spirituality of their children, and put within the reach of such a family the means necessary to secure these ends by a fair application of the principles laid down, and of the suggestions offered. The subjoined title and table of contents will show its scope. It has been prepared by a careful consultation of the highest authorities on the many themes treated.

Our South'n Methodism

MISSISSIPPI.

J. B. Smith, Forest: "Eighty converts were made during our meeting. We have in full membership 103. Paid pastor $59.60."

G. Brooks, Yazoo City: "A camp meeting in August was held one mile from here with some success. In the city a continued meeting has resulted in 89 additions. We ask the churches of New Orleans to pray for us."

M. Adams, Meridian: "Please publish the following: The ministers of the Mississippi conference are asked to meet at Meridian Jan. 12, 1880, in a preachers' meeting. This meeting will take place two days before the sitting of the annual conference. Several of the leading brethren desire such a meeting. Homes will be provided for all who attend."

A. D. Bean, Tupelo: "The Sabbath-schools here, at Arnold's Chapel, Fairfield, Pleasant Grove and Wytches are all at work, and will give what they can to the missionary fund this year. There are two new churches at Fairfield. Mr. McGreahey & Bro. and Smith & Bros. donated aid to our people in building their churches. They are gentlemen of wealth. Lee county is blessed with generous givers to the church."

H. L. Kennedy, Winona: "When I came here I found much opposition. The people of the other churches were afraid I would break them up, but I told them that was not my business here. I came to call sinners to Christ. The M. E. Church is small compared with the others. I found 45 members and have had 134 accessions. The Sunday schools are in a fair condition. They have raised $3.65 for the benevolent cause. At Winona $50 of work has been done on the church. We are going to build a new one at Vaiden. The lumber is on the ground and paid for. The white people aid us. I have four churches on my work, all in good condition. J. H. Simpson, S. M. Cain and J. H. Young, late a student at Alcorn University, are efficient laborers."

TEXAS.

D. Gregory, Austin: "A two week's meeting resulted in 25 conversions, and all joined but two. A splendid season of rain is encouraging. I shall come up all right with the benevolent collections at conference."

George Sawyor, Belton: "At the beginning of the year I found this work in a very low state. The church here had burned down. The members went to work with courage and rebuilt it, but a large debt remained. The sisters gave a supper and cleared $40, and now the church is neatly fitted up. Elder Gates held his conference on the 5th, and dedicated the new church."

LOUISIANA.

Edward Fields, Indian Village: "The Sabbath-school is in a very prosperous condition, and the church is respectable."

C. H. Claiborne, Assumption: "The Woodlawn M. E. Sunday-school gave an exhibition, which the rain prevented hundreds from attending. It is proposed to dress a Christmas tree on Christmas night. The school is increasing in numbers."

ARKANSAS.

C. M. Wade, Hot Springs: "In our little town we have had a glorious revival within the past two months, and over twenty souls enlisted in God's cause."

Letter from Holly Springs.

MR. EDITOR—On the third Sunday in November, according to the resolution passed by the Mississippi Annual Conference at its last session, we took up our Freedmen's Aid, or Shaw University collection. At 3 p. m. a large congregation assembled at Asbury Chapel. After singing and prayer Prof. Heighgate of the State Normal School, and President Hooper of the Shaw University, delivered eloquent and stirring addresses; after which the call for money was made by the pastor. A number came forward with their dollars, and others with smaller change. The following named gave $5 each, viz: Prof. W. W. Hooper, Pastor J. M. Shumpert, Mr. Edward McGowan, Mr. George Ford; Mr. J. M. Fullilove gave $2. The collection was a success. To God be all the glory.

On the night of the 13th inst., at Asbury Chapel, Mr. Jack Oglesby and Mrs. Irene Greenfield were were united in wedlock, Rev. J. M. Shumpert performing the ceremony. A magnificent reception was given them at the residence of the bride. The beautiful table was set in a cross: 40 could be served at one time, and the splendid supper was enjoyed by all. May the blessings of God attend the happy couple through life.

A Word for Texas.

DEAR EDITOR—Yesterday I had the inexpressible pleasure of seeing with my own eyes the Texas Normal Institute. To my mind the location is all that could be desired. It is five miles east of Hempstead; far enough from city life to keep the students, who desire to have good characters, from the temptations of the city. It is about two miles off the Central Railroad—near enough to prevent monotony. The main building, a beautiful dwelling house, is in many respects very suitable. A new building, in course of erection, will be used for the worship of God, class-rooms, etc. Everything, as far as I examined, although in embryo, is being laid on a good foundation. Six of the female students reside in the building, and I think it would be better for all the females to board at the Institute—better for mind and morals. The urbanity of the teachers to a stranger was especially worthy of note, and very encouraging to myself. I can say without hesitation that I believe the culture of our youth is safe in the keeping of such teachers as are now engaged at the Texas Normal Institute. I am taking a little time to inform myself of the Sunday-school work, and am happy to say the prospect is very encouraging. The scholars are improving, the teachers are willing to receive suggestions for the better working of their Sunday-school. May the Lord put it into the hearts of some of his people to open infant schools, so that the good seed may be sown in the best soil. I pray God to prosper the work of saving souls for Jesus' sake.

MRS. ISABELLA HOWELLS.

Letter from Ripley.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to say something about our work here in Northeastern Mississippi. Times are very hard and money is scarce, but by God's help, we are doing what we can. Protracted meetings throughout the circuit began Aug. 16, and sinners have been converted, and Christians braced up in the faith. stretched to take the immortal crown.

The builder builds for a century, the Christian for eternity. The painter paints for a generation, the Christian for evermore. The sculptor cuts out the marble that soon perishes. It is for the Christian to cut out the likeness of Christ to endure forever.

A hundred thousand men were employed in Egypt to construct a pyramidal tomb for a dead king—It is ours to feel that we are engaged in a far nobler work of constructing temples for the living God.

Every Christian can do something. Weep with them that weep if you cannot relieve them. Bestow personal service if you cannot give gold. Teach children if you are not competent as an instructor of men. Be a support to the household if you are not able to become a pillar of the State. Be a lamp in the chamber, if you cannot be a star in the sky. Gladden the circle of home if you cannot illumine a city. Talk to the few if you cannot preach to the crowd.

There should be cheerfulness in our work. "Are you not wearying for your heavenly rest?" said Whitfield one day to an old clergyman. "No, certainly not," he replied. "Why not?" was the surprised response. "Why, my good friend," said the old minister, "if you were to send your workman into the field to do a certain work for you, and promise to give him rest and refreshment in the evening, what would you say if you found him languid and discontented in the middle of the day, and murmuring: 'How I wish it were evening!' would you not say—'Be up and doing and finish your work, and then go home and get your promised rest?'" So God says to every Christian till life's work is fully done.—Exchange.

Nov. 30, 1879—THE MESSAGE TO THE CHURCHES.

SCRIPTURE—Rev. 3: 1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown."—12.

TOPIC—Christ the Rewarder.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Prefatory—Out of seven messages we consider but two. The rest, however, need to be studied in order properly to appreciate these two. To each church there is a particular address, just suited to its needs.

Ready to Die (1-3)—First we have the letter to the church at Sardis. It is well to note: 1. The sender of the message. His personality is characterized by two expressions. 1. He that hath the seven Spirits of God. 2. And the seven stars. Now why, in the case of the church at Sardis, were these attributes referred to? For the reason that the church was "ready to die"—its lamp was almost out, and what more appropriate title could he assume than the one that "hath the seven Spirits of God?" The condition of the church. Its reputation was good; it had a perfect creed; it was orthodox in its statements of faith. It had no works, and it had ceased to be watchful—was giving no evidence of spiritual life. The admonition. 1. Be(come) watchful. The church had passed into the torpor of death from the torpor of sleep. No church that sleeps can live. There was a little life remaining, a few graces that had not perished, a few names that had not defiled their garments. Perhaps the case of Sardis was like that spoken of in the parable of the sower, where the good seed "are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection." Luke 8: 14. If one has lost hold of his Father's hand, he can take hold again; if he has strayed away, he can repent, and return once more. The warning. All of God's threats of destruction are conditioned upon some "if." None are destroyed without repeated and adequate warning. The promised rewards. 1. To the undefiled of Sardis. I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels. That means a great deal—more than now we can begin to realise. Christ will acknowledge his victors in the very center of the court on high. And names there will be heard, and will be greeted with loud acclamations, that here are utterly unknown to fame. The encouragement. 1. I have set before thee an open door. A door of usefulness and of activity. And no man can shut it. For thou hast a little strength. Christ [illegible] of his followers no impossibil[ity]. What they cannot do he [illegible] for them. The church that [illegible] to Christ in its small be[illegible] live to see its mockers [illegible] worshippers. Hold fast [illegible] that no man [illegible] crown [illegible] other words [illegible] We cannot [illegible] habitation. I will write upon him the name of my God. And the name of the city of my God. My new name. That is the name that no man knew but he himself. It is a name of peculiar meaning and glory, that will identify all the disciples who have loved their Lord on earth with their Lord in heaven.

NEW BOOKS.

HORACE MANN. By Prof. Wm F. Phelps, A. M. New York; Phillips & Hunt. Price 10 cents.

Chautauqua text book No. 14 is a brief outline of the life and works of the great American educator.

James L. Furman, Esq., has in press a History of Louisiana, designed for use in academies and schools, and for the family library. We have perused some advanced sheets of volume 1. The work is to be included in two volumes. We believe a school history should be condensed into a single volume, and that the merits of the local history of Louisiana do not warrant the introduction of an expensive text book in the schools.

HISTORY OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH, from its Origin to the Present Time. By W. M. Blackburn, D.D. Cincinnati; Hitchcock & Walden. Price $3.

Dr. Blackburn, of Chicago, a professor of church history, has in this volume of 727 pages, reviewed the great facts and doctrines developed in the Christian church from its beginning to the present time. It is a first rate text book. The author is a Presbyterian; it is published by a Methodist house, which may be cited to show its unsectarian character. It is believed to have met a great want in the church, and destined to have a wide circulation.

Figures Don't Lie.

SPARTA, Union Co., Oregon, May 30, 1879.

Butter Improvement Co., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Sirs—The package of "Butter-Maker" forwarded by you to W. W. Rose, Esq., of this place, was handed over by him to me for trial, and orders to report the result to you, as I have the management of his dairy.

I have the honor to report that one gallon of sweet cream churned at a temperature of 55 deg. and treated with the Butter Maker according to directions accompanying package, produced four and one-half pounds of butter of a fine golden color, and firm, waxy texture, and of delicate flavor; time occupied in churning and gathering the butter, twenty minutes.

One gallon of sweet cream, same lot, churned without the powder, produced four pounds of butter several shades lighter in color, not so firm or waxy in texture, but no perceptible difference in flavor; time occupied in churning, at same temperature as above, forty-five minutes. The fine, even grain, rich golden color, increased quantity from the same amount of cream, and the difference of time occupied in the churning and gathering the butter, are greatly in favor of using your preparation, and I have no hesitation in recommending the same to my friends and the public generally. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. W. EASTERBROOK.

"You Don't Know their Value."

"They cured me of Ague, Biliousness and Kidney Complaint as recommended. I had a half bottle left which I used for my two little girls, who the doctors and neighbors said could not be cured. I am confident I should have lost both of them one night if I had not had the Hop Bitters in my house to use. I found they done them so much good I continued with them, and they are now well. That is why I say you do not know half the value of Hop Bitters, and do not recommend them high enough."—B., Rochester, N. Y.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The Student's Journal, Bloomington, Ill., has enlarged from 16 to 24 pages, and reduced its subscription price to 75 cents.

—The United States Official Guide for November has been received from the publishers, Houghton, Osgood & Co., Boston. It is a valuable publication for all who have a large correspondence. Price $1.50 per year.

—The Southern Musical Journal ($1 a year) gives you in every monthly number $1 worth of new music. Send to the publishers, Messrs. Ludden & Bates, Savannah, Ga., and be convinced; or, send 10 cents for a specimen copy.

—The Contemporary Review for November (New York, Geo. Munro,) has the following: On Freedom, by Prof. Max Muller; Mr. Gladstone, by a Liberal, and by a conservative, two stories; The Ancient Regime and the Revolution in France, by Prof. Von Sybel; What is the Actual Condition of Ireland? by E. S. Robinson. The Deluge, by Francois Lenormant; Suspended Animation, by R. A. Proctor; John Stewart Mills' Philosophy Tested, by J. W. Jervis.

—In Good Company ($3 a year, Springfield, Mass.), number three, writers of really good short stories are represented. Mrs. Rose Terry Cooke by Doom and Dan; Miss Sarah O. Jewett, by Good Luck; and Mr. Edward Bellamy, whose story is called Jane Hicks. There are also two sketches based upon characters in real life; Saved from Himself, and a Holy Leaf. The most important article, perhaps, is An Answer to the Cry for More English, by Prof. A. S. Hill, of Harvard College. Mr. Geo. M. Towle's paper on Gladstone includes personal reminiscences of the great statesman as an orator. Mr. H. P. Goddard has a sketch of Rev. Dr. Bushnell, drawn largely from personal acquaintance. Tales of the Civil Damage Law, Free-thinking, Assaying in a New Camp, and an article on opportunities West makes enough to satisfy the most enthusiastic reader.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Females suffering from pain and weakness will derive great comfort and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where children are affected with whooping cough, ordinary coughs or colds or weak lungs, it is the one and only treatment they should receive. This article contains new medicinal elements such as is found in no other remedy in the same form. It is far superior to common porous plasters, liniments, electrical appliances and other external remedies. It relieves pain at once, strengthens and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. For Lame and Weak Back, Rheumatism, Kidney disease and all local aches and pains it is also the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents.

Conference Notices.

Examining Committee Texas Annual Conference.

The Examing Committee appointed by the Bishop at the last session of the Texas Annual Conference, request the presence, for examination, of all the preachers that may be, under the order of the M. E. Church, entitled to Elder's Orders at the next term, to be held in Galveston, Dec. 10, 1879. The Committee will meet at the Tabernacle at 9 o'clock a. m., on the 9th, and hope that after the day appointed thus, the preachers will not interfere with the regular business of conference, but be present as requested.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION

A WEEKLY PAPER FOR YOUNG PEOPLE AND THE FAMILY

1880. Increased in Size.

Vol. 53. Elegantly Illustrated.

It aims to be a favorite in every family—looked for eagerly by the young folks, and read with interest by the older. Its purpose is to interest while it amuses; to be judicious, practical, sensible, and to have really permanent worth, while it attracts for the hour.

It is handsomely illustrated by the best artists, and has for its contributors some of the most attractive writers in the country. Among these are

Harriet Beecher Stowe, J. T. Trowbridge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Louise Chandler Moulton, James T. Fields, Dinah Mulock Craik, James Parton, Dr. Henry I. Bowditch, E. P. Whipple, Rebecca Harding Davis, Louisa M. Alcott, C. A. Stephens.

The variety and worth of its contents will make it a repository of the choicest literature; a library of tales, travels, adventure, history and biography; a "Companion" for the school, the study and the fireside. It will give

Serial Stories, Stories for Girls, Stirring Tales of Adventure, Letters of Foreign Travel, Brilliant Sketches, Poems, Editorials on Current Events, Two Hundred Short Stories, Valuable Papers on Health, Anecdotes and Incidents.

Ecclesiastical Law,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.

Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases. * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations.—Author's Preface.

Lectures on Preaching

Delivered before the Theological Students of Yale College.

By Rev. Matthew Simpson, D.D., LL.D.

(One of the Bishops of the M. E. Church.)

Cloth, 12mo. Price.........$1.50

These admirable Lectures embrace the following topics, delivered in the order here stated:

Lecture I. The Nature and Work of the Christian Ministry.
Lecture II. The Call to the Ministry.
Lecture III. The Preacher Personally.
Lecture IV. Indirect Preparation for the Pulpit.
Lecture V. The Preparation of a Sermon.
Lecture VI. The Delivery of a Sermon.
Lecture VII. Ministerial Power.
Lecture VIII. The Influence of the Pastorate on the Pulpit.
Lecture IX. Collateral and Miscellaneous Work.
Lecture X. Is the Modern Pulpit a Failure?

It is needless to say that these topics are treated in a masterly manner—clearly, forcibly, practically; as becomes both the gravity and importance of the subjects discussed, and the reputation of their author as a "workmen who needeth not to be ashamed." No minister should be without them, as none can carefully and thoughtfully read them without profit. In them there is nothing showy, but they present the ripe fruit of the matured thought of a long period of ministerial usefulness and oversight. They are weighty, well-considered teachings.

This book will be sent by mail on receipt of price. Address,

GREAT SUCCESS. Once more I am permitted to send forth my Holiday Greeting. Never before has my enormous business been so large as it is at the present moment, now nearly a hundred thousand of my celebrated instruments have found their way to happy firesides in all parts of the civilized world. Upon the strength of this great success, our citizens have chosen me their Mayor, by the largest majority ever before cast. So great has been the demand for my world renowned instruments, many of which I saw while traveling in Europe last year,) I am compelled to erect the largest factory (that is selling direct to the public) on Earth. Situated as it is on one of the finest locations in N. J., at Washington, Cor. Railroad Ave., and Beatty St., (Name of street changed to Beatty, by act of council in honor of the great enterprise,) and within one hundred yards of the Junction of four different rail-roads, leaving for all parts of the country. Some idea of this immense structure can be gained from the following viz., In its construction over three hundred tons of lumber were required, thirty tons of slate were used in its roofing. It contains nearly four hundred widows an Engine of sixty horse power, drives over $9,000 worth of the finest wood working machinery. The above cut gives but a faint discription of this mammoth building. Labor and Material is Advancing, if you ever intend to buy an Instrument, Now is your Opportunity. The New Hymnal

The Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences at their late sessions, made it the duty of every preacher having charge of a station or circuit to see that their pulpits were supplied with a New Hymnal, and all were to use their influence in having the people supply themselves with Hymnals and to use them in the public congregation and in social meetings.

We are now prepared to supply the following styles of the Hymnal at the prices named. Our terms are cash before sending, or we will send by express C. O. D. Specimen copies sent by mail on receipt of price

QUAINT OLD SONG.

Ye who would save your features florid,
Lithe limbs, bright eyes, unwrinkled forehead
From Age's devastation horrid,
Adopt this plan;
'Twill make, in climate cold or torrid,
A hale old man.

Avoid in youth luxurious diet,
Restrain the passions lawless riot,
Devoted to domestic quiet,
Be wisely gay;
So shall ye, spite of Age's fiat,
Resist decay.

Seek not in Mammon's worship, pleasure—
But find your richest, purest treasure,
In books, friends, music, polished leisure;
The mind, not cents,
Make the sole scale by which ye measure
Opulence.

This is the solace, this the science,
Life's purest, sweetest, best appliance,
That disappoints not man's reliance,
Whate'er his state—
But challenges, with calm defiance,
Time, fortune, fate.

Coonie.

"Here's a new pet for you, Mary," said my brother, entering the house, and laying a "baby raccoon" as he called it, in my lap.

I shrank from the ugly-looking creature, but when my brother told me that our dogs, Trip and Tige, had killed the mother coon and left the little orphan coon unprotected, I was moved to compassion.

We prepared a soft nest in a box for it, and from that time we did the best for our pet that we could with our limited knowledge of raccoon life and its requirements.

We learned to love Coonie, as we called him, and he was apparently fond of us, but woe to the chicken that went too near his kennel!

The squawking would soon cease when Coonie settled himself upon his hind legs and took the chicken in his fore paws to his mouth.

Coonie was with us two years, and during that time we spent one summer on the sea-coast.

While there he had no opportunity to capture chickens, and we thought he would have to content himself with such food as we chose to give him.

But we were mistaken. Coonie would get his dainty bits independently of us, and he did so.

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to find my cousin, Emmaline Caloway. She had a daughter, Elmira Olemo. The last I heard from her she was living on the M. N. T. Railroad, at Batesville, Miss., in 1874. Address me at Granada, Miss.

ALFRED PEACOCK.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my wife and children. Wife's name was Nancy. She used to belong to Matison Gunn, in Chicka- Co., Miss., and he sold her to R. D. Dick Price in 1862, and he sold her and children on Flint Creek, in Ga. I had by my wife five children, John, Reuben and Matt. I ask all the preachers to read this in their churches, and if they are found write to me at Moss Point, Jackson Co., Miss., in care of Rev. N. Cannon.

LEWIS WRIGHT.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to make inquiry for my people through the SOUTHWESTERN. I left them in Jefferson Co., Virginia. Father's name was Jarreth Booman. He belonged to a widow woman, who lived on the public road from Charleston to Shepherd's Town. Mother's name was Leanah Booman. She belonged to Bill Clevan, and was sold and left five children, Isaac, Alfred, Eastram, Karreth and Kissey. Sister Kissie lived at Ekleborger. Brother Karreth lived with Wm. Lock. I had an aunt who lived with Robert T. Brown. She had two children, William and Frances Wheeler. I was brought to Texas by a trader. Any information of the above will be thankfully received. My name used to be Martha Booman. Address me at Brenham, Washington Co., Texas.

L. S. DECKARD.

Judge B. R. Curtis has left, perhaps, the brightest name on the records of the Massachusetts Bar. Mr. Justice Miller, his associate in the United States Supreme Court, has pronounced him the greatest lawyer of America of the past or present." I well remember the keen intellectual delight and admiration with which I read his dissenting opinion in the Dred-Scott case, wherein he so thoroughly demolished the arguments of his Democratic fellow judges. It was a brave act on his part, and I always wondered at it until I read the testimony privately imparted by him to a friend, and which only now comes to light after his death. In was this, that he "had never taken his seat upon the bench or risen to charge a jury until he had first offered a silent prayer for wisdom and guidance." He was educated in Unitarianism, but as he advanced in years he was constrained, by his study of the Scriptures and by the needs of his spiritual life, to accept the doctrine of the Trinity, and united with an evangelical church. He made an exhaustive examination of the evidences of Christianity as a lawyer, and pronounced them "sufficient and irrefragable."—Boston Letter in Christian Intelligencer.

Effective pastoral work is not done by going round once a quarter and praying with every family. It is done by becoming familiar with the life of the members of your church, and by giving them timely and practical advice, counsel and encouragement according to their circumstances. "I know my sheep"—Christ's word—ought to be the pastor's motto. The test of pastoral efficiency is really in the knowledge of your people which you possess—in knowing them in the relations of their religious experience to their daily life.—The Methodist.

Study of the Bible.

In the year 1729 I began not only to read, but to study the Bible, as the one, the only standard of truth, and the only model of pure religion. Hence I saw, in a clearer and clearer light, the indispensable necessity of having the mind which was in Christ, and of walking as Christ also walked; even of having not some part only, but all the mind which was in Him, and of walking as He walked not only in many or in most respects, but in all things. —John Wesley.

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates.

Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the TONIC. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the TONIC has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

Golden Medical Discovery

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

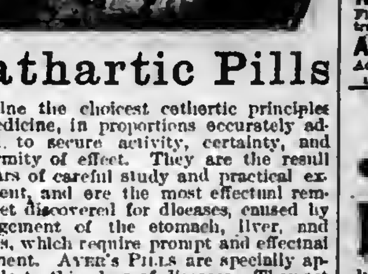
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Weak Lungs, and early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. Sold by druggists.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. The "Little Giant" Cathartic.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills. These Pellets (Little Pills) are scarcely larger than mustard seeds.

Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from Stomach, Bad Taste in Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Sold by druggists. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Prop'rs, Buffalo, N. Y.



Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel, or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

DWELLERS IN TENTS.

A while on earth we roam,
In these frail houses which are not our home,
Journeying towards a refuge that is sure—
A rest secure.

Only a little while
We dread the frown of life, and court its smile;
A dwelling then we have, not made with hands,
In other lands.

Therefore we need not mourn
That sudden clouds across our skies are borne,
That winter chills us, and the storm makes rents
In our frail tents.

Therefore we need not fear,
Though moth and rust corrupt our treasure here;
Though midnight thieves creep in with silent stealth
To seize our wealth.

For in our Father's house,
[illegible] He has prepared for us;
And only till His voice shall call us hence
We dwell in tents.

about organizing temperance societies. I am certain they would like to see our country prospering, and the sons and daughters of the Ethiopian race elevated to the highest eminence of culture and respect. But as long as they act so backward, letting the whisky distillers and whisky sellers overspread the country with poisonous liquors and demoralizing its promising young men, this cannot be attained. There is a good organization that ought to be the home of young men and ladies—the Order of Good Templars. There is one in Houma, Terrebonne parish, which is doing good work and is appreciated by all. Now, it would be a grand thing to have one in the city of New Orleans. The whites have gone to work. They are not neutral as to the good of their people. They are not only anxious about the uprising of their people, but are very anxious for us to give our hand and heart to the cause of temperance. If our friends will agree and immediately go to work, they will find that the Independent Order of Good Templars, together with the total abstinence society, is certainly a protecting power which admits of no uncertain results, no compromising with social pleasure and carnal enjoyment, no yielding to the gratification of an abnormal diseased appetite which we must guard against forming, but we cannot do it if we use that which causes it.

God grant that the eyes of all men may be opened to the iniquity of intoxicating drinks.

College Degrees.

Everywhere but in the United States it has been the policy of governments to proceed with great caution in their concession of the degree-conferring power, and not to concede such power at all unless accompanied with ample provision to sustain it respectably, or unless satisfactorily assured that such provision exists. For a university, in a proper sense of the word, is a costly establishment. It cannot be created by a mere act of Legislature. A flat university is worth no more than a flat dollar. We have some universities in this country whose resources are in some degree correspondent to their responsibilities; but we have not one whose power of usefulness is not constantly held in check by insufficiency of means.

Letter from Crystal Springs.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS, Miss., Nov. 1, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—Being a constant reader of the SOUTHWESTERN, and seeing many letters addressed to you informing you of the much good work being accomplished at various points, I have become a little jealous, and must let you hear from our little town and its works.

Our church is not in as prosperous a condition as I would like to have it (I mean the building), but we are prospering in many other good works. We have just finished a neat cottage for our parsonage, and it is clear of debt except a few dollars which is being rapidly reduced. Our Sabbath-school is in a prosperous condition and has made great improvement during the past month, for which credit is due to Mrs. N. J. Blackman, a lady who has lately made our town her home, and I am pleased to say she is a member of our church. She is just such an active Christian worker as we have long desired to be with us—an experienced teacher both in Sabbath and day school, and is a great lover of Methodism. I think you will agree with me when I tell you of the good work which she has accomplished in a short month. Sister Blackman has raised money enough to purchase many useful books, papers and reward cards for our Sabbath-school. And more than this, she has aroused our sisters and formed a society of them whose object is to build up our [illegible] and aid our church. Though the Society is only one month old it has $50.75 in the treasury and [illegible] to have much more soon. [illegible] society has employed a teacher [illegible] opened an independent school, allowing poor children who are not able to pay tuition to enter free of charge. All this good work is be-[illegible]

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Mason's and Brownsville Circuit, Tennessee.

DEAR EDITOR—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper for a gist of my labors on my circuit for the Lord this conference year? God has crowned my labors this year with great success. When I entered my work the first of the year I asked the blessed Lord to enable me, through His divine power, to win a hundred souls for Him. In answer to this He blessed me with one hundred and fourteen converts this conference year; 80 have joined our church, 49 adults and 34 children baptized, and only two deaths. I and my family were sick with the chills and fever the first three months; since then we have had better health than we ever had since we have been in the West. I have had great success in our Sunday-school cause. This I have found to be a sure success to any pastor that will be governed by the instruction of our last Discipline, on page 156.

Capt. Blackwell, one of our young lawyers, was with us in our Sunday-school at Mason on last Sunday, and made a soul-stirring talk on the occasion. He said this was the best Sunday-school he ever met—white or black.

Our Preparatory School, under the leadership of the Rev. C. E. Alexander and his wife, has had good success this year, and bids fair for the future. We have succeeded in covering our church at Mason, and paid on debt of church $24, and have got a title deed. We have also covered and enlarged the church at Atoka, and paid on debt $26. Our fourth quarterly conference, which was held on the 19th and 20th of September last, was a grand success. Nearly all of the leading brethren were present, and on the Sabbath our worthy elder gave a telling talk to the Sunday-school, and at 11 o'clock preached with great acceptability. Three hundred and six partook of the Lord's Supper, and 95 members paid 25 cents. This circuit is yet coming to the front. I am yours in Christ, JESSE P. PRICE.

Anniversary of the Freedmen's Aid Society.

The twelfth anniversary of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church was celebrated at Trinity M. E. Church, Jersey City, Rev. Dr. Harcourt, pastor, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 11, 1879. Bishop Wiley, who was elected to the Episcopate from the Newark Conference, presided in a manner that showed how perfectly he felt himself at home among his old friends. After a voluntary on the organ, and an anthem by the choir, Rev. L. R. Dunn was introduced, who gave out the hymn, "Come Thou, Almighty King," and then offered an appropriate prayer.

In his brief opening remarks, Bishop Wiley said:

"We are met to celebrate the anniversary of one of the great benevolent societies of our church, as well as one of the youngest born. It was organized immediately after the close of the 'late unpleasantness;' and its field of operations is almost exclusively among the freedmen of the Southern States. Our church is at work in that region by three great societies. First, there is our General Missionary Society, which sends out preachers to carry the gospel to all men within their reach; next, the Church Extension Society, aiding those poor people in the building of their cheap, plain, but serviceable, sanctuaries; and third, the Freedmen's Aid Society, whose mission it is to gather up these colored outcasts, and give them an education.

"During the past year this society has had great success. The Secretary, Dr. Rust, is here to tell you about it, and also, in the absence of the treasurer, to give you the financial report for the year. We have with us a cosmopolitan gentleman, who formerly resided in New York, where he became widely known as the editor of The Christian Advocate, but who now has his official duties in Cincinnati as editor of the National Repository. Dr. Curry has lived in the South, and he will take time to tell you what he knows about the African race.

"Bishop Peck is here to give us some good things from his ample knowledge on the general subject before us, and when these speakers get through we shall all know a great deal about the work and claims of the Freedmen's Aid Society. Not to detain you further from the enjoyments in store for you, I will now introduce Secretary Rust."

Dr. Rust, who helped to organize the Society, and who has been in its management, first Field Superintendent, and then as Corresponding Secretary, ever since its establishment, then rendered the following report:

The Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church respectfully submit an abstract of their twelfth annual report:

Encouraging success has crowned another year's work, and the schools established and sustained by the Society have been elevated in grade, and greatly improved in educational facilities and scholarship. The funds contributed have not been sufficient to meet all the necessities of the schools, and the pathetic appeals for help that have reached us; but they have enabled us to relieve a vast amount of ignorance and wretchedness, and secure favorable opportunities of improvement for twenty-five hundred of this unfortunate race, and through these we shall reach hundreds of thousands scattered all over the South.

It is hardly to be expected that the church could meet the necessities of these four millions of freedmen, in so brief a period, without serious interference with other movements, both at home and abroad, for the conversion of the world. The work of elevating a race, degraded by centuries of heathenism and oppression, cannot be accomplished by the fitful efforts of a few years; protracted effort, unwavering faith, and money in large installments, are essential to its achievement. Those who at first regarded this enterprise as temporary, and expected soon to be relieved of the burden, have changed their views, as they have come to realize how vast a work, in the providence of God, has been thrust upon us, how great has been the success in its prosecution, and how intimately it is connected with the permanence of our free Government, and the purity and prosperity of our church work in the South.

But the great work of the American Church, and the one that urges its claims with peculiar emphasis at this crisis, is that of educating the freedmen. God places this duty upon us, as he does upon no other nation, and he will not receive work done in any other part of the world as an equivalent for our neglect of this so imperatively demanded at home. To neglect it, or to treat it with parsimonious indifference, is to put in jeopardy one of the most imporant interests intrusted to the church and the nation. This cause at this hour has transcendent claims upon us, and whatever other work we may postpone or neglect in the world's redemption, we cannot innocently turn away from this movement in behalf of the freedmen, which is so closely identified with the welfare of this country, and the salvation of the world.

We submit a brief report of what has been accomplished during the past year, the amount of money collected, and the purposes for which it has been expended, trusting that our administration of affairs will meet the approval of the church that has fostered, with so much interest, this important educational enterprise in behalf of four millions of freedmen.

WILEY UNIVERSITY.

Our brethren in Texas purchased property in Marshall for the school in a poor location, remote from the town, and difficult of access. After a few years' trial it was found impossible to build up an institution of high grade in that place, and the farm has been exchanged for a fine situation in town, healthful, easy of approach, and commanding a charming view of the surrounding country.

We have erected on this beautiful site overlooking the town two plain brick edifices, three stories high, as wings of the main University building, to be built when some benevolent friend of this enterprise shall furnish the funds. These wings cost $6,435, in addition to materials taken from the old place. This institution now takes rank with our highest grade, and enters upon the work of education in Texas with renewed zeal and cheering prospect of success.

MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE.

This institution for the preparation of physicians is in successful operation. It has graduated three promising classes of young men, and already several of these graduates have distinguished themselves by self-sacrificing effort and medical skill in behalf of those suffering from the fearful plague in the South. A new building for the accommodation of the Medical Department, in consequence of the crowded condition of the school, became a necessity, and the commanding knoll adjoining the College campus was purchased for $2,100, and an appropriate and commodious building is nearly completed, which will cost about $8,000, for which we are mainly indebted to the liberality of the Meharry brothers. This will furnish the complement of buildings necessary for the Central Tennessee College; and we may point with pride to this institution, its noble buildings, its talented faculty, its thoroughly trained students, as stars in the crown of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

CLAFLIN UNIVERSITY.

The entire property of the University, valued at $40,000, has been deeded to the Freedmen's Aid Society, and the Society has assumed its outstanding indebtedness of $4,000. The Legree estate, adjoining the University grounds, consisting of thirty-one acres and buildings, valued at $6,000, has been donated to the Society by Gov. Wm. Claflin, of Boston.

COOKMAN INSTITUTE.

The buildings here have been greatly improved. To the main edifice has been added a three-story brick dormitory, and the residence for the teachers has received needed improvements. The new building is an ornament to the city and an honor to the contributors, and furnishes ample accommodations for more than one hundred pupils.

We have sustained in the field during the past year seventy teachers—one-third of them males, and nearly all ministers, and the other two-thirds Christian ladies who have taught school during the week, have taken an active part in Sunday-school work, and have visited, to the extent of their time and strength, the humble abodes of their pupils, teaching them how to make home attractive and happy, and inspiring in them lofty purpose for a pure and noble life.

We have inaugurated a missionary movement in behalf of women in New Orleans, with encouraging results. None but Christian women, without awakening suspicion, can have free access to the homes of this people, to instruct and prepare them for their new condition of life. It is one of the most inviting fields of Christian effort anywhere to be found, and one to which our women are urgently invited, and for which they have, above all others, especial fitness and qualification. We should send many, instead of the few, into this mission-work of the South, for hundreds are now demanded for its cultivation, as they would be welcomed, and their toil rewarded with glorious harvests.

The experiment has been a successful one, and we appeal for aid in sending Christian women South for a work of such great promise.

LOCATION OF SCHOOLS.

The Society has aided in the establishment and support of the following schools, six of which have been legally chartered with full collegiate powers:

Chartered Institutions: Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn.; Clark University, Atlanta, Ga.; Claflin University, Orangeburg, S. C.; New Orleans University, New Orleans, La.; Shaw University, Holly Springs, Miss.; Wiley University, Marshall, Texas.—6.

Theological Schools: Centenary Biblical Institute, Baltimore, Md.; Baker Institute, Orangeburgh, S. C.; Thomson Biblical Institute, New Orleans, La.—3.

Medical College: Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn.—1.

Institutions not chartered: Bennett Seminary, Greensborough, N. C.; Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Fla.; Dadeville Seminary, Dadeville, Ala.; Haven Normal School, Waynesborough, Ga.; La Grange Seminary, La Grange, Ga.; Meridian Academy, Meridian, Miss.; Rust Normal School, Huntsville, Ala.; Walden Seminary, Little Rock, Ark.; Orphan's Home, La Teche, La.—9.

In these institutions the number of pupils taught during the year is classified as follows: Biblical, 453; Law, 20; Medical, 60; Collegiate, 74; Academic, 270; Normal, 1,830; Intermediate, 342; Primary, 371. Total, 3,510.

We have taught 60,000 pupils during the past twelve years, and the pupils trained in our schools have taught at least 300,000 of their race scattered over the South. The Society has invested in permanent school property a quarter of a million of dollars, ($250,000).

Each year our schools graduate classes of promising youth, who go forth as preachers, teachers and physicians, to elevate a degraded people, and fit it for usefulness on earth and happiness in heaven.

Dr. Curry then took the pulpit and delivered a well-considered address on "The History, Present Condition and Claims of the African Race in America" which was listened to with deep attention, and at times was greeted with applause.

Another anthem was then rendered by the choir, after which Bishop Peck made a spirited speech, showing the claims of the African as a man, a citizen and a brother Christian.

These addresses will hereafter be published.

The congregation was dismissed with the benediction by Bishop Peck.—N. Y. Advocate.

Georgia Conference.

MR. EDITOR—Allow me to give you a few scraps in regard to our Conference. The following account I clip from the Atlanta Constitution, the leading paper of the State:

The session of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church (North) just closed in this city has been interesting. Bishop Harris, one of the ablest and most active workers in this great church, presided over the deliberations of the body. There was a good attendance of lay and clerical delegates from all parts of the State, while quite a number of visitors attended the session. Full reports were heard from all the presiding elders and pastors. They spoke in cheerful terms of their labors during the past year, and the results which followed. Their aggregated reports show a goodly increase in the church membership in Georgia during the past year, while the mission and Sunday-school work has been exceedingly prosperous.

The work of the church in Georgia is confined almost exclusively to the northern portion of the State, with Atlanta as its basis of operations. There has been an effort to push the work into central and lower Georgia, but as yet it has not been considerable as compared with the labors and success in the northern part of the State.

Sunday Bishop Harris preached at the Marietta-street church to a congregation which filled the auditorium and showed a deep interest in the discourse. The bishop is plain, strong and logical in his style, while he has enough enthusiasm to carry the force of a thorough conviction in his own mind. He is what the "old brethren" call a gospel preacher, and cleaves to his text in a manner which some of our theological high flyers might with advantage imitate. Yesterday morning the conference adjourned after the bishop read the following

The Spread of Infidelity.

The Rev. Dr. Newman preached last Sunday in the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, to a very large congregation. He took his text from John iii: 19: "And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil." The Savior anticipated that some men would reject him as the divine teacher of mankind, and, therefore, assigned the cause, which is moral in its nature and manifestations, conceiving this primary cause, which is depravity. Let us, he said, this morning give our attention to three secondary causes of much of modern unbelief. They are the abuse of philosophic inquiry, the abuse of personal liberty and the abuse of Christianity. Philosophical thinkers have a noble mission. Nature invites them to her banquet of wisdom. She has no secrets which she is unwilling to disclose. She never eludes the patient, honest searcher. To be known is her glory. The domain of the philosopher is as broad as the universe. Wherever God manifests himself in creative acts, thither he invites the scholar. But he himself is past finding out, and is ever the unknown and the unknowable until he reveals himself in his works and word. But the right of philosophical inquiry is abused when speculation is pushed beyond the bounds of legitimate investigation. Reason has its limits, beyond which it cannot go. The human mind cannot comprehend the infinite. It is not legitimate for the philosopher to decide that God will not make a supernatural revelation of himself. "Has he done so?" is a legitimate question. There has been a degeneracy in philosophical inquiry. Once the scholar speculated through the secondary causes up to the first cause, but he now rests content in secondary causes as adequate to explain all the phenomena of nature. God's existence is denied, immortality is treated as a fiction, and personal responsibility as a human invention. The common people cannot understand this speculative philosophy, but they do understand its atheistical conclusions. And these philosophers are responsible for much infidelity, and for the present epidemic of crime, which is its legitimate result.

The unbelief of others comes from the abuse of personal liberty. In their impatience of restraint, they demand absolute freedom wherein to gratify their passions to excess. They forget that man is organized restriction, and that society is organized limitations. They forget that the highest liberty is the highest discipline. They represent the besotted infidels of the day, and the abuse of Christianity is the cause of unbelief in those who fail to distinguish between the essence of religion and its mere profession. The church is largely responsible for the spread of infidelity. She has been superstitious, ambitious and intolerant. In all these she has had a bad pre-eminence. She has stained the earth with human blood; she has opposed science and persecuted liberty, she has indulged in shallow formalism, in laxity of morals and clerical irregularities. Her indifference to the improvement of the working classes who struggle with poverty has caused them to throw the blame on Christianity. Certainly this picture is black enough to please the most fastidious. But what is the answer? Every good known to man is liable to be perverted. Science, jurisprudence and liberty itself have been abused. Shall we, therefore, reject them? Shall we resolve to have no kind of currency because each kind has its spurious likeness? Let us distinguish between the original and the counterfeit. Remember, Christ is the uncorrupted and the uncorruptible, and that the Christian Church of to-day is the [illegible] of our civilization.—N. Y. [illegible]

A Light in the Window.

Off the coast of one of the Orkney Islands, and right opposite the harbor, stood a long rock, against which, in stormy nights, the boats of returning fishermen struck and were lost.

Fifty years ago there lived on this island a young girl in a cottage with her father; and they loved each other very tenderly. One stormy night the father was away on the sea in his fisherman's boat, and though his daughter watched for him in much fear and trouble, he did not come home. Sad to tell, in the morning his dead body was found washed upon the beach. His boat, as he sought the harbor, had struck against the "Lonely Rock," and gone down.

In her deep sorrow, this fisherman's orphan did not think of herself alone. She was scarcely more than a child, humble, poor and weak; yet she said in her heart that while she lived no more boats should be lost on the "Lonely Rock," if a light shining through the window would guide them safely into harbor. And so, after watching by the body of her father, according to the custom of her people, until it was buried, she lay down and slept during the day; but when night fell she arose, and lighting a candle, placed it in the window of her cottage, so that it might be seen by any fishermen coming in from the sea, and guide him safely into the harbor. She sat by the candle all night, and trimmed it and spun; but when the day dawned she went to bed early and slept.

As many hanks as she spun before for daily bread, she spun still, and one over, to buy her nightly candle; and from that time to this, for fifty years, through youth, maturity, old age, she has turned night into day, and in the snow-storms of winter, through driving mists, deceptive moonlight, and solemn darkness, that northern harbor has never once been without the light of her candle.

How many lives she saved by the light of this candle, and how many meals she won for the starving families of the boatmen, it is impossible to say. How many dark nights the fishermen, depending on it, have gone forth, cannot now be told. There it stood, regular as a lighthouse, steadily as constant care could make it. Always brighter when daylight waned, the fishermen had only to keep it constantly in view, and they were safe; there was one thing to intercept it, and that was the rock. However far they might have gone out to sea, they had only to bear down for that lighted window, and they were sure of a safe entrance to the harbor.

But what do the boatmen and the boatmen's wives think of this? Do they pay the woman? No; they are very poor; but poor or rich, they know better than that. Do they thank her? No. Perhaps they think that thanks of theirs would be inadequate to express their gratitude; or perhaps long years have made the lighted candle [illegible] so familiar, that they look upon it as a matter of course [illegible] [illegible], for the [illegible] [illegible]

DWELLERS IN TENTS.

A while on earth we roam,
In these frail houses which are not our home,
Journeying towards a refuge that is sure—
A rest secure.

Only a little while
We dread the frown of life, and court its smile;
A dwelling then we have, not made with hands,
In other lands.

Therefore we need not mourn
That sudden clouds across our skies are borne.
That winter chills us, and the storm makes rents
In our frail tents.

Therefore we need not fear,
Though moth and rust corrupt our treasure here;
Though midnight thieves creep in with silent stealth
To seize our wealth.

For in our Father's house,
A mansion fair He has prepared for us;
And only till His voice shall call us hence
We dwell in tents.

Luling Circuit.

LULING, TEXAS, Nov. 17, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—Please give space in your valuable paper for the publication of this article. I entered upon this work, as I thought, under adverse circumstances, and I might say with reluctancy. I was met by the people with such cordial reception and Christian love that the spirit of enthusiasm began to electrify me, and predict a happy result for my year's labor. I found myself in a community in which there are many good Christians. There are two stands on the work which I have occupied. The Swann's Chapel, at Luling, and Zion Chapel, about four and one-half or five miles toward Prairie Lea. The membership is about equally divided. There are about 205 members in all. Zion Chapel was formerly Fairflag. I have received a salary of $113, and for the benevolent cause $23. Times have been very hard this year, or perhaps a more liberal contribution would have been given. During this conference year there has been 36 conversions; adults baptized, 24; infants, 9; received in full membership, 4.

There is a Sabbath-school at Swann's Chapel in active operation of about 44 pupils. Owing to the want of a sufficient number of Sabbath-school teachers the school is not as successful as it might be. The Sabbath-school at Zion Chapel has been suspended some time; perhaps owing to the want of sympathetic support. Should I be called to this work again next year I shall endeavor to give the Sabbath-school a new impetus and onward march. I preached my farewell sermon last night to a crowded house. It is sad to clasp the parting hand with loving Christians, and say farewell. I am well pleased with the people of this circuit, and particularly gratified to know that I have rendered satisfaction; and have left the church in a good condition. E. NEEBY.

A Word for Temperance.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Nov. 9, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I have a friendly word to say to our colored friends concerning temperance. Temperance is one of the cardinal virtues, [illegible] is not attended to as it should be. Every pastor in charge should be deeply interested in the promotion of temperance, and have it established in his church. It will [illegible] to Christ and his servants [illegible] intoxicating [illegible] should [illegible] every [illegible] good work and that they may continue in well doing. Pray for our prosperity.

REV. P. HARRIS.

about organizing temperance societies. I am certain they would like to see our country prospering, and the sons and daughters of the Ethiopian race elevated to the highest eminence of culture and respect. But as long as they act so backward, letting the whisky distillers and whisky sellers overspread the country with poisonous liquors and demoralizing its promising young men, this cannot be attained. There is a good organization that ought to be the home of young men and ladies—the Order of Good Templars. There is one in Houma, Terrebonne parish, which is doing good work and is appreciated by all. Now, it would be a grand thing to have one in the city of New Orleans. The whites have gone to work. They are not neutral as to the good of their people. They are not only anxious about the uprising of their people, but are very anxious for us to give our hand and heart to the cause of temperance. If our friends will agree and immediately go to work, they will find that the Independent Order of Good Templars, together with the total abstinence society, is certainly a protecting power which admits of no uncertain results, no compromising with social pleasure and carnal enjoyment, no yielding to the gratification of an abnormal diseased appetite which we must guard against forming, but we cannot do it if we use that which causes it.

God grant that the eyes of all men may be opened to the iniquity of intoxicating drinks.

W. L. HAWTHORNE.

College Degrees.

Everywhere but in the United States it has been the policy of governments to proceed with great caution in their concession of the degree-conferring power, and not to concede such power at all unless accompanied with ample provision to sustain it respectably, or unless satisfactorily assured that such provision exists. For a university, in a proper sense of the word, is a costly establishment. It cannot be created by a mere act of Legislature. A fiat university is worth no more than a fiat dollar. We have some universities in this country whose resources are in some degree correspondent to their responsibilities; but we have not one whose power of usefulness is not constantly held in check by insufficiency of means. —Prest. Barnard.

Letter from Crystal Springs.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS, MISS., Nov. 1, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—Being a constant reader of the SOUTHWESTERN, and seeing many letters addressed to to you informing you of the much good work being accomplished at various points, I have become a little jealous, and must let you hear from our little town and its works.

Our church is not in as prosperous a condition as I would like to have it (I mean the building), but we are prospering in many other good works. We have just finished a neat cottage for our parsonage, and it is clear of debt except a few dollars which is being rapidly reduced. Our Sabbath-school is in a prosperous condition and has made great improvement during the past month, for which credit is due to Mrs. N. J. Blackman, a lady who has lately made our town her home, and I am pleased to say she is a member of our church. She is just such an active Christian worker as we have long desired to be with us—an experienced teacher both in Sabbath and day school, and is a great lover of Methodism. I think you will agree with me when I tell you of the good work which she has accomplished in a short month. Sister Blackman has raised money enough to purchase many useful books, papers and reward cards for our Sabbath-school. And more than this, she has aroused our sisters and formed a society of them whose object is to build up our schools and aid our church. Though this Society is only one month old it has $50.75 in the treasury and expects to have much more soon. This society has employed a teacher and opened an independent school, allowing poor children who are not able to pay tuition to enter free of charge. All this good work is being accomplished by the sisters. The next effort of this society will be to purchase sashes with lights for our church. I trust the Lord may aid the sisters in this great and good work and that they may continue in well doing. Pray for our prosperity.

REV. P. HARRIS.

Mason's and Brownsville Circuit, Tennessee.

DEAR EDITOR—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper for a gist of my labors on my circuit for the Lord this conference year? God has crowned my labors this year with great success. When I entered my work the first of the year I asked the blessed Lord to enable me, through His divine power, to win a hundred souls for Him. In answer to this He blessed me with one hundred and fourteen converts this conference year; 80 have joined our church, 49 adults and 34 children baptized, and only two deaths. I and my family were sick with the chills and fever the first three months; since then we have had better health than we ever had since we have been in the West. I have had great success in our Sunday-school cause. This I have found to be a sure success to any pastor that will be governed by the instruction of our last Discipline, on page 156.

Capt. Blackwell, one of our young lawyers, was with us in our Sunday-school at Mason on last Sunday, and made a soul-stirring talk on the occasion. He said this was the best Sunday-school he ever met—white or black.

Our Preparatory School, under the leadership of the Rev. C. E. Alexander and his wife, has had good success this year, and bids fair for the future. We have succeeded in covering our church at Mason, and paid on debt of church $24, and have got a title deed. We have also covered and enlarged the church at Atoka, and paid on debt $26. Our fourth quarterly conference, which was held on the 19th and 20th of September last, was a grand success. Nearly all of the leading brethren were present, and on the Sabbath our worthy elder gave a telling talk to the Sunday-school, and at 11 o'clock preached with great acceptability. Three hundred and six partook of the Lord's Supper, and 95 members paid 25 cents. This circuit is yet coming to the front. I am yours in Christ, JESSE P. PRICE.

Anniversary of the Freedmen's Aid Society.

The twelfth anniversary of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church was celebrated at Trinity M. E. Church, Jersey City, Rev. Dr. Harcourt, pastor, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 11, 1879. Bishop Wiley, who was elected to the Episcopate from the Newark Conference, presided in a manner that showed how perfectly he felt himself at home among his old friends. After a voluntary on the organ, and an anthem by the choir, Rev. L. R. Dunn was introduced, who gave out the hymn, "Come Thou, Almighty King," and then offered an appropriate prayer.

In his brief opening remarks, Bishop Wiley said:

"We are met to celebrate the anniversary of one of the great benevolent societies of our church, as well as one of the youngest born. It was organized immediately after the close of the 'late unpleasantness;' and its field of operations is almost exclusively among the freedmen of the Southern States. Our church is at work in that region by three great societies. First, there is our General Missionary Society, which sends out preachers to carry the gospel to all men within their reach; next, the Church Extension Society, aiding those poor people in the building of their cheap, plain, but serviceable, sanctuaries; and third, the Freedmen's Aid Society, whose mission it is to gather up these colored outcasts, and give them an education.

"During the past year this society has had great success. The Secretary, Dr. Rust, is here to tell you about it, and also, in the absence of the treasurer, to give you the financial report for the year. We have with us a cosmopolitan gentleman, who formerly resided in New York, where he became widely known as the editor of The Christian Advocate, but who now has his official duties in Cincinnati as editor of the National Repository. Dr. Curry has lived in the South, and he will take time to tell you what he knows about the African race.

"Bishop Peck is here to give us some good things from his ample knowledge on the general subject before us, and when these speakers get through we shall all know a great deal about the work and claims of the Freedmen's Aid Society. Not to detain you further from the enjoyments in store for you, I will now introduce Secretary Rust."

Dr. Rust, who helped to organize the Society, and who has been in its management, first Field Superintendent, and then as Corresponding Secretary, ever since its establishment, then rendered the following report:

The Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church respectfully submit an abstract of their twelfth annual report:

Encouraging success has crowned another year's work, and the schools established and sustained by the Society have been elevated in grade, and greatly improved in educational facilities and scholarship. The funds contributed have not been sufficient to meet all the necessities of the schools, and the pathetic appeals for help that have reached us; but they have enabled us to relieve a vast amount of ignorance and wretchedness, and secure favorable opportunities of improvement for twenty-five hundred of this unfortunate race, and through these we shall reach hundreds of thousands scattered all over the South.

It is hardly to be expected that the church could meet the necessities of these four millions of freedmen, in so brief a period, without serious interference with other movements, both at home and abroad, for the conversion of the world. The work of elevating a race, degraded by centuries of heathenism and oppression, cannot be accomplished by the fitful efforts of a few years; protracted effort, unwavering faith, and money in large installments, are essential to its achievement. Those who at first regarded this enterprise as temporary, and expected soon to be relieved of the burden, have changed their views, as they have come to realize how vast a work, in the providence of God, has been thrust upon us, how great has been the success in its prosecution, and how intimately it is connected with the permanence of our free Government, and the purity and prosperity of our church work in the South.

But the great work of the American Church, and the one that urges its claims with peculiar emphasis at this crisis, is that of educating the freedmen. God places this duty upon us, as he does upon no other nation, and he will not receive work done in any other part of the world as an equivalent for our neglect of this so imperatively demanded at home. To neglect it, or to treat it with parsimonious indifference, is to put in jeopardy one of the most important interests intrusted to the church and the nation. This cause at this hour has transcendent claims upon us, and whatever other work we may postpone or neglect in the world's redemption, we cannot innocently turn away from this movement in behalf of the freedmen, which is so closely identified with the welfare of this country, and the salvation of the world.

We submit a brief report of what has been accomplished during the past year, the amount of money collected, and the purposes for which it has been expended, trusting that our administration of affairs will meet the approval of the church that has fostered, with so much interest, this important educational enterprise in behalf of four millions of freedmen.

WILEY UNIVERSITY.

Our brethren in Texas purchased property in Marshall for the school in a poor location, remote from the town, and difficult of access. After a few years' trial it was found impossible to build up an institution of high grade in that place, and the farm has been exchanged for a fine situation in town, healthful, easy of approach, and commanding a charming view of the surrounding country.

We have erected on this beautiful site overlooking the town two plain brick edifices, three stories high, as wings of the main University building, to be built when some benevolent friend of this enterprise shall furnish the funds. These wings cost $6,435, in addition to materials taken from the old place. This institution now takes rank with our highest grade, and enters upon the work of education in Texas with renewed zeal and cheering prospect of success.

MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE.

This institution for the preparation of physicians is in successful operation. It has graduated three promising classes of young men, and already several of these graduates have distinguished themselves by self-sacrificing effort and medical skill in behalf of those suffering from the fearful plague in the South. A new building for the accommodation of the Medical Department, in consequence of the crowded condition of the school, became a necessity, and the commanding knoll adjoining the College campus was purchased for $2,100, and an appropriate and commodious building is nearly completed, which will cost about $8,000, for which we are mainly indebted to the liberality of the Meharry brothers. This will furnish the complement of buildings necessary for the Central Tennessee College; and we may point with pride to this institution, its noble buildings, its talented faculty, its thoroughly trained students, as stars in the crown of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

CLAFLIN UNIVERSITY.

The entire property of the University, valued at $40,000, has been deeded to the Freedmen's Aid Society, and the Society has assumed its outstanding indebtedness of $4,000. The Legree estate, adjoining the University grounds, consisting of thirty-one acres and buildings, valued at $6,000, has been donated to the Society by Gov. Wm. Claflin, of Boston.

COOKMAN INSTITUTE.

The buildings here have been greatly improved. To the main edifice has been added a three-story brick dormitory, and the residence for the teachers has received needed improvements. The new building is an ornament to the city and an honor to the contributors, and furnishes ample accommodations for more than one hundred pupils.

We have sustained in the field during the past year seventy teachers—one-third of them males, and nearly all ministers, and the other two-thirds Christian ladies who have taught school during the week, have taken an active part in Sunday-school work, and have visited, to the extent of their time and strength, the humble abodes of their pupils, teaching them how to make home attractive and happy, and inspiring in them lofty purpose for a pure and noble life.

We have inaugurated a missionary movement in behalf of women in New Orleans, with encouraging results. None but Christian women, without awakening suspicion, can have free access to the homes of this people, to instruct and prepare them for their new condition of life. It is one of the most inviting fields of Christian effort anywhere to be found, and one to which our women are urgently invited, and for which they have, above all others, especial fitness and qualification. We should send many, instead of the few, into this mission-work of the South, for hundreds are now demanded for its cultivation, as they would be welcomed, and their toil rewarded with glorious harvests.

The experiment has been a successful one, and we appeal for aid in sending Christian women South for a work of such great promise.

LOCATION OF SCHOOLS.

The Society has aided in the establishment and support of the following schools, six of which have been legally chartered with full collegiate powers:

Chartered Institutions: Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn.; Clark University, Atlanta, Ga.; Claflin University, Orangeburg, S. C.; New Orleans University, New Orleans, La.; Shaw University, Holly Springs, Miss.; Wiley University, Marshall, Texas.—6.

Theological Schools: Centenary Biblical Institute, Baltimore, Md.; Baker Institute, Orangeburgh, S. C.; Thomson Biblical Institute, New Orleans, La.—3.

Medical College: Meharry Medi- College, Nashville, Tenn.—1.

Institutions not chartered: Bennett Seminary, Greensborough, N. C.; Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Fla.; Dadeville Seminary, Dadeville, Ala.; Haven Normal School, Waynesborough, Ga.; La Grange Seminary, La Grange, Ga.; Meridian Academy, Meridian, Miss.; Rust Normal School, Huntsville, Ala.; Walden Seminary, Little Rock, Ark.; Orphan's Home, La Teche, La.—9.

In these institutions the number of pupils taught during the year is classified as follows: Biblical, 453; Law, 20; Medical, 60; Collegiate, 74; Academic, 270; Normal, 1,020; Intermediate, 242; Primary, 371. Total, 2, 510.

We have taught 60,000 pupils during the past twelve years, and the pupils trained in our schools have taught at least 300,000 of their race scattered over the South. The Society has invested in permanent school property a quarter of a million of dollars, ($250,000).

Each year our schools graduate classes of promising youth, who go forth as preachers, teachers and physicians, to elevate a degraded people, and fit it for usefulness on earth and happiness in heaven.

Dr. Curry then took the pulpit and delivered a well-considered address on "The History, Present Condition and Claims of the African Race in America" which was listened to with deep attention, and at times was greeted with applause.

Another anthem was then rendered by the choir, after which Bishop Peck made a spirited speech, showing the claims of the African as a man, a citizen and a brother Christian.

These addresses will hereafter be published.

The congregation was dismissed with the benediction by Bishop Peck.—N. Y. Advocate.

Georgia Conference.

MR. EDITOR—Allow me to give you a few scraps in regard to our Conference. The following account I clip from the Atlanta Constitution, the leading paper of the State:

The session of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church (North) just closed in this city has been interesting. Bishop Harris, one of the ablest and most active workers in this great church, presided over the deliberations of the body. There was a good attendance of lay and clerical delegates from all parts of the State, while quite a number of visitors attended the session. Full reports were heard from all the presiding elders and pastors. They spoke in cheerful terms of their labors during the past year, and the results which followed. Their aggregated reports show a goodly increase in the church membership in Georgia during the past year, while the mission and Sunday-school work has been exceedingly prosperous.

The work of the church in Georgia is confined almost exclusively to the northern portion of the State, with Atlanta as its basis of operations. There has been an effort to push the work into central and lower Georgia, but as yet it has not been considerable as compared with the labors and success in the northern part of the State.

Sunday Bishop Harris preached at the Marietta-street church to a congregation which filled the auditorium and showed a deep interest in the discourse. The bishop is plain, strong and logical in his style, while he has enough enthusiasm to carry the force of a thorough conviction in his own mind. He is what the "old brethren" call a gospel preacher, and cleaves to his text in a manner which some of our theological high flyers might with advantage imitate. Yesterday morning the conference adjourned after the bishop read the following

The Spread of Infidelity.

The Rev. Dr. Newman preached last Sunday in the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, to a very large congregation. He took his text from John iii: 19: "And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil." The Savior anticipated that some men would reject him as the divine teacher of mankind, and, therefore, assigned the cause, which is moral in its nature and manifestations, conceiving this primary cause, which is depravity. Let us, he said, this morning give our attention to three secondary causes of much of modern unbelief. They are the abuse of philosophic inquiry, the abuse of personal liberty and the abuse of Christianity. Philosophical thinkers have a noble mission. Nature invites them to her banquet of wisdom. She has no secrets which she is unwilling to disclose. She never eludes the patient, honest searcher. To be known is her glory. The domain of the philosopher is as broad as the universe. Wherever God manifests himself in creative acts, thither he invites the scholar. But he himself is past finding out, and is ever the unknown and the unknowable until he reveals himself in his works and word. But the right of philosophical inquiry is abused when speculation is pushed beyond the bounds of legitimate investigation. Reason has its limits, beyond which it cannot go. The human mind cannot comprehend the infinite. It is not legitimate for the philosopher to decide that God will not make a supernatural revelation of himself. "Has he done so?" is a legitimate question. There has been a degeneracy in philosophical inquiry. Once the scholar speculated through the secondary causes up to the first cause, but he now rests content in secondary causes as adequate to explain all the phenomena of nature. God's existence is denied, immortality is treated as a fiction, and personal responsibility as a human invention. The common people cannot understand this speculative philosophy, but they do understand its atheistical conclusions. And these philosophers are responsible for much infidelity, and for the present epidemic of crime, which is its legitimate result.

The unbelief of others comes from the abuse of personal liberty. In their impatience of restraint, they demand absolute freedom wherein to gratify their passions to excess. They forget that man is organized restriction, and that society is organized limitations. They forget that the highest liberty is the highest disciplne. They represent the besotted infidels of the day, and the abuse of Christianity is the cause of unbelief in those who fail to distinguish between the essence of religion and its mere profession. The church is largely responsible for the spread of infidelity. She has been superstitious, ambitious and intolerant. In all these she has had a bad pre-eminence. She has stained the earth with human blood; she has opposed science and persecuted liberty, she has indulged in shallow formalism, in laxity of morals and clerical irregularities. Her indifference to the improvement of the working classes who struggle with poverty has caused them to throw the blame on Christianity. Certainly this picture is black enough to please the most fastidious. But what is the answer? Every good known to man is liable to be perverted. Science, jurisprudence and liberty itself have been abused. Shall we, therefore, reject them? Shall we resolve to have no kind of currency because each kind has its spurious likeness? Let us distinguish between the original and the caricature. Remember, Christ is the uncorrupted and the uncorruptible, and that the Christian Church of to-day is the grandest fact in our civilization.—N. Y. Methodist.

The presence of these Northern speakers was greatly encouraging to Republicans, and Democrats gave their speeches respectful attention.

A Light in the Window.

Off the coast of one of the Orkney Islands, and right opposite the harbor, stood a long rock, against which, in stormy nights, the boats of returning fishermen struck and were lost.

Fifty years ago there lived on this island a young girl in a cottage with her father; and they loved each other very tenderly. One stormy night the father was away on the sea in his fisherman's boat, and though his daughter watched for him in much fear and trouble, he did not come home. Sad to tell, in the morning his dead body was found washed upon the beach. His boat, as he sought the harbor, had struck against the "Lonely Rock," and gone down.

In her deep sorrow, this fisherman's orphan did not think of herself alone. She was scarcely more than a child, humble, poor and weak; yet she said in her heart that while she lived no more boats should be lost on the "Lonely Rock," if a light shining through the window would guide them safely into harbor. And so, after watching by the body of her father, according to the custom of her people, until it was buried, she lay down and slept during the day; but when night fell she arose, and lighting a candle, placed it in the window of her cottage, so that it might be seen by any fishermen coming in from the sea, and guide him safely into the harbor. She sat by the candle all night, and trimmed it and spun; but when the day dawned she went to bed early and slept.

As many hanks as she spun before for daily-bread, she spun still, and one over, to buy her nightly candle; and from that time to this, for fifty years, through youth, maturity, old age, she has turned night into day, and in the snow-storms of winter, through driving mists, deceptive moonlight, and solemn darkness, that northern harbor has never once been without the light of her candle.

How many lives she saved by the light of this candle, and how many meals she won for the starving families of the boatmen, it is impossible to say. How many dark nights the fishermen, depending on it, have gone forth, cannot now be told. There it stood, regular as a lighthouse, steadily as constant care could make it. Always brighter when daylight waned, the fishermen had only to keep it constantly in view, and they were safe; there was one thing to intercept it, and that was the rock. However far they might have gone out to sea, they had only to bear down for that lighted window, and they were sure of a safe entrance to the harbor.

But what do the boatmen and the boatmen's wives think of this? Do they pay the woman? No; they are very poor; but poor or rich, they know better than that. Do they thank her? No. Perhaps they think that thanks of theirs would be inadequate to express their gratitude; or perhaps long years have made the lighted casement so familiar, that they look upon it as a matter of course, and forget, for the time, the patient watcher within.—Jean Ingelow.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1879.

The wife of Bishop Scott died at Odessa, Delaware, a few days ago.

The first new subscribers for 1880 came from Mississippi, thanks to the considerate zeal of Rev. C. W. Ivy, of Shuqualak.

Rev. W. Wesley leads the canvass in Northeastern Texas for 1880 by sending in a list of thirty-five subscribers, and promises more.

H. J. Wright desires to correct an error as to the published balance on hand of the Pineville, La., Cemetery Association. The amount is $70.

Congress met on Monday, and received the President's message. The Senate adjourned in respect to the memory of the late Senator Chandler.

From Geo. C. Wilding, secretary, we have received the minutes of the West Virginia annual conference of the M. E. Church, held at Morgantown, Oct. 1-6, 1879.

Our correspondents must make their communications brief, or we shall abbreviate for them. All available space in our columns will be occupied for some time to come with valuable and urgent matter.

America, a weekly journal of modern progress, has appeared in New York. The salutatory promises a paper of broad views to represent the interests of the continent—moral and material. It has eight pages, quarto form. The subscription is $3. Publishers Price & Co., 13 West Broadway, New York.

The canvass begins grandly in Northern Louisiana. Rev. S. E. H. Moreat, at St. Paul's, Shreveport, sends a list of fifty-three subscribers, and Rev. H. T. Abbott, of St. James Church, in same city, sends a list of thirty-eight. Rev. A. Legendy sends a good list from his circuit, and says he has only begun. Presiding Elder Davage writes that every one of his preachers will make the second Sunday in December SOUTHWESTERN DAY for 1880, and send in lists. Good for North Louisiana!

[illegible] election of Rev. Dr. Fuller as delegate to the next General Conference by his Conference by a unanimous vote at Atlanta, Ga., is a well deserved compliment to that fearless defender of the cause of Christ in the South. As the editor of the Methodist Advocate he has spoken with no uncertain sound when writing of our work in the Southland, and in denouncing the wrong, whether in church or State. He has been maligned by Confederate politicians and bourbon Southern editors, but with true Christian manliness he has stood at his post, and it is fitting that his brethren [illegible] to him should thus honor him.

Says a Texas correspondent: "Capt. Wheeler, of Topeka, secretary of the Relief Association, writes to urge the people of Texas to go provided with their teams, stock and farming implements. The Work of a Pastor.

It has somehow come to be regarded as the chief work of the minister to prepare and preach great sermons. As a rule, members of the church prefer that their preacher should stay at home and attend to his pulpit preparation, rather than spend much of his time in ascertaining their personal, spiritual condition; and the majority of ministers also prefer such an arrangement. Nevertheless, it may be seriously questioned whether this is best for all concerned, or quite in accordance with the Scriptural plan of evangelical work. The great commission to every Gospel minister is, "Go preach;" but it was certainly not intended that preaching should be confined to the pulpit, or to congregations. In the primitive church there was preaching to households and to single individuals. Philip preached Jesus to the Eunuch, and it is recorded that Aquila and Priscilla "took Apollo unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly."

The minister, then, should preach the Gospel to individuals and from house to house, in his pastoral visitations, "warning every man and teaching every man in all wisdom; that he may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus." But this is not the whole of the idea of the Christian pastorate. It is necessary that they who have the care of souls should become thoroughly acquainted with them,—with their spiritual condition, peculiar temperaments and besetments. It is as direct a necessity to the preacher as to the people themselves. "Without it he not only lacks the spiritual benefits flowing from the faithful discharge of his duty but he must ever select his subjects at a disadvantage and treat them with a vagueness, at least an uncertainty, as to their special adaptation by no means friendly to the efficiency of his ministrations." It is a proposition too plain to need proof, that no preacher can be properly prepared to minister either privately or publicly, to the spiritual wants of those with whom he is not well acquainted.

The prime and indispensable qualification for the important and most delicate work of pastoral visitation is sympathy—a real love which regards all men as immortal beings, whose souls are of more value than all the universe beside, and over whom we are to exert an influence which shall shape their destiny for time and eternity. Only as the pastor accustoms himself to view those in his charge as the objects of infinite love, as the purchase of Christ's blood, and therefore with something of the love which led Christ to die for them, will he be able to "watch for souls as one who must give an account," or make his visitations among them tend to their edification and salvation. There is great wisdom in the admonition we once heard given to a class of candidates for ordination to the work of the ministry: "Never forget that you are ministers of the Gospel." The trouble with too many is, that they do forget that fact as soon as they are out of the pulpit; and in their private associations with their people their conversation, instead of being seasoned with grace, is frequently frivolous, if not trifling, and goes far to neutralize and destroy the good effects of their preaching. No rules can be given to regulate the deportment of a pastor. The only sufficient guide to duty and safe-guard against the evils referred to, is a deep, fervent love for souls, which is willing to become "all things to all men, in order to save them."

There is one direction to pastors in our Discipline which needs to be especially observed,—that which requires them to go, not only to those who need them, but to those who need them most. These are not always the persons or families whom it is most pleasant to visit, but are often the poor and ignorant and vicious. The poor of a church are usually the most appreciative of the attentions of their pastor, and most sensitive to any want of attention. They are also most accessible, and apt to receive the largest benefit from such labor. His sympathy should extend to their bodies as well as their souls. If they are in sickness or want, he should, if in his power, see that they are relieved, and in so doing he will gain a hold on their affections which can be obtained in no other way. The most efficient pastor we ever knew, (and he was an excellent preacher withal; for his sermons were not made out of books, but out of the wants of his people,) was accustomed to say: "My Bible reads, 'Pure religion and undefiled, before God and the Father, is this, To visit the widows and the fatherless, with a market-basket on my arm, and keep myself unspotted from the world.'" Ac- [illegible] whenever he made his [illegible] visits, which was every afternoon, he always carried a basket well filled with necessaries for the poor of his flock. It was said that he always had unusual liberty in prayer in the families he thus relieved.

> "He prayeth best, who loveth best
> All things both great and small;
> For the dear God who loveth us,
> Hath made and loveth all."

The President's Message.

The President congratulates Congress on the successful execution of the resumption act, and refers to the consequent revival of trade and improvement of public credit. Legislation is asked to assist in refunding the debt maturing in two years, to effect a saving of $11,000,000 annually. The coinage of gold during the fiscal year was $40,986,912; silver, $45,000,850, of which $32,300,506 is still in the possession of the government. It is recommended that the coinage of silver dollars be suspended; also, that legal tender notes be retired. Utah has a population entitling it to admission as a State, and more searching methods to punish polygamy should be provided.

The elections of the year give evidence of the deep interest in the protection of the right of suffrage. Congress is urged to supply defects in laws, and co-operate in that great purpose, as necessary to the complete pacification of the country. Civil service reform requires the co-operation of Congress to be efficient. Our relations with foreign countries continue peaceful. A better government for Alaska, appropriations for marshal's fees and judicial expenses, an additional circuit judge, are recommended. Secretary Schurz's Indian policy is endorsed. The sale of timber from public lands might be authorized, the Washington monument completed. The message is a brief, satisfactory state paper.

Kansas, and How to Get There

It is become a question of the most serious consideration with numbers of the colored people of Texas, whether it is practicable for them to go to Kansas. The deadly hostility manifested, the impossibility to dispose of property for this purpose, the distance and difficulties of reaching them are questions of a practical sort. To answer these, a candid statement of the advantages and disadvantages, of the best means and cost of getting there, seems to be necessary.

Of the disadvantages of Texas to the colored man I need not write. They are such as a very few counter-advantages anywhere would seem to be sufficient. In Kansas the colored man is, from the start, on equal footing with his white neighbor. It is consecrated ground—consecrated by blood to freedom, equality and justice. There is education for the children, there is liberty in the exercise of religions and political rights, and protection under the laws for her humblest citizen. For homes and farms there are grand opportunities for the colored man. The best lands of the State are those set apart for the benefit of her University, and are now offered for sale. From authoritative sources I make this statement of terms for these lands: They are offered in lots of forty acres (or more) at the rate of $106 for each lot. A payment of $10.60 is required on purchase; the balance to be paid in twenty yearly payments, with 7 per cent. per annum interest added. The best and most desirable portions of these lands are situated in the southeastern part of the State, thus making them easy of access to people going from Texas.

The climate of Kansas is mild, the winters short, and the soil unexcelled. Parties who would purchase these lands, and who go by railroad, should stop at Chanute and send a committee to Neosho Falls to see the agent, Mr. W. J. Haughawont, who will give all the needed directions.

What is the best way for the people to go? Many have started, ignorant of the distance, of the expense, and of the best means of reaching there, and have failed. All seem to think that they must go by railroad, and will sell teams, stock and produce at a great sacrifice for this purpose. This is a vital mistake. The Relief Committee in Kansas are emphatic on this point. Do not sell teams or wagons or farming implements, or stock—take them all along. They will be needed in Kansas. The committee urge all who can do so to go overland in wagons, and in large parties. This is the cheapest, the surest and the best way to go. I give herewith the rates and distances.

Those who go by railroad can get reduced rates from Denison, Texas, over the M. K. & T. R. R., at three cents a mile, and usually over the roads in Texas to Denison about the same rates will be allowed. None can expect to obtain better terms than these. The fare from Denison to Chanute—about 325 miles—is $9.75. Those who go overland are advised to go through Western Arkansas, from Texarkana to Fort Smith, thence to Cass, then Cane Hill, then Fayetteville, then Bentonville, then across the Indian Territory a short distance to Baxter Springs, Kansas, where they may obtain the lands of the same kind as mentioned before. The distance from Texarkana is about 300 miles.

These are simple statements, yet may be of value to some. Let me urge the people to go, but not blindly. Have a definite point in view and plan of getting there. Do not sell anything at too great a sacrifice. Take your moveables along and leave your land for better times. If you can go, go at once, or at least very early in the spring. Go expecting to share in the hardships as well as the benefits of a new country. The people of Kansas are not a wealthy people, but are energetic, of broad sympathy and a liberal hand, and they expect hard work and sterling integrity of all who share with them.

When you start, push through at once, for stopping a day or two on the road will prove fatal. The whites are wary and revengeful, and there is no safety to the immigrant who falls into their hands. Secure a trusty pilot to lead the way. Without the strong will of a leader the children of Israel would have been destroyed.

If you are fully satisfied that your condition will be made better, your manhood given a broader sphere for development, and life made easier by going, go to Kansas by all means; go for the sake of your own souls, for sake of family and of social equality, peace. Go, for the great North extends her hands in welcome, and the consecrated soil of Kansas invites you to her embrace. Go, that the foul blot of oppression may no longer remain, nor the black flag of hatred wave over this free land of ours. Go, that the old bell of Liberty, so long lifeless, may again peal forth its notes of freedom, and declare in unfaltering tones, protection of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness to the humblest citizen of these United States. Go, that the light of God's grace may penetrate the darkened haunts of ignorance, superstition and vice. Go, for the Lord of hosts is with you and the God of Jacob is your refuge. But go with the purpose of making the great State glad at your coming, and to make your race honored and trusted by your industry, integrity and patriotism. Remember that in Kansas you are a free man—free to vote, to educate your children and to enjoy your religion—free to be honest and upright; free to share in the hard work and sacrifices, the burdens and the rewards of a grand new State.

Letter from Alexandria.

MR. EDITOR—Our little basket meeting on the 19th was a decided success. The collections were as follows: Bro. Sanders, $1.70; G. Gregory, $1.75; T. Brown, $1.75; Bro. H. Johnson, $5.25; H. J. Wright, $5.30. A good many having left when our pastor took the stand, his collection was $4.20. Elder Frank James, of the A. M. M. Church of Shreveport, preached for us. The brother's discourse was interesting and listened to attentively by a good congregation—collection, $4.20; total collected during the basket meeting, $29.15, including $5 that the congregation gave Bro. James. Announcement was made that the elder would address the Young Men's Rapides Grove Benevolent Association No. 1, in the church on Monday evening, which brought us back to the house of God on Monday night to listen to the brother. His subject was based on Odd Fellowship. He enlightened a good many upon the sacred order. A good crowd of ladies and gentlemen was present to hear him. Mr. H. J. Wright returned thanks to the speaker in behalf of the Grove. Bro. Marshall replied to some points of the speaker's. Notice was given out that the young ladies would give their second entertainment for the purpose of raising funds to purchase a banner to present to the Grove. The entertainment came off on the 30th. Pineville Church gives a festival on the 31st and 1st for the benefit of the church. Bro. Marshall is disseminating the Gospel, and is a true Christian. He studies to elevate his people in all that is true and upright. May the Lord bless all such men. Our church is in a very good condition, also the Sabbath-school. In the two schools there are nearly 200 scholars. The cotton season is brisk. Cotton picking is in its bloom 50 and 60 cents per hundred, with rations in some localities, and pickers pick 100 to 400 pounds a day—children less.

The Color Bearers in the Belt of Danger.

Many of the color bearers along in the "Belt of Danger" have been halting between two opinions, not knowing whether they were to be backed up by the necessary reserved force and appliances to push up to the enemy's ditches and plant the standard of righteousness on their fortifications, or whether they were to fall back and await another season. During this hesitancy much suffering has been endured. Many points were weak and have remained so because adjacent heights could not be occupied for lack of means. The faith of many a true heart has been severely tried. They have been sawn asunder, tormented and persecuted. They have had trials of cruel mockings, shooting and hangings; moreover, they have suffered imprisonment and death. Yet amidst all this, and much more—of hunger and extreme poverty—they have not accepted the deliverance by compromise with the enemy, nor have they fled; but counting the riches of Christ and the vindication of a pure, unadulterated gospel, of more honor and greater treasure than all the wealth of this Southern Egypt, they have stood at their posts. From this bloody field in the advance, all eyes have looked hopefully to '79 when resumption would be a fact, and on the action of the authorities of the greatest of the great churches, to see if the host of God would move up to the demands and opportunities of the times. And now, we are glad to say, O Lord, we have seen thy salvation. Verily our redemption is nearer than when we believed. As we look to the east we see His star. The wise men have already seen it and have gone forth to worship Him. The angels announce the hope of peace among all men in the South. Let the shepherds go forth to lead their flocks to the wells of life. As we read and re-read the proceedings of the Missionary Committee, our hearts take courage. As we see these greatest of the great men of God, leaders of the leaders in Israel, standing on the heights of Zion's walk looking out over all the earth and laying plans to save the millions of the lost of all kindreds and tongues and peoples, the question arises, "whose heart could fail him in the light of this dawning day of victory?" Not only does the committee repeat its aid of last year, but makes a little advance. Money is also provided for the defense of the persecuted and murdered. Let these hard-pressed and much-abused brethren whose lives have been repeatedly threatened if they dared to "claim the right of free speech," take courage. This is the band of God in Methodism. Brethren, lay your plans for the early capture of the foe. Come, we must be about the business of the King; we have no time to lose. Let all the rank and file of the laity fall into line, put on their armor and raise the shout, "On to Richmond!" Do not wait for leaders: up and at the foe! Wait not for the morrow, he may entrench by the rising of the next sun. Crowd him! Close up the ranks! Leave no stone unturned. Take the missionary collection. We need 20 accessions to the Little Rock conference at the next session, and to get them we must show the character of our people. Give each member a chance to give 50 cents to the missionary cause. Tell him what it is for. Read the proceedings of the Committee and re-read them, until you catch the holy inspiration with which our worthy bishops and the members of the Committee was inspired. Give the people the plans of the good old Church and they will love her as they cannot love any other church. They will give: Do not be afraid of missing your own salary. If you fail to help now you are helped, by helping on this vast missionary movement for the world's salvation, God will shut up the hearts of the people and you will go hungry and wanting. We should increase our collections by more than a hundred per cent. There has been $2,200 appropriated to our conference; we are expected to raise $250, $100 from the White River District. Now, Brethren, though we have but few members we can and must raise the money.

Letter from Bryan.

BRYAN, Texas, Nov. 26, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—When I wrote a few weeks ago to the SOUTHWESTERN, stating that the Kansas fever had broken out along the entire line of the Central Railroad, I stated facts; but I never dreamed that it would assume the proportions that it has—and so soon. There is a settled purpose deep down in the hearts of all, both men and women, to go. They say they must get out of this country—it is not their home. Large communities are moving off every day, either going by wagons or taking the cars; and some are so bent upon going that they start on foot. One woman and her daughter has walked through, and written back to her friends to come on. She says, "Make the attempt, if you die on the road."

The white people are very much excited, and charge all their misfortunes to the white presiding elders in the South. Bro. Philpott the pastor of the M. E. Church South at Bryan, says we all ought to be hung. I suppose he would pray for the boys who would do the work. God has a hand in this great movement. He is going to give these poor people a rest after hundreds of years of bondage, and show these land lords that he has something to do in shaping their destiny.

I was very sick most of the time during the district conference at Hempstead, and could not be in the chair all the time. Bro. Hardwell occupied the chair in my absence. He filled the chair with credit to himself and conference. The pastors were all on hand and made favorable reports. There was a large attendance of local preachers and other members of the conference. The brethren say it was the best district conference they have ever attended. We have had a large number of conversions and additions this year. Pray for us.

Letter from Meridian.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 12, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—Our new school building, the Meridian Academy, was occupied this morning for the first time. We had a dedication service offered by Elder J. W. Dunn, who read the 19th Psalm and sang a good old Sunday-school song: "I think when I read the sweet story of old," etc. He also led in prayer, after which he gave a short address to about seventy-five students, Sister M. V. Keever at their head. The Elder gave us a mild talk, which was very appropriate. He said that the people throughout the district were inquiring about the new school building in Meridian, "when will they get it done, so that it can be used." "Thank God," he said, "that we can say that we have a high school building in Meridian. Many thought that it never would be built, but you are now within its walls to-day and we should thank God the the very highest for His kindness." We have a debt of $190 yet to be paid on the building. We respectfully ask of our friends, lovers of education and refinement, to give us $150. We would be glad to get it just now. We hope that some loving brother, sister or friend who has the money to spare, would now extend such a gift to the Meridian Academy. We trust that this letter will touch some great heart, and that he will come to our relief.

THE CANVASS FOR 1880!

LET IT BEGIN NOW.

We call the attention of our agents to the following:

1. Now is the time to push the canvass for new subscribers for 1880. At this season of the year the people have money. Begin at once.

2. Do not loose one old subscriber. See every one on your list for this year, and urge them to renew for 1880.

3. Collect money now due and forward it at once. Forward all you can now, and be prepared to settle up everything at conference.

4. The SOUTHWESTERN costs only $2 a year, that is about four cents a week. We pay the postage.

5. Send for specimen copies whenever you need them, and they will be sent free.

6. We give no picture premium next year. But we do better. We place within the reach of all our subscribers a most valuable book worth $2, for 50 cents. Read the following carefully:

A Valuable Book

Offered to Yearly Subscribers of the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880,

MISSISSIPPI.

James Middlebrook, Buena Vista: "We held our final conference on the 25th. Had a good time. Elected a delegate to the annual conference to ask for a colored bishop."

J. R. Comfort, Union Church: "Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 22. Elder Campbell was with us. The Lord's supper was administered to 133. Collected $34.20."

C. W. Ivy, Scooba: "My fourth quarter was held on the 22d, Elder Dunn in the chair, being his first visit to Scooba. Business was all right. The elder preached on Sunday. Collection $10.35."

LOUISIANA.

Thanksgiving service was held in Rev. A. Moore's church, Algiers, on Thursday last.

Last Sunday night, Nov. 30th, a missionary sermon was preached at Wesley Chapel, by the pastor, Rev. M. Dale. A collection was taken of $64. This gratifying result was due to the earnestness of the pastor in presenting the cause to his people. Thanksgiving service was held on Thursday.

Rev. F. Christian, Shady Grove: "I preached to a large congregation at Union Hill Chapel, Nov. 23. We had a fine time in our union banner camp meeting. Preaching was by Rev. Levi Johnson and myself. We received three willing souls, and three were offered for the kingdom of God."

W. Brooks, Opelousas: "The church is greatly opposed in this place, but the Lord has blessed us. We have raised $100 to improve the church, have built a new bell steeple, dug a well, and painted the church. Our presiding elder was with us and we had a good time. His sermons will be long remembered in Opelousas, and we do hope that the conference will send him back to us."

TENNESSEE.

A. Burdett, Clifton: "I have held all my protracted meetings. Had 22 converts, 13 baptized. We thank Rev. Geo. Burns, of Linden circuit, for his help. Our local preachers, Bro. Gus Hughes and Andy Potter, did good work this year."

TEXAS.

E. J. Dickens, of Fairfield, is attending Wiley University at Marshall, to prepare for the ministry.

Letter from Yazoo.

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Nov. 27, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I have been spending a very quiet day here. No services in town except in our own church. This church has had a gracious revival—60 odd conversions and about 105 accessions (probationers), as the result of the meeting. The people are struggling heroically to complete their new church. It is enclosed now, and makes a fine appearance. At my quarterly meeting, last Sunday and Monday, the various benevolent objects were presented, and the people urged to respond. I called special attention to SOUTHWESTERN day. Hope a large list of subscribers may be obtained. The "exodus" fever runs very high, and greatly interferes with our Church work.

Sunday School.

Dec. 7, 1879.—THE HEAVENLY SONG.
SCRIPTURE.—Rev. 5: 1-14. MEMORIZE 9-12.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honor, and glory, and blessing."—12.
TOPIC.—The Theme of Adoration in Heaven.
(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

The Connection.—We are in the revelatory part of the book, that begins with chapter 4. That chapter furnishes the background for all the visions that follow. Our lesson is a part of the heaven scene. The central figure of that vision is God upon his throne. The others are accessory. They are: 1. The rainbow. This was a complete circle—"round about the throne." In the opinion of many this represents God's perfection. 2. The four and twenty thrones. They were grouped around the throne of God. 3. The threatenings. "Out of the throne proceeded lightnings and thunderings, and voices." 4. The seven lamps of fire. These are explained to be "the seven spirits of God." 5. The sea of glass. 6. The four beasts. Rather, "the four living creatures." According to one view they are representative of four world-powers to do the will of God upon earth, the lion denoting power, the ox sacrifice, the man intelligence, and the eagle far-seeing swiftness. John saw upon the right hand of God a scroll, sealed with seven seals, and, contrary to the usual custom, written upon both sides. With the breaking of each seal, John saw a vision, but did not read the book—only the Lamb being worthy to do that. It related to things future, it referred to things secret, the final consummation of God's kingdom. The one who looks upon the most precious of God's secrets must be of peculiar moral worth. There was none in the whole universe that had the moral power to unloose those seals. And yet it is evident that the seer saw many try. In heaven there was Enoch, Melchisedec, Abraham, Moses, Ezekiel and Daniel. Elijah, others renowned for their sanctity, besides the innumerable hosts of heaven who had never known what it is to sin. No wonder that the seer wept much, when no one among all of these was able to open the book, or even to look thereon. He was comforted by one of the elders. It is language that points to a conflict in which Christ has proven the victor. He had "prevailed" to open the book—through his death. The Lamb worshiped. He came and took the book with unhesitating confidence and without any difficulty. The wounds of his self-sacrifice marked him as the one who was worthy. His worshipers were the four living creatures and the four and twenty elders. They were earthly representatives. Not the [illegible] of heaven, but the redeemed of earth, were the first to [illegible] the worth of the Lamb. [illegible] one of the elders had in their hands "harps and golden [illegible] full of odors, which are the [illegible] of saints." The grand chorus [illegible] made the circuit of the [illegible] returns to those who began [illegible] living creatures say, [illegible] and the four and twenty [illegible] down, and worship him [illegible] for ever and ever. The [illegible] was preceded by worship, [illegible] ended in the same way.

5,000 for 1880.

Shall we have 5,000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880?

We ought to have them, and will, if the preachers in our territory do their duty in presenting the claims of the paper to their people.

All we ask is for every preacher to make a canvass among his congregation and his outside friends, telling them of the SOUTHWESTERN and its value as a church, family and general news paper. Brother, will you not do this?

The SOUTHWESTERN is a good religious paper. Look over any issue, and you find religious reading for almost every member of the family.

The SOUTHWESTERN is a Methodist paper. It is not only an official organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but its Publishers and Editor believe in the doctrines and polity of that church.

The SOUTHWESTERN gives large attention to the Sunday-school. Every issue contains a commentary on the International Sunday-School lesson for the following Sabbath. Every officer and teacher in the Sunday-school should study this.

The SOUTHWESTERN is fearless in its denunciation of wrong, no matter whether it be in churches or political parties. It has steadily demanded that the rights of all people, irrespective of race or color, shall be maintained. This it will continue to do. The gospel is not only a matter of theory, but must be carried into practice. The SOUTHWESTERN demands that the golden rule shall not only be preached from the pulpit and in political platforms, but that it shall be practiced in the pew, on the plantation and at the ballot-box.

The SOUTHWESTERN has discussed the Negro Exodus in all its bearings, and has given the facts of this great movement to the world, when other papers have refused to discuss it, and sought to keep the facts from the people.

The SOUTHWESTERN during May 1880, will publish the proceedings of the General Conference of the M. E. Church, to meet that month in Cincinnati, O. All our people will want to read that.

The SOUTHWESTERN will help to make a good church wherever it is taken. It will help the preachers and official members and all the people by teaching them of the work of the great Church to which they belong, and giving them news of the progress of Christ's kingdom.

Brother, shall we not have 5,000 subscribers for 1880?

Deaths.

DEAR EDITOR—I have the sad news to relate of Rev. P. Brown, who died Nov. 15. On Friday he was up making ready to go to Stony Point to his appointment on Sunday, but was taken ill at night, and Saturday morning at 7 o'clock he fell asleep in Christ. He leaves a wife and two children and many friends to mourn his loss. His funeral was attended on Sunday by Rev. Isaac Hayward, with about seven hundred people—white and colored. His place in the Plains will be hard to fill. Pray that the good Lord help the dear wife and children. Yours in Christ,

JOHN QUALLS.

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 18, 1879.

We were exposed last week to a pitiless storm, that wet our feet and stockings, and indeed our person all over. In fact we took a cracking cold, which brought sore throat and severe symptoms of fever. The good wife asserted her authority, plunged our feet into hot water, wrapped us in hot blankets, and sent our faithful son for a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is a splendid medicine—pleasant to take, and did the job. We slept soundly through the night, and awoke well the next morning. We know we owe our quick recovery to the Pectoral, and shall not hesitate to recommend it to all who need such a medicine.—Tehuacana (Texas) Presbyterian.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The Adams, Blackmer & Lyon Publishing Co., Chicago, Illinois, have issued The Christmas Gospel, A Festival Service. Price, $2 per 100. It is prepared by W. S. B. Mathews. Readings, hymns and music.

—Golden Hours (Hitchcock & Walden, Cincinnati, O.) for December has What the Swallow Told, John Wesley and the Negro, Historical Sketches by Miss C. M. Yonge, and numerous other articles of merit for the children. $1.60 a year.

—The National Repository for December has The Upper Mohawk Valley, by Rev. C. T. Moss, with illustrations; Philip William Otterbein, by Bishop Weaver; The Quest of El Dorado, by B. F. De Costa, and a choice editorial miscellany. Hitchcock & Walden, Cincinnati, Ohio; $3 a year.

—Voice culture is gradually being recognized not alone as an accomplishment, but as necessary for the preservation and restoration of health. Proper care of the voice necessitates proper care of some of the most vital parts of the organism. "The Voice" is published at Albany, N. Y.: $1 a year; single copies 10 cents.

—A capital number, full of interesting and useful information, is the American Agriculturist for December. A hundred articles and items, giving practical hints, are illustrated with nearly a hundred engravings. A remarkable article, with accurate sketches of 21 new forms of Barbed Fencing, will interest every owner of a farm or village lot. A variety of Humbug schemes are shown up. An important table of many sorts of feeding stuffs, and their comparative value, is given. There are illustrations of a Farmer's Christmas Visit; also of Ice-Houses and their filling; the Jack-Ass Rabbits, of Spiders and their Webs; of Mildews; of Christmas Ornaments. The 39th volume begins now. Terms, $1.50 a year. Single numbers, 15 cents. A specimen copy 6 cents. Orange Judd Company, Publishers, 245 Broadway, N. Y.

—The North American Review for December opens with the first installment of a study by James Anthony Froude, "Romanism and the Irish Race in the United States." The Hon. George S. Boutwell considers the causes which indispose young men of culture and ability to take an active part in the conduct of political affairs. An anonymous author contributes an essay on "The Religion of To-day." This writer contends that the old, dogmatic faith will surely perish utterly, but there will still remain another faith, a faith that the throne of the moral universe shall stand unshaken before all human discussion. Prof. Bonamy Price raises the question, "Is Political Economy a Science." He declares that Political Economy is not a science, but only a body of systematic knowledge. Dr. Geo. M. Beard compares the physique of Englishmen and Americans. Mr. Cuthbert Mills, in the first of a series of papers on "The Permanence of Political Forces," breaks ground for inquiry touching the political status of the United States. The Review is for sale by all booksellers and newsdealers.

—The contents of Appletons' Journal for December are as follows: "Memoirs of Madame de Remusat," continued; "Vivian the Beauty," by Mrs. Annie Edwards, conclusion; "Some Aspects of Robert Burns;" "The Seamy Side," by Walter Besant and James Rice—Chapters 12 and 13; "Parliamentary Government in America," by Horace White; "Charles James Mathews:" "Domestic Art," by Eustace Balfour; "Fragments: Dr. Hillebrand on Modern England, George Eliot as a Godless Writer." The Editor's Table contains; The Purpose of Fiction; Histrionic Realism; The Obelisk. Books of the Day: The Light of Asia; Blandid; Bayard Taylor's Studies in German Literature; Apthorp's Hector Berlioz; What Mr. Darwin saw in his Voyage round the World in the Ship Beagle; Jules Verne's Exploration of the World; Harper's New Latin Dictionary; Early Christian Literature Primers. Single number 25 cents; yearly subscription, $3. D. Appleton & Co., 549 and 551 Broadway, N. Y.

—The sale of the edition of 100,000 copies of the November Scribner has made necessary the reprinting of that issue, and the advancement of the first edition of the December number to 103,000. The opening paper, on "The Capitol of New York," is contributed by Mr. Montgomery Schuyler, of the World, "Johns Hopkins University," by Mrs. S. B. Herrick, supplies a complete account of the character and plans of one of the most valuable educational agencies of the country. Unusual personal interest attaches to Mr. Boyesen's account of "Two Visits to Victor Hugo." "Coffee Culture in Brazil" is graphically described by Herbert H. Smith; "Success with Small Fruits" is contributed by Rev. E. P. Roe. The concluding half of Mr. E. C. Stedman's critical study of Bayard Taylor is given. A novel feature is the grouping in one collection of twenty "Poems by American Women," including many of the most prominent writers. In the second part of "The Grandissimes" Mr. Cable completes the background of his story, and introduces two new characters. Editorial by Dr. Holland—"Sunday Bummers," "Teachers and Taskmasters," and "The Sermon."

We have examined some fourteen pages of signatures,—some of the best in this city, State, and the South,—vouching for the effectiveness of the New Louisiana Remedy, for coughs, colds, etc. We have heard from persons who have used it words of praise. It is a valuable medicine, prepared at home, and not a quack nostrum imported from abroad. Read the advertisement in another column.

Pilgrimages to Buffalo, N. Y.,

Are made by thousands of invalids annually to consult with the medical and surgical staff of the World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, the largest private sanitarium in the world. All chronic diseases are treated by scientific methods. The practice is divided among nine eminent specialists. Among the most popular domestic medicines in the land are those manufactured by this Association, among which are Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the greatest of alteratives or blood cleansers, and Dr. Pierce's Pellets (little pills) that have largely superseded the old-fashioned coarse pills. Compound Extract of Smart-Weed is deservedly popular as a remedy for diarrhœa, dysentery, flux, and kindred diseases; also as a pain-killer and remedy for colds. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the great remedy for female weakness and associated derangements. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is the "Old Reliable." Invalid's Guide-Book—10 cents, post-paid. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., or London, England.

The Phonographic Piano.

A recent invention of an eminent Swiss musician. It plays any tune in a most melodious and pleasing manner, and is preferable to the most expensive music-box. Any child can operate it, and the low price at which it is sold will insure a sale in every music-loving household.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desires it, this receipt, in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Truth and Soberness.

What is the best family medicine in the world to regulate the bowels, purify the blood, remove costiveness and biliousness, aid digestion and stimulate the whole system? Truth and soberness compels us to answer, Hop Bitters, being pure, perfect and harmless. See "Truths" in another column.

Examining Committee Texas Annual Conference.

The Examing Committee appointed by the Bishop at the last session of the Texas Annual Conference, request the presence, for examination, of all the preachers that may be, under the order of the M. E. Church, entitled to Elder's Orders at the next term, to be held in Galveston, Dec. 10, 1879. The Committee will meet at the Tabernacle at 9 o'clock a. m., on the 9th, and hope that after the day appointed thus, the preachers will not interfere with the regular business of conference, but be present as requested.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Females suffering from pain and weakness will derive great comfort and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where children are affected with whooping cough, ordinary coughs or colds or weak lungs, it is the one and only treatment they should receive. This article contains new medicinal elements such as is found in no other remedy in the same form. It is far superior to common porous plasters, liniments, electrical appliances and other external remedies. It relieves pain at once, strengthens and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. For Lame and Weak Back, Rheumatism, Kidney disease and all local aches and pains it is also the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 Cents.

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.

Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases. * * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations. —Author's Preface.

Lectures on Preaching

Delivered before the Theological Students of Yale College.

By Rev. Matthew Simpson, D.D., LL.D.

(One of the Bishops of the M. E. Church.)

Cloth, 12mo. Price $1.50

These admirable Lectures embrace the following topics, delivered in the order here stated:

Lecture I. The Nature and Work of the Christian Ministry.
Lecture II. The Call to the Ministry.
Lecture III. The Preacher Personally.
Lecture IV. Indirect Preparation for the Pulpit.
Lecture V. The Preparation of a Sermon.
Lecture VI. The Delivery of a Sermon.
Lecture VII. Ministerial Power.
Lecture VIII. The Influence of the Pastorate on the Pulpit.
Lecture IX. Collateral and Miscellaneous Work.
Lecture X. Is the Modern Pulpit a Failure?

It is needless to say that these topics are treated in a masterly manner—clearly, forcibly, practically; as becomes both the gravity and importance of the subjects discussed, and the reputation of their author as a "workman who needeth not to be ashamed." No minister should be without them, as none can carefully and thoughtfully read them without profit. In them there is nothing showy, but they present the ripe fruit of the matured thought of a long period of ministerial usefulness and oversight. They are weighty, well-considered teachings.

To Sunday Schools.

The Scholars' Quarterly was started in 1876 as a 32 page book. It is now a 46 page book, containing, besides the lesson matter, a colored map, beautiful pictures and appropriate music. It is used in schools of all denominations, throughout the United States and Canada, and a special edition is published each quarter in London, for use in Great Britain. For 1880 it will be greatly improved, and its price reduced.

THE REDUCED PRICE will certainly enable any school to use it. Could there be a better time to begin than at the opening of the new year? It will be sent by mail, without cost of postage to subscribers, at the following rates: Single copy one year (four numbers), 20 cents; 100 copies, one year, 20 dollars; single copies (one quarter), 5 cents each; 200 copies or over to one address, for one school, 18 dollars per hundred, a year; 400 copies or over to one address, for one school, 16 dollars per hundred, a year. Subscriptions are taken for three or six months at the yearly rate. Send five cents for a specimen. Send also for a specimen of the Weekly Lesson Leaf if something cheap and good is wanted.

These publications are issued from the office of The Sunday School Times. Address,

The New Hymnal

The Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences at their late sessions, made it the duty of every preacher having charge of a station or circuit to see that their pulpits were supplied with a New Hymnal, and all were to use their influence in having the people supply themselves with Hymnals and to use them in the public congregation and in social meetings.

We are now prepared to supply the following styles of the Hymnal at the prices named. Our terms are cash before sending, or we will send by express C. O. D. Specimen copies sent by mail on receipt of price

THE QUESTION.

BY MARY BRAINARD.

We live in the cunningst cottage;
'Tis pleasant if not very high;
We, that means my papa and mamma,
My dear little dolly, and I.

Old Santa comes round every winter;
I was good as the goodest could be,
So the very best gift be had with him,
This dolly, he left; don't you see?

So happy was I with my dolly,
That I said, as I brushed back her hair,
"Oh mamma, the whole world is happy!
How happy, how happy we are!"

But mamma said, "No; some poor children
Have little that's gladsome and bright,
They live all their lives in the shadow,
And die without Jesus, the Light."

Then why can't we tell them of Jesus?
And what is the reason, I pray,
That any of earth's little children
Must live in the darkness alway?

Nettie's Birthday.

When I was a child I was very fond of true stories—the fact that one was not true took from it all the charm for me; and so, judging that all children are the same, I am going to tell you a true story.

It was Nettie's birthday; she was ten years old. In the kitchen sundry preparations were going on. Her mother was there most of the time, and the odor of cakes and cookies was very pleasant; but Nettie was not allowed there, neither did she suspect what it was all about; for, childlike, she could not, or at least did not, reckon time, and therefore had no idea of the near approach of the eventful season. Still she had many questions to ask; and after dinner her mother, wishing to be rid of her for a while, gave her permission to visit a friend who lived about a quarter of a mile from home, but charged her particularly not to stay to tea.

So, after many promises and kisses, she trudged off as happy as a queen; for Nettie loved Ella Clark very much, and was perfectly happy in view of the visit. Ella was delighted to see her, and they played very harmoniously together.

Of course the time passed very quickly, and before Nettie had any idea of its being tea-time Mrs. Clark called them to tea. Nettie replied that her mother bade her to come home to tea; but Mrs. Clark urged her so very much that at length she yielded and stayed.

Of course it was not polite for her to go home right after rising from the table—her mother had told her so once; she must stay a little while (so she reasoned in her mind); but somehow things did not go quite as smoothly as they did before tea. Ella and Nettie did not agree as well, either; so before long Nettie started home. She ran along until she came in sight of the house, and then slackening her pace, she began to wonder what her mother would say, and to fear that she would scold her.

To her surprise her mother met her as usual at the door; but her smile of welcome was rather sad. She took Nettie's hand and led her to the dining-room, where stood the table from which the family had just arisen, and said: "This is your tenth birthday; you see, Nettie, the extra pains and care I took in preparing this tea for you. I thought my little daughter loved her mother better than to disobey her thus."

No other word of reproach was uttered, but Nettie's heart was almost broken, for she did love her mother, and was usually very good to obey.

Nettie is now grown to be a woman, but the remembrance of that birthday has never passed from her memory. She has since been able many a time to ... her mother by her obedience how much she loved her.—... Reaper.

What a Little Girl Did.

... Mr. Whitfield was preaching in ... England, a lady became ... and her spirit was ... out in prayer for others. She could persuade no one to ... with her but her daughter, ... ten years of age. After a ... God saved the child. In a ... of holy joy she then ex... mother, if all the world knew ... wish I could tell every... mother, let me run to ... neighbors and tell ... be happy and ...
" said the mother, ... for I suppose you to tell your ex... not one within ... would not laugh ... all a delu... the little ... believe ...

he was a sinner, and that she was a sinner, but that her blessed Savior had heard her mother's prayers, and had forgiven all her sins; and that now she was so happy she did not know how to tell it.

The shoemaker was struck with surprise, and his tears flowed down like rain; he threw aside his work, and by prayer and supplication sought mercy. The neighborhood was awakened, and within a few months more than fifty persons found Jesus and rejoiced in his love.—Good Things.

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish that you would please allow me space in your columns to make some inquiry about my uncle. His name used to be John Pinkard. He lived with a widow woman by the name of Ann Pinkard. I was taken away from him in 1863, and was brought to Texas by Tom Pinkard, white, with my uncle, Warren Pinkard, who is now at Little Rock, Ark. Address me at Groesbeck, Limestone Co., Texas.

B. T. PINKARD.

MR. EDITOR—I want to make inquiry about my brothers and sister, who were sold in South Carolina. Brothers' names were William and Harkles. My oldest sister's name was Bermiller; she had a son named Sidney. We all belonged to an old widow woman, and when she died we were divided among her sons. Harkles, Bermiller and Sidney were sold to John McCloud. Harkles was sent from Simmonsville to John McCloud in 1860. I came to Mississippi in 1867. If found please address me at Yazoo City, Miss.

JAMES WILSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to make inquiry for my people through the SOUTHWESTERN. I left them in Jefferson Co., Virginia. Father's name was Jarreth Booman. He belonged to a widow woman, who lived on the public road from Charleston to Shepherd's Town. Mother's name was Leanah Booman She belonged to Bill Clevan, and was sold and left five children, Isaac, Alfred, Eastram, Karreth and Kissey. Sister Kissie lived at Ekleborger. Brother Karreth lived with Wm. Lock. I had an aunt who lived with Robert T. Brown. She had two children, William and Frances Wheeler. I was brought to Texas by a trader. Any information of the above will be thankfully received. My name used to be Martha Booman. Address me at Brenham, Washington Co., Texas.

L. S. DECKARD.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire through your valuable paper about my relations. I was bred and born in Virginia, but am unable to name the county, for I was so young that I don't recollect it; but I remember I lived twelve miles from a town called Danville. My master was James Ferrill, and my mistress Martha Ferrill. I was sold to his brother, a speculator, whose name was Wm. Ferrill, and was brought to Mobile at the age of 10 years. To my recollection my father's name was Joseph, and my mother's Milly, my brother's Anthony, and my sister's Maria. We belonged to James Ferrill, except one sister, Julia, and I don't know who she belonged to. Any information of the above named persons will be thankfully received. My name was Annie Ferrill, but my owners changed my name to Caroline Rodes. All Christian papers please copy, and all preachers in charge will please assist me in finding my long lost friends. Direct your letters to 185 Soraparu St., New Orleans, and oblige your obedient sister in the Lord.

CAROLINE RODES.

The people of the North are tired of sectional issues—so tired of them, in fact, that they propose to settle them between now and 1881 so that they will stay settled, until the South tires of a "solidity" that compels the solidity of the North.—N. Y. World, (Dem.)

Have courage enough to review your own conduct, to condemn it when you detect faults, to amend it to the best of your ability, to make good resolves for your future guidance, and to keep them.

Great Merit.

All the fairs give the first premiums and special awards of great merit to Hop Bitters, as the purest and best family medicine, and we most heartily approve of the awards for we know they deserve it. They are now on exhibition at the State ... and we advise all to test ... another column.

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates,

Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the TONIC. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the TONIC has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

A stout backbone is as essential to physical health as to political consistency. For weakness of the back and disorders of the kidneys, the tonic and moderate dietetic action of the Bitters is the one thing needful. Remember that the stomach is the mainstay of every other organ, and that by invigorating the digestion with this preparation, the spinal column and all its dependencies are strengthened.

A girl of 14, "with a cough From Infancy," radically cured.

RICHMOND, Va., April 2, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—My niece, fourteen years of age, had been subject more or less to a troublesome cough from her infancy. After some persuasion I induced her parents to try your "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY," and now, after using three or four bottles, I consider her entirely cured; appetite, color and vigor restored, and she goes about cheerful and happy, looking the very picture of health. I regard it as the best remedy I have ever known used for bronchial affections of the throat.

DANIEL E. GARDNER.

A Gentleman, who was not expected to live but a few weeks, cured of desperate Bronchitis and Diseased Lungs.

DE VILLIER'S INSTITUTE, 212 N. 12th street, Richmond, Va., March 8, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—I arrived in this city with my family in December, 1877. I was in a complete state of exhaustion and debility, in consequence of long suffering from an affection of Bronchiæ, or of the lungs, or rather say both. I was not expected to live but very few weeks or months at the most. In March, 1878, to please my wife, I consented to try the "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY." I had no faith whatever in it, or any other medicine. I had absorbed dozens of Cod Liver Oil without effect. I soon became convinced of the merits of the Remedy; it gave me, after a few doses, a sound rest at night, it regulated the bowels, it subdued the severe fits of coughing occasionally followed by spitting of blood, and gave me great relief. It is a soothing cordial, an excellent purifier, and an unsurpassing regulator. I am now living and doing well. I make daily 6 or 7 hours class (hard teaching). I have taken in all 5 or 6 bottles. Perhaps I ought to have taken a few bottles more. I wish it was in my power to induce every poor sufferer to try one bottle. It will speak for itself at once. You can use my name freely, and refer any one to me personally, if you think I can have any influence in the matter. Very truly yours, CHARLES DE VILLERS.

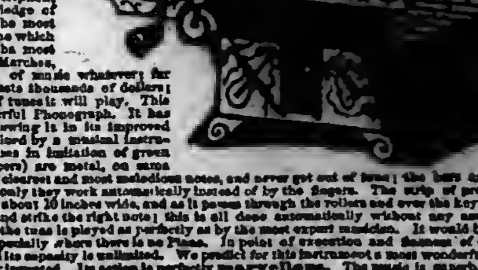
THE PHONOGRAPH SET TO MUSIC.

The Phonographic Piano.—A Most Wonderful Invention.



The Phonographic Piano has been called the most marvellous mechanical invention of the age. It will play any tune that ever was written, in a melodious and pleasing manner. Difficult and simple music produced in a masterly style, and it can be played by a child as well as by a grown person, and will furnish music for singing schools and social gatherings of any description, playing hour after hour, without any knowledge of music being required in the operation. The most wonderful of all musical inventions; a machine which in a purely mechanical manner produces the most difficult and exquisite music, Waltzes, Polkas, Marches, &c., &c., without any practice or knowledge of music whatever; far superior to any music-box, even though it costs thousands of dollars; for their is no limit whatever to the number of tunes it will play. This instrument is on the principle of the wonderful Phonograph. It has just been perfected (the accompanying cut showing it in its improved form), and is having the largest sale ever obtained by a musical instrument in the country. It has solid metal cases in imitation of green bronze; the notes or bars (the music producers) are metal, on same principle as a tuning-fork, which produce the clearest and most melodious notes, and never get out of tune; the bars are struck by strikers, the same as the wires are in a Piano, only they work automatically instead of by the fingers. The strip of prepared paper in which the tune is stamped or perforated, is about 10 inches wide, and as it passes through the rollers and over the keys the strikers spring through the perforations in the paper and strike the right note; this is all done automatically without any assistance from the operator (except turning the rollers), and the tune is played as perfectly as by the most expert musician. It would be one of the most appropriate presents to make anyone, especially where there is no Piano. In point of execution and finesse of tone, it will compare favorably with a fine music-box, and its capacity is unlimited. We predict for this instrument a most wonderful sale. It is going faster than any musical instrument ever invented. Its action is perfectly marvellous. The music is superb, and everybody delighted. No knowledge of music required, and a child can operate it and furnish music for any occasion. Make your child a sensible present, one which will amuse and instruct not only the child but the whole household. The price of the Phonographic Piano is only $5, and a selection of popular tunes goes with each instrument. Send for, and sent to any address on receipt of price. Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair,

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish that you would please allow me space in your columns to make some inquiry about my uncle. His name used to be John Pinkard. He lived with a widow woman by the name of Ann Pinkard. I was taken away from him in 1863, and was brought to Texas by Tom Pinkard, white, with my uncle, Warren Pinkard, who is now at Little Rock, Ark. Address me at Groesbeck, Limestone Co., Texas.

B. T. PINKARD.

MR. EDITOR—I want to make inquiry about my brothers and sister, who were sold in South Carolina. Brothers' names were William and Harkles. My oldest sister's name was Bermiller; she had a son named Sidney. We all belonged to an old widow woman, and when she died we were divided among her sons. Harkles, Bermiller and Sidney were sold to John McCloud. Harkles was sent from Simmonsville to John McCloud in 1860. I came to Mississippi in 1867. If found please address me at Yazoo City, Miss.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to make inquiry for my people through the SOUTHWESTERN. I left them in Jefferson Co., Virginia. Father's name was Jarreth Booman. He belonged to a widow woman, who lived on the public road from Charleston to Shepherd's Town. Mother's name was Leanah Booman. She belonged to Bill Clevan, and was sold and left five children, Isaac, Alfred, Bastram, Karreth and Kissey. Sister Kissie lived at Ekleberger, Brother Karreth lived with Wm. Lock. I had an aunt who lived with Robert T. Brown. She had two children, William and Frances Wheeler. I was brought to Texas by a trader. Any information of the above will be thankfully received. My name used to be Martha Booman. Address me at Brenham, Washington Co., Texas.

A girl of 14, "with a cough From Infancy," radically cured.

RICHMOND, Va., April 2, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—My niece, fourteen years of age, had been subject more or less to a troublesome cough from her infancy. After some persuasion I induced her parents to try your "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY," and now, after using three or four bottles, I consider her entirely cured; appetite, color and vigor restored, and she goes about cheerful and happy, looking the very picture of health. I regard it as the best remedy I have ever known used for bronchial affections of the throat.

DANIEL E. GARDNER.

A Gentleman, who was not expected to live but a few weeks, cured of desperate Bronchitis and Diseased Lungs.

DE VILLIER'S INSTITUTE, 212 N. 12th street, Richmond, Va., March 8, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—I arrived in this city with my family in December, 1877. I was in a complete state of exhaustion and debility, in consequence of long suffering from an affection of Bronchitis, or of the lungs, or rather say both. I was not expected to live but very few weeks or months at the most. In March, 1878, to please my wife, I consented to try the "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY." I had no faith whatever in it, or any other medicine. I had absorbed dozens of Cod Liver Oil without effect. I soon became convinced of the merits of the Remedy; it gave me, after a few doses, a sound rest at night, it regulated the bowels, it subdued the severe fits of coughing occasionally followed by spitting of blood, and gave me great relief. It is a soothing cordial, an excellent purifier, and an unsurpassing regulator. I am now living and doing well. I make daily 6 or 7 hours class (hard teaching). I have taken in all 5 or 6 bottles. Perhaps I ought to have taken a few bottles more. I wish it was in my power to induce every poor sufferer to try one bottle. It will speak for itself at once. You can use my name freely, and refer any one to me personally, if you think I can have any influence in the matter.

Very truly yours, CHARLES DE VILLERS.

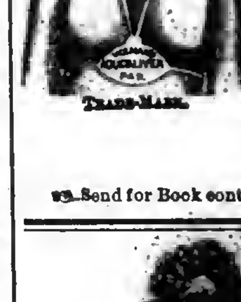
HOLMAN'S AGUE AND LIVER PAD



is marvelous in its prompt and radical cure for every species of Liver and Stomach difficulties. It contains only harmless vegetable compounds, and is worn EXACTLY WHERE NEEDED, over the vitals, the Liver and Stomach. It removes torpidity of the liver, and arouses the stomach from its dormant state, arresting fermentation, torpor and pain, by giving it the natural quantity of bile and gastric juice. It also vitalizes the entire system with Nature's true tonic, it arrests all deteriorated and poisonous fluids in the stomach, and thus prevents their entering the system by way of circulation. It absorbs from the body every particle of BLOOD POISON, whether bilious, malarial or medicinal, and leaves the wearer in perfect health. The Phonographic Piano.—A Most Wonderful Invention.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair,

and his churches, and with a head full of good common-sense. He is popular with the entire congregation, and while the congregation has been steadily increasing the Sabbath-school has more than doubled. The trustees have added greatly to their church property. Through the Presiding Elder some Methodists of New England made them a donation of $50, on condition that they would ceil and put some new seats in their church. The proposition was accepted, and now rejoices in the possession of one of the best churches on the district—all paid for. Some five or more years ago the Church Extension Society gave to the trustees of the M. E. Church at Columbia $100. After long and patient waiting, last December they came in possession of the money. This was gala day to the entire congregation. Their church needed repairing more than they themselves knew how to do it, and this $100 was a great boon to them. It gave a new inspiration to the people, and with happy hearts and willing hands they went to work repairing the house of the Lord, and now they have a neat and tasty church.

Chenango has been regarded as one of the most undesirable fields of labor, and yet the lost sheep are there. When Bro. Kelley was sent to this work he found a few scattered members of the M. E. Church without a church, and no Sunday-school on the entire work. With faith in God and love for souls he entered upon and prosecuted his work, and now he has a comfortable church with a good congregation and two flourishing Sunday-schools.

Under the labors of Bro. Harris prosperity is dawning upon Spring. The church has been greatly strengthened under his ministry. At Westfield the trustees bought an acre of land, and, through the Presiding Elder, New Hampshire gave them $40, and now our people have a nice new church 20x26 feet, valued at $250, all paid for.

Hockley is one of the most extensive and laborious appointments on the district. Bro. Washington Thomas, one of our old men, full of years and full of work for Christ and his church, is closing up his second year on this charge, and few men, young or old, have done more or better work. Deeds have been secured at Piney Grove and Hockley, and here again, through the generosity of some Methodists in New Hampshire, the Presiding Elder was able to help the trustees in the sum of $50, and two more Methodist churches stand where we had nothing. The one at Hockley is one of the most pleasing on the district.

Galveston is a charming place. There we have two churches. Bro. Douglass, at St. Paul's, is closing his third and by far most prosperous year. He has received over one hundred, mostly adults, men and women of real worth, into his church. The trustees have erected and completed the best parsonage on the district. St. Paul's has a glorious record; but few years, if any, will surpass the one now drawing to a close. Bro. Cole, at the Tabernacle, has done a great work for Christ and his church. He has been constantly devising plans for the upbuilding of the church, and the salvation of the people. He has received upwards of one hundred and twenty on probation, and the Sunday-school has been more than doubled, while the trustees have added greatly to the value of their church property.

At Richmond Bro. Noble has built a parsonage, so now whoever the Bishops may send to preach Christ's gospel, he will have a home of his own, all by himself and without money and without price. Over three years ago the Church Extension Society gave to the [illegible] of Frost's Chapel some money (how much I do not exactly [illegible]) to help them in the erection of a new church. Three years have [illegible], and as yet no church has [illegible]. Whose napkin holds [illegible] money the writer is not [illegible].

[illegible] Norwood, at Lynchburgh, [illegible] the church up to [illegible] and quite a num- [illegible] from the wilderness [illegible] refuge in Jesus. [illegible] I shall complete [illegible] on the district, [illegible] each church and [illegible] times. Thus far [illegible] one of the most [illegible] whole life. My [illegible] of doxologies. [illegible] only strong to work, but strong to endure, and plan for the advancement of genuine religion and to lead on the people to the full execution of such plans—men who through personal disadvantage and sacrifice will labor for the eternal salvation and happiness of their fellows who seek not theirs but them.

Christian Work Among the Freedwomen.

BY MRS. JENNIE C. HARTZELL.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Nov. 1, 1879.

Being providentially detained in Chicago during the autumn of 1878, after consulting with tried Christian workers, and especially with Dr. Rust, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, an appeal was published in the Northwestern Christian Advocate, and in the leading secular papers of that city to the Methodist women of Chicago and the Northwest, asking for help in missionary work among the Freedwomen of the South.

Dr. Arthur Edwards, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, added hearty editorial words of commendation. The presiding elder, Dr. Willing, and the pastors of our churches in Chicago, rendered great aid by commending me and the work to their people.

CONTRIBUTIONS FROM FRIENDS.

In response to the above appeal the following amounts were received up to Oct. 1, 1879:

Total cash receipts, $700.70.

These donations will be acknowledged to the whole church in the forthcoming annual report of the Freedmen's Aid Society.

ACTION OF THE LOUISIANA ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

The Louisiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at its session of Feb. 3, 1879, after hearing a statement of the work which was then being inaugurated among the Freedwomen of New Orleans and vicinity, took the following action:

Resolved, That the Louisiana Conference is profoundly impressed with the importance of more direct and better organized Christian effort to save and elevate the women among our colored people, by which Christian home life shall be developed wherever needed; and that we will welcome these missionaries [illegible] our pastoral charges.

Resolved, That the presiding el[illegible] for 1879 be an advisory committee to assist in the direction and carrying forward of this work.

THE WORK BEGUN IN NEW ORLEANS.

The first step in beginning the work at New Orleans was the renting and furnishing of a suitable Home for the missionaries who should be employed, and serve as a place to hold special meetings. The work began Dec. 1, 1878, with one missionary, Mrs. A. M. Ryder, of Philadelphia, Pa. Mrs. M. L. Hathaway, of Normal, Ill., Miss Lizzie Thompson, of Dwight, Ill., and Miss M. L. Stephens, of New Orleans, commenced work a few weeks later. The first three received a salary of $30 per month and traveling expenses. Miss Stephens donated her services. The work was continued until June 1. Miss Thompson, on account of ill health, was obliged to return home April 1. All the expenses have been paid up to this date except about $75 yet due the missionaries. The furniture purchased is a permanent investment to the amount of $150.

CHARACER OF THE WORK DONE.

1. Home Visitation.—A part of every day was given by each missionary to visiting the homes of the people. On an average one hundred families were visited weekly, and some weeks one hundred and fifty were visited. In these visits moral and religious instructions were given, the Scriptures read, prayer offered, and efforts made to increase the attendance upon the Sunday-schools of our churches and our mission schools. The poor were helped as means could be secured, the sick comforted, and the aged cared for as far as could be.

Miss Thompson, for example, reported at the end of one week as follows: "Visited 64 families; 23 present at sewing schools at Wesley Chapel; one conversion. One woman had been taken from the hospital. At her request, sang and prayed with her, after reading a chapter from the Bible. She seemed much comforted. Heard that she was dying and went back. Do not know that I shall ever be permitted to see such triumphant faith again. She was shouting to those around her, and bidding them to come to Jesus. Her face was radiant with the glory that was in her soul. She died next day. Found another poor widow sick and destitute, and for the past year she has been cared for by her neighbors, and yet she was able to say amidst it that she never knew how good the Lord was until He laid His hand on her."

Here is another specimen of home visitation: "Must hab dat book, honey!" Mrs. Ryder found an old freedman in a cabin, sitting in a corner, half asleep. She aroused him and asked him if he had a Bible. He replied: "No, Misens; got no Bible, and don't want none. I'se nearly done gone from dis world; got no money, and can't read none." Mrs. R. opened and read: "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also." As she read he arose and walked with trembling step to her side, and bowing his ear close to the book, said: "What is dat you read?" She read it again. "Is dat in de Bible, honey?" "Yes," said Mrs. R., and then she explained the words to him. When she had finished he asked her to put his finger on the place, and to mark it good, so he could find it again, and, with tearful eyes, he exclaimed: "Oh, honey, I must hab dat book!"

2. Mothers' Meetings. — These were held weekly, on Thursday afternoon, at the Home, and were often largely attended and full of interest.

3. Girls' Sewing Schools.—These were held in various churches in the afternoon, each missionary taking charge of one. Eight were organized, and over five hundred different girls were thus brought under the influence of the missionaries. They were taught to cut, fit, and make ordinary garments; and efforts were made to lead them to Christ and instruct them in matters of home life.

ONLY A SMALL BEGINNING.

The Methodist Episcopal Church has thirteen churches and Sunday-schools among the colored people of New Orleans, representing a population of fully 10,000. Our church membership in this city among these people is nearly 3,000. The work of the past year done among the Freedwomen in New Orleans is only a small beginning. It is to be regarded as simply an experiment. But the experiment has served to practically demonstrate how a great and glorious work can be done. This experiment has also shown that the prayers and money of the church are ready for this work if its wants are made known and the way of helping pointed out. Letters from many parts of the South making inquiries of our work in New Orleans indicate how general is the conviction that this work is of Christ, and should at once be entered upon in every part of the South.

THIS WORK TO BE DIRECTED BY THE FREEDMEN'S AID SOCIETY OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

As already indicated, no step has been taken in this work without consulting the representatives of our Freedmen's Aid Society, because to be a success the work must be under the fostering care of the church.

The Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid Society, in its last annual report, discusses at length the work needed among the Freedwomen, and announces a plan by which hereafter the work, wherever carried foward, will be under the immediate direction of the society, and any desiring to contribute can do so through the regular church treasury. We quote as follows from the report:

"While our schools are doing a noble work, it is a painful fact that their power for good is greatly weakened for the want of co-operating home influences. It is true that no people can rise in the scale of civilization above the character of its home. Woman makes the homes of every race and people. Children receive from her their first and most lasting impressions. Hence it is exceedingly important that some way be devised to improve the moral condition of the homes of the freed people. To do this, it is necessary that a special effort be made in behalf of the Freedwomen. * * * *

"No one who observes this field can fail to be impressed with the need of effort in this direction. This need has appealed so strongly to the sympathies of earnest women in all sections of the country, that several propositions have been made to organize among them a comprehensive missionary enterprise in behalf of their colored sisters in the South.

"It is evident that right here in the South is opened to the women of America the grandest field in the world for mission work. To reach it, seas need not be crossed, nor languages learned, and the harvest can be reaped almost as soon as the seed is sown. The desire to organize and utilize the interest that this field of labor has awakened is embarrassed with the objection that there are already so many societies claiming the time and benevolence of the church that a new one is not necessary. Hence various reasons have been urged for uniting the proposed plan of mission labor with the already established work of the Freedmen's Aid Society, and making it co-operate with the schools, since the object they have in view is the same. This plan, it is deemed, would save expense and enchance the usefulness of both. The women of the North can either as churches, societies, or individuals, raise the means to support in this field missionaries in localities where they can supplement the instruction of the schools, and the missionaries, in turn, would enjoy the protection and sympathy of the institution. From $200 to $250 would send to the field and support in it for nine months such a missionary. The ladies of each congregation can urge the duty and assist the pastors in raising the collection, designating the amounts to be appropriated to this cause."

TEN MISSIONARIES FOR NEW ORLEANS AND LOUISIANA.

We need at least ten lady missionaries to carry forward this work the coming year in New Orleans and Louisiana. To put these in the field and maintain them for nine months will require $3000. Will not all who aided last year help again, and interest other friends in this blessed work for the year to come?

HOW TO HELP.

As seen by the above extract from the Report of the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid Society, "The women of the North can, either as churches, societies, or individuals, raise the means to support in this field missionaries where they can supplement the instruction of the schools."

One thing to be carefully avoided is, not to let anything done in this field interfere with the regular yearly collection of the Freedmen's Aid Society in each church. That collection needs rather to be doubled than diminished. As Dr. Rust says above, "The ladies of each congregation can urge the duty and assist the pastor in raising the collection, designating the amounts to be appropriated to this cause."

Any one desiring to have information concerning this good work among the Freedwomen of New Orleans and vicinity will please write me. The prayers and money of God's people are solicited in behalf of this great missionary field. All money given will be acknowledged through Rev. Dr. Rust, of Cincinnati, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society. Address

MRS. J. C. HARTZELL,

Report of Georgia Conference on the State of the Country.

The ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this country is a band of American citizens; each member of this band of about 10,000 home pastors is surrounded with such social and family ties, and bears such responsibilities and obligations to family, kindred and community that the public welfare, the duties of good citizenship, as well as the interests of the cause of morality, require him to speak freely and clearly on all public questions, having a decided moral quality in them, but especially on such as affect injuriously the stability of our Christian civilization. It is our boast that while ministers we are citizens, and in each land where we labor we constitute a citizen ministry of that land, subject to the authorities of the country.

We claim for the Republic of the United States the position and character of a Christian nation, deriving the moral quality of her civil institutions from the law of God.

It is the duty of the Christian pulpit to defend each and all of the ten precepts of the moral law, let the attack thereon come from what quarter it may—whether from the dens of vice and crime, or from the legislative halls of States—and to denounce all bold and open violations of that law, be the criminals individuals or constitutional assemblies, and at proper times and in a becoming manner, to manufacture and direct public sentiment so as to correct such wrongs against the law of God.

The second table of the law of God is necessarily largely political in its nature; it regulates and protects the relation of father and child, husband and wife, and protects life, property and character. Therefore, each of these six precepts standing out from the others, has a political complexion and bearing, and is the root of voluminous legislation, executive and judicial action, treasured up and reproduced from age to age, and acted on by all Christian States. To ignore this fact is to betray an unpardonable ignorance of human government and policy; or it is a trick to deceive the ignorant and lead them into crime.

Unfortunately for over half a century, this great truth has been challenged in this land, and the law of God ignored in matters of public economy and citizenship, hence the Divine displeasure that has bathed our land in blood, and may manifest itself in the forms of plague or famine if we change not.

The time for that change has come, the call is an urgent one—an alien ministry that acknowledges a foreign civil power, is manipulating the political interests of our land so as by an adroit management of our own discontent, to bring the sections face to face, once more in hostile form, while an unwillingness on the part of Southern statesmen to conform to the obligations of the national bond, as amended to cover and assure the rights of the emancipated freedmen, and make free the press, the pulpit and the ballot, retaining by admitted "force and fraud," the absolute, undivided and despotic control of the political power of "the solid South," to be used for no patriotic, just or holy ends, but calculated to superinduce a stronger form of government to protect the rights of the wronged and suffering minorities — give cause for profound alarm, and demand from us a clear expression of opinion, as directors of the public conscience, holding as we do that opinion rules the world, and that the world must be redeemed if ever saved, by the force and power of scriptural opinion. Therefore,

Resolved, That while declining to enter the field of partisan politics —yet believing that the freedom and purity of the ballot are the sacred rights of freemen, we demand for the poorest citizen of the land the right to exercise the functions of voter, and if he stands for office to be voted for without danger to person or property; and that if this right is challenged by bad men, in this the land of our birth, for it is bad men alone who can challenge such plain natural and civil rights, we in turn should publicly protest against such injustice, and seek by the use of all legal means the correction of the wrong.

Resolved, That it is the duty of the General Government by the rendition and formation of proper decrees on the part of the judicial side thereof, i. e. the Supreme Court, well sustained by the multiplication of district courts—with a full and complete constabulary, equal to any insurrection of local trouble, to secure full protection to the lives and property of all American citizens—and to suppress the great crime of polygamy as a crime against society and good morals.

3. Resolved, That we will appoint a standing committee of three members of this body, to correspond with the authorities of the country, as watchmen over our sacred and civil rights; and to correspond with like committees in our other Southern conferences, which we hereby suggest should be established throughout all the "belt of danger" —these committees to be styled "The Committees on Rights and Privileges," after the style of the ancient and well-known committee of our English brethren.

The above list will be modified by the following resolutions of the General Committee:

1. That the Board be authorized to make appropriations within each Conference in proportion to the response of the Conference by its collections to the call made upon it.

The amounts authorized will be still further modified by the following:

2. That the amounts authorized to Conferences are to be furnished, as far as practicable, by a pro rata division of the collections. The Board may supplement, as far as practicable, the balance of the appropriations authorized, by loans from the Loan Fund.

3. That no application for aid from any church costing over $10,000 shall be entertained for a donation, unless such church shall have consulted the Board of Church Extension before commencing to build.

4. That no church costing over $20,000 shall, in any case, receive aid, either by donation or loan, from the funds of the Board of Church Extension.

5. That except in the most extraordinary cases, no demand should be made upon the Board for aid in the older communities nor for the payment of church debts, unless to avoid imminent and otherwise inevitable disaster in the loss of church property.

Sabbath Observance.

There is no greater peril to our common Christianity in this country than the desecration of the Sabbath. The whole history of Christianity shows that where the Sabbath is observed religion flourishes; and that where it is not observed religion dies away and becomes extinct. Without the Sabbath all the means of grace would be at once arrested. Christians might, for a time, meet at irregular and distant intervals for prayer and praise; but the number of such meetings would rapidly decrease, and soon the last vestige of Christian worship would disappear. The argument to prove this is short and self-evident: The Sabbath is pre-eminently the day for religious worship; if it be given up to desecration, worship will soon cease.

In view of this obvious truth, all lovers of the cause of Christ must regard with serious apprehension the increasing violation of the law of the Sabbath: "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." Goldwin Smith prophecies a moral interregnum. To our mind the strongest indication of such an event is the alarming desecration of the Lord's day. In nearly all our larger cities and their vicinities this is a day of riot, of dissipation and licentiousness. It is probable that more is done to unsettle the habits of virtue, to propagate infidelity and intemperance, and prepare candidates for the penitentiary and gallows on this day than on all the other days of the week. The lowest theaters and drinking saloons are open, and ply their ruinous trades more successfully than on any other day of the week. The worst dens of infamy—gambling hells and brothels, finish the work of debauchery begun in the dram-shops and theaters. The leisure of Sunday exposes the laboring classes to greater temptations to spend their time and wages in places of vice. The result is that the Sabbath—which was instituted for the physical and spiritual well-being of men—has become the day on which more harm is done to the souls and bodies of men than in all the rest of the week.

The question before this nation to-day respecting the Sabbath is not whether it is to be a day of labor; that is settled by the law of the whole land, which prohibits the ordinary industries of the week on this day; but the question is, whether it is to be a day of religion, or a day of licentiousness; a day of virtue, or a day of sin; a day for God or a day for the devil. It is, whether this country can afford to have one day in seven a day of riot and disorder. No greater question can come before any nation than this. No nation can prosper that allows its people fifty-two days in the year of idleness and debauchery, when all restraints are withdrawn, and when the power of temptation is plied with all that art and skill can do to lead men in the way to ruin, and drag them down to hell. The nation may not be able to enforce the religious observance of the Sabbath, but it can shut up the sluts of iniquity, and by taking away the means of special temptation, make it a day of rest and sobriety, which of itself would go far toward bringing about the religious observance of the day, for then people would be more apt to resort to the house of God for entertainment and preoccupation, if for no higher motive.

But whatever may or may not be done by legislation, there is but one course for Christians to take; but one aim to be kept in view, and that is, to make the Sabbath what it was designed to be—a day of religion. No Christian can afford to hold lax views of the Sabbath, to plead, as is too often done, in entire perversion of its meaning, the saying of Christ, "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath," as an excuse for engaging in or winking at the practice of devoting the day to pleasure. Christ uttered that profound and eternal truth as a justification for works of necessity, and not as a warrant for the gross perversion of the day which some pretend that it justifies. The Sabbath was primarily instituted as a day of rest, which is to be in all its occupations a type of the heavenly rest. And this fact serves to indicate with sufficient clearness the manner in which it should be observed. Whatever services are like those of heaven, or are best calculated [illegible] as for heaven, are the services most appropriate to this day. Worship, prayer, communion with God, are to be the eternal delights of heaven. Surely it is most fitting that those who expect to spend an eternity in these exercises should devote one day in seven to special preparation for them.

[illegible] should bear in mind [illegible] at the beginning, [illegible] of the life or [illegible] man [illegible] is in [illegible]

The Crime Against Popular Suffrage.

December 2, 1879, was the appointed day for an election in the State of Louisiana, to adopt or reject a new constitution, and to elect officials to serve thereunder. The importance of such an election should have brought into exercise the best judgment of the people, and the full powers of the government to protect the purity of the ballot-box. We regret to say, however, that this was not the case. Those whose consciences were awakened to the great crime being committed, either did not protest because they dared not or they would not. The result is that the decrees of corrupt officials, and of an unscrupulous political combination is to be recorded in lieu of a verdict by popular suffrage.

The political combination determined that the negro majorities of Louisiana should be destroyed, and all means to secure that end should be justified. It was well known in many of the Red River parishes that it was not safe to organize or lead the Republican majorities, and the leaders have for months been refugees from Democratic mobs, and from homes and property. Near 200 of them daily walked the streets of New Orleans, and the press both ignored their presence, and the crimes committed against them. It was with a full knowledge of this phase of the situation that S. D. McEnery, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, shamelessly announced in Lafayette square that his party would carry Louisiana by 50,000 majority. He said that North Louisiana, from Red River to the Mississippi, would be solid for the State ticket. In the parish of Onachita, a former Republican stronghold, at the last election only thirteen Radical votes were put in the box, and the persons who cast them were disgusted with politics. At the next election not a single Radical vote would be cast. Onachita was made to record 11 Republican votes.

In Madison parish says a dispatch, Dave Armstrong, colored, and president of the Republican club at Milliken's Bend, was ruthlessly murdered; Capt. R. H. Brown, a colored man and justice of the peace at Tallulah, was murdered, and body thrown into the bayou; Capt. H. W. Peck, whipped and stretched at Omega, and every leading colored Republican was forced to leave the parish before the day of election. In that way a Republican majority of 2,500 was disposed of.

Concordia, with 2800 Republican majority, was counted as giving 250 majority for the Democratic ticket.

In Tensas, where a Republican meeting was broken up at Waterproof, the mayor of the town fraternizing with the mob, and refusing protection to speakers, a Democratic majority of 1598 has been counted.

Ten or twelve other parishes were manipulated in like manner, making the whole affair a mockery of an election.

A Democratic mob at Gretna, Jefferson parish, destroyed two boxes to vitiate the election in that strong Republican parish. Ballot boxes were also destroyed at the courthouse of St. Mary parish, to throw the appointment of parish officials into the hands of the Democratic Governor, where Republicans had been elected by from 700 to 800 majority.

The crime upon popular suffrage, Christ's Kingdom. The conflict is to rage here. The wish of the Atheist, the infidel, the man of vice is to blot out the Sabbath, to obliterate it from the memory of man; and if it can be done, it will be done. If this day with its religious institutions and observances can be blotted out, a victory for Anti Christ will be achieved which the faggot and the stake, the arguments and ridicule of infidels have never been able to accomplish. The question for Christians to decide is, "Whether they shall abandon the day, or make an effort to save it; whether the virtuous and the pious shall yield the victory without a struggle, or whether they shall combine their efforts, and speak to the reason and conscience of their fellow-citizens of the hallowed institutions of the Sabbath, and of the rapid corruption of the public morals growing out of its desecration; whether they shall attempt to bring back the nation to such an observance of the day as would diffuse intelligence, soberness, industry and salvation all over the land; or whether, disheartened by the difficulties in the case, and overpowered by numbers, they shall give up in despair. On the position which each individual takes on these questions more may depend than on any other single step of his life; on his course with regard to the Sabbath will depend much of the peace or the sorrow of the bed of death.

enacted on December 2, cannot and will not be redressed within the State of Louisiana. The perpetrators control all departments of the government, the press, and all influences that in other States of the Union would be expected and required to champion the rights of citizens, suppress violence, and ensure law and order. In his last speech of the campaign, Judge Beattie, Republican candidate for Governor, at Odd Fellows Hall, New Orleans, warned all good citizens of the contemplated crimes to be committed by those who would have custody of the ballot boxes, and stated his belief that if unrebuked, 75,000 people would leave the State, and go to other parts of the country, where their liberties could be enjoyed, and their rights be protected. We believe they will and should do so. Besotted with a lust for power, blind to the effects of corrupt influences upon its own social fabric, the Confederate Democracy of Louisiana can give no pledge or guarantee that can be relied upon for the present or future protection of citizen rights.

Southern German Conference.

The Southern German Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church met in Industry, Texas, Nov. 27. Bishop Merrill presided, and Rev. F. Shuler was secretary. A. Arnold was expelled from the conference for unchristian conduct in slandering his brethren, and in persistently stirring up strife. Rev. C. Urbank was elected ministerial delegate to General Conference and Bro. Blomberg was elected lay delegate.

The following were admitted on trial: Geo. Koch, Friede Bohnfalk, Adam Raeseuer, Joseph P. Rosenberk, Casper Herlein, Chas. Shuler. Besides these several young men will be used as supplies. All these brethren are from among our German churches of Texas, and indicate a healthy growth in ministerial force.

The conference was sorry to lose Rev. E. F. Stroeter, who goes to St. Paul, Minn., to take charge of a large and important church.

Dr. Walden, of Cincinnati, was present during most of the session, and added to its interest. Rev. Von Schluemback gave an interesting account of his work as general secretary of the German Young Men's Christian Association of the United States and Canada. His brethren disliko to spare him from Texas, but consent in view of his great usefulness.

The statistics of the conference show a small increase over last year. $1296.80 were contributed on benevolent collections, making over one dollar per member, including probationers.

THE CANVASS

FOR 1880!

LET IT BEGIN NOW.

We call the attention of our agents to the following:

1. Now is the time to push the canvass for new subscribers for 1880. At this season of the year the people have money. Begin at once.

2. Do not loose one old subscriber. See every one on your list for this year, and urge them to renew for 1880.

3. Collect money now due and forward it at once. Forward all you can now, and be prepared to settle up everything at conference.

4. The SOUTHWESTERN costs only $2 a year, that is about four cents a week. We pay the postage.

5. Send for specimen copies whenever you need them, and they will be sent free.

6. We give no picture premium next year. But we do better. We place within the reach of all our subscribers a most valuable book worth $2, for 50 cents. Read the following carefully:

The above-named book, a 12mo., 352 pages, bound in cloth, we offer to each yearly subscriber of the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880, who may send us $2.50 cash—$2 for the paper, and 50 cents for the book. It treats of everything necessary to make a happy, elegant, healthful Christian home. The purpose is to take the average Methodist home, where the parents earnestly desire the improvement, refinement, health, and spirituality of their children, and put within the reach of such a family the means necessary to secure these ends by a fair application of the principles laid down, and of the suggestions offered. The subjoined title and table of contents will show its scope. It has been prepared by a careful consultation of the highest authorities on the many themes treated.

Reports of Tennessee Conference.

FREEDMEN'S AID SOCIETY.

The Committee on the Freedmen's Aid Society report. With gratitude to God we acknowledge the grand work that has been done by the M. E. Church through this agency. Nearly a dozen colleges have been established, with full course of study, and all conducted by competent boards of instruction. About $300,000 worth of school property has been accumulated by this society, and is now used for school purposes. Besides these schools of high grade the society has sustained in whole or in part a multitude of schools of lower grade, until the necessity for this aid has passed away, by the ability of the people, with the aid of the public funds to sustain these primary schools, and the increasing security of life and liberty, enabling the people to obtain better remuneration for their labors. The long tried and efficient corresponding secretary of the society, Rev. R. S. Rust, D. D., has devoted the best energies of his active mind to the onerous duties imposed upon him, and we rejoice in the success which he has achieved. During the past year a new and beautiful building at Greenville, N. O., has been erected, and a new impetus given to our educational work in that State. A new building has been commenced for Clark University at Atlanta, Ga., which will be superior to any building hitherto erected by the society. It will be completed next year, and will open a career of usefulness to the University that will prove a power for good to both church and State. Another building, both substantial and beautiful, is nearly completed for the growing Meharry Medical Department of the Central Tennessee College, and which, as the first building erected for a medical school for the freedmen in the Mississippi Valley, is entitled to special mention in this report. This building is situated in Nashville, near the other buildings of the Central Tennessee College, and is of brick, about 40x60, four stories high, including basement and mansard story, and when completed and furnished will be an honor to the family (Meharry) whose name it bears, and to Dr. Rust, through whose personal responsibility it has thus far progressed. It will prove a great blessing to the colored people in meeting what is a felt need among themselves.

Already the graduates from this school have been honored by the profession wherever they have practiced, and have proved conclusively their ability to command respect of the different races for their professional skill. These buildings will add greatly to the efficiency of the freedman's work in the South, and about $50,000 to the value of the property of the society. We take pleasure, in view of the results already accomplished by this noble society under its wise management, in expressing our gratitude to God for the good done by this society, and also to the church in the North that has contributed to aid in our education and elevation so that we may be better able to discharge the responsible duties we owe, as freedmen, to ourselves our families, our country, our church, and to our God. We recognize the duty of our people to contribute liberally to aid in this enterprise, and the Freedmen's Aid Society has claims upon our contributions, for the present, at least, equal, if not superior, to every other enterprise of the church. As this society is already in debt, and those new buildings so necessary to the success of the educational work, we think that this conference should make a special effort to aid the new building at the college in Nashville. Therefore,

Resolved, That the members of this conference hereby pledge themselves to make an earnest effort to raise $500 as Freedmen's Aid collection during the coming conference year, to be appropriated with the consent of said Freedmen's Aid Society, to the Meharry Medical Building of the Central Tennessee College.

Resolved, That the month of December be set apart in which to take up this collection, and that it be forwarded to Dr. Rust or the president of the college in Nashville.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the management of the Freedmen's Aid Society, and that we realize more and more its necessity as an organized agency of the church, and that we will labor and pray for its continued existence and its increased power for good.

REPORT ON TEMPERANCE.

WHEREAS, Intemperance is a great evil, debasing both soul and body, inducing poverty, wretchedness and crime, and its use as a beverage is only evil, blighting the social happiness of thousands of homes, stirring up passion, and inciting to crimes of deepest dye, and,

WHEREAS, The expense of this indulgence keeps even the moderate drinker poor, and

WHEREAS, It is written that "No drunkard can inherit the kingdom of heaven." Therefore,

Resolved, That as members of the Tennessee Conference we will preach against this evil, and urge our people to observe the rule of our Discipline that forbids drunkenness, buying or selling spirituous liquors, or drinking them, unless in cases of extreme necessity.

TOBACCO.

WHEREAS, The use of tobacco is very prevalent and popular, both in and out of the church, and,

WHEREAS, It is a practice both filthy and expensive, and we have reason to believe injurious to soul and body. Therefore,

Resolved, That as members of the Tennessee Conference we pledge ourselves to abstain from its use in all its forms, and to use our influence both in the pulpit and in our social and pastoral visitations to discountenance its use by all our people, and especially by the children and youth of our Sunday-schools and congregations.

REPORT ON EDUCATION.

The capacity to be educated is seconded by the command, "Train up a child in the way he should go;" also "Bring up your children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." These words show clearly the word of God on the subject of education. The church recognizes the obligation to aid in this work. The M. E. Church has built and sustained schools, seminaries, and colleges which are scattered in nearly every State and Territory of the Union. There are several in this State for both races. We rejoice in the schools open for the whites, and bid them God speed. We have special interest in those in our own bounds, which, while they are open for all, are more especially designed for the colored people. These are the Central Tennessee College and the West Tennessee Preparatory School. The latter, located at Mason, Tenn., is under the charge of Rev. C. E. Alexander, and is doing most excellent work and meeting with fair success. The Central Tennessee College has had a prosperous year. The enrollment the past year was 287. Of these 16 were in the College class, 11 in the Preparatory course, 114 in the Normal and 45 in the Theological class. The school has accomplished great good, and is still doing a noble work for the elevation and Christian education of the colored people. There,

Resolved, That we repeat our former commendation of the West Tennessee Preparatory School located at Mason, and urge our people to sustain it cheerfully, and as far as is advisable, build and support similar schools in other parts of the State.

Resolved, That we rejoice in the prosperity and growth of the Central Tennessee College, and cordially commend it to our people, and especially the Theological and Medical Departments, which have already added greatly in giving us better preachers for our pulpits and physicians for our sick.

Resolved, That the pastors at Memphis, Galoway and Mason be appointed a visiting committee for the West Tennessee Preparatory School, and E. Provine, H. Primm and L. M. Moores for the Central Tennessee College.

OUR DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

Resolved, That the presiding elders are hereby requested to submit the question of discontinuing the district conferences in their respective districts to the district and quarterly conference in accordance with the ninety-second paragraph of the Discipline.

A Teacher Threatened.

BUTLER, Freestone Co., Texas Dec. 1, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I would very respectfully state that I am at present engaged in teaching school for the colored people of this neighborhood. I am doing all in my power to enlighten both parents and children, morally and mentally. I have in connection with my every day school, a flourishing Sabbath-school in which both old and young are deeply interested. You have been in the South sufficiently long to know how our labors among the colored people are appreciated by our Southern white friends. Nevertheless, regardless of popular or private opinion, I sincerely believe that we are engaged in a good and noble cause; for in what nobler cause can man engage than in endeavoring to instruct and enlighten a certain class of his fellow beings who have been so long compelled to live in obscurity and darkness? Who have been so long shut out from the glorious light of civilization, which enables man to look with reason and admiration upon the marvelous works of his divine Creator; which enables him to look from the things of earth, and behold with the eye of faith that celestial and happy land which God Almighty has created for those who keep His commandments.

I send you the enclosed notice, served on me on the 29th ult. In order that yourself and friends may have some idea of the inducements offered the colored people to remain in Texas. As far as I am individually concerned, I heartily forgive the author or authors and sincerely trust that my heavenly Father will for Christ's sake bring them to see the errors of their ways ere it is forever too late.

Trusting that I have not trespassed too much on your valuable time, I remain your obedient servant,

THOMAS QUINCY.

[The following was enclosed in an envelope, postmarked Butler, Nov. 29.—ED.]

MR. QUINCY. Sir—This is to notify you that you are not wanted in this country, and if you want to remain healthy I would advise you to move within 30 days.

November, 1879.

Our South'n Methodism

TEXAS.

W. D. Connell, Denton: "I reached home safely and much encouraged to commence work this conference year."

C. M. Mays, Gonzales: "When I came here I found six members scattered about, with no place of worship. Thanks for $100 from the Church Extension Board, we were able to go to work and build a house that when finished will be worth $600 at least. We have held one of the most successful meetings in Gonzales; 10 converts and 4 reclaimed."

MISSISSIPPI.

E. Collins, New Hope: "I have three appointments — New Hope, New Salem and St. Morris, and have been successful this year; 35 conversions, 108 probationers, 11 adults and 15 children baptized, 3 exhorters licensed. The SOUTHWESTERN has greatly benefited the work this year. Elder Campbell held my fourth conference Nov. 15-16. The collection was $23, and for the quarter $33.50. The benevolent cause will be remembered."

LOUISIANA.

A. Luster, St. Martinsville: "We had a basket meeting for the benefit of the church in New Iberia. We raised $58, and gave New Iberia $40. The storm blew my bell down, and broke the arm and wheel."

Two hundred and ninety persons partook of the eucharistic feast last Sunday night at Wesley Chapel. The house was filled to overflowing, and great religious enthusiasm prevailed. A protracted meeting is in progress; some are converted and others crowd the anxious seat. The Lord is visiting his people at Wesley.

Foreign Missions.

DENMARK.—Sup't Schow, of Denmark gives us the following paper: Quite an awakening has in late years taken place in the Denmark State Church. Home mission work of every kind has been organized, and Sunday-schools established. What a part Wesley and Methodism has had in this movement may be seen in the following extract from a book published by the Rev. Mr. Beadel, one of the most prominent Lutheran preachers in Copenhagen. He says much is being done in our day for Home Missions: Wesley is truthfully called the Father of Home Missions; he has the great honor of having called to life in the Evangelical Church the neglected work of deacons, and to have them employed on a large scale. He awoke and employed those latent powers in the church, and knew how with success to use lay members as Christian co-laborers in the service of the Church. Wesley had already pointed out all the directions in which the Home Mission is now working. He labored for the instruction and enlightenment of the common people, organized Sunday-schools for children and adults, published tracts, distributed Bibles at very low prices, took care of the orphans and founded hospitals. His home mission work organized in every detail, and those lay-members he employed were experienced men and women.

LIBERIA.—Late letters give account of the presence of marked revival interests. Rev. Mr. Osgood reports having met with great favor from a native king, Je. Russell, who had sent some thirty of his principal men to accompany him to their country and open a mission and mission school under the protection and patronage of the King.

JAPAN.—Our friends at home and abroad will unite in gratitude to the Heavenly Father who hath put it in the heart of a Baltimore brother to give $10,000 for the support of the mission school and training institution for native preachers.

Twelve States have adopted civil damage laws as a check upon liquor selling. Wife, child, or even a stranger sustaining damage from an intoxicated person, property, or means of support, may recover damages from the person selling the liquor, and in some, if not all of these States, from the owner of the property on or in which the liquor is sold.

Sunday School.

Dec. 14, 1879.—THE HEAVENLY CITY.
SCRIPTURE.—Rev. 21 : 21-27 : 22 : 1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"For he looked for a city that hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."—Heb. 10 : 10.

TOPIC.—The Inhabitants of Heaven.
(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

The Connection.—The marriage of the Lamb has been consummated, the marriage supper celebrated, the devil finally bound forever, the dead, small and great have been judged, and death and hell have been destroyed. A new, sinless earth, under brighter heavens, rises to our view, together with a city in which there is neither death, nor sorrow, nor any more pain.

Its Glory (21-23).—Every several gate was of one pearl. How different from the narrow, lustreless wicket-gate at the beginning of the Christian's journey, through which many hesitate so long before entering. The street of the city was pure gold. It does not mean to say that it has only one street, or that only one of its streets is paved with ideally pure gold, transparent as glass. And I saw no temple therein. The temple was the glory of the ancient Jerusalem. A city of God, without a temple, to a Jew, would be one of the first things that he would notice after his recovery from the dazzlement occasioned by so much overpowering splendor. [illegible] the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it. And the glory of God did lighten it, and [illegible] was the Lamb. In the [illegible] lesson that we had in the Book of Revelation, the countenance of [illegible] was described "as the sun [illegible] in his strength." God [illegible] "in the light which no [illegible] approach unto." The nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it. Governments will yet find the Word of [illegible] their best statute book, and [illegible] their most efficient safeguard. For those who have right [illegible], or who have ought to [illegible], those pearly gates never [illegible] shut, for there is no night there. All that is of real [illegible] and honor to the nations will [illegible] in to add to the glory [illegible] city. On the [illegible] of the picture a shadow [illegible]. Not all can enter there. [illegible] excluded, not by force, [illegible] own natures. There [illegible] enter into it any[illegible]. It is a place of [illegible]. No characters that [illegible] whom they touch [illegible] through those open [illegible] shall have the [illegible] is offered by the [illegible] who now take it, [illegible] shall write in [illegible]. All others are [illegible] and sins, and [illegible] the rolls of the [illegible]. The "river of [illegible]" is described by [illegible] as crystal. [illegible]. Refreshing as [illegible] spring water is to [illegible] out of the [illegible] of the Lamb. [illegible] river, which [illegible] of the golden [illegible] of life. Bare [illegible]. Yielding [illegible] month. The [illegible] for the heal[illegible]. And there shall [illegible]. For ages the [illegible] troubled by the [illegible] into [illegible] paral[illegible]. But [illegible] no more [illegible] one no [illegible] of God and [illegible] he is. His [illegible]. And [illegible]. He name [illegible]. And [illegible] ever. [illegible] over[illegible]

5,000 for 1880.

Shall we have 5,000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880?

We ought to have them, and will, if the preachers in our territory do their duty in presenting the claims of the paper to their people.

All we ask is for every preacher to make a canvass among his congregation and his outside friends, telling them of the SOUTHWESTERN and its value as a church, family and general news paper. Brother, will you not do this?

The SOUTHWESTERN is a good religious paper. Look over any issue, and you find religious reading for almost every member of the family.

The SOUTHWESTERN is a Methodist paper. It is not only an official organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but its Publishers and Editor believe in the doctrines and polity of that church.

The SOUTHWESTERN gives large attention to the Sunday school. Every issue contains a commentary on the International Sunday-School lesson for the following Sabbath. Every officer and teacher in the Sunday-school should study this.

The SOUTHWESTERN is fearless in its denunciation of wrong, no matter whether it be in churches or political parties. It has steadily demanded that the rights of all people, irrespective of race or color, shall be maintained. This it will continue to do. The gospel is not only a matter of theory, but must be carried into practice. The SOUTHWESTERN demands that the golden rule shall not only be preached from the pulpit and in political platforms, but that it shall be practiced in the pew, on the plantation and at the ballot-box.

The SOUTHWESTERN has discussed the Negro Exodus in all its bearings, and has given the facts of this great movement to the world, when other papers have refused to discuss it, and sought to keep the facts from the people.

The SOUTHWESTERN during May 1880, will publish the proceedings of the General Conference of the M. E. Church, to meet that month in Cincinnati, O. All our people will want to read that.

The SOUTHWESTERN will help to make a good church wherever it is taken. It will help the preachers and official members and all the people by teaching them of the work of the great Church to which they belong, and giving them news of the progress of Christ's kingdom.

Brother, shall we not have 5,000 subscribers for 1880?

—The Popular Science Monthly for December opens with a portrait of Heinrich Willism Dove, and "Recent Anthropology," by E. B. Tyler, the great English anthropologist. The researches of Crookes on the "Radiant Matter," are brought to a close. A novel paper is by Prof. J. Le Conte on "The Genesis of Sex." Lieut. Lyons discusses "Ocean Metereology." Dr. Granville illustrates brain action. The editor speaks of Goldwin Smith's manifesto of the breakdown of morality, caused by evolution. New York, D. Appleton & Co., $5 per year, 50 cents per number.

—Haus und Herd, our German monthly, Henry Liebhart, D. D., editor, is in all respects well qualified to be recommended as a family and Sunday-school magazine, and ought to be in every German Sunday-school library and German family. The December number contains a splendid selection of articles and illustrations. Methodism is represented by two illustrated articles: "Martin's Institute, at Frankfort-on-the Main," and "Pioneers of German Methodism." The steel plate "At Home," a picture without words, is of merit. The Sunday-school department is well provided for. The number is a complete success, and promises to satisfy every one. Subscribe immediately for next year. Hitchcock & Walden, Cincinnati.

—Wide Awake for December is so good that the Christmas number [illegible] be better. "Sammy [illegible] Bunny" is one of the [illegible] Edward A. Rand's [illegible] followed by Mrs. [illegible] "Bergetta's Mis[illegible] fortunes. A very interesting paper is by Miss Harris, about "The New Chinese Professor at Harvard," giving portraits of the Mandarin and his two sons. No. 12 of Mr. Benjamin's American Art Series is about David Neal. There is a charming Southern story by Mrs. Mollie Moore Davis, "Why Mammy Delphy named her baby Grief." "A Model Sewing School," by Mrs. Lillie, is written from the English point of view. There are several beautiful poems. Palmer Cox gives one of his fine animal pictures, and there are puzzles and letters for little folks, and a piece of Christmas music. Only $2 a year. Now is the time to subscribe. Ella Farman, editor. D. Lothrop & Co., publishers, Boston.

—The fact that Littell's Living Age has had a successful career of over thirty-five years against much competition, is proof sufficient that it meets an undoubted want of the public. It furnishes what is essential to American readers in a great and indispensable current literature—a literature which embraces more and more every year the work of the ablest thinkers and writers of the day. As the only satisfactorily complete and fresh compendium of this literature, its importance and value have steadily increased. It enables the reader, at trifling expense, to keep pace with the best thought and literary work of our time; and its great convenience to every intelligent person or family can therefore hardly be over-rated. The extra offer to new subscribers for 1880, and the reduced clubbing rates, are worthy of note in the prospectus published in another column. The magazine is well worth the attention of those who are selecting their reading for the new year. As the multitude of periodicals increases more and more beyond the means and leisure of readers, the value of such a comprehensive one as this becomes more and more apparent.

Do a Clever Thing

For your wife. She does many for you—bakes, cooks, scrubs and mends. Her work is never done. Get from your grocer a package of Gilt-Edge Butter Maker for twenty-five cents. She can churn in half the time, get ten per cent. more butter, and of a color that she will be proud of. The valuable book, "Hints to Butter Makers," is given away by all storekeepers.

NOVA POST OFFICE, Ashland Co., Ohio, May 28th, 1879.

BUTTER IMPROVEMENT CO:

Gentlemen—My attention was called by your correspondent at Elyria, Mr. Boynton, to your Gilt-Edge Butter Maker, and wished me to give it a trial. We churned one gallon of cream according to your directions in your letter to Mr. Boynton, with the following result, time of churning 12 minutes, produced 3¾ pounds, color good and quality far better than any thing that I have tried previously. I have been engaged in the dairy business more or less for the past 15 years. Also took of the same cream, the same time and from the same boil, omitting your powder, as per directions, with the following result, time of churning 20 minutes, 3 pounds, quality inferior, short of what is required in our market. I would further say, I made a second trial with about the same result.

Truly yours, C. S. VAN AMANN.

Seabright, N. J., Nov. 4, 1879.

The GREATEST LIVING AUTHORS, such as Prof. Max Muller, Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Jas. A. Froude, Prof. Huxley, R. A. Proctor, Edw. A. Freeman, Prof. Tyndall, Dr. R. B. Carpenter, Frances Power Cobbe, The Duke of Argyll, Wm. Black, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Mulock-Craik, Geo. MacDonald, Mrs. Oliphant, Jean Ingelow, Mrs. Alexander, Thos. Hardy, Matthew Arnold, Henry Kingsland, W. W. Story, Turguenief, Carlyte, Ruskin, Tennyson, Browning, and many others, are represented in the pages of Littell's Living Age.

In 1880 THE LIVING AGE enters upon its thirty-seventh year, admittingly unrivalled and continously successful. During the year it will furnish to its readers the productions of the most eminent authors, above-named and many others; embracing the choicest Serial and Short Stories by the Leading Foreign Novelists, and an amount

Unapproached by any other Periodical in the world, of the most valuable Literary and Scientific matter of the day, from the pens of the foremost Essayists, Scientists, Critics, Discoverers, and Editors, representing every department of Knowledge and Progress.

THE LIVING AGE is a weekly magazine giving more than double-column octavo pages of reading-matter yearly. It presents in an inexpensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a satisfactory completeness attempted by no other publication, the best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Tales, Sketches of Travel, and Discovery, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical and Political Information from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature.

The importance of THE LIVING AGE to every American reader, as the only satisfactorily fresh and COMPLETE compilation of an indispensable current literature,—indispensable because it embraces the productions of the

is sufficiently indicated by the following

OPINIONS.

"It covers the whole field of literature, and covers it completely, thoroughly and impartially."—Times, Cincinnati.

"It affords the best, the cheapest and most convenient means of keeping abreast with the progress of thought in all its phases."—North American, Philadelphia.

"It is, by all odds, the best eclectic published."—Southern Churchman, Richmond.

"Gives the best of all at the price of one." —New York Independent.

"The prince among magazines."—New York Observer.

"It so fully supplies the wants of the reading public that through its pages alone it is possible to be as thoroughly well informed in current literature as by the perusal of a long list of monthlies."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"To read it weekly is a liberal education." —Zion's Herald, Boston.

"With it alone a reader may fairly keep up with all that is important in the literature, history, politics and science of the day."—The Methodist, New York.

"It holds the palm against all rivals."— Commercial, Louisville.

"It is indispensable to every one who desires a thorough compendium of all that is admirable and noteworthy in the literary world."—Boston Post.

"There is no other way of procuring the same amount of excellent literature for anything like the same price."—Boston Advertiser.

"The best literature of the day."—New York Times.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

The political course of the NEW YORK TIMES will be guided during the Presidential year by the same principles which have won for it the position of the foremost Republican newspaper in the United States. The successful issue of the recent contest in New York, and the unbroken series of Republican victories in other Northern States which preceded and accompanied it, have combined to demonstrate the soundness of the position of THE TIMES in regard to the questions with which the Republican Party is called upon to deal.

THE TIMES will continue to place fidelity to the interests of the Republican Party above the pursuit of personal aims or private ambition, and will steadfastly insist that the usefulness of any party must be measured by the extent of its devotion to the honor and welfare of the country. In the future, as in the past, the attitude of THE TIMES will be that of independence within the Republican Party. The maintenance of the national credit; the purification of the public service; the advocacy of all seasonable projects of fiscal reform; rigid economy in public expenditures; opposition to subsidies and corporate jobbery in all its forms; and the preservation of equal rights of all citizens, North and South, will be the salient points of the policy of THE TIMES.

THE TIMES will continue to be distinguished as an enterprising, accurate and carefully edited newspaper. The acknowledged excellence and fullness of its correspondence by mail and telegraph from all parts of the world, will be adequately maintained, and its facilities for collecting domestic and foreign news will be expanded to meet the increased demands of our times.

In the sphere of literary and artistic criticism, of scientific, social and general discussion, THE TIMES will address itself, as heretofore, to the appreciation of the educated and intelligent classes of the American people. It will be lively without being sensational, aggressive without being coarse; at all times it will strive to be fearless and independent in the championship of the right. No theories subversive of the principles on which the sacredness of family ties and the existence of society alike repose will be promulgated in its columns.

THE TIMES rejects all advertisements of lotteries, of quacks and medical pretenders, and of all other agencies by which the insidious poison of vice is disseminated throughout society. It will be in the future, as in the past, a newspaper especially adapted for family reading.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES is especially fitted to meet the requirements of those who seek more ample details of current news and fuller installments of current discussion than are furnished in the weekly issue. THE SEMI-WEEKLY has a large circulation abroad and among the professional and mercantile classes, outside of the large cities, at home. At the reduced club rates now offered for this edition its popularity ought to be greatly increased.

THE WEEKLY TIMES, containing selected editorials on topics of national and general interest from the columns of the daily issue, as well as a concise summary of political, social, and foreign news, besides other features which recommend it to all classes of readers, is a paper admirably fitted to circulate in every portion of the United States. Its conductors will spare no effort, not only to maintain its well-earned supremacy, but to make its popularity still more decided.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION

1880. Increased In Size.

Vol. 53. Elegantly Illustrated.

It aims to be a favorite in every family—looked for eagerly by the young folks, and read with interest by the older. Its purpose is to interest while it amuses; to be judicious, practical, sensible, and to have really permanent worth, while it attracts for the hour.

It is handsomely illustrated by the best artists, and has for its contributors some of the most attractive writers in the country. Among these are

Harriet Beecher Stowe, James T. Fields, E. P. Whipple, J. T. Trowbridge, Dinah Mulock Craik, Rebecca Harding Davis, Sarah Winter Kellogg, James Parton, Louisa M. Alcott, Louise Chandler Moulton, Dr. Henry I. Bowditch, C. A. Stephens.

The variety and worth of its contents will make it a repository of the choicest literature; a library of tales, travels, adventure, history and biography; a "Companion" for the school, the study and the fireside. It will give

Serial Stories, Stories for Girls, Stirring Tales of Adventure, Letters of Foreign Travel, Brilliant Sketches, Poems, Editorials on Current Events, Two Hundred Short Stories, Valuable Papers on Health, Anecdotes and Incidents.

Subscription Price, $1 75. Specimen copies sent free. Please mention in what paper you read this advertisement. Address YOUTH'S COMPANION, Boston, Mass.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to make inqniry tbrough your valuable columns for my mother, Mary Brown. I saw her right after freedom. Then she was in the city of Houston, Texas, but soon after left for San Jacinto connty. I learned since that she was seen in New Orleans. The name I went hy then was Winnie Sellers, but is now Winnie Blakeley. My aunts' names are Lucinda Davis, Lottie McClenau and Sarah McClenan. My nncles' names were Sam Warren and Berry McClenan. My grandfather's and grandmother's names were Nathan and Jennie McClenan. I am very anxious to learn their whereabonts. Any information wiil be thankfnlly received. Direct your letters to Calvert, Roberson Co., Texas, in care of J. W. Robinson or Dr. G. N. Mead. Ministers of every cbarge wbere tbis paper visits please read this anxious inquiry and oblige, yours truly,

WINNIE BLAKELEY.

MR. EDITOR—I desire some information about my mother. The last time I saw her I was in Alexandria, Virginia, about the year 1852 or 1853. Her name was Hannah. She belonged to Lawyer Tibbs who sold her when I was qnite young to a trader named Bruthing. Lather Tibbs lived at Leesburg, Va, when he sold mother to Bruthing, and afterwards Tibbs moved to Alexandria, Va., and swapped me to Bruthing for another boy. Bruthing pnt me in jail and I cried, so be told me if I would hush he would bring my motber there next morning, which he did; but I was so young mother hardly knew me, so Bruthing stood four or five boys in a line and asked her which one of them was her boy. She stood a few moments and then said I was the boy. Mother then brought me some cake and candy, and that was the last time I saw her. I now go by the name of Henry Tibbs. I remember the names of two of Tibbs' sons, Abner and Kennedy. Bruthing hrought me to New Orleans, La., and sold me to a man named M. Pickett. If mother is found please address me at Deasonville, Yazoo county, Miss., in care of Rev. James Allen.

HENRY TIBBS.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire through your valuable paper about my relations. I was bred and born in Virginia, but am unable to name the county, for I was so young that I don't recollect it; but I remember I lived twelve miles from a town called Danville. My master was James Ferrill, and my mistress Martha Ferrill. I was sold to his brother, a speculator, whose name was Wm. Ferrill, and was brought to Mobile at the age of 10 years. To my recollection my father's name was Joseph, and my mother's Milly, my brother's Anthony, and my sister's Maria. We belonged to James Ferrill, except one sister, Julia, and I don't know who she belonged to. Any information of the above named persons will be thankfully received. My name was Annie Ferrill, but my owners changed my name to Caroline Rodes. All Christian papers please copy, and all preachers in charge will please assist me in finding my long lost friends. Direct your letters to 185 Coraparu St., New Orleans, and oblige your obedient sister in the Lord.

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates.

Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the TONIC. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the TONIC has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

J. P. WATSON, Pastor Christian Church, Troy, O.

HOLMAN'S AGUE AND LIVER PAD

is marvelous in its prompt and radical cure for every species of Liver and Stomach difficulties. It contains only harmless vegetable compounds, and is worn EXACTLY WHERE NEEDED, over the vitals, the Liver and Stomach. It removes torpidity of the liver, and arouses the stomach from its dormant state, arresting fermentation, torpor and pain, by giving it the natural quantity of bile and gastric juice. It also vitalizes the entire system with Nature's true tonic. It arrests all deteriorated and poisonous fluids in the stomach, and thus prevents their entering the system by way of circulation. It absorbs from the body every particle of BLOOD POISON, whether bilious, malarial or medicinal, and leaves the wearer in perfect health. Sent by mail, free of charge, on receipt of $2.00: special Pad, $3.00. Address,

JOY TO INVALIDS

To those tired of taking medicine we desire to say that a system of remedial mechanical movements has been discovered that generates and transmits to the system electricity—mechanical force—which is there transformed into vital energy and physical power or strength. In this way the strength of the patient is rapidly built up, the system receiving positive supplies of strength from inexhaustible sources. No other method of treatment known to medical science can accomplish this result, as they are all dependent upon the physical power or strength generated within the patient, which medicines may promote but cannot increase except in a very limited degree.

This system of treatment has proven wonderfully successful in curing Retroversion, Anteversion, and Falling of the Uterus, or "Female Weakness," also in curing Paralysis, Neuralgia, Swellings, Tumors, Stiff Limbs, Nervous Debility, Sleeplessness, and most Chronic Diseases.

All cases of Constipation are promptly relieved by a very few applications, and the result is permanent. No patient who can sit up ten minutes at a time is too weak to have this treatment applied. The applications are always entirely unobjectionable, being always made through the clothing. Lady patients should bring with them a loose "wrapper," or "morning-gown." Send stamp for pamphlet entitled "Motion as a Remedial Agent." Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

[illegible] of the colored [illegible] I thought [illegible] not last long, [illegible] go; but since I [illegible] have gone [illegible] go, and all [illegible] forced to say [illegible] home for [illegible] after that [illegible] held in the [illegible] poor, op[illegible] his [illegible] live in [illegible] pleased [illegible] sadly mis[illegible] election [illegible] of colored [illegible] were voted. [illegible] I know, for I [illegible] day of [illegible] man and [illegible] so ex[illegible] insulted, [illegible] at ball[illegible] after [illegible] gun policy" will have been laid down.

I ask no more of my fellow man than justice, and when he denies it me—then I lose confidence in all the pledges he may make thereafter. What we colored people want is our rights and representation as free men. We have made the South what she is to-day; and then for us to be considered incompetent, and to be ignored when we ask for representation, is an outrage. May the time speedily come when the Southern white man's eyes will have opened, and his heart, so full of prejudice, will fill with friendship, and he will be willing to take the colored man by the hand and recognize him as his colored brother. I believe that in the West, where the poor negro can say, feel and exercise his freedom, get paid for his labor, he will do well. Thousands will go next spring, and on account of the "shot-gun policy" many a plantation whose soil has been tilled by the black man will lie waste. Ah, think how kind the negro was to the white man when he left home to fight in the late war! Think how, when he was hundreds of miles from home, the down-trodden negro protected his family; yes, hid his produce, drove his stock in the swamps, and there staid till the Federal troops had left his master's premises.

"Oh, shame, where is thy blush" for such treatment as the negro has received in return for his kindness? The negro has had too much experience here of Southern bulldozing, any longer to put faith in what the white man tells him about giving him protection. The story has got old, and to the negro's ear it has no sound.

I bear no prejudice toward the Southern white man, but for reasons that I cannot give, his heart is filled with prejudice toward me and my race.

Now, I would advise all who desire to go to Kansas to see that you are well provided for before you start, and when you get there get homes and go right to work, and do not throw your money away for unnecessary things. You will find plenty of work, and you will get paid for your labor; and you can also educate your children there. And one important thing in Kansas—you can vote without fear of molestation. I do not ask for revenge for the wrongs done my people, but I do say:

> Stop, stop thy bloody deeds,
> And let the negro go free;
> He asks you in the name of God,
> Can you not hear his plea?

Let the negro go to the ballot-box and vote for who he pleases, or he will go to Kansas.

Some Democratic papers in this State say the reason the negro is going to Kansas, Colorado and Indiana, is "to vote for the President;" now that speaks bad for the Democrats, because if they are such friends to the negro they ought to see that he is allowed to vote here, without going anywhere else to do so.

Trusting that ere long bulldozing here and elsewhere will cease, and that peace and harmony will prevail in this, our beautiful country, I am your friend,

W. W. HENDERSON.

LONOKE, Ark., Nov. 27, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I was appointed [illegible] this charge in February by [illegible] Andrews. I arrived here [illegible] in March, and found a "faithful few." I have worked as best I [illegible] all this year, and my labor, [illegible] a certain extent, has been re[illegible]. This town numbers about [illegible]. There are four churches [illegible]—two white and two colored—[illegible] South, (white,) two, [illegible] Baptist and our own [illegible]. The people, as a general [illegible] civil and law-abiding. [illegible] is mostly prairie. The [illegible] lie south, and are very [illegible] rather unhealthy. [illegible] of cotton is [illegible] Lonoke is quite a cen[illegible] staple. We own [illegible] circuit. We [illegible] appointments. [illegible] organized more, but [illegible] the time of [illegible] and not being [illegible], I have been [illegible] to my appoint[illegible] night, and raised sufficient funds to cancel the same. This relieves the society of its burden. We also raised funds to do about forty dollars' worth of work on the church. There was collected on this circuit one dollar missionary money, and the preacher in charge was paid $25. Will have over $30 benevolent money this year. We have a membership of between 65 and 70. We have received in the church this year between 35 and 40 members.

The SOUTHWESTERN is a welcome visitor to nine families in this circuit. A great many more want it, but are not able to take it. They all love the paper. Methodists love it; Baptists love it; sinners love it.

I often think of the teachers of Shaw University, and pray for them. Their instructions have done much for my benefit. I want to go there again next spring, and may the Lord help me. I seek nothing higher or lower than to preach God's Word intelligently to the people. This is what we need in this country. May God convert the people and send them home.

Your brother in Christ,

E. ROBERTS.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Missionary Work in Arkansas.

Let us keep the "missionary boom" going! Our good and faithful Bro. Roberts, P.C. of the Lonoke circuit, is leading in the van so far. He reported nearly as much benevolent money at his third quarterly conference as any charge in the conference paid last year, while it will be remembered that this circuit paid last year less than $5 for all causes. There is a brother in our work who has a certain amount of money to give to the various benevolent causes of the church, and proposes to give it in the way of premiums to workers in the field, and therefore makes the following propositions:

1st. The pastor in the Little Rock conference who raises the most benevolent money per member, according to his annual report of members, including probationers, and brings it to conference, having taken all the collections, shall have the Illustrated History of Methodism, price $4.

2d. He who raises the next largest amount, including the other collections mentioned above, shall have the same book bound in cloth, price $3.

3d. To the White River district only. The first offer is made including same conditions, and to the one that is ahead shall be given Moody, in best binding, instead of the History. Thus you may get both the History and the Moody book, price $2.75. 2d. On the same conditions, to the brother who raises the next most shall have Moody in cloth, price $2. 3d. The third one in the race shall have Hints to Self-Educated Ministers, by Porter. Price $1.25.

4th. The pastor who brings the largest list of subscribers to any of our church papers, in proportion to the number of members and probationers on his work, shall have his own paper free.

5th. To the White River District only. The brother who brings the largest list of subscribers to any one of our church papers, in proportion to the number of church members and probationers on his work, should he not get the conference premium as offered in the 4th proposition, shall have his own free, and the Christian Advocate.

6th. The one that brings the next largest number, with the other conditions complied with, shall have his own Advocate free.

Remember, you must have subscribers for 1880 and you must have the money in advance, so if you have not sent it to the publishers and have something to show that you have done so, you must pay it over at the conference. Now I will help in every possible way I can that each brother may have an equal chance, and no doubt Bro. Crawford will do the same on his work. Thus each preacher may have the influence of his Presiding Elder in the effort to get a reward for labor.

Brethren, let us make the Little Rock Conference the banner Conference in the South. The assessments to our Conference are less than 50 cents per member. In the above propositions for subscribers you are not tied to any one paper. They are all good, but you can get [illegible] as many for some of [illegible] for others.

Letter from Holly Springs.

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., Nov. 29, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I suppose some of your many readers would be pleased to hear from Abbeville circuit. We have had glorious meetings since I last wrote, resulting in the conversion of twenty precious souls. All joined the church and were baptized. Mr. N. G. Dankins, a prominent school teacher, teaching in one of our churches, professed and joined not long since, and promises a bright future with the other happy converts. We have three Sabbath-schools on the circuit, and it would make one's heart leap for joy to hear some of our recitations. Our last quarterly conference was held some time since. Our presiding elder, J. Y. Johnson, was present. After holding the quarterly on Saturday he highly interested the young people in a lecture. On Sunday morning he preached at eleven o'clock; also at night. More than a hundred communicants were at the table and renewed their covenant. After the morning service we went to Bro. Burgess Logan's, and administered the sacrament of baptism and the Lord's Supper to Bro. L.'s mother, who is 107 years old. The sister gave evidence that she was truly moved by the spirit during the services. May she cling to the faith like a wrestling Jacob until she is safe within the vale.

We have recently collected $44 with which to complete our new church at Providence. We have paid the elder all his salary—$30. We have $8.50 for benevolent purposes, collected at Buford Chapel, and we hope to get more before conference. We intend to work for the SOUTHWESTERN. Pray for us.

Yours, A. M. TROTTER.

Dallas District Fall Work.

MR. EDITOR—The ministers and Presiding Elder of the Dallas district are all at their places of labor. We are pulling for the shore of this conference year's voyage. As I am now holding my last quarterly meetings I can say that the Lord has been with us all the year. The brethren are most too slow, some of them, about their collections. The times are hard, I know, but not to give twenty-five cents for benevolent purposes. If we don't come up with our collections I fear the times will be harder next year than they have been this year. The excuse has been all along, wait till the cotton is gathered. The crops are out and sold, and the Lord has not gotten his part yet. Brethren, remember the children of Israel that God said robbed him in tithes and offerings (see Malachi, 3d chapter, 8th verse to the end of the chapter). It seems like the windows of Heaven have been shut up this year, and I am anxious to have you try the Lord by bringing His part of what you have made into the conference and let us send it to the storehouse at New York, and may be the Lord will pour us out a blessing next year.

Now about the SOUTHWESTERN. No man who spends his $2 for that paper will regret it after he has read a half a dozen copies carefully. Of course if he takes it home and don't read it he will soon get tired of it, and say it is of no use to him. I can not do without the SOUTHWESTERN. When I fail to get it at its regular time, I feel like quarreling with somebody about it. You have been reading about Kansas this year and you will want to read about it next year, and every year until there is not a colored man left in these Southern States. The General Conference meets next May and you will want to read about it. We don't know who will be our delegate, but we hope he will tell us something about the General Conference and its worth, and the best way he can do it will be through our paper. The greatest reason why we should take this paper and as many others as we can, is because we cannot keep up with the times without reading the papers. The only way to be wise is to use the means God has given to make us wise. There is no use of praying to God for wisdom unless we use the papers and books he has given us. I hear people praying for God to make them wise, and if you follow them home you will find that they have not a book or paper to read. I would not do without my library of books and my papers for anything in this world. If everybody had books and papers, and would read them, we could preach much better and in half the time. Sometimes the preachers will have me spend two or three hours in telling the stewards, leaders, trustees, exhorters, local preachers and even some of them, their duties, when it is all laid down in the Discipline, from a private member to a Bishop. I never trouble my elder with such as that when I am in a station or on a circuit. If the officers will take the SOUTHWESTERN and read it, they will find the books they need, the price and how to get them. Now, brethren of the Dallas district, we have been asleep for nearly fifteen years. Our nap ought to be out by this time; let us start off on the double quick next year, and see if we can't make up some of the time we have slept away.

Since my wife began to get well I feel like a new man. It is not any trouble at all for me to do my work now. She is most well. We feel very thankful to God for his mercy, and our many friends at Austin for the good care taken of her during the first four months of this year, while I was away on my work. So, Mr. Editor, we are all moving on nicely.

Letter from Denison.

DENISON, Texas, Dec. 1, 1879.

During the recent session of the Austin Conference at the city of Denison, Texas, a Conference Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was organized. Although there is as yet but one Auxiliary Society within its bounds, viz: the one at Denison, it is hoped that during the current conference year others may come into being, thus bringing the Methodist women of Texas who still love and cling to the mother Church and the old flag into line with their Northern sisters in our Lord's grand army of conquest.

Though this is to some extent a mission field, and these beginnings are the "day of small things," it is believed that this, "little one shall become a thousand, and this great country with its splendid possibilities be not only itself redeemed to Christ, but become an important agency in the world's evangelization. The officers are as follows: Mrs. Dr. Brush, of Austin, president; Mrs. L. H. Carhart, of Clarendon; Mrs. Causey, of Ennis; Mrs. Underhill, of Dallas; Mrs. Dr. Chess, of San Antonio; Mrs. Rev. Webb, of Austin, vice presidents; Mrs. F. A. Shulze, of Denison, recording secretary; Mrs. M. A. Daugherty, of San Antonio, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bingham, of Denison, treasurer.

MRS. M. A. DAUGHERTY,

Letter from Macon.

DEAR EDITOR—On the night of the 24th ult., at St. Michael's Chapel, Ex Prairie circuit, five miles east of Macon, we had a Sabbath-school exhibition, which resulted in the collection of $8.50 for the purchase of books for the school library. The school is in good condition. I have worked hard to build it up. The number has increased from 50 to 80, with a good corps of teachers. Four regular classes are named Cross Bearers, Happy Pilgrims, Busy Bees and Lambs of the Flock. Mr. E. P. Simmons, late of Shaw University, F. L. Dantzler and myself are the teachers.

On the night of the exhibition the church was nicely decorated. Over the altar were the words, in the shape of a half moon, "Deeds, not Words." Our programme was varied. I. C. Spann, Penn and Charles Orr, James Dantzler, B. R. Dantzler, Messrs. Clayton and Pratt, Miss A. McLeod, A. Spann, Miss C. McLeod, H. Lewis, F. L. Dantzler, Mrs. M. Dantzler, Miss B. Spencer, and other ladies, participated. Fraternally yours,

W. B. DANTZLER,
S. S. Sup't.

Board of Education.

The Board of Education of the M. E. Church held its annual meeting at the office of Hon. O. Hoyt, in New York, Nov. 12. There were present: Bishop Simpson, president; Dr. E. O. Haven, Corresponding secretary; O. Hoyt, treasurer; Dr. C. A. Holmes, recording secretary; Bishop Bowman, Drs. D. P. Kidder and J. W. Lindsay, C. C. North, of New York, and H. Long, of Philadelphia. The corresponding secretary made an annual report, of which the following is a summary:

The work of the Board has been to aid students by loans of small sums, not larger than $50 semi-annually, or $100 a year, mostly in our theological schools and colleges.

A detailed report was given, showing that the students aided were in thirty-two of our institutions of learning. The sum appropriated for this purpose during the year was $8,000, of which $7,956 was expended for the assistance of about one hundred students.

Gratification was expressed that the Sunday-schools that observe "Children's Day" were increasing in number. It is impossible to report just how many observe the day and send their collections to the Board, as some of them report at conferences, and the money comes to the Book Concern or one of its branches in the aggregate without specific mention of the schools, and some report to the treasurer and some to the corresponding secretary. One hundred and fifty-nine Sunday-schools in forty-nine conferences have reported to the corresponding secretary collections amounting to $776.82. Fifteen schools reported to the treasurer $141.13. There was received from the Book Concern since last June, $1,153.77, which probably came from about three hundred Sunday-schools. This would give an estimated total of four hundred and seventy-four Sunday-schools which took collections for the Board of Education on "Children's Day" this year. If all the schools would do it they would themselves be benefited, and the Board could meet many more of the earnest requests for help, that come from needy young men and women seeking a higher education to fit them for missionary and other Christian work.

The corresponding secretary, also, reported the donation of $5,000 to the Board during the year, the interest of which is to be paid to the donors during life.

The report of the treasurer showed that the balance one year ago was:

Balance	$2,132 26
Received from collections since	3,386 76
Received interest on Fund	7,140 00
Received interest current	521 50
	$13,180 48

Expended during the year:

Traveling expenses, etc.	$91 00
Taxes on land	33 98
Annuity on a donation	175 00
Appropriations for students	8,000 00
	8,229,98

This leaves in the treasury $4,880.50. It will be observed that of the $8,000 appropriated for students the corresponding secretary reported that $7,956 was so used. The balance of $44 was expended for postage, stationery, etc.

The Board authorized an expenditure of $8,000 during the coming year, but recommended that preference should be given to students in colleges and theological schools. The Board also instructed the corresponding secretary hereafter to require notes from those receiving loans, to become due two years after the beneficiary completes his school education, and to bear interest from that date.

The Board of Education is organized for all time. It is as safe as any human institution can be to receive trusts from benevolent persons, and every year will undoubtedly witness an improved and enlarged work.—N. Y. Advocate.

A Lady Missionary in Mississippi.

[Mrs. S. B. Merrill, the lady referred to in the following article, which appeared in the American Missionary for November, has been compelled, we regret to learn, to leave the field of labor to undergo treatment for one of her eyes, in Mobile. It is hoped she will soon return.—ED.]

A BLESSING AND A LESSON.

Comparatively few Christians know the power of a wise use of printed truth in connection with personal work for souls. A Northern woman of large experience and observation, providentially residing in a city of Mississippi, found a wide field for usefulness among the colored people. She solicited and received some co-operation there, and has been liberally aided during the past eighteen months by grants of tracts from the Society.

We rejoice greatly in the hopeful conversions reported, and are comforted and strengthened, that by the light thus given another soul has been added to those praying for the direction and success of Christ's kingdom as carried forward by this Society:

"The Lord has blessed in a wonderful manner the distribution of your tracts in the conversion of souls. A young girl, fifteen years of age, read one entitled, 'Come to the Supper of the Lamb,' and was converted, giving good evidence that she had found the Savior.

"Another was given to a poor old man at a revival of religion in the country. He came forward and asked a minister if he was too old to have religion. Upon inquiry it was found that he had been convicted of his sins by reading the tract that was given to him at the gate a few weeks before.

"A young lad, during the same revival, said he had sought the Lord and found him. He read a tract, and was immediately under conviction.

"A lady came to see me this week who was present during these meetings, and said, 'Sister M., you have no idea the good your papers and tracts are doing. A little boy came up to me and asked if I had "more of those little books to give away."' Again she says, 'It is a power for good that none but God knows.' Never before, until I went into this work here, did I realize what a blessing the Tract Society is. Now I can pray with all my heart for its officers and for the men who write the tracts. Again and again I say, God bless the American Tract Society. It seems to me like a dear old friend. 'He that watereth shall be watered.' I fully realize that precious promise for I have myself been greatly blessed in reading such tracts as 'Looking unto Jesus,' and 'How to Pray in the Closet,' and my faith has been strengthened to a degree I never before experienced.

"I received a note this morning from a young colored girl asking me to pray for her. She is going into the country to earn an honest living. She adds, 'I have no father, and would like to be under your instruction. Although I shall be out of your sight, I shall not be out of God's.'

"I need cards with the Commandments on them, also small cards to give as rewards for good lessons to the little children. I have given away all my tracts, and there is a greater demand than ever. The Lord incline his people to give their money for his glorious cause."

Constitution of Teachers' Institute.

ARTICLE 1. This organization shall be called the "West Tennessee District Sunday-school Teachers' Institute," having for its object the increase of Sunday-school interest and efficiency throughout West Tennessee District.

Good Out of Evil.

Three theories have prevailed with reference to the evil that is in the world,—the pessimist, the optimist and the Christian. Pessimists teach that the essential nature of all things is evil, that there is nothing good in the world, but everything is bad in itself, and in the end or object of its creation; that there are no possible compensations for evil, no good to be wrought out by it, and, therefore, that existence is an unmitigated curse. Optimists teach that evil is only good in disguise, or tends to final good. If it were not for suffering and sin there could be no appreciation of joy and virtue. More than that, the essential condition of all good is what we call evil. There is a curative power in evil itself to keep men in the path of virtue.

"Sorrow must prune each passion shoot.
And pain, each lust infernal;
Or human life will bear no fruit
To life eternal."

In short, the optimist theory is that there is no such thing as evil except as the condition of good which must inevitably follow. What is called sin is not an evil, but a blessing, because, by the suffering it produces, it leads men to the paths of virtue in order to escape suffering.

It is easy to see that both of these theories are equi-distant from Christianity. The pessimist makes creation a mistake, a blunder, and produces the recklessness of despair. There is no good to be attained in life; therefore, we may live as viciously as we please, the result will be the same,—no worse than as if we live virtuously—evil and only evil, and that continually. The optimist reaches the same conclusion with regard to practice, but by a directly opposite method. All evil including what is called sin is blessed in its results; therefore, the more evil we do and suffer, the better the results will be for us; the conclusion always being: "Live as you please, you were made to live so."

Christianity teaches that the production of evil was no part of the original design in the creation of the world; that when God created the heavens and the earth and all that in them is, from inert matter to His crowning workmanship, man, He pronounced them all good. It teaches that evil is solely the result of man's transgression. "God created man upright, but he sought out many inventions,"—went contrary to the purpose and plan of God, and brought sin into the world, and all our woe. This is the source of evil which is, instead of a blessing in disguise, a blotch, an excrescence on God's creation, solely of man's producing. It teaches that sin has no redeeming features, no curative power in itself. Men are never made good and pure by suffering alone. Without the grace of God, which bringeth salvation, men may suffer in time and eternity, and instead of becoming better, grow worse forever.

And this brings us to that most [illegible] doctrine of revelation that [illegible] may be sanctified to our [illegible]. What is the meaning of that [illegible]? It is certainly the farthest remove from the optimist [illegible], that evil itself has inherent power to make us better. That is [illegible] false. Moral evil tends to multiply and increase itself. It is exasperating, debasing and destructive in its influence on the soul. The only stay and corrective [illegible] can hinder evil from working [illegible] ruin of body and soul is the grace of God. It is this that [illegible] the affliction. But how? By leading us to repent of the sins [illegible] produced the evils; by bringing us back through the gateway of repentance and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, into the straight and narrow path of holy living. It is not the evil itself that works [illegible], but the Spirit of God [illegible] and working in the [illegible] suffering soul.

[illegible] the light of these principles, [illegible] to understand fully [illegible] paradoxical utter[illegible], and to see that [illegible] a paradox of optimism, [illegible] in them: "All things [illegible] together for [illegible] love God." The [illegible] saving, sanctify[illegible]. "We glory in [illegible]. Why? Not because [illegible], but because [illegible] tribulation worketh [illegible] experience, [illegible] hope [illegible] the [illegible] which [illegible]

[illegible] "through great tribulation," not as the result of great tribulation, but in spite of it, and because "they had washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." So, in all those passages where good seems to be ascribed to the ministrations of pain, there is always, expressed or implied, the fact that the sanctifying power is the grace of God.

How precious is the scheme of human redemption in this point of view, that in a world of evil and suffering which men have brought upon themselves, and which tend to drag them down to hell, we are lifted above their debasing power, and have complete deliverance in Jesus Christ; insomuch that no earthly disaster or suffering can touch the heart of that life that is hid with Christ in God; and we may say with all the confidence of the great Apostle: "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or disasters, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor hight, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

The Negro Exodus from Texas.

The departure of negroes from Texas to Kansas and the North has assumed large proportions the past few weeks. On an average from 1000 to 1200 have gone every week. As a rule, they are of the better class, and have money to pay their fares or to go on teams, and have something left to buy homes with. While the larger numbers go by railroad, many are going with teams. In one camp one of our ministers counted two hundred going thus, leisurely and comfortably. On the International Railroad over two hundred tickets were sold at a small station in one day. The company had been several days gathering at that point. We went into one car and counted ninety men, women and children. They all had first-class tickets—the railroad will sell no others to them—and the fare of that company in that one car amounted to over $1000. Just now the tide flows from Waller and Grimes counties. Private meetings are being held in many other counties, and every indication is that there will be a much greater movement in the spring than even the one going on now.

And still the leading men of Texas seem blind to the great significance of this movement, and to the disaster which because of it, threatens large portions of the State. The best newspapers simply note the fact that large numbers are going, while many ridicule the "exodusters," and say, "let them go." Some few people are beginning to realize the danger, but the great mass do not see it, and still talk about "emissaries from the North among the negroes," and that the present movement is only temporary, and those who have gone will soon come back, if they do not freeze or starve to death. What shocking stupidity! We have concluded that the best thing is for the exodus to continue until the whole South sees that the negroes can go; and until the Southern land owners learn that they can find friends and homes, and a fair chance to enjoy the fruits of their labor throughout the North.

The efforts thus far made in the South to prevent this movement have been of a character to increase it. Railroads, as a rule, give no reduction from highest local rates. One railroad official told us that he had been instructed to put on the highest possible rates for fare, so as to keep as many as possible from going. In the country regions leading colored men suspected of intending to go, are arrested on slightest pretexts, and put under bonds. In Sabine county a few days since, a colored man was reported to be preparing to go. He had bought a horse, and owed a small amount on it yet. On a Sunday while the people were at church, suddenly a body of armed men surrounded the building, and levelling their guns over the congregation, told all to be still. One of the men entered and searched for the colored man, but did not find him. The armed band then went to a neighboring Baptist Church, and doing the same thing, found the man they were hunting. He was arrested on a suit for what he owed, and put under bonds, and several leading colored men were selected and made to go his bond. No doubt the trial will be postponed indefinitely, and the bonds [illegible] so none so bold dare leave, [illegible] fear of severer penalties.

The Austin Conference.

The Austin Annual Conference met at Denison, Texas, Nov. 20, Bishop Merrill presiding. Some thirty members were present. Rev. M. A. Daugherty was elected secretary. This was the third session of the conference, and it embraces the white charges of the State. Churches are being built in the centers of population. Denison, Sherman, Fort Worth, Dallas and Austin have good churches, and one is building in San Antonio.

Rev. Wm. Brush was elected delegate to the General Conference, and Rev. L. H. Carhart, reserve; John A. Mann, of Dallas, lay delegate, and Col. R. M. Moore, of San Antonio, reserve. The members of the Lay Electoral Conference were invited to seats in the Ministerial Conference, and Bishop Merrill greeted them with an appropriate speech.

Two were elected to deacon's orders, and one into full membership, and seven were admitted on trial into traveling connection. Rev. H. H. Brooks was received on his credentials from the M. E. Church South.

The love feast on Sunday morning was full of interest. Bishop Merrill and Rev. Dr. Hartzell, Editor SOUTHWESTERN, made the addresses at the Missionary anniversary. Rev. Dr. J. M. Walden, of the Western Book Concern, represented the work of the Church Extension Society. Rev. H. R. Miller, of St. Louis Conference, filled one of the pulpits on Sunday. James A. Looke, of Jerseyville, lay delegate of S. Illinois Conference, was also present.

After a session of unusual harmony and interest, the conference closed on Monday, Nov. 24. The appointments are as follows:

Shall We Have a Colored Bishop.

BY REV. A. E. P. ALBERT.

Of all the questions of interest that will engage the attention of our next General Conference, none will be watched by our colored membership with such intense solicitude as that of the election of one or more bishops of African descent. Before this question all others sink into comparative insignificance: "Shall we have a colored Bishop? Over 200,000 members, nearly 1,100 traveling ministers, with about 100,000 Sunday-school children, join in this question to our next General Conference, praying while waiting for a favorable response. I want a colored bishop, and it is my honest conviction that there is not a man, woman or child of my race in this country but what would rejoice and praise God to see one elected; thereby levelling the last mountain of distinction in our church. We want not a missionary or a set-apart-for-special-work bishop, but one that may freely move among both Jews and Gentiles, and perceive that Christ's disciples, like Himself, are not respecters of persons. We do not object to the election of a German bishop, if the Church needs one, but we do insist that the true interest of our Church demands the election of a colored one. Do this and thousands, yea, tens of thousands, who are this day waiting for our full recognition, will come flocking to our fold. This is not a race issue, as some uncharitably assert, but rather one involving important and much volved principles.

We ask for representation on the Episcopal bench in consideration of our number, our fidelity and our patience. We want to stamp as false the assertion of our enemies that the M. E. Church will never elect a colored bishop. We are laboring for the pulling down of the massive walls of prejudice that stand between us and the Episcopal bench. The laws of our church are right on this question, as well as on other questions, but the practice is yet wrong in this case, and we are asking that it be righted.

Bro. John W. Ramsey, of Central Tennessee Conference, says that the colored bishop timber is yet to be grown. What does the brother mean? Does he mean to say that in 115 years Methodism has made such slow progress among her sable children that not one is prepared to enter the Episcopal office? But we are rather inclined to think that it is the prejudice of just such men as this Bro. R. that has kept colored men from being elected bishops so long; and before the war prevented all of my race from receiving any ordinations at all. Let our old mother church assert herself once more. She that stood so nobly in the cause of freedom in former days; suffering her right arm to be cut off in 1844, and is still doing so much good for our people, let her now stand up for full recognition of her sable sons and daughters Speak out brethren, and let the church know what we need. We want representation on the Episcopal bench; and whenever the walls of prejudice are battered down the Church will see competent men of our own communion to give us the desired representation.

We rest our cause not on might, but right, and the gospel that we preach tells us that right shall prevail. Therefore we respectfully, though most earnestly, pray that our next General Conference elect a colored bishop. In the mean time we'll await its action, and abide by its decision.

Our South'n Methodism

MISSISSIPPI.

T. A. Cotton, Landerdale: "My protracted meetings resulted in 7 converts, 20 accessions; baptized 10 adults and 10 children. Sunday-schools are fair."

C. McLemore, Lafayette Springs: "We have had a glorious revival on the work. Twenty souls were happily converted, and the church is greatly revived. We are building a church 25x30 feet, and will have it completed soon. We are poor; yet, by the help of the Lord, we intend to do what we can for His cause. Two of our faithful members have been called away, and we miss them. Elder Johnson visited us Sept. 6, and was welcomed."

T. J. Burton, Granada: "When appointed to this work by Bishop Andrew I began my pastoral labor under difficulties. I have to preach in four places each month. The people were scattered, and but few attended meeting; but I called them together and formed them into classes, and established Sunday-schools at each church. A church was built at Duck Hill 25x40 feet. A protracted meeting in Gonn Chapel closed with 66 converts; at Duck Hill 17 converts, 31 probationers; at Spring Hill 17 were brought to Christ; at Hickory Grove 3 were converted. In all 130 converts on Granada circuit this year, 99 baptized. I am studying how to sow the seed of the gospel in the hearts of the unconverted."

LOUISIANA.

T. G. Montgomery, Gross Tete: "Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 30. We had a good time. During the quarter I organized a Sabbath-school and congregation at Munson Station, which has all the appearance of success. To the many subscribers of the SOUTHWESTERN we have added 3. Nelson Gray is our delegate to the annual conference. We have received into full membership this year 10, baptized 9 infants, received on probation 14; deceased, 1."

B. J. Donnell, Franklin: "We have rebuilt our parsonage, which was blown down by the late storm. The value now is $600. We have also repaired the damages done the church here by the storm. My work is prospering spiritually. I can't say that it is doing as well financially, as a large portion of the members are sugar-making, as it is their usual custom at this season of the year. We held love feast on Sunday night, and it excelled all others I have ever seen. The spirit of the Lord was present. I have not visited Centreville for several months, owing to the fever which has caused considerable scattering there. I hear that it has nearly all abated now. I shall be with the good people there as soon as possible."

TEXAS.

W. Medlock, Groesbeck: "The Lord has taken from me one of my little babies. It died on the 21st ult., aged 2 years. It is the first of my family to enter Bright Glory, and I feel that one day I will meet her around the throne. Her name was Mary. I am glad to say that my work has prospered this year. I have taken 74 in the church, baptized 18 children, and feel that the Lord has blessed my labor."

TENNESSEE.

J. C. Houston, Jasper: "Sent here five months ago. I have had 15 conversions, 8 added to the church. I praise God for this number."

The New York election returns have been canvassed. Hoskins was declared elected Lieutenant Governor.

Foreign Missions.

MEXICO.—Superintendent Drees reports the arrival of Rev. Bro. Umplehy and wife, with Miss Warner, at Orizava on Thursday, Nov. 13, and as getting settled in their new abode.

Rev. Carroll S. Long, of the Holston Conference, has been appointed a missionary to Japan.

SEED UPON MANY WATERS.—In connection with our missions to the Norwegians in New York, we have a colporteur whose business it is, as far as possible, to visit every ship of the Scandinavian nationalities which enters the port of New York. He is to see that the men and officers are supplied with the scriptures, and, as far as he has opportunity, to converse and pray with those of the cabin and forecastle. Now see some of the figures of the field: The number of vessels arrived, from October 1, 1878, to October 1, 1879, was 1117. To these have been given or sold, or both, since May 15, 1879, to December 1, 1879, or six months and fifteen days, 5577 copies of Bibles and Testaments. This "seed" is now upon the "waters." Look again: there have come to Castle Garden 19408 Scandinavian emigrants from October 1, 1878, to October 1, 1879. Among these, also, he distributed the Scriptures, tracts and religious books—inviting them when they stay over Sabbath, to attend the worship at the Missions. The meeting of these strangers by a loving friend of their own country, we regard as a most blessed event in the life of these new comers to our land.

BULGARIA.—This country becomes increasingly attractive to Christendom. Sup't Challis, in his late letter to us, says: "The city of Rusgrud, not far from Rustchuck, has chosen as its representative to the National Assembly, a gentleman who was educated in America, and is now a teacher in the theological school at Samokoff. He is well known as a leading Protestant. Now you may ask why more of the people do not come to hear us preach? 'Because,' said a friend in Tirnova, 'those in office are afraid of diminishing their popularity, and those not in office are afraid of diminishing their prospects.' Neither class, in general, cares for the orthodox church except as a means of political advancement. So low is the general estimate of the moral worth of the church, that since the coming of the missionaries has shown them the light, the churches are very generally neglected and their priests not half supported. In the villages not at all I might say, since their entire income from their office is not generally over $50 per annum. Give us the Press and the School, and the Lord will do the work. I hope you all, at home, understand the situation: we must advance, or retreat from the field entirely.'

Bulldozers Trying to Stop the Exodus in Texas.

MR. EDITOR—You have seen it mentioned in the papers that two thousand freedmen were leaving Nacogdoches, San Augustine and Sabine counties. As it has been said, when the colored people leave their present homes there is a forcible reason for it. A Baptist preacher took the liberty to speak in favor of Kansas, and he was persuaded by his friends to go there sooner than he wanted to.

A few weeks ago, in Sabine county, on Sabbath when the preacher was in the stand, the people heard a noise and looking out at one side of the house they saw fifty or more men riding up with shot guns, and looking out at the other side they saw as many more. They rode up and surrounded the house, and some of them presented their guns over the congregation. Not finding the man they wanted, half their number staid and the others went to where the Baptists were holding a meeting and there found the man they were after, who, they said, had bought a horse and had not quite finished paying for it. They arrested him and made a number of leading colored men who had talked of going to Kansas go on his bond. Then, thinking they had done a good Sabbath-day's work, they went home. It is not likely the man will be brought to trial very soon, and the men on his bond need not undertake to go to Kansas until he has paid out to their satisfaction. *

Texarkana Benevolent Society

TEXARKANA, Texas, Nov. 18, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—We organized a benevolent society with 13 members. Now we have 20. We gave a supper on the 8th inst., and have $16 on hand. Misses Crecy Johnson and Mary J. Perry deserve credit for their services at the supper. We will improve our society. Our chaplain, Rev. Taylor Moore, will soon leave us. We shall regret his departure. Respectfully,

W. R. JENKINS, Pres't.

THE CANVASS

FOR

1880!

LET IT BEGIN NOW.

We call the attention of our agents to the following:

1. Now is the time to push the canvass for new subscribers for 1880. At this season of the year the people have money. Begin at once.

2. Do not loose one old subscriber. See every one on your list for this year, and urge them to renew for 1880.

3. Collect money now due and forward it at once. Forward all you can now, and be prepared to settle up everything at conference.

4. The SOUTHWESTERN costs only $2 a year, that is about four cents a week. We pay the postage.

5. Send for specimen copies whenever you need them, and they will be sent free.

6. We give no picture premium next year. But we do better. We place within the reach of all our subscribers a most valuable book worth $2, for 50 cents. Read the following carefully:

A Valuable Book

Letter from Holly Springs.

DEAR EDITOR—On the night of the 4th inst. Mr. Jos. J. Johnson, of Ripley, Tippah county, Mississippi, and Miss Fannie A. Lumpkins, of Holly Springs were joined together in holy matrimony. The large audience room of Asbury Chapel was filled to its utmost capacity. In token of the great respect in which the couple were held by the entire community; the church was beautifully decorated. Miss Fry presided at the organ, and Rev. J. M. Shumpert officiating. A magnificent reception was given them at the residence of the Hon. Logan Gorman. The couple will leave about the 15th inst. for Forest City, Ark., and will engage in teaching school. May peace and happiness attend them through life.

The fourth quarterly conference for Asbury Chapel was held on the 6th and 7th inst. Rev. J. G. Johnson presided. Reports from the pastor, leaders, stewards and trustees, show the church to be in a prosperous condition. The delegate elect to the lay electoral conference, to be held in Macon next January, was instructed to vote and instruct the delegate elected from their body to the general conference, to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, next May, to ask for the election of a bishop of African descent.

The many friends of Prof. Frank P. Hill, throughout the State, will rejoice to learn that he has been appointed deputy U. S. Internal Revenue collector for the sixth district in this State, embracing the counties of Alcorn, Tishamingo, Prentiss, Union, Pontotoc, Lee and Itawamba. Mr. Hill is a brother of the Hon. James Hill, ex-secretary of the State of Mississippi, and Internal Revenue collector for the State at large.

Mr. Frank P. Hill is a young man of fine ability. He was educated at Oberlin University, though Holly Springs is his native home. For several years he has been an acceptable school teacher in Marshall county, and for the last three years he has been principal of the public school taught in Asbury Chapel. He has labored earnestly and successfully, and is honored and respected by all citizens. He is a member of Asbury Chapel, and is our assistant Sunday-school superintendent. We predict for this young man, Mr. Hill, a brilliant future. Fraternally yours,

J. M. SHUMPERT.

Probably no one preparation has received so much praise from its patrons, nor is so much deserving of commendation as Hall's Hair Renewer! We but echo the voice of the millions who have used it when we pronounce it the best Hair Dressing in the world. It stands unrivalled. Those who are affected with diseases of the scalp accompanied with itching or irritation, find relief and renewal in this valuable remedy. When the hair is inclined to fall off, a moderate use of the Renewer will strengthen the roots of the hair, and preserve it, and if it exhibits a tendency to turn gray it will restore the natural color.—*Fulton (Mo.) Regarding the book. The first warning is against adding anything thereto. The penalty is a severe one. God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book. 2. Regarding Christ's coming. It is fitting that one of the very last thoughts of the Revelation should be concerning the coming of Christ. It leaves us with faces turned toward the dawn. We watch for the coming of a brighter day, and the gathering beams denote that soon the sun of righteousness will arise with healing in his wings. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Grace now will fit us to be with Christ then. Grace will give peace, comfort, and power to overcome. Those who have this grace will not fail to receive all of the promises that make this book shine with radiant splendor.

5,000 for 1880.

Shall we have 5,000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880? We ought to have them, and will, if the preachers in our territory do their duty in presenting the claims of the paper to their people.

All we ask is for every preacher to make a canvass among his congregation and his outside friends, telling them of the SOUTHWESTERN and its value as a church, family and general news paper. Brother, will you not do this?

The SOUTHWESTERN is a good religious paper. Look over any issue, and you find religious reading for almost every member of the family.

The SOUTHWESTERN is a Methodist paper. It is not only an official organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but its Publishers and Editor believe in the doctrines and polity of that church.

The SOUTHWESTERN gives large attention to the Sunday-school. Every issue contains a commentary on the International Sunday-School lesson for the following Sabbath. Every officer and teacher in the Sunday-school should study this.

The SOUTHWESTERN is fearless in its denunciation of wrong, no matter whether it be in churches or political parties. It has steadily demanded that the rights of all people, irrespective of race or color, shall be maintained. This it will continue to do. The gospel is not only a matter of theory, but must be carried into practice. The SOUTHWESTERN demands that the golden rule shall not only be preached from the pulpit and in political platforms, but that it shall be practiced in the pew, on the plantation and at the ballot-box.

The SOUTHWESTERN has discussed the Negro Exodus in all its bearings, and has given the facts of this great movement to the world, when other papers have refused to discuss it, and sought to keep the [illegible] from the people.

The SOUTHWESTERN during May 1880, will publish the proceedings of the General Conference of the M. E. Church, to meet that month [illegible] Cincinnati, O. All our people [illegible] want to read that.

The SOUTHWESTERN will help to [illegible] a good church wherever it is [illegible]. It will help the preachers [illegible] official members and all the [illegible] by teaching them of the [illegible] of the great Church to which [illegible] belong, and giving them news [illegible] the progress of Christ's king[illegible].

[illegible], shall we not have 5,000 [illegible] bers for 1880?

Washington Marshall died April 5, 1870, at the residence of his son, Jacob Marshall, in Millican, Brazos county, Texas. He died in full triumph of faith. He had been a consistent member of the Baptist Church for many years before he was called to cross the river of death. He left eight children to mourn his loss. He had been a slave for many years for Mr. Peter Dudley, in Spattsylvania county, Virginia, and was removed to Texas in 1860, where he lived the remainder of his life. He was about sixty years of age. *

DEAR EDITOR—It is our mournful duty to record the death of Rev. Benj. James, one of the local preachers of the M. E. Church at this place. After a long, continued illness, which he bore with meekness and patience, he died Nov. 14, 1879. In answer to a question by one of the brethren just before he died, as to whether he was prepared to go, he said: "It is not just now that I've got prepared. I have been prepared many years; my sky is clear—there is no cloud before me. I am going to heaven." Bro. James was a native of South Carolina. He came to Mississippi about 35 years ago, and was converted some 20 odd years ago, and soon after professed a call to preach the Gospel. He was connected with the M. E. Church South until 1875, at which time he and the whole church at this place became connected with the M. E. Church. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Haven in the Mississippi annual conference, on the 23d of January, 1876. He leaves a wife, a son, and a daughter to mourn his loss. In the death of Bro. James his family is bereft of an affectionate husband and devoted father. The church has lost an earnest and true Christian member, and this community a good citizen and kind neighbor; but we are consoled when we know that our loss of him here is his gain of everlasting life of happiness and peace. He has only fallen asleep in Jesus, and will be one among the number who will rise first to meet the Lord, and will be ever with Him.

EMPTY CHURCHES AND HOW TO FILL THEM. By Rev. J. Benson Hamilton. New York; Phillips & Hunt. Price 25 cents.

A readable book of 107 pages, printed for the author, and in its second thousand. Earnest advice.

MARGARETHE: A Tale of the Sixteenth Century. By Emma Leslie. New York; Phillips & Hunt. Price $1.50.

This is one of the church history stories, by the author of "Ayesha," "Leofwine, the Saxon," etc. It covers a period just preceding the Reformation.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES OF WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETIES. Boston: Mrs. L. H. Daggett. Price—paper, 50c.; muslin, 75c.

Sketches prepared by representatives of various societies, and presented by authority, with a view to publication. They form a cheering indication of the work of the Holy Spirit on the hearts of the women.

BOYS' POCKET LIBRARY. Phillips & Hunt, New York. [6 vols. in box, 24 mo., $2.]

Vol. III is devoted to "Men of Iron," "Three Great Potters," "The Prussian Vase." Vol. IV—"Popular Delusions," "The Mississippi Scheme," and other stories. Vol. V—"Strange Stories about Strange People." The series form a capital juvenile library.

RODERICK ASHCOURT. By Daniel Wise, D. D. Boston: Lee & Shepard: New Orleans: J. C. Eyrich.

This is a story, showing how a manly boy and a noble girl bravely battled with great troubles. It is from the pen of an eminent writer, and one who has had some experience in writing to please the young folks. It is given in a 12 mo. volume, large print, 289 pages, with an illustrated title, and belongs to the Winwood Cliff Series, being the third book issued.

A FOOL'S ERRAND. By One of the Fools. New York; Fords, Howard & Hulbert. Price $1.

This tale of life at the South since the war, caused the Raleigh Observer to say that it was powerfully written, and it feared it was destined to do as "much harm in the world as 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'" This is a high compliment, indeed. There is much of wit and wisdom in the book, to entertain the lovers of fiction. Historical facts are skillfully arrayed and perform good service.

ADAMS' SYNCHRONOLOGICAL CHART; or, Map of History. T. W. Woodbridge, Cincinnati, O.

The object of this chart is to picture history; to so arrange and [illegible] the subjects of history that [illegible] and nations may be [illegible] as the school atlas [illegible], to enable the reader [illegible] the contempo[illegible] of the whole world, [illegible] by [illegible] time, by simply tracing the dated lines across the face of the chart. It is only sold by subscription. The chart is 22 feet long, and near 30 inches wide. Space is made to measure time. The rise and fall, and the conquests of every historic nation, the succession of the rulers of each, the lives of noted men, the occurrence of marked events, explanatory illustrations, with colored portraits of renowned personages, and all that goes to make up what we call history, are so placed that the location of each on the chart shows its correct historic date, and the relative chronological position of one to another. It is a marvellous combination of ingenuity, study and practical execution, and must be seen to be appreciated. Hon. E. F. Noyes, U. S. Minister to Paris, writes: "I have examined with care, and have purchased a copy of 'Adams' Historical Chart.' I regard it as a most valuable assistant to students of history, and my own copy is in constant use by my whole family. This chart appeals directly to the eye, and embodies more information than can be gleaned from a small library of books." This criticism of Gov. Noyes' is exactly just, and in accord with our own estimate of the work. It is accompanied by a key, giving a full explanation. This chart is put up in three styles: On rollers for schools and families; portfolio, half morocco and cloth; elegantly framed for wall or easel.

—The International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations have published "300 Topics for the Prayer Meetings of 1880."

—The Guide to Holiness for December (W. C. Palmer, 43 Bible House, New York) has "Bible Pictures of the Christ-Life," by Rev. G. Hughes.

—The Scholar's Quarterly, first quarter 1880 (John D. Wattles, 725 Chestnut street, Philadelphia), a help in the study of the International lessons, has 13 pieces of music for Sunday-school service.

—The Louisiana Journal of Education for December opens with an article on "The Public Schools of New Orleans," pointing out the features of the new constitution, beneficial and otherwise, to their prosperity. There is a gratifying number of topics, making the number equal if not superior to its predecessors.

—The following is a part of the contents of the Preacher and Homiletic Monthly for December: "God's Providence," by A. B. Jack, D. D.; "Christ's Texts as a Preacher," by Joseph Parker, D. D.; "Holy Love Superior to Gifts," by Rev. A. H. Coolidge; "Christ, the Smitten One," by Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon; "Brotherly Talks with Young Ministers—Paper No. III," by Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.; "A Busy Clergyman—An Interview;" Clergymen's Sore Throat—A Remedy;" "Cheap Stationery," etc., etc. The Monthly has attained to great popularity. I. K. Funk & Co., New York. Price $2.50 per year, 25 cents per single number.

—The numbers of The Living Age for Nov. 29th and Dec. 6th contain Pascal and his Editors, Quarterly; Mozart, Edinburg; History and Politics, by Prof. Seeley; and A Mathematician's View of the Theory of Evolution, Maximillian; The Maronites of Syria, Blackwood; Matthew Arnold's Selections from Wordsworth, Fortnightly; Hunting for Sharks at Lyme Regis, Temple Bar: A Village Idyll, Fraser; The Criminal Code of the Jews, Pall Mall; The Bis.Cobra, the Gob-Samp and the Scorpion; and The Silk Goods of America, Nature; with instalments of Mrs. Oliphant's new story, "He Who Will Not when he May." To all new subscribers for 1880, the six numbers of 1879, which contain part of Mrs. Oliphant's new story, and also the opening chapters of "Adam and Eve," will be sent gratis. For fifty-two numbers, sixty-four large pages each, the subscription price ($8) is low. Littel & Co., publishers, Boston.

Now is the time to subscribe for Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine, as the January number, just issued, commences the seventh volume. It is a brilliant holiday number. Among the more solid articles are, "The Persecution of the Huguenots," by Alfred H. Guernsey; "Antioch in Syria," by Godfrey A. Hudson; "Caves and Cave-dwellers," by Arthur Grahame, etc. Those who enjoy lighter reading will be delighted with "Chrysalis and Butterfly," "The Governor's Dinner" by Edward Everett Hale; "Be be, the Nailmaker's Daughter," "Miss Olive's Boys," by Mrs. Robert O'Riley; "Christmas Day," and "Santa Claus." Young people have not been overlooked. Two new features, we see, have been introduced, "Obituary Notices," and Recreations for Sunday Afternoon." The 128 quarto pages abound with articles of merit, and the illustrations number about 100. The price of a single copy is 25 cents; the annual subscription $3. Address Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

One of the best helps in arranging for an exhibition or Sabbath-school entertainment will be found in the series of "One Hundred Choice Selections." The price is only 30 cents per copy, and a reduction for the whole series. Address P. Garrett & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

FOR BRONCHIAL, ASTHMATIC, and Catarrhal Complaints, and Coughs and Colds, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" manifest remarkable curative properties. Imitations are offered for sale, many of which are injurious. The genuine "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are sold only in boxes.

Church Bells.

We are in receipt of the Bell Catalogue of the Blymer Manufacturing Company, of Cincinnati, Ohio. In addition to description, prices, etc., it contains some 1,500 testimonials throughout the United States and Canada. The bells are warranted two years. The prices are comparatively low, and within the reach of even feeble communities. Churches needing bells—and none should be without—would do well to write for the Catalogue.

A great medicine in small vials—Dr. Pierce's Pellets (little pills). No cheap, paste-board or wooden boxes, that allow a waste of strength. Sick headache, dizziness, rush of blood to the head, bad taste in the mouth, bilious attacks, jaundice, internal fever, boils and nettle rash. Sold by druggists.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desires it, this receipt, in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Good for Babies.

We are pleased to say that our baby was permanently cured of serious protracted irregularity of the bowels by the use of Hop Bitters by its mother, which at the same time restored her to perfect health and strength.—The Parents, University Ave., Rochester, N. Y. See another column.

In Topeka, the capital of Kansas, the colored people constitute about one third of the population. They have three large churches and two smaller ones, and a very creditable newspaper edited by a colored clergyman.

We have examined some fourteen pages of signatures,—some of the best in this city, State, and the South,—vouching for the effectiveness of the New Louisiana Remedy, for coughs, colds, etc. We have heard from persons who have used it words of praise. It is a valuable medicine, prepared at home, and not a quack nostrum imported from abroad. Read the advertisement in another column.

One pair of boots or shoes saved every year by using Lyon's Patent Metallic Heel Stiffeners.

THE WONDERFUL

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY NUMBER.

The largest and most beautiful issue of any magazine for girls and boys ever published, containing more than one hundred pages and ninety-five pictures.

This December number, with its bright, new Christmas cover, contains by J. T. Trowbridge, Washington Gladden, J. W. De Forest, Maurice Thompson, Sarah Winter Kellogg, and others; also the first chapter of a

SERIAL STORY BY LOUISA M. ALCOTT,

"Jack and Jill," written in the author's best vein; the second installment of a

A CAPITAL SERIAL FOR THE BOYS,

by William O. Stoddard, to run some months. (A long story, also for boys, by Noah Brooks, author of "The Boy Emigrants," will begin soon.)

JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER.

contributes a long poem, while Lucy Larcom and Mary Mapes Dodge are also represented in verse. There is by Edward Eggleston, who has written several taking home and school plays for young people; an illustrated art paper on Thorvaldsen, the great Danish sculptor, with his portrait and engravings of his principal works, and an account, with twelve pictures, of the life and doings of New York Telegraph Boys.

Gustave Dore, Knaus, Mary Hallock Foote, Kelly, Dielman, Bunsell, Sheppard, Eytinge, Jessie Curtie and Addie Ledyard are among the artists whose labor has helped to make beautiful this number of

as St. Nicholas may now properly be called. Its circulation here has steadily increased until the present edition is 75,000. It is growing in popularity in England, where it is published by Sampson Low, Marston & Co., of London. An edition in the French language is to be issued in Paris by M. Charles Delagrave; and "Baby Days," made up from St. Nicholas, is to be translated into Arabic for the delight of the little Moslams. Encouraged by this continued success, heavier paper and wider margins are now used, and has been made in the size of the magazine, by which the present volume will contain about 200 additional pages. This increase will afford opportunity during the year of even a greater variety than heretofore. Besides the serial stories above mentioned, each number will contain short stories, descriptive articles, tales of travel and adventure, poems, jingles, large type for the very little folks, and riddle-box for the family circle.

The New Hymnal

The Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences at their late sessions, made it the duty of every preacher having charge of a station or circuit to see that their pulpits were supplied with a New Hymnal, and all were to use their influence in having the people supply themselves with Hymnals and to use them in the public congregation and in social meetings.

We are now prepared to supply the following styles of the Hymnal at the prices named. Our terms are cash before sending, or we will send by express C. O. D. Specimen copies sent by mail on receipt of price

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

John F. Friend, now in Morgan City, La., desires information of his father, Rev. Solomon Friend, a Methodist; last heard from in Brazos county, Texas, twelve years ago.

DEAR EDITOR—I beg leave to make one more inquiry through your valuable paper as to the whereabouts of my brother, Calvin Alston. He left us in the year 1865 in company with a regiment of Federal soldiers. When last heard from he was at Shreveport, Texas. Please address me at Kosciusko, Miss. D. D. ALSTON.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to learn of one who is a brother of our church. He left John Lear's place July 24, 1877. His name is Eugene Boyds, but we all called him Jack Boyds. He has a brother named Charley Mills and another named Nathan Boyds. His mother's name is Louisa Boyds, father's Jack Boyds. His father and mother want to see him very much. If found, address me at Yazoo City, Miss. JAMES WILSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I want to make some inquiry about my brothers and sisters who were sold in South Carolina in 1860. We all belonged to Daniel McCachen, who lived in Simmonsville, South Carolina. Daniel McCachen sold Harkles and his brother William, Bermiller and Sidney to John McCloud, in South Carolina. William was about 19 years old, Harkles 14, Bermiller 10 and Sidney 10, when they were sold. We all went by the name of McCachen before the war. I have a brother named Costolow, one named Adam, one named Edward, one named Henry and one named Joe. The baby was named Perry, after our father, and mother named it Miley. If found please address me at Yazoo county, Miss. JAMES WILSON.

MR. EDITOR—Allow me to inquire through your valuable paper for my two cousins, Green and John Dubose, brothers. During the outbreak of the war Green was taken as a servant for one J. J. Dubose in the Confederate army. His parent received a letter from him once, I heard, in 1868—then he was said to be in Leavenworth, Kansas. John was captured by the Southern soldiers at the battle of Pine Bluff, in 1863, and has never been heard from since. Any information will be gladly received. Their father and mother belonged to Dr. A. D. Dubose. All are now in Pine Bluff, Ark.—Humphrey and Alcy Dubose, one son and one daughter—Miller and Carolina. They now go by the name of Cox. Address Miller F. Cox, Pine Bluff, Ark., or myself at St. Andrew's Chapel, Memphis, Tenn. J. N. MOON.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to make some inquiry through the SOUTHWESTERN about two brothers of mine whom we have not seen nor heard from for several years. Their names are Thompson and John Haney. Father's name is John and is nick-named Jake Haney. He belonged to Jemmie Haney. Mary Haney was mother's name. She belonged to a widow woman, Mary Ann Haney, who lived in Yell Co., Arkansas. There were seven children of us, Nathan, Jordan, Benton, Thompson, John, Elveria and Greenville. Any information in regard to their whereabouts will be thankfully received. Please address me at Little Rock, Ark. JORDAN H. HANEY.

Dr. Harter's IRON TONIC

Is a Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates. Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c., &c.

Manufactured by the Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the TONIC. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the TONIC has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. Most gratefully yours,

A girl of 14, "with a cough From Infancy," radically cured.

(From Superintendent of Public Schools for Henrico county.)

RICHMOND, Va., April 2, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—My niece, fourteen years of age, had been subject more or less to a troublesome cough from her infancy. After some persuasion I induced her parents to try your "New LOUISIANA REMEDY," and now, after using three or four bottles, I consider her entirely cured; appetite, color and vigor restored, and she goes about cheerful and happy, looking the very picture of health. I regard it as the best remedy I have ever known used for bronchial affections of the throat. DANIEL E. GARDNER.

A Gentleman, who was not expected to live but a few weeks, cured of desperate Bronchitis and Diseased Lungs.

DE VILLIER'S INSTITUTE, 212 E. 12th street, Richmond, Va., March 2, 1879.

Thos. J. Starke, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—I arrived in this city with my family in December, 1877. I was in a complete state of exhaustion and debility, in consequence of long suffering from an affection of Bronchia, or of the lungs, or rather say both. I was not expected to live but very few weeks or months at the most. In March, 1878, to please my wife, I consented to try the "NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY." I had no faith whatever in it, or any other medicine. I had absorbed dozens of Cod Liver Oil without effect. I soon became convinced of the merits of the Remedy; it gave me, after a few doses, a sound rest at night, it regulated the bowels, it subdued the severe fits of coughing occasionally followed by spitting of blood, and gave me great relief. It is a soothing cordial, an excellent purifier, and an unsurpassing regulator. I am now living and doing well. I make daily 6 or 7 hours class (hard teaching). I have taken in all 6 or 8 bottles. Perhaps I ought to have taken a few bottles more. I wish it was in my power to induce every poor sufferer to try one bottle. It will speak for itself at once. You can use my name freely, and refer any one to me personally, if you think I can have any influence in the matter. Very truly yours, CHARLES DE VILLIERS.

HOLMAN'S AGUE AND LIVER PAD

is marvelous in its prompt and radical cure for every species of Liver and Stomach difficulties. It contains only harmless vegetable compounds, and is worn EXACTLY WHERE NEEDED, over the vitals, the Liver and Stomach. It removes torpidity of the liver, and arouses the stomach from its dormant state, arresting fermentation, torpor and pain, by giving it the natural quantity of bile and gastric juice. It also vitalizes the entire system with Nature's true tonic. It arrests all deteriorated and poisonous fluids in the stomach, and thus prevents their entering the system by way of circulation. It absorbs from the body every particle of BLOOD POISON, whether bilious, malarial or medicinal, and leaves the wearer in perfect health. Sent by mail, free of charge, on receipt of $2.00: special Pad, $3.00. Address,

Golden Medical Discovery

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption, Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

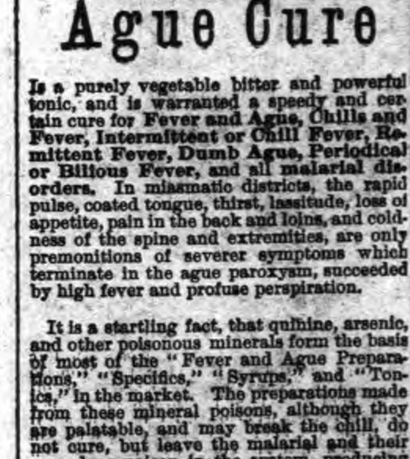
If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Weak Lungs, and early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. Sold by druggists.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. The "Little Giant" Cathartic.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills. These Pellets (Little Pills) are scarcely larger than mustard seeds.

Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from Stomach, Bad Taste in Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. Sold by druggists. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Prop'rs, Buffalo, N. Y.



Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic, and other poisonous minerals form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinism, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

and in so loud a tone that all you say shall be heard without effort. Guard, on the one hand, against fatiguing the attention of those who listen to you by the excessive rapidity of your utterance, and on the other against furnishing them with an apology for going to sleep, by your extreme deliberation. In a word, let it be your aim to read in such a manner as most deeply to impress the sentiment of your author, and of course most effectually to secure the attention of your hearers. Next to reading comes the equally simple art of spelling. It is true of this as of every other elementary branch, and if I mistake not, in a higher degree than any other, that if it be not learned at a very early period, it will probably never be learned at all; and hence it is not common to find men whose early education was neglected, but who, by their own subsequent exertion, have risen to the most elevated stations, leaving evidence through life upon everything they write, that they do not understand the art of making words out of letters. This, indeed, may be excused when there has been the want of early advantages; but nothing else can render it tolerable. I beg you will make it a point, therefore, as early as possible, to possess yourself of a correct system of orthography. This is a thing to be learned partly by rule, but in a much greater degree by practice; and without much of the latter I assure you that you can never arrive at much perfection in this simple but necessary department of knowledge. Let me advise you in writing never to run the hazard of committing an orthographical error in any case, in respect to which you are in doubt. Always settle the point on the spot where it is practicable, by a reference to some standard authority. In this way you will acquire a habit of correctness, and a particularity of information which will soon make you independent of dictionaries; whereas by adopting the opposite course, you will not only run the hazard of committing an error in a case in which an error, to say the least, is hardly decent, but you will acquire a habit of inattention to your orthography which may ultimately make it a task for your literary friend to read your composition.

As for penmanship I cannot say that I regard it so important that you should attain to high excellence in it as in either of the preceding branches; and yet I am desirous that your attainments in this department should, at least, be respectable. I should be glad to see you write an easy and graceful hand, and above all, I would have it possess the attribute of being legible. A more odd conceit never entered a human head than seems to have got possession of some at the present day—that a hand which puts ones inventions to the torture is a sure mark of genius. If that be the test, I will only say that I choose to have you run the hazard of being considered a dunce, rather than torture me and your other friends with illegible communications. How much truth there is in the doctrine held by some,—the handwriting indicates the intellectual or moral character, I will not undertake to decide, but I earnestly hope that you will take up no doctrine nor practice on this subject that will prevent you from being a neat, plain, and if you please, elegant writer. I hardly need say that you can lay no claim to the character of an accomplished scholar until you can speak and write with correctness your own language; and in order to do this you must gain a thorough knowledge of English Grammar and Rhetoric. These branches should be so familiar to you, that you will, as a matter of course, and without even being conscious of it at the time, [illegible] every composition you read [illegible] according to grammatical [illegible] rules; that you will [illegible] detect an error in syntax [illegible] taste, as a delicate ear would notice a confusion in musical sounds. I know, indeed, [illegible] those who have [illegible] with great power, and even [illegible] who have known nothing of Rhetoric or Grammar, except as they were taught by nature. Those [illegible] would pour out thoughts [illegible] in words that burn, [illegible] the same apparent ease [illegible] [illegible] and at any rate they are exceptions from a general rule, and therefore furnish no ground for any general conclusion. You will not understand me as prescribing any exact order for your studies when I mention next arithmetic. I need hardly say that this is important; not so much in the common acceptation of the word, as an accomplishment, as it is for the every day practical use.

The Family of Man.

BY LUTHER LEE, D. D.

The doctrine of the Bible is that all men constitute one brotherhood. Some contend that more than one race was created, and that consequently there are different families which sustain no blood relation to each other. This view is mainly based upon the science of comparative anatomy. This science is too uncertain to stand at all against the overwhelming evidence drawn from the Bible. Waving every other question and side issue, let us examine the subject in the light of the holy Scriptures. If they positively teach the unity of the human family, none but infidels will pretend to confront them with the conclusions drawn from the crooks found in certain bones. The following may be accepted as the substance of the arguments drawn from the Bible in support of the doctrine of the unity of the human race:

1. The fact that the Bible, in its wide range of subjects, never once alludes to more than one creation, or to more than one race of human beings, is very conclusive that the writers had no knowledge of the existence of more than one race. If Moses had been in possession of the slightest knowledge of a race created prior to Adam, or contemporary with Adam, or subsequent to Adam, it is not possible that he should not have noted the fact in the book of Genesis.

2. The Scriptures affirm the descent of the whole human family from a common father and mother —Adam and Eve. "And Adam called his wife's name Eve, because she was the mother of all living."—Gen. iii, 20. If there was a prior race of men, this text asserts what was not true. "God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on the face of the earth."—Acts xvii : 26. It cannot be doubted that Paul meant to assert the unity of the human family: "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned. Death reigned from Adam to Moses over those who had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression."—Rom. v : 12-14. This text makes all sinners the descendants of the first sinner, Adam, and makes the human family one brotherhood of sinners.

3. If there had been prior races, the flood would have wiped them out, so that all humanity extant must have descended from Noah, and comparative anatomists have only the bones of one race to speculate upon, after all. Of course they deny the universality of the flood, and consequently insist that parts of the earth may have remained inhabited by different races, but this is to deny the truth of the Bible and raise another issue. The Scriptures teach that the flood was universal.

1. The reason for the flood was universal. "All flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth."

2. God declared his purpose to destroy all men. "God said unto Noah, 'The end of all flesh is come before me.' Behold I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon all flesh." "And every living substance that I have made will I destroy from off the face of the earth."

3. It is declared that all were destroyed except what were in the ark. "The waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth, and all the high hills that were under the whole heavens were covered. And the mountains were covered, and all flesh died that moved upon the earth, both of fowl and of cattle, and of beasts, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man; they were destroyed from the earth, and Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark."—Gen. vii : 12-23.

4. The Gospel proceeds upon the assumption that there is but one race of man, who have descended from one common father.

The [illegible] are the fallen [illegible] descendants of Adam—the first Adam; the Redeemer is, after the flesh, of the same race, the second Adam. As all fell in Adam, so all are redeemed by Christ. The care with which the sacred writers have maintained the relation between Christ and Adam, and traced back his genealogy to Adam, shows that they regarded the blood relation of Christ to all the redeemed family fundamental to his office and work of Redeemer. If, then, there are other races of men, not of Adam's lineage, Christ is not and cannot be their brother and Redeemer, and the first work of our missionary societies should be to appoint a committee of comparative anatomists to determine which of the nations be of Adam's race, that they may know to whom the Gospel belongs.

The Texas Conference.

The Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church met in the Tabernacle Church, Galveston, Dec. 10, and finished its business Saturday night, but the appointments were not read until after the Sunday night services. Bishop Merrill presided and W. Wesley was secretary. The pastor of the Tabernacle, Rev. V. M. Cole, and of East Church, Rev. P. Douglas, together with Presiding Elder Cushman, did the work of entertaining the Conference well.

The following delegates to the General Conference were elected: Ministerial—Rev. V. M. Cole, Rev. B. M. Pullam, with reserves, Rev. W. L. Molloy and Rev. W. Rippetoe. Laymen—Gabriel Todd, Jr., and J. E. Freeman, with reserves, J. R. Price and Larkin Clough.

The following were received on trial: Wm. Allen, Joseph Smith, Robert Williams, James R. Price, Anderson Williams, G. C. Cook, Green Johns, C. C. Minegan, A. C. Culbreth, J. L. Smith, B. M. Taylor, James Dalton, A. Alexander, Abner Thomas, D. Gage.

T. W. Lincoln was transferred from the North Indiana Conference, and B. F. Williams and A. Campbell were transferred from the West Texas Conference. G. Todd was re-admitted on his certificate of location.

The following were admitted into full connection: J. W. H. Moore, Daniel Atkins, Taylor Moore, J. Jackson, Henry Johns, Wade Hamilton.

On the Sabbath a class of seven Elders and a class of seven Deacons were ordained.

The supernumerary preachers are Charles Gordon, Stephen Custis, Larkin Eckford, W. R. Fayle, S. M. Kingston, S. Lawrence, G. Todd, H. Patterson, W. Van Hook, J. Sessum, Willis Coleman, Elijah Wells.

The superanuated preachers are Wm. Burley, Elijah Blair, Caleb Wells, B. O. Watrous, B. F. Williams.

The characters of all the preachers were examined. None were located. None had withdrawn.

The next Conference will be held at Houston.

The West Texas Conference.

This Conference met at Victoria Dec. 3, and adjourned Dec. 9. Bishop Merrill presided. The session opened with a full attendance, notwithstanding the fact that nearly all the ministers came in private hacks or on horseback. Victoria is on the railroad running from Indianola on the gulf, to Cuero, seventy miles northwest, and thirty miles from the latter place. To reach Cuero a stage ride of fifty miles must be taken from Harword on the Sunset Route, running from Houston to San Antonio. People came from towns and villages fifty miles distant, to attend conference.

Victoria is one of the oldest towns in Texas, and is in the midst of a rich farming and grazing district. The Victoria Advocate is the paper, and is a sprightly sheet. The Presbyterians have the principal church among the white people, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Johnson, has our thanks for kindly favors, as has also Dr. Moore, a prominent physician of the place, and member of the M. E. Church South.

Morton Lott, B. F. Williams and Merritt Anderson were readmitted on their certificates of location.

None were received on trial.

George Sawyer, C C. Robinson, Porter Carmichael and Emanuel Henderson were continued on trial.

Granville Norman, T. Watkins, W. J. Mitchell, J. Caesar, J. A. Hall, J. Jarmon, D. Humphries, C. Hart, S. Gibbs, J. Harrold, P. Wilson, V. B. Banks, W. H. Davis and C. Chase were admitted into full connection.

On the Sabbath six were ordained deacons, and ten were ordained elders.

The following are the superanuated preachers: A. J. Burris, H. Melton, N. Caswell, P. Scruggs, C. King, J. Johnson and Archy Johnson

The conference roll numbers seventy-five, and the character of each preacher was examined.

The next session of the conference will be held in Austin. The delegates to General Conference were instructed to secure, if possible, the organization of the North Texas Conference, to include the northern part of the State, and to be composed of parts of the Texas and West Texas Conferences.

The delegates to the General Conference were elected as follows: Ministerial—Samuel Gates and C. L. Madison. Reserves, G. W. Richardson and Mack Henson. Laymen—R. Deux, of Austin, and B. Lott, of Goliad. Reserves, Jackson John and John Brothers.

The SOUTHWESTERN was most heartily endorsed, and the first Sabbath in January was set apart as SOUTHWESTERN DAY, when it was made the duty of every one having an appointment to make a public canvass for subscribers for 1880.

We will speak of the general matters of the conference at another time.

The Work at Columbus, Miss.

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 14, 1879.

DEAR EDITOR—I am laid aside from my work for a few weeks, owing to inflammation of one of my eyes. It is a trial; I only pray that it may be the means of my growing in grace, and being better fitted to take it up again. Cheering news comes from Columbus through a Christian worker. She writes that a colored Sunday-school has been organized in the Presbyterian Church, which meets Sunday afternoon at 3½ o'clock, after the other schools are over—about 60, including teachers. The pastor of that church, Rev. Dr. McClintock, organized it, and is greatly interested. Members of his church, male and female, are the teachers, assisted by earnest workers from the Methodist Church. My dear Christian friend writes that all stiff formality is thrown away among the teachers, and they grasp each others hands and rejoice together in what God has wrought. Bro. H. remarked to her that this was in answer to prayer.

My friend, Rev. Mr. Penny, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, writes that his church is prosperous; that he has received in full membership this year 75 persons—on probation 100—and that much good solid work has been done in the Sunday-school. He states that when he went to Columbus that only two families of his church took the ADVOCATE—now they get from the office about 40 papers. I think it would be a public calamity to remove him. His influence is felt all over the city—such is his love of order and system.

I heard Dr. McClintock say in one of his church meetings that he was a pious man, worthy of his position as a minister of the Gospel.

Yours respectfully,

S. B. MERRILL.

Our Work in Mexico.

Our work was begun in Mexico in 1873. Bishop Haven reached Mexico with the beginning of that year, and Dr. William Butler, the founder of the India Mission, was the first missionary and superintendent sent to Mexico by our church. Our mission stations ha[illegible] been wisely selected. Start[illegible]

[illegible] country. Thence our field extends northward along the great highway between the capital and Texas. Three hundred miles from the city of Mexico on this northern route we are at Guanajuata, Leon and other important centers. Another great section extends from the capital through the Ameca Meca Valley to Miraflores. From Vera Cruz to Leon is five hundred miles. We occupy eighteen different positions, yet our proportion of missionaries is only one to a million and a quarter of people.

City of Mexico. In the capital of the country we have an English congregation and two Spanish congregations and the Mission Press and Book Room. Miraflores is the head of a circuit having seven appointments. Two-thirds of the congregation were Roman Catholics when the church here was dedicated. Ameca Meca on this circuit is a city of 10,000 inhabitants. There are a number of small Indian villages in this region.

Puebla has joined with it Los Reges and Apizaco. The State of Puebla stands third in population in the Republic. It has a large number of prosperous towns, is an agricultural and manufacturing district, having numerous cotton and flour mills, glass factories, etc. We have here a theological training school to prepare native preachers for their work, also the boy's orphanage and day-school.

Orizaba circuit is an old city having a population of 14,000. The shops of the railroad company are located here. Cordova is included in this circuit. It is eighteen miles nearer Vera Cruz, and our nearest point to the Gulf of Mexico.

Pachuca circuit. The population of Pachuca is about 9,000. It is thirty-two miles from the railroad in the center of the southern silver region. Rea del Monte, seven miles distant, with 4,000 inhabitants, is on this circuit, and Chico six miles further.

Querataro circuit embraces the State of this name, which is agricultural and mining. Maxamilian was shot in this city. It contains 32,000 population, and has elegant edifices. It is one hundred and ten miles northwest of the city of Mexico. We have only begun at this place. A missionary should be settled here.

Guanajuata circuit comprises Guanajuata and Leon. Guanajuata has a population of 65,000. It is our extreme northern station. It lies in a fertile valley, and is surrounded by numerous cities. We were seriously threatened by mobs here at the beginning of our work. Now we are protected and the public sentiment is largely in our favor. Leon, on this circuit, has a population of about 6,000, and is fifty miles northwest of Guanajuata.

We have now in Mexico over 500 members on probation, and more than a thousand attendants on public worship. During 1878 our mission press issued over a million and a quarter of pages of tracts, books and periodicals. We have fifteen native Mexican preachers and twenty preaching [illegible]—Northern.

The Advent of Christ.

From the earliest period of the world's history, the advent of Christ had been the absorbing theme of prophecy. The pages of Holy Writ teem with prophecies and promises of his coming. Close upon the genesis of the world and of sin, comes the promise of the genesis of the world's Redeemer: The seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head. This promise was renewed in the covenant which God made with Abraham at Mount Moriah, saying: "In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed;" and again by Jacob when bestowing his last blessing on his sons. To Judah he said: "The scepter shall not depart from Judah, nor a law giver from Israel, until Shiloh come; and unto Him shall the gathering of the people be." In Numbers we find this prophecy: "There shall come a star out of Jacob, and a scepter shall rise out of Israel;" and Job, in the midst of his afflictions could say: "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand in the latter day upon the earth." The Psalms of David are full of the thought of the coming of the deliverer. Still more definite and clear are the prophecies of Isaiah. As we read his pages, vividly does the vision of the "man of sorrows," who "was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities, that by [illegible] Christ should be born: "And thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall He come forth that is to be a Ruler in Israel."

Thus we see that the Advent of Christ was not an unlooked-for event. "From that hour when the first promise of a Savior broke the fearful gloom that had spread its dark curtains over Paradise, down to the auspicious moment when the celestial choirs poured upon the ears of the wondering shepherds their new and ravishing song of deliverance, the Jews had been expecting and the world had been preparing for the coming of Christ.' At length, in the fulness of time, He who was "the Divine of all nations" came; the Star of the promised prince ushered in His glorious reign, and the angel proclaimed the "good tidings of great joy;" "unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

Good tidings, indeed, were those which the angel brought;—tidings of salvation to a lost world. Christ, the Savior of men, had come. He who was "in the form of God, and thought it not robbery to be equal with God, took upon him the form of a servant and was made in the likeness of sinful flesh." "He who was rich for our sakes became poor, that we through his poverty might be made rich."

"Thus did the Holy and the Just,
The Sovereign of the skies,
Stoop down to wretchedness and dust
That guilty man might rise."

No human tongue or pen can fitly portray the magnitude and significance of the event which we are permitted to commemorate at this Christmas time. It was the greatest of all the events in the world's history. What gratitude and love should swell the Christian's heart, as he reads the sublime words of the Record: "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." It is the theme of the blood-washed in heaven, and deserves to be celebrated with eternal songs of praise by adoring angels and redeemed men. Well might the "multitude of the heavenly host" unite in that celestial song: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." It is our privilege to join in that song to-day.

"Angels assist our mighty joys,
Strike all your harps of gold!
But when you raise your highest notes,
His love can ne'er be told."

The Son of God had a poor reception on his natal day, from the [illegible] of men. He was laid in a manger, because there was no room for Him in the inn. What welcome are we to give Him on this anniversary of His birth? Have we room for Him in our hearts? That is [illegible] "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." He [illegible]

The New Orleans Democrat and the Exodus.

On returning from a month's trip in Texas, our attention has been called to an editorial in the New Orleans Democrat of Dec. 3, in which the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN is referred to as "A reverend slanderer;" as "not merely a Christian," but "something more —a Radical; not a mere ordinary, tame and inoffensive Radical, but the bluest of the blue, and of the regular hard shell, died-in-the-wool kind," etc., etc. Among gentlemen where there is difference of opinion on any great subject, that fact does not prevent but rather insures mutual respect. If the Democrat entertains views differing from us personally, or with us editorially, it has the privilege of dissenting, and presenting counter views, but journalistic blagardism can only injure those who descend to it. The SOUTHWESTERN has more readers than the Democrat, and has a standing with the religious and secular press of the nation which that journal might well covet, and can never have until freed from the shackles of political rings and bourbon bigotry and prejudice.

The occasion of the Democrat's ire is an article published by us in a leading American Quarterly Review, last October, on "The Negro Exodus." The editor of the Democrat seems never to [illegible] seen any extended part of the [illegible]cle himself. Either his exchange [illegible] is small, or when writing upon [illegible] topic in which his prejudices [illegible] likely to be touched he does not care for light. That article has been quoted from and commented upon by over thirty prominent secular and religious papers of the country. Not all have agreed with the views presented, but it is left to the New Orleans Democrat to do the dirty work of questioning the motives of the author, and without discussing the merits of the article, descend to personal abuse and misrepresentation.

Among the prominent papers which have referred to our discussion of the Exodus is Harper's Weekly. The editor, George William Curtis, stands among the foremost in modern journalism, and that he should commend our paper on the Exodus as timely and able, seems especially to have aroused the Democrat's wrath. The Democrat, quoting from Harper's Weekly, referring to us, says:

The following excerpt from the reverend politician's article will serve to show its untruthfulness and injustice:

> The causes of the negro Exodus may be grouped under a single head, namely, the conditions of financial, political and social distress in which the negroes find themselves after fifteen years of freedom; and the conviction that their former owners, who, with their allies, now control every Southern State, have in the past opposed their advancement, and do not now give sufficient evidence of good desire toward them to insure their present and future welfare."

We occupied twenty-five pages in the Quarterly Review last October in setting forth reasons which led us to believe these statements were true. We quoted from official records, and gathered our facts from every possible source. The Galveston News of Dec. 14, referring to the Exodus, says: "It is clear that there must be something profoundly uncongenial in their present industrial and social relations, or they would not be so eager to go." Even the Democrat itself, in a subsequent editorial, says: "Evidently there are great changes in process (among the colored people) and, in speculating at to what they be, the idea is naturally suggested that the Kansas exodus movement is the cause. * * It is reasonable to infer that the colored people are animated by some powerful motive, of the nature of which we are ignorant." We are very sure that had the Democrat read our article before writing its second editorial, it would not have been compelled to confess its ignorance. And we are also sure that had the editor of the Democrat been animated by a real desire to inform its readers of the nature of the present movement among the colored people, when writing or approving the editorial of Dec. 3, he would have addressed himself to the merits of the subject, and not disgraced his columns with the personal abuse of a brother editor.

In its editorial of Dec. 3 the editor of the Democrat refers us to the factory operatives and laborers of the North. It asks:

> Are the factory operatives and the lower orders of laborers in the North any richer to-day than they were fifteen years ago? Are they [illegible] bad treatment of another class in the South?

The Democrat also says referring to us:

> He knows, too, that since the accession to power of the Democracy the colored race has been treated with kindness in Louisiana and throughout the South, and in this State their every right has been protected, and the laws administered with rigid impartiality.

This is the old misrepresentation revamped for present use. During slavery we were told the colored people had their "every right," and were where God intended they should be. After the war their "every right" did not include, according to bourbon parlance, the ballot or schools, much less the privilege of holding office; and, now with the same class, their "every right" includes just enough to maintain the forms of law, as enforced by the Constitutional Amendments, and yet in no way to interfere with the complete supremacy over them by their political enemies. Every form of violence, from social ostracism to murder, has been justified in several parishes of Louisiana, and in portions of other Southern States, to accomplish the complete political subjugation of the colored people. Where they and their friends are in a hopeless minority, or in an occasional spot where their organization is strong enough to compel respect, they vote as they choose, but nowhere else. The nearly 1,000,000 colored voters in the Southern States have been completely deprived of all political prestige or power by the Democracy. In New Orleans there are scores of colored men who dare not go to their homes in the country, unless to suffer persecution, and perhaps death, at the hands of their political enemies, who fear their influence.

As to the Exodus movement, its magnitude and profound significance is coming to be realized by all thoughtful people. Only those who are blinded by prejudice, or are driven on by a mad infatuation, fail to see the danger it threatens to the whole South. We have advised no colored person to leave the South, but have been determined that both white and colored people should know the truth. Hence our article last October, and hence the publication in the SOUTHWESTERN of facts and opinions bearing on the movement.

We believe there is enough sense and patriotism and righteousness in Louisiana to redeem it from the effects of slavery and the war, provided that sense, and patriotism and righteousness can be brought to the front, and placed in power. But while the blind and stupid Bourbonism which characterizes the conduct of the New Orleans Democrat prevails, we are without hope.

Christian Railroad Men at Work.

The International (Y. M. C. A.) Committee issued the report of the Conference of Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations held at Altoona, Pa.; 116 Christian railroad men from all grades in the service were present.

Papers approving and advocating the work were read from prominent railroad managers. The aim of the committee has been to organize Christian railroad men at the leading centers, and to open reading rooms, placing them, and the social and religious work conducted in them, under the charge of competent railroad secretaries.

There were present at Altoona secretaries and delegates from New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis, Louisville, Detroit and other railroad centers.

Full reports were made of the methods and usefulness of the work of seventy of these organizations. So strongly does this work commend itself wherever it is wisely prosecuted that in almost every instance where railroad secretaries are employed, the railroad companies and officials co-operate in the support and in the maintenance of the social and religious work of which they have charge.

New Orleans University.

The first term of the present scholastic year of the New Orleans University closed December 19. The term's work has given general satisfaction. About sixty have been in attendance. These are all advanced students. President Bailor has already gained the affection and respect of the students and has no superior among our educational workers in the South. Eleven have been in attendance in the Theological department, which is in charge of Prof. A. A. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson has taught half the time during the term. The next term opens January 5, being the first Monday of the month.

Our South'n Methodism

LOUISIANA.

H. Green, pastor First St. Church, New Orleans, reports a protracted meeting. Nine have professed faith in Christ. The meeting is still in progress.

Rev. Anthony Ross, Thompson Chapel, New Orleans, gives a cheering account of his three years' labor soon to close in that charge. The Church property has been very much improved. The building has been painted throughout, new gutters have been put around the roof, a large cistern has been built, and a new fence built in front. During the past year a gracious revival has visited the church, and twenty-seven were converted and joined the church. Financially the people have been pressed, but have taken care of their pastor, whom they love and respect. A new communion set has been bought and paid for.

MISSISSIPPI.

A fair was given in the M. E. Church, Meridian, Miss., for the benefit of the pastor, Rev. M. Adams, and the church, Nov. 18 22, at which $74.40 was cleared. Much credit is due to the committee, Sisters M. V. Keever, M. Powell, N. Oliver, A. Nelson, E. Moore and J. Pippens. A fair on the 27th, and continued several nights, for the benefit of the teacher and school building, cleared $17.70. It was conducted by Sisters Fizzens, E. Pack and C. Hopson.

Foreign Missions.

JAPAN.—"I am thankful to be able to say that the work of our Mission continues to advance. We have difficulties sufficient to convince us that our work is conducted in the interests of Christ and holiness and truth, as opposed to error, corruption and the devil; and the success which crowns our efforts is gratifying evidence that He that is with us is superior to all his foes. Our Training School, (now the Conference Seminary,) has entered on its career most satisfactorily. Bro. Vail is admirably fitted for his position as principal of the seminary, and gives promise of great influence in Japan."

Letter from Murfreesboro.

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., Nov. 6, 1879.

MR. EDITOR—The spiritual condition of the charge is good. The benevolent collections were all raised, with an increase over last year, notwithstanding the heavy burden on the charge in raising money to build a new church. For this purpose they have raised between $600 and $700. Glory to God, and all honor to the faithful membership. There have been 90 conversions and 200 additions to the church during the year.

The circuit is also doing well. I held the last quarterly conference by the request of the presiding elder, and found everything moving finely. The preacher in charge, W. Lillard, is an excellent laborer. There have been 105 conversions and 95 additions on the circuit during the year, and an increase in benevolent collections. The Murfreesboro, Stone River and Woodbury circuit, under the leadership of Revs. B. James, Lillard and Robinson, have done good work.

Our last district conference was held at Shelbyville, Sept. 17, Elder Manson presiding with love and ability. The evenings were spent in religious services, which resulted in the conversion of over a dozen souls, and 15 or 20 additions, and the church greatly revived. The missionary anniversary was held on Friday, and speeches were delivered by the writer, Rev. Rippetoe, Musgroves and others. Rev. Franklin, of the A. M. E. Church, Judge Caldwell and Rev. Carter made interesting speeches. Bro. Ramsey, of Holston conference, was spoken of with indignation. We don't want our Freedman's work interfered with under any circumstances, and we believe the doctrines of Bro. R., if adopted, would cripple it. We are satisfied with the working and management of Central Tennessee College under the leadership of Dr. Braden and his faithful teachers. The college is doing a work that no other department of the church can do. We that are under the fire understand the situation better than Bro. R., or any one else, and I am satisfied that nine-tenths of the members of the M. E. Church think as I do. However, I am sorry to say that there are a few members of our church that would be glad to see our colored work ruined, but I am glad they are like the angel's visits—a few and a long ways apart.

Sunday School.

Dec. 28, 1879.—THE ANNUAL REVIEW.

Let the annual review be for the evening. Make it an exercise in which the whole church shall take an interest. In this one, especially, should there be a great deal of interest; for it closes the seven years' curriculum. One of the items, then, upon the programme should be an address upon The International Series of Lessons. The lessons for the four quarters of the year may be given to as many persons for review, furnishing them with a bird's-eye view of the lessons, together with hints of what should be drawn from them. Each one specially should be cautioned not to be too minute, taking not over eight to ten minutes for his portion of the time. The address on the International Lessons fittingly might close the programme.

Marriages.

By Rev. H. Green, New Orleans, Nov. 26, 1879, Mr. Wm. Edwards to Miss Rebecca Ripley; Dec. 11, at 8 p. m., Mr. A. Moore to Miss Fannie Williams, and Mr. Edward Golding to Miss Mary Perry; Dec. 15, Mr. James Larvie to Miss Louisa Adams.

NEW BOOKS.

The unabridged $1 edition of Cruden's Concordance, some time since announced as in preparation by the American Book Exchange, New York, is just ready.

A new edition of "Kitto's Cyclopædia of Biblical Literature," reduced from $10 to $2, in two large octavo volumes with several hundred illustrations, is being issued by the American Book Exchange, New York.

THE BEREAN BEGINNER'S BOOK. Price, 15c.
THE BEREAN QUESTION BOOK. Price, 15c.
THE SENIOR LESSON BOOK. Price, 15c.

These publications for Sunday-school use in 1880 have just been issued, and will be welcomed in our schools.

THE BREAKING WAVES DASHED HIGH. By Felicia Hemans. Boston: Lee & Shepherd. New Orleans: J. C. Eyrich, 130 Canal Street. Price, $1.50.

The landing of the Pilgrims is the subject treated by the great poetess, and here presented in a beautiful form.

YOUNG JOE AND OTHER BOYS. By J. T. Trowbridge. Boston: Lee & Shepherd. New Orleans: J. C. Eyrich, 130 Canal Street. Price, $1.25.

An illustrated 12mo. of 302 printed pages, containing several stories by a celebrated author. His name alone is a guarantee that the book will be widely read.

LESSON COMMENTARY on the International Sunday-school lessons for 1880. By Rev. John H. Vincent, D. D., and Rev. J. L. Hurlburt, M. A. New York: Phillips & Hunt. Price, $1.25.

Should be in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and teacher. A practical assistant in the explanation of the lessons, excelled by none.

"Leaves from the Diary of an Old Lawyer: Intemperance the Great Source of Crime," which is described as a story that will compare with the famous "Diary of a Physician," and as a temperance plea with "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," is soon to be issued by the American Book Exchange, New York.

"The Acme Library of History," as announced by the American Book Exchange, New York, is initiated by a handy and handsome edition of "Milman's Gibbon's Rome," in five volumes, for the small price of $2.50, complete, neatly bound in cloth. Volume one is just ready, two more are to appear in December, and two in January.

THE BLOSSOM BOOKS. New York: Phillips & Hunt.

The May Flower; The Pansy Bed; The Children's Hour; Little Rose Bud; The White Lily; A Summer Wreath; The Daisy Chain; Dew of the Morning; Work and Play; Bud and Blossom. These are the titles of a handsome series of illustrated books for little children, in pasteboard cover. The wood engravings are of a superior order, and of a most familiar kind. They are just the thing for holiday presents.

TOINETTE: A Tale of the South. By Albion W. Tourgee. New York: Fords, Howard & Hulbert. Price, $1.

This book was written in 1868 9, and published in 1879, under the nom de plume of "Henry Churton." The present revised edition contains but few immaterial alterations. It is a strong portraiture of Southern character, showing its virtues, follies and possibilities for the future. Mr. Tourgee is a man of talent, sat for years on the bench in North Carolina, and has since been driven from the State because of social ostracism caused by the unconscious virus of slavery.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The Popular Science Monthly for January has an illustrated article on "The International Weather Service," by Prof. Thos. B. Maury; "Migration of the Races," by Fredrick Muller; "Inter-Oceanic Canal Routes," by Charles De Fourcy; "Why do Springs and Wells Overflow?" by Joseph J. Skinner; and other articles of interest. The lover of scientific subjects will prize this monthly highly.

—Harper's Magazine for January opens with the reproduction of Keat's remarkable poem, "The Eve of St. Agnes." Frank Mayer, the artist, contributes an entertaining sketch of "Old Baltimore and its Merchants." [illegible] of Forty Years Ago" contains some very novel descriptions of the most remarkable movements and experiments of the reformers of 1840. Some recent educational institutions in Brooklyn—the Attendance Schools and the Truant Home—for the enforcement of compulsory education form the subject of a suggestive paper by Miss F. E. Fryatt. A good short story by Virginia W. Johnson, "The Old Woman and her Bag," is finely illustrated. Miss Mulock's delightful novel, "Young Mrs. Jardine," is concluded. There are graceful discussions of current topics in the Editor's Easy Chair, and an Editor's Drawer full of rich humor.

—Appleton's Journal for January opens with the first part of a novelette from the pen of Victor Cherbuliez, "A Stroke of Diplomacy." It is the purpose of the proprietors to give a succession of novelettes, running from two to three numbers, in preference to the customary long serials. An article on the "Letters of Charles Dickens," just published, with copious extracts, is eminently readable. A collection of strange legends from the folk-lore of all lands pertaining to the myth of Cinderella is by W. R. S. Ralston. "Mr. Gladstone as a Man of Letters" is considered. "What is Religion?" forms the topic of a suggestive paper; one which believers and skeptics alike would find profoundly interesting. "Matthew Arnold on Poetry," and "Mr. Irving's Shylock," the "Proposed Federation of the British Empire," "The Spiritual in Art," and "Adorning the City." $3 per annum; D. Appleton & Co., New York.

—Good Company ($3 a year, Sprigfield, Mass.) Number Four, has one of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's Old Town sketches, three stories, including a long one by Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis; a paper by President Bascom, of Madison University, of interest to all interested in horse-railroads; a biographic sketch of Gambetta, by George M. Towle; readable papers of European experiences, papers on Colorado, the Indians at Hampton, and how the congressional debates are preserved, and other articles. Christmas poems by Miss Lucy Larcom, Mrs. D. H. R. Goodale and Misses Elaine and Dora Reed Goodale, are features of the number. During the coming year Good Company will continue to make a specialty of good stories by the most popular writers, and give entertaining sketches in great variety. New yearly subscribers who send before January one can have the first four numbers of the present volume without extra charge.

Nasal and Bronchial Catarrh.

A STRONG RECORD.

REV. T. P. CHILDS, of Troy, Ohio, whose advertisement of his Catarrh Treatment appears in this issue of the Southwestern Christian Advocate, has addressed our subscribers and readers before. It is not surprising when we consider the facts, that Mr. Childs should be constrained to urge the attention of people to this matter, and mention his ability to treat successfully this scourge of the human race.

Leading men of every denomination publicly state that Childs' treatment has cured them or their families of Catarrh or of Throat difficulties, not obscure, unknown men, but men whose reputation is national, men widely known for their services in the pulpit or the missionary field. Editors and publishers of our leading periodicals among them the Congregationalist and Watchman, of Boston; the Illustrated Christian Weekly and the Examiner and Chronicle, of New York; the Journal and Messenger and Daily Gazette, of Cincinnati, and many others, have personally investigated the facts, and they are satisfied that, while Mr. Childs is not—as he does not claim to be —a regularly educated physician, but, on the other hand, a highly-esteemed minister of the gospel, who has spent thirty years as a pastor in the State of Ohio, yet he has made such a study of the disease known as Catarrh, as to have enabled him to treat it with most extraordinary success. His own affliction, suffered for years, until he was finally compelled to leave the pulpit expecting to die, is well known to all his brethren throughout the State; and his present robustness of health and prospect of long life are also well known, and can be ascribed to nothing else than the treatment devised by himself, and now so confidently recommended to others. If any record could inspire confidence, surely this of Mr. Childs' should make every sufferer feel that he may make trial of this treatment with every hope of success.

Nor is his remedy a novelty. It has now been before the public for twelve years, though it is only three years since he began to so extensively advertise it, and the result now is that thousands have been cured by him, and his business has constantly increased, until he has been obliged to erect new and commodious buildings in Troy, Ohio, for the special purpose of affording facilities for compounding, packing and shipping his remedies and apparatus, and for the entertainment of those who call upon him for personal consultation.

The addition to his firm of Dr. J. H. Green, a well-known physician of twenty years' practice, assures patients that if they have any constitutional troubles growing out of Catarrh, Dr. Green will add such treatment as will remove them. We would advise our readers to present this treatment to their friends with the fullest assurance of its success.
